BASD Broughal proposal unveiled

Title 1 plan targets negative behaviors

BY THERESA O'BRIEN
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Several BASD plans for 2019-20, including a major initiative at Broughal MS, were unveiled at two sparsely attended committee meetings.

The plan includes an allocation of $545,000 in Title I (federal) funds to provide professional development for Broughal teachers, create a "social and emotional learning curriculum" to reduce the incidence of negative classroom behaviors, and procure enhanced assessment tools from Acadience and IXL. These assessment tools will help faculty better diagnose students' areas of strength and weakness, and appropriately tailor instruction. The board will vote June 24 on a recommendation to submit the plan to the Pa. Department of Education.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Jack Silva framed the plan as an opportunity for Broughal and for the entire district, similar to the Title I improvement plan initiated at Lincoln ES five years ago that inspired the district-wide "Reading by Grade Three" strategic initiative. Broughal principal Rick Amato explained that some pedagogical changes will involve "understanding how we can improve literacy across all content areas," not only in English Language Arts (ELA). In response to Tom Thomasi's question about funding to support parent and grandparent involvement, Principal Amato explained that this plan coincides with another Title I grant that includes "a large component" of parent involvement.

Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy provided an update on strategic communications initiatives, and Dr. Silva gave an update on educational

Boyle earns Family Award of Excellence

Bethlehem resident Nathan Boyle is the 2019 Sheetz Family Award of Excellence winner. Awarded June 7 during the Special Olympics Pennsylvania Summer Games, Boyle was honored for his distinguished sportsmanship and perseverance throughout the games.

The Sheetz Family Award of Excellence was created to capture the great sporting moments that distinguish the athletes at the Summer Games. The award recognizes the athlete whose determination and effort can only be understood by the power of the human spirit to overcome obstacles and inspire greatness. It distinguishes the athlete who may not win, but whose courage, sportsmanship, effort and determination is award-winning.

Boyle was nominated by several coaches, including his own. In recommending him for this award, they referred to him as a "gentle giant" with an infectious smile and a presence that puts everyone in a better mood.

taxpayers and school families include informational materials to be enclosed with tax bills, a district public-access cable channel managed by district teacher Thomas Braun, and a mobile marketing app. New and enhanced educational programs include elementary Spanish instruction, available for the first time this past academic year, and digital literacy, which combines library science and computer skills. Dr. Silva also expounded on the progress made in aligning high school classes into career pathways, including biomedicine, education and engineering.

In addition to the Broughal MS plan, the board will vote on nine curriculum items on June 24: the purchase of $60,000 worth of new AP calculus textbooks for Freedom HS and Liberty HS; a single-year site license for Hoonuit professional development software at a cost of roughly $54,000; the initiation of a professional development tracking system from Frontline Education at a cost of roughly $62,000; grant applications for Marvine Family Center, Pre-K Counts, Safe Schools Initiative, and State Systematic Improvement Plan; and contracts with the Da-Vinci Science Center and Mad Science of the Lehigh Valley for summer school programming. All district expenditures mentioned are already included in the tentative final budget for 2019-20; both summer school enhancements are fully funded through United Way of the Greater Lehigh Valley and Board member Tom Thomasik poses a question about the Broughal MS Comprehensive Improvement Plan. BASD is applying for $545,000 in funding from the state for curriculum, assessment and professional development.

Local resident Stephen Antalics asks about potential features of a district-wide visitor management system. The visitor management system is part of the school safety improvements overseen by Todd Repsher.

Title I. A sample of the new calculus textbook, which comes with supplementary digital materials, is available for review at the Education Center at 1516 Sycamore St.

At the facilities committee meeting, Chief Facilities & Operations Officer Mark Stein notified the committee that the recently executed "rate lock" on natural gas will save the district a projected $26,000 next year. He confirmed that the stadium renewal, Liberty Commons roof repair, and Clearview boiler replacement summer projects are proceeding on schedule. HVAC building surveys for a future renovation will begin next week.

Todd Repsher, coordinator of school safety and emergency management, reviewed some of his deliverables for the past academic year, including the rewriting of the BASD weapons policy to clarify that it applies to all school personnel, the review and revision of the district's visitor policy, the drafting of a "Safe 2 Say Something" (S2SS) policy in accordance with state mandates, and the implementation of the district's policy for responding to students' reports of safety concerns. BASD received roughly 218 tips since implementing the S2SS system, with reports of bullying and self-harm as the two largest categories. Projects for next year include training in "Therapeutic Aggression Control Techniques" (TACT2) and adoption of a unified visitor management system. All school safety activities fall under the Act 44 state mandate.

An audience member asked whether the visitor management system will include an instant background check. Dr. Roy responded that he would need to be convinced by data that such a feature - which is available from some vendors - would reduce the likelihood of a threat to school safety. He noted that some parents may have convictions in their background, and suggested that background checks for all visitors would discourage parents from making school visits.

The board will vote June 24 on a renewal of the district's contract with A. J. Trunzo, Inc., for excavation work, and the appointment of 422 Sales to auction off surplus school buses and other vehicles. Trunzo was the only vendor to submit a bid for excavation, and 422 Sales conducted the district's most recent bus auction, in 2017.

Bethlehem Area School District Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy nominated Clymer for the award. He wrote, "I am pleased to recommend Barbara Clymer for the Gertrude E. Kopf Award of Recognition from the Pennsylvania Association of Educational Office Professionals," in his nominating letter, he noted that Clymer was his executive assistant during his entire tenure of nine years.

Roy considers Clymer to be a shining example of an outstanding, talented and dedicated educational office professional; citing her people and technical skills and initiative. He praised Clymer's pride in her work and in the work and reputation of the BASD, stating that she "leads the way in building a positive culture in our building."

Nathan participates in softball and even sits with the opposing team when he isn't playing, just to cheer them on. A few years ago, he gave up a hard-earned medal to another athlete who was unable to compete due to a paperwork mix-up. This act of kindness served to comfort the upset teammate.

"We were simply inspired by Nathan's dedication to teamwork and by how respected he is by the coaches and teams he competes against," said Sheetz public relations manager Nick Ruffner.

The winner of the Sheetz Family Award of Excellence was selected by a team of Sheetz employees from applications submitted by delegation leaders and coaches. All nominees remained anonymous during the selection process.

Nursing home conditions: Pa. fares poorly

BY BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Families For Better Care, a national watchdog group that creates public awareness of nursing home conditions, has released its latest report card. Pennsylvania not only gets a failing grade, but is ranked near the bottom of the barrel, at number 46 overall.

This "F" is based on ratings from The Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), annual state Department of Health inspections and staffing level.

The assessment notes that 95 percent of Pennsylvania's homes had at least one deficiency. This may very well be the result of another problem, a drop in direct nursing care.

Under state law, each nursing home resident must receive 2.7 hours of general nursing care every day. This state protection is obviously designed to protect some of the most vulnerable citizens. But five of Northampton County's 14 nursing homes are below this state standard. Staffing shortages exist at The Gardens at Easton, The Gardens for Memory Care at Easton, New Eastwood Health-care and Rehab Center, Slate Belt Health and Rehab Center, Weston Rehab and Nursing Center and Gracedale. The only publicly owned nursing home is Gracedale.

Late last year, Pa. Auditor General Eugene DePasquale announced plans to audit the state's nursing homes over staffing shortages. He said then that adequate staffing levels directly impact the quality of care provided to 90,000 Pennsylvanians - more than the population of Lancaster and Johnstown combined - who live in nursing homes.

NorCo's Human Services Director, Sue Wandalowski, has said that Pennsylvania faces a "silver tsunami." Its 60 plus population will outnumber those under 20, starting next year.

The late Raymond F. Rosati Jr., a Bethlehem Steel millwright from Hellertown and a U.S. Marine Corps Vietnam veteran, designed the memorial, which was built with the aid of plant personnel and machine shops, and constructed in the shipping yard maintenance shop.

Steelworkers Veterans Memorial to move

The National Museum of Industrial History (NMIH), in coordination with the Bethlehem Redevelopment Authority and the Steelworkers Veterans Memorial Committee, has announced that the Steelworkers Veterans Memorial, currently located at Third and Polk streets, will relocate a short distance away to a newly developed area of the museum's plaza.

The move comes as the Bethlehem Parking Authority has taken ownership of the memorial's current site, which is being developed into a mixed-use 585-space parking deck anchored by retail space. The announcement coincides with Bethlehem's Redevelopment Authority receiving a $25,000 Local Shared Account grant from Pennsylvania's Commonwealth Financing Authority to aid in the relocation of the monument to its new home at NMIH.

The memorial, which was originally dedicated in May 1989 by then Bethlehem Steel CEO Walt Williams, began as an idea from a veterans committee within the company. What was supposed to be a small plaque became a more substantial undertaking under the vision of the late Raymond F. Rosati Jr., a Bethlehem Steel millwright from Hellertown. Rosati, a U.S. Marine Corps and Vietnam veteran, designed the memorial, which was built with the aid of plant personnel and machine shops, and constructed in the shipping yard maintenance shop. With plaques added in later years through grants procured by the late Rep. William C. Rybak, the monument serves as a testament to the workers and veterans of the nation's steel mills.

"The nation is full of veterans throughout history who not only fought to protect our country but worked in the nation's steel mills during and after their service," said Mayor Robert Donchez. "Their dedication to serving and building our country deserves an approprate place in history, and I can think of no better place to honor them than at the National Museum of Industrial History."

"We are honored to give these heroes a rightful place in history at the museum," said Kara Mohsinger, president and CEO of NMIH. "We will continue to preserve the history and honor the steelworkers who fought for our country while carrying out Mr. Rosati's vision for this memorial."

Groundbreaking for the museum's new plaza is expected to begin later this year, with the memorial to be relocated thereafter.

could legally impose fees, possibly as much as $20 per 500 square feet of living space per household ($60 on average).

Car washes, hospitals, businesses, or facilities with water retention needs could incur more charges. Otherwise the borough may face huge daily fines - as much as $33,500. The work may take as long as two and one-half years, but the entire process is in the early planning stages.

These levies to cover costs would be reviewed by the EPA every five years. However, residents could expect rebates for planting trees, or installing suitable (storm) drainage facilities.

The Storm Water Authority would have to be formed by an ordinance, and solicitor Peter Lehr promised to have a draft document of the ordinance available for review by the next meeting.

The Health & Sanitation Committee reported the grand total of all residential, commercial and delinquent garbage and sewer collection for the month of May was $329,008. Despite the collections, the borough continues in a state of delinquency, though Council President Leo Atkinson noted delinquent collections increased from 13 percent in February 2019 to 63 percent in May 2019. Gifford suggested another clean-up to remove all the garbage accumulated in the borough's streets and back alleys.

Council also said UGI would be doing major replacements of gas lines and lateral connections over various lengths on several streets, with most of them up to the South Hofford Street intersection. The details will be advertised on the borough website three weeks prior to the start date, which is expected to be shortly after July 4.

In sunnier news, the Atkinson announced that the Community Day will be celebrated July 20 with a rain date of July 27 from 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. (where?)

The next meeting is scheduled for this evening at borough hall.

While the night air grew chilly the evening of June 8, the celebration of memories, relationships and accomplishments warmed the auditorium at Saucon Valley HS, where the class of 2019 took the stage to say goodbye.

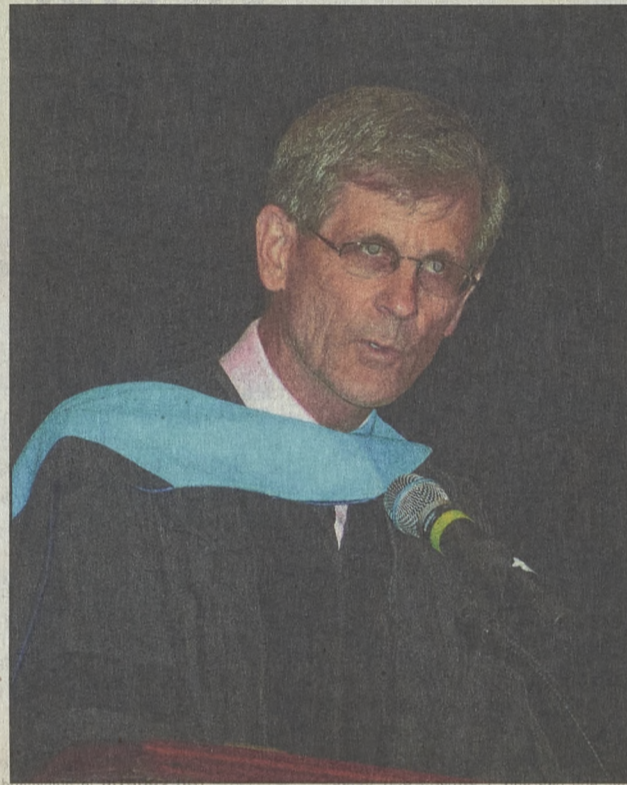

Promptly at 7 p.m., Dr. Michael Krentz ushered the class into the auditorium with an organ rendition of Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance."

While the majority of the class took their seats on the stage, six graduates entering the military stood front and center to be introduced by Principal Tamara Gary. Entering the Navy are Dominic Bracalente Jr., Jan Flores-Ortiz and Mary Johnson. Joining the Marines are Jarrod Spradlin and Tyler Schulte. Finally, entering the Coast Guard is Connor Lettich. Kretz then conducted the Saucon Valley HS Chorus in a performance of the National Anthem, with the crowd on its feet.

Class President Evangelos Hahalis welcomed and thanked all family, friends and faculty for bolstering the class through the years, and congratulated his fellow graduates on a job well done.

"In all my years at Saucon, I don't think I've seen a more dedicated, driven class," Hahalis said. He recapped the slew of district and state athletic championships and accolades in music and art achieved this year alone by individual members of his class or as part of larger teams.

Valedictorian Nayana Pandey summed up the last four years in the relationships and unique, defining experiences shared between her and her fellow graduates.

She wondered further at how best to measure greatness, quoting Shakespeare, "Be not afraid of greatness. Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and others have greatness thrust upon them."

"Greatness is not measured by fame or fortune, but by the lives we touch," she concluded. "Never forget to keep making memories and cherish the ones you have."

Salutatorian Sydney Oskin encouraged her classmates to leave their comfort zones as they enter this next chapter, to take risks, try new things and never stop growing. "I hope I see you all back here in a few years with a thousand new stories to tell."

Hahalis then recognized his classmates with high honors, including the top 10 percent of the class, National Merit Scholars, and National Merit Finalists, award and scholarship winners and all those who participated in athletics and extra-curricular activities.

Superintendent Dr. Craig Butler segued from these numerous recognitions into comments on the exceptional tenacity and work ethic of the class. "This is apparent by your achievements in athletics, fine arts, community service and, most of all, empathy for one another. Thank you for bringing such pride and commitment to Saucon Valley, and for making my first two years here a success."

Class Secretary Zoe Zaharakis introduced eight 50-year graduates in the audience from the class of 1969. These graduates are Rebecca Finkbeiner, William Frey, Peggy Laubach, Jane Moyer, Marlene Stana, Carol Tavormina, Nancy Vasko and Robert Vasko. The class of 1969 graduated from what was then Hellertown HS at 1050 Main St., where students attended from 1931 to 1970. The building is now Saucon Valley Manor.

Student-selected faculty speaker was Jeremy Kittek, class advisor and U.S. history and AP psychology teacher. He explained he is a husband and father of four young children who love the movie Megamind, a story about a supervillain who must choose to pursue a life of crime as he was born to do, or give it up to become a hero. A particular line struck him: "Destiny is not the path given to us, but the path we choose ourselves."

"I had always associated destiny with fate, chance, or luck, but not my own control," said Kittek. He described the choice he made 10 years ago when he accepted a long-term, part-time substituting position at Saucon Valley that led to his current career "and to me being with you today," he said.

"You will make choices every day that might seem small, but will impact your life. You are responsible for getting to your goals. Know that every choice defines who you are and where you will be, and I hope you leave Saucon Valley knowing you have the skills to choose your own destiny."

Class Secretary Zoe Zaharakis described her class as a determined community that pushed each other to achieve big things and shared a lot of memories and iconic events along the way.

"We all cared about Saucon in one way or another. We all played for Saucon," she said. "Remember, this is where we started - a place where people care and know you, and a place to come back to, to reminisce."

Valedictorian and class treasurer Nayana Pandey, daughter of Sean Pandey and Dianne Jacobetz, plans to attend Penn State Schreyer Honors College and study biomedical engineering.

Salutatorian Sydney Oskin, daughter of Tim and Virginia Oskin, is ready for the graduation ceremony to begin. The graduating senior plans to attend the University of Notre Dame, where she will study engineering and business.

LVCHS graduate Tiara Hernandez after receiving her diploma from Lehigh Valley Christian HS during the 2019 commencement June 8.

LEHIGH VALLEY CHRISTIAN HS - JUNE 8

'Everyone here becomes like family'

BY STEPHEN ALTHOUSE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

"We're too small, if only we were bigger."

The sentence, spoken during the 2019 Lehigh Valley Christian HS commencement address, could summarize the plight of any school which features a graduating class of six. Thoughts turn, the speaker noted, to what we don't have instead of what we do have.

"But remember, while we are small, we are small with God," added commencement speaker Henry Crush.

The 31st LVCHS commencement, held June 8 at Bethlehem First Church of the Nazarene, began with a rendition of the hymn, "To God Be The Glory," followed by a scripture reading by graduate Tiara Hernandez, featuring Mark 8:36-38's question "For what does it profit a man to gain the whole world, and lose his soul?"

Graduate Elijah Sumner then offered a welcome to the audience and personal remarks.

"Everyone here becomes like a family," he said in recalling his LVCHS experience. "...It was an honor to be a part of this class."

Graduates Haley Althouse, the valedictorian, Serenity Horon, the salutatorian, Sumner and Hernandez were then addressed by Alex Sackey, the school's principal, and Bob Walsh, the secretary of LVCHS's board of directors. The administrators then dispensed awards and recognitions to the graduates. Two other members of the class - Jinze Su and Kyu Min Lee - did not attend the ceremony.

Althouse and Horon then engaged in "A Conversation" during the program, a feature Walsh called "a little out of the box." It was an alternatively humorous and serious review of their high school careers, which included good-natured questioning of the school's dress code.

Crush's commencement address was also equal parts humorous and contemplative. He noted a few personal experiences to summarize their educational experiences and small class size. As a young man, Crush noted, he too had graduated from a small Christian high school before enrolling at Bloomsburg University. During his first few weeks in college, Crush said he felt "very alone" in spite of being among thousands of undergraduate students and faculty. Eventually, however, he found other Christians and entered a Bible study group that totaled five members.

The commencement speaker told another story about his foray into high school girls basketball coaching. The school and team were small. He had but five members of the squad, barely enough to field a team. Needing a backup, he enlisted a girl who "needed an inhaler" to get up and down the court." Crush told the audience the substitute never played until one game when her services were required after a starter fouled out.

"I told her to just stand underneath the one basket," he recalled to chuckles of laughter from the audience. Crush's team did not experience a "Hoosiers" ending, as that night they were roundly defeated. But the loss wasn't the point, he said.

"God revels in the small," Crush said. "God loves small numbers."

The graduates received various awards and scholarships. Althouse received a total of $20,500 worth of scholarships to attend King's College. In addition, she was recognized during the ceremony for her outstanding academic performance. Hernandez and Horon were anointed with character awards and Sumner received a total of $58,000 through two scholarships to further his studies at the State University of New York at Oswego.

UNITED WAY OF GREATER LV Record fundraising will boost community support

United Way of the Greater Lehigh Valley (UWGLV) is poised to make the most significant community investment in the organization's 101-year history, following a record-breaking $16.659 million annual campaign. With an additional $3.5 million raised to support specific programs through sources such as grants and sponsorships, UWGLV's total annual support tops $20 million for the first time.

"We are thankful to each and every person who joined us to make this historic impact in the Greater Lehigh Valley. They are truly PEEPS® Helping Peeps, and we're proud to work together to make our community the very best place it can be. Imagine what would happen if everyone gave just 27 cents a day. Together, we can make an astonishing, multi-million dollar difference," said campaign co-chairs David and Sue Shaffer of Just Born Quality Confections, who announced the total at UWGLV's annual Celebration of Caring event at DeSales University.

"I'm overwhelmed by this display of generosity. Over the past five years, we've made significant, measurable progress toward each of these goals. None of this is possible without the commitment of the 100 nonprofit partners, 400 companies and 18,000 people who supported this campaign."

United Way of the Greater Lehigh Valley raises money and invests in programs to achieve three bold goals: increase the number of third-graders reading on grade level, decrease the number of food insecure residents and increase the number of seniors whose basic needs are met at home.

A first of its kind sweepstakes called PEEPS® Helping Peeps raised $70,000 to support local education programs during the campaign. Through the promotion, Just Born Quality Confections offered one UWGLV supporter the chance to win the ultimate PEEPS® experience, including an exclusive factory tour, trip to Bethlehem and shopping spree at their PEEPS & COMPANY® Store.

The sweepstakes received national media coverage from outlets such as Forbes and USA Today. The winner, Jennifer Nallo of Westminster, Maryland, will redeem her prize later this year.

"We are especially grateful to David and Sue Shaffer and the entire Just Born team for the enthusiasm and unwavering commitment they brought to this campaign," added Lewis.

Executive Director Diane LaBelle instructs the Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts Class of 2019 to move the tassels on their mortarboards to reflect their new status as graduates.

LV CHARTER HS FOR THE ARTS - JUNE 11

'I'll always be thankful'

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzowski@ltonline.com

They demand attention, pull at the heartstrings and are guided by imagination.

Wherever they appear, the students of the Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts excel at personal expression, and their own graduation is never an exception.

Welcoming their families with Edith Piaf's "La Vie en Rose" and a haunting rendition of the Star Spangled Banner under the spotlights at Miller Symphony Hall in Allentown June 11, the school's students — and now graduates — earned their accolades and degrees.

Student speaker Grace Rosario set the tone for her classmates of building a reputation that will exist beyond them. "As the first freshman class of the new Charter Arts building, we quickly adopted a passion of creating an environment and community that would inspire a passion in others that would set a precedent for incoming classes.

"From major bonding events such as the infamous Charter Arts Halloween to our school-wide production of "Evita," that year we made sure we'd be expanding our collaborative, supportive and inclusive culture for the remainder of our high school career. The environment we helped to shape and mold alongside our supportive teachers and mentors brought to life the love and opportunity for expression that make Charter Arts such a beautiful school to call home.

"Art is uniquely concrete and abstract. It allows for a deeper connection to oneself and to others, for personal expression and passion. At Charter Arts we learned to connect to each other and ourselves."

One of those connections was the Color Clash, mentioned by nearly every speaker that evening. A first-of-its-kind yearlong activities competition between classes, which were assigned colors based on the word "ARTS" from the school logo, Color Clash included events such as a door decorating contest, T-shirt sale and lunchtime penny collection. The senior class won, earning a picnic and donating its $500 raised to Second Chance Ranch animal rescue in Quakertown.

The excitement with which Color Clash was cheered sounded like the bonding experiment was a great and fun success.

But the spirit of community didn't stop at the walls of the new building.

CEO Diane LaBelle explained the school's growth and involvement beyond its doors. "This is the largest class of graduating seniors in the history of Charter Arts — 153 of you — and you are the first class of seniors who began your careers and finished your careers at our new school in South Bethlehem.

"You were part of 92 performances and exhibitions that appeared in the gallery, and at the ice rink, as well as the stages of the theater, the commons, and the Black Box. I love that you also showed your commitment to being part of the community by sharing your talents at Godfrey Daniels, The Lodge, Hotel Bethlehem, SteelStacks and Touchtone Theatre.

"Truly you have helped Charter Arts become the best of the best. And surely you are the best of the best. For the over 85 percent of you who have enrolled in colleges and arts conservatories, I want you to know that collectively you have collected $3.3 million in scholarships and grant aid to attend some of the country's most prestigious colleges, universities and arts conservatories."

Board President Mario Acerra proudly added additional accolades; Three previous graduates had recently been interviewed for Northampton Community College media student projects, and the school was named a 2018 Blue Ribbon School of Excellence by the U.S. Department of Education.

Class speaker Matthew Scutto said, "I'll always be thankful to Charter Arts for teaching me the meaning of community. I was constantly challenged to reassess what I stood for and what I was working toward. I was never torn down with the feedback I received; I was picked apart and given the tools to build myself back up."

Concluded Scutto, "We didn't just get a diploma; we got firsthand education at being our own people. We got a broader sense of purpose, and a finely-tuned sense of ourselves. And most importantly, we got a family. Thank you Charter Arts, it's been totally awesome."

Student speaker Grace Anabel Rosario declares, "With art as our medium of expression, we have learned that anything is possible here." The Bethlehem resident and instrumental music major will pursue a double major in music performance (viola) and astrophysics at Schreyer Honors College at Penn State University.

Student speaker and Bethlehem resident Michael J. Scutto reflects on his experiences at Charter Arts. "Creation is what unifies us," says the literary arts major, headed for Sarah Lawrence College in New York to study theater.

Madison, a 5-year old female domestic short hair, loves to follow her humans and tell her stories. She loves everyone, but would prefer older children and adults. She hangs out with other cats, but is unsure about dogs. Madison is diabetic, but don't let that stop you from seeing her potential.

Rita is a 6-year-old female chihuahua short coat mix. She is a typical small dog and can be vocal at times. She can be shy at first, but warms very quickly. LEHIGH COUNTY County authority gets new life

BY DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Lehigh County Authority (LCA) will get its requested 43-year lease extension. In a preliminary first reading, county commissioners approved amending the Articles of Incorporation of the LCA to extend its term of existence from the date the deal is approved by the Pa. Department of State.

Lehigh County Commissioners June 12 approved the bill 9-0.

The move allows LCA to negotiate long-term financing at the best rates for "capital improvements for its many water and wastewater systems serving fourteen municipalities" as stated in the bill.

LCA's Executive Director Liesel Gross attended the meeting and reiterated her pledge to provide an annual report and offer to provide an annual public presentation to the board of commissioners. That commitment is spelled out in the provided Articles of Amendment to be sent the Pa. secretary of state.

In a final approval vote, commissioners finalized the lease of the Seed Farm (43 acres located at 5854 Vera Cruz Road in Upper and Lower Milford townships) to the Community Action Committee of the Lehigh Valley.

CACLV Executive Director Alan Jennings attended the meeting.

"The premises are leased to CACLV for the purpose of operating and managing the functions of the Seed Farm, to create programs to introduce, train and develop farmers," according to the terms of the lease.

Commissioners gave first reading approval to appoint Diana Scholl to the position of deputy clerk.

Erin Yasenchak, a partnership specialist for the Census Bureau, encouraged everyone to get involved in the upcoming census, scheduled to begin April 1, 2020. She said undercounts in the county's population result in losses of government grants back to the community.

Red tops Gold in annual McDonald's Classic

BY JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

Northampton's Hunter Werkheiser and Nate Bendekovits truly cherished the moments and the overall experience with the recent 49th annual McDonald's Lehigh Valley All-Star Football Classic at Nazareth's Andrew S. Leh Stadium.

The senior linemen along with Kids' running back Ethan Deater represented the Gold team - comprised of players from Northampton County, Phillipsburg and Palisades - that lost to the Red team - players from Lehigh, Carbon, and Monroe counties - 28-14, as the Red team claimed its first victory in the series since 2015. "Playing in this game was unlike any other for me," said Werkheiser, who will attend Widener University in the fall. "It was a different experience than any other football game."

"The game has kids that are the best around, and it showed in the game. We had to jump over the adversity and work together to get the job done. For me and other kids this is OK because we are going to face this same adversity when we go to college."

"Even though we didn't win, we played our hearts out. I will never forget this game and the friends I made in the process."

Bendekovits, who will continue his career at Moravian College in the fall, also will remember his experience. "It was amazing," he said. "Being able to raise money for a great cause all while paying football for one last time in high school was great. It was cool to meet and talk to all the kids we played against over the years."

"There was a pretty good crowd out there and being under the lights one more time was a great feeling. I enjoyed creating new friendships with my teammates. Although the outcome wasn't what we wanted, it was a fun game and was glad we all did it and be a part of the whole experience."

Bethlehem Catholic quarterback Zamar Brake was one of three Golden Hawks on the roster along with linemen Dom Italiani and Skyler Sutton. Brake completed 7 of 11 passes for 124 yards, 59 of them on a touchdown pass to Notre Dame's David Sanders that knotted the game at 14-14 at half-time.

Also scheduled to play were Javonte Haynes (LHS), Rontay Dunbar (FHS), Jakub Szemiako (FHS), Damon Moyer (LHS), Jaden Freeman (LHS), Michael Warner (LHS), Camren Curry (FHS).

Cup team to play in finals

BY TJ ENGLE
tengle@tnonline.com

For any Lehigh Valley Carpenter Cup player who fell short of a title this season, they now have a golden chance of redemption.

Tuesday morning, after Press deadlines, LV looked to put an end to lost opportunities and bring the Carpenter Cup back to the Valley for the first time since 2011.

Derek Holmes (Northwestern) delivered what turned out to be the game-winning, two-run single in the eighth inning that helped lift Lehigh Valley to a 7-6 victory over Delaware South Monday afternoon.

Tuesday at 10 a.m. Lehigh Valley was scheduled to take the field at Citizens Bank Park against Burlington County, who was a 3-2 winner over Philadelphia Catholic early yesterday.

"Well, I kind of addressed this at our last team workout when I was talking to the team," said the Lehigh Valley manager Ted Plessl. "I mean ... Easton lost out. Emmaus lost out. Liberty lost out. Parkland lost out. Northwestern lost out. ... And, I'm looking at a great bunch of ball-players, and I said, 'Hey, there's championships that were not gotten.'

"But, I said, 'Here's one more shot for all of you.' And, it was kind of interesting, as I saw all of them shaking their heads yes. They're going for it. I don't know what will happen tomorrow, but I know one thing, the other team is going to have to beat us because we're not going to beat ourselves. The bottom line is we will fight to the very last out. I feel good about [Tuesday]."

After sitting through a 40-minute rain delay in Citizens Bank Park, it was Delaware South that broke the 5-5 tie with a run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

"Delaware South was playing for one run with that idea in mind. They were able to get that run," Plessl said about the threat of rain shortening and game. "So, yeah, talk about two outs, two strikes, clutch hit Derek Holmes."

While it may have been Holmes' heroics that took the limelight in this one, there were plenty of others that played their part.

J.D. Greeley (PM West) opened the scoring when he crossed on an error in the top of the first.

Then, after trailing 5-1 after four innings of play, it was the likes of Braden Breithaupt (scored on a passed ball), Brandon Robinson (two-run single) and Zack Transue (RBI single) capitalizing on opportunities in a four-run fifth inning.

"Our pitching has been sensational. Our defense has been sensational. Our resilience offensively has been, and again, sensational," Plessl stressed. "Our kids just keep playing."

"Our pitching has kept it close. Our hitters are staying in the game. Our defense ... it's often said you win championships with pitching and defense and timely hitting and that's basically what it has gotten us to this point."

Ironically, they'll play the same Burling County program that Lehigh Valley recorded a 7-2 victory over to raise the Carpenter Cup in 2011.

PAIR OF HITS ... Ben Piripavel (Liberty) and Holmes came in as pinch hitters and then stayed in to play the field. Piripavel went to center field, while Holmes went to his position at first base. Both ended up collecting multiple hits in the game. Piripavel finished with a single, double and two runs scored.

Holmes recorded two singles and two RBIs on the night.

BACK AT IT ... Nick Henry, of Northwestern, was right back at it Monday afternoon after receiving a last-minute move from alternate to having a spot on the roster on Saturday. Henry recorded a single and a run scored in the victory.

Mahady, Zwolenik (2), Staiwecki (4), Waller (7) and Greenzweig, Transue (5); Hillgoss, Reichhold (4), Keene (5), Warrington (7) and McGray, Shockey (5). W - Waller. L - Warrington.

Northwestern's Nick Henry played a key role as an alternate in Lehigh Valley's 3-2 victory over Berks County on Saturday at UYA Ashburn and Showcase Fields.

With the win, Lehigh Valley found itself in the Carpenter Cup semifinals for the first time since 2013.

"We always tell our alternates if you come to the game, we'll try to get them in the dugout and just be prepared to play in case we need them," said manager Ted Plessl, who found out two minutes before game time that one of his LV players couldn't play.

Teams prep for Bash at the Beach

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The Bash at the Beach will take place this weekend at Cedar Beach and all three Bethlehem schools will look to make a push to last until Sunday's action.

With a lot of teams across the EPC already playing in the Cedar Beach summer league, this weekend's tournament [the former Stellar event] amplifies the intensity and competition levels.

Bethlehem Catholic head coach Scott McClary, fresh off an EPC and district championship season, is using the summer as an opportunity to see the program grow after losing stars Justin Paz and Kyle Young to graduation.

"We are looking forward to the tournament down at Cedar Beach," said McClary. "It is always a great event for Lehigh Valley high school hoops. We are approaching the summer strictly from a growth mindset. Not that we don't try to compete and win as much as possible, but we are giving everyone opportunities and are playing a very watered down style of basketball that we hope will maximize players ability to individually improve. We do return three starters, but those guys will be taking on drastically different roles and responsibilities with the upcoming season."

Experimentation is always prevalent in the summer and Liberty head coach Chad Landis likes what he sees so far out of his group. The Hurricanes were 5-0 in the Cedar Beach summer league heading into this week and will hope to parlay that into a into Sunday's action this weekend.

"We have a dedicated core group of guys who have done a great job of showing up, playing hard and trying to get better each night," said Landis. "That is all you can ask for in the summer. Each night has been a different lineup and different guys have stepped up, which is encouraging for the depth of our program."

Action starts on Thursday evening and will continue through Sunday night.

Bethlehem Catholic opens the tournament with Reading at 8 p.m. Thursday, while the Hurricanes get the winner of the Wilson West Lawn/Bangor contest. Liberty's game will be at 7 p.m. on Friday night. Freedom opens with fellow EPC foe Allen at 7 p.m. Thursday night.

Liberty tops Emmaus in summer boys hoop action

BY CJ HEMERLY
Special to the Press

No other team in the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference has been playing better this summer than the Liberty boys basketball team. And the success continued as the Hurricanes erased a second half deficit and slow start to take down Emmaus 41-35 last Thursday night inside the auxiliary gymnasium at Whitehall High School in Lehigh Valley summer league action.

It was a fast-paced, high-tempo type of game with both teams competing at a high level like it was a postseason game and not a game played in the summer in front of a handful of fans.

After a back-and-forth first half, Liberty was out in front 22-17 after it got eight points from Jovonnie Nunez and Emmaus received six first half points from Mason Boyd. But the Green Hornets stepped up on both sides of the court once the second half began. They scored the half's first nine points and held the Hurricanes without a field goal for a little over 10 minutes to go up 28-25 midway through the second half.

"Summer league, it's kind of the way it goes," said head coach Chad Landis. "Our athleticism is our strength. So when we can get up and down the court we're good, but if we do it poorly like we did to open the second half, we can struggle. Our goal is to get them to buy in and play together for the full 40 minutes. We did it for probably half of that time, but we want it to be closer to 25-30 minutes. We have to make better decisions"

After struggling from the floor for a majority of the second half, Liberty found its footing once again. But the Hurricanes tied the score at 28-28 after a three-pointer by Joseph Barnes, who scored all 10 of his points in the second half. The score was even at 33-33 when Liberty connected on 9-of-12 from the free-throw line, and Emmaus was unable to find a basket late when it needed it.

"Our biggest problem early was that we stopped running our offense," Landis said. "When we're good and we're sharing the ball, we've shown how good we can be. In almost every game this summer we've had stretches like that. The nice part is we have some younger players asked to do bigger things, but we're beginning to gel."

Will Harper tallied nine points, Ish Gonzalez had six and Antonio Montgomery added five for Liberty, who will now look to keep impressing as the Cedar Beach Bash at the Beach tournament begins this weekend.

Wanderers aims for playoff run

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

The Wanderers are hoping they can make a run deep into the NORCO playoffs this season, just as they did a year ago.

The club finished last season 14-3-1 before losing to Northampton in the semifinals. Making a run to the championship is what head coach Dwight Pulieri hopes his team can achieve, especially with a large group of Liberty players on the roster.

"As far as this year is concerned our goals are the same as always," said Pulieri, "to compete every game no matter who we put on the field. As always and with every team in summer baseball, it's a challenge putting a consistent lineup together with all the commitments these kids have in the summer. These players have summer vacations, travel ball, work commitments and other things."

Bethlehem Catholic's Matt CariCari and Joey Peacock are on this year's team, along with Andre Ledee of Freedom.

Liberty's contingent of Brayden D'Amico, Todd Erney, Caleb Gross, Caleb Tereška, Wyatt Marshall and Gabe Rodriguez are also on the roster after their stellar spring with the Hurricanes.

The Wanderers were (3-1) heading into this week and seem to be mimicking last year's regular season success.

"As far as our strengths, we feel we are capable of playing good defense and we do have pitching depth," said Pulieri. "Offensively we must stay disciplined at the plate. That is definitely a point of improvement we will work on this year."

"I'm looking forward to having a full team for the tournament," Stellato said. "The competition is always great and we can really play our style of pressure defense and fast break offense. It's a fun weekend for the coaches and players."

Valley girls Cup team ready to get started

kmcaldonald@tntonline.com

Bethlehem Catholic third baseman Addison Roche and Liberty infielder Julia Luisser are returning to this year's Lehigh Valley Carpenter Cup softball team, which will have had its first games on Tuesday, past Press deadlines.

"It's a little different this year because I know a couple more girls, and I'm more relaxed," said Roche. "I think we will do well."

The team practiced this past Sunday under head coach Blake Morgan.

"Batting practice was definitely different from high school and tournament softball because we did coach pitch instead of machines,"

Roche said.

Luisser also got a lot out of live batting practice.

"I worked on the inside pitch, turning on it and not letting it travel too far inside," she said.

This past Wednesday, the Lehigh Valley team bonded at an Iron Pigs game.

"It was really fun, and we had an amazing time," said Luisser. "Being a second-year player, it's still kind of new, but I'm looking forward to getting there and actually doing it."

Luisser and Roche would like to continue their playing careers once they go to college.

Roche has verbally committed to East Stroudsburg University.

"I really love the coach, and I think she can help me improve on my skills and make me a better player," said Roche. "I'm open to any position that she needs me."

Luisser is considering Bloomsburg University but is open.

"I went to a hitting camp there," said Luisser. "They have a good coach and staff, and the players are nice."

One of the draws to playing in the Carpenter Cup Softball Tournament is that college coaches will be in attendance.

The double elimination tournament, being played at FDR Park in Philadelphia, is scheduled to end on Wednesday.

With one out, Henry tied things up with an RBI-single scoring Breithaupt.

Henry's crossed home plate with what turned out to be the game-winning run on a Ben Stokes (Stroudsburg) sacrifice fly.

Lehigh Valley opened tournament play with an 8-4 victory over Suburban One American/Continental.

Lehigh Valley did the most damage however with four runs in the fourth inning. Then they added some insurance runs with two in the eighth.

With winning pitcher Evan Zwolenik (Northampton), Daniel McEvoy (Pleasant Valley), Kyle Mahady, Braden Waller, and closer Koby Staivecki, accounting for only six strikeouts, it left the defense behind them to lend a helping hand in Lehigh Valley securing an opening round victory.

"Our defense played really well today," Plessl stressed. "I know we had two errors, but one was a pickoff and the other one if anybody else probably doesn't even get to it, yet I know they called it an error, but in my book it was a tough play to begin with. We played very well definitely on defense."

Area players part of Big 33 victory

BY PETER CAR
pcar@tntonline.com

It was one final chance for some members of Bethlehem Catholic's football team to relive their time as Golden Hawks during the recent 62nd annual Big 33 game.

Pennsylvania knocked off Maryland 21-0 in the contest, as four Bethlehem players and Becahi head coach Joe Henrich took part in the festivities.

Freedom linebacker Tristan Wheeler was also part of a PA effort that limited Maryland to six first downs in the contest, while the PA offensive line was anchored by two of Becahi's biggest boys up front last season, as Elias Marte and Dalton Daddona worked the trenches.

Golden Hawk kicker Anthony DaSilva was also part of the PA roster.

For Henrich, coaching in the Big 33 game was an opportunity to be around great coaches and players, but also being around his guys one last time.

"Coaching the Big 33 Game was an absolute honor," Henrich said. "Having the opportunity to work with the best players in the state, meet other coaches and partake in all of the activities was a blast and something I am truly thankful for. I am also thankful for having to coach a few guys from Becahi for one last time."

Henrich worked with the offensive line as part of PA's staff and relished the opportunity to coach two of his players up front, as well as be around DaSilva for another round of action.

"I got to work directly with Elias and Dalton," said Henrich. "They did an awesome job and are two of the best at their position to ever come out of Becahi. While I did not coach Anthony specifically in the game, it was awesome to see him competing with the best. I am truly humbled, honored and thankful to have been a part of this historic game and the icing on the cake was a big 21-0 win over Maryland."

NASCAR THIS WEEK

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Which 2019 non-winner is ready to win on a road course this week?

GODSPEAK: Sign me up for Clint "Bump 'Em" Bowyer. I have a feeling he will bounce his way through this field.
KEN'S CALL: So many good options out there, but I'll hang my hat on Kurt Busch. He's good at Sonoma and will take the necessary chances.

Too soon to ask if Jimmie Johnson could actually miss the playoffs?

GODSPEAK: Never say "not Jimmie Johnson." Wait, isn't that a double negative? See how confused I am about this?
KEN'S CALL: Everyone keeps suggesting he'll rediscover his groove. But if they're not in panic mode yet, they must be close.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

CLINT BOWYER VS. NASCAR: Bowyer admitted he is not a fan of NASCAR's new low-horsepower, high-downforce rules package put in place for the Cup Series this season.

SONOMA

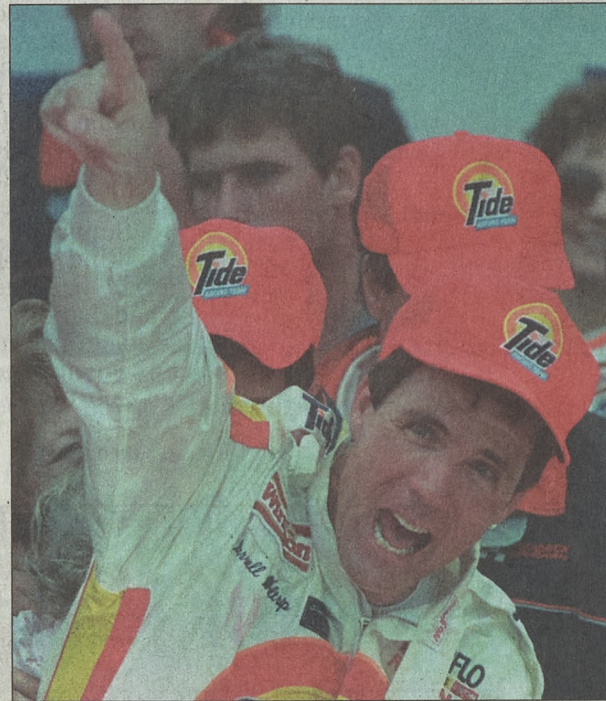

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Goodbye, Mr. Boogity

Darrell Waltrip has been a part of NASCAR Cup Series racing since his debut as a driver in 1972. He won his first race in 1975, and captured the first of three titles in 1981. He owned a Cup Series team starting in 1991. After making his last start in 2000, he moved to the Fox Sports announcing booth. Sunday's race at Sonoma will mark the end of the NASCAR road for the 72-year-old stock-car stalwart. Boogity!

2. More road course

Sonoma Raceway is hopping on NASCAR's newfound road-racing popularity by adding more course for Sunday's Cup Series race. The length of last year's road course for NASCAR competition was 1.99 miles. This time around, Sonoma has added the "carousel" area into the mix, extending the length of the track to 2.52 miles. "It adds a completely different element," said Jeff Gordon, a five-time Sonoma winner.

One of Darrell Waltrip's greatest NASCAR career moments was winning the 1989 Daytona 500. [AP/DOUG JENNINGS]

3. Name-changer

Sonoma Raceway has hosted one Cup Series date every year since 1989 and had at least three name changes. Originally known as Sears Point Raceway, it became Infineon Raceway in 2002. After losing that entitlement sponsorship, it became Sonoma Raceway. It has become a wild-card event to pick up a win. In the past 10 years, there have been nine different winners. The only repeat winner has been Martin Truex Jr.

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

What else did the Captain say?

Along with throwing his support behind future NASCAR-IndyCar doubleheaders, Roger Penske might've teed up what many suspect is coming in 2021: Namely a more condensed schedule with snappier timelines. On SiriusXM's NASCAR channel, the legendary team owner said: "We're going to see changes, probably, in the rules, we're going to see changes in the schedule. I think we've got to tie it together with our media partners ..."

Such as ...?

"We're going to talk about two races on one weekend," Penske added, noting that NASCAR is doing that at Pocono this summer. "When you think about 36-38 weekends, if we can take five or six of those and make those doubleheaders and let our guys go home." A lot of drivers and owners talk like this, but when Penske says it, it seems to carry more weight. A lot of NASCAR changes over the past 20 years have been met with derision by older fans; maybe the next wave will be different. Maybe not.

OFF WEEK

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

1. Still a mystery.

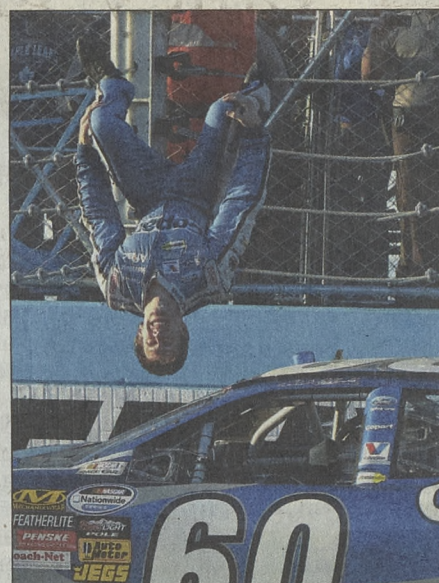

Everyone was hoping Dale Earnhardt Jr. could find out from car owner Joe Gibbs why Carl Edwards up and quit racing three years ago. Gibbs doesn't know. "He (Edwards) said, 'I'm not going to share with you. I'm not going to share with anybody the real bottom lines,'" Gibbs told Earnhardt.

2. Father's Day marathon

Iowa Speedway held a NASCAR marathon of sorts on Father's Day, hosting Gander Outdoors Truck Series and Xfinity Series races on Sunday. The Truck Series race was rained out Saturday, forcing the Daddy Day doubleheader.

3. Americans in Paris

Well, more like Americans at Le Mans. Tip of the hat to IMSA car owner Ben Keating after his Ford GT topped the GTE Am Class in last week's 24 Hours of Le Mans. Just to connect the dots, IMSA falls under NASCAR's wide umbrella of racing properties. Merci!

Carl Edwards would do a backflip off his race car after a NASCAR victory. It's still a mystery why he left racing. [AP/ROSS FRANKLIN]

American Lung Association

Report shows some air quality gains

The American Lung Association's 2019 "State of the Air" report found that the four-county Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton, PA-NJ metro area showed modest improvement in two measures of fine particle pollution, compared to last year's report, achieving its best ever results (both passing grades) and continuing to meet the national long-term air quality standard. But the report also found that the metro area had the same high number of days with unhealthy levels of ozone smog, for which its worst grade continued to be an "F".

The area is ranked between 50th and 60th worst in the country for all three measures of air pollution (ozone smog and daily and year-round particle pollution) considered. In all three cases, it was Northampton County that posted the worst results.

The 20th annual air quality "report card" tracks Americans' exposure to unhealthy levels of ozone and particle pollution, both of which can be deadly. The metro area had been part of the much larger New York-Newark NY-NJ-CT-PA metro area between 2014 and 2018, but it is once again separate, as federal designations have changed.

"Area residents should be aware that we're breathing unhealthy air, driven by local emissions, upwind sources, and extreme heat as a result of climate change, placing our health and lives at risk," said Kevin Stewart, the American Lung Association's director of environmental health for advocacy and public policy. "In addition to challenges here in the Lehigh Valley and beyond, the 20th-anniversary 'State of the Air' report highlights that more than four in 10 Americans are living with unhealthy air, and we're heading in the wrong direction when it comes to protecting public health."

While the report examined data from 2015-17, this 20th annual report provides information on air pollution trends back to the first report.

Learn more about rankings for the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton metro area, as well as air quality across area states and the nation, in the 2019 "State of the Air" report at www.Lung.org/SOTA

4th annual Dave DiGiacinto golf tournament A commitment to 'pay it forward'

Q: Cristina Byrne for the Bethlehem Press

A: Frank Storey, Coastal Employee Benefits Group and event organizer

Q: How many people showed up this year? More or less compared to last year?

A: We had 96 golfers this year and last year we had 81. We had 110 people at the after party, as well as the outdoor pavilion at the clubhouse grille.

Q: I am curious to know more about Dave DiGiacinto, aka DiGi; he seems like somewhat of a respectable guy to have these people show up and golf together. What are some of Dave's notable qualities?

A: Dave was a Bethlehem boy and Liberty High School football-baseball player class of '71. He played both at Army. Flew fighter jets in the Air Force after graduating West Point. Respected businessman at Pfizer and then working at Spencer Trask after being away from Bethlehem for a while. He was also former city controller of Bethlehem, noted for his honesty and no bs approach to handling situations professionally and with his friends. He used to run an annual bus trip to the Army-Navy game for at least 30 years; epic trips where friends coworkers and his alumni would get a chance to interact.

"What do you have for me?" is something that Dave would say to his friends and associates. This token was given last year and a friend of Dave carried it with him to this tournament.

Q: How far have some people traveled for this event?

A: Attendees range from high school friends, former work associates, a majority of attendees are friends from the area accumulated over the years. His sister, Sally Horan, makes the trip every year from Texas.

Q: Why are you the one organizing it? Do you organize it every year?

A: I organize and run the tourney every year for his family and friends, along with his former wife Kelly DiGiacinto. We choose Boys and Girls Club every year because Dave used to sit on the board and actively fundraise for the boys and girls of Bethlehem so they would have some additional after-school activities. He had a commitment to "pay it forward" and help other people, as do all of the participants in this annual event.

Participants received a hot dog and a drink after checking in.

Golfers receive a goody bag with snacks and a custom made hat Dave was noted for his collection of hats.

TPA's Altruism Awards recognize Selfless concern for others

BY STEPHANIE RAPHUN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Several area seniors received the the Travelers Protective Association of America's Altruism Award at special ceremonies held at the Northampton Community Center.

The Altruism Award honors those with a selfless concern for the well-being of others.

Liberty HS senior Alanna Bezas was chosen because she has offered outstanding service to both her school and local communities during her time at Liberty.

Stacey Coomer, Liberty guidance counselor, spoke on Bezas' behalf. "Alanna is a meticulous, and hard-working individual who well surpasses many of her peers in initiative and drive. She is an excellent role model and beacon for other students to follow."

Bezas has over 160 hours of community service to date and has completed an additional 42.75 hours of service through Liberty's National Honor Society. Bezas dedicated her time to soup kitchens, the Jacobsburg Environmental Center, the Special Olympics and local elementary school fairs. She also runs the school blood drives, and founded the school's photography club. She serves as a member of student government, Liberty Life Newspaper, and plays on the girls lacrosse team. In addition to her school affiliated activities, she is a dancer, works multiple jobs and babysits. Bezas maintains a 4.3404 GPA and is ranked 67th in her class.

Freedom HS senior Alixandria Testa was chosen because she is an overall "outstanding young lady."

"I cannot think of anyone more deserving of this award," said Bill Cecchini, assistant principal at Freedom.

Testa served as president of Bethlehem Area School District's Mini-Thon. Her responsibilities included overseeing 10 committees made up of over 100 students, and she served as leader for the school's involvement in Camp Smile, Santa's Workshop, the actual event and many other fundraisers. Testa maintained a strong relationship with the Pediatric Cancer Foundation of the Lehigh Valley and continues to offer them much love and compassion.

Annette Zettlemoyer, a guidance counselor at Bethlehem Catholic HS, spoke on Holly Pelslis' behalf.

"Holly is the type of person to bring a smile to cheer someone up, the person you can depend on to lend a helping hand, and the type of young lady that will use her gifts and talents to make the world a better place,"

Freedom recipient Alixandria Testa and Freedom Assistant Principal Bill Cecchini.

Bethlehem Catholic's recipient, Holly Pelslis, with Annette Zettlemoyer, Becahi guidance counselor.

Saucon Valley HS guidance counselor Grant Geiger with senior Lauren Weintraub.

Notre Dame senior Katelynn Mercurio with TPA's Dale Stephens.

Zettlemoyer said.

Pelslis organized and served as a leader as the captain of the Debate Team and she is one of her graduating class's top students. She is involved in a diverse spectrum of extracurricular activities in both athletics and community service. Most notably she was named the first chairperson of the school's new student-led philanthropy organization, called 'The Movement' which helped numerous organizations in the Lehigh Valley. She and her team helped raised $29,000 for the Sassy Massey organization, which gives toys to children at local hospitals. Pelslis was the Student Council President for her classes and this year served as student body president. She is a member of the National Honor Society, a peer listener, and a member of the soccer team. She plans to attend the University of Maryland in the fall and will be studying political science and business.

Notre Dame HS senior Katelynn Mercurio received the award because she has dedicated herself to helping both her school and local communities.

"Katelynn truly embodies an individual who thinks of others before herself," said Cheryl Fenton, Notre Dame guidance counselor.

Mercurio is described as a humble young lady and would never let people know of any obstacles she's had to overcome. She was the number one goalie for her soccer team, and sustained an injury last year that kept her in a boot for about six months, causing her to miss her senior year on the field. She went through surgery and never once wore a frown or felt sorry for herself. She is what the staff feels is the "quiet tiller of the soil" at Notre Dame. She served as president of the Student Council and got in early and stayed late to assist other students and teachers with anything they need.

Saucon Valley HS senior Lauren Weintraub is described as a focused young person with a "huge heart and loves to volunteer and help others."

Saucon Valley guidance counselor Grant Geiger spoke on Weintraub's behalf. "Lauren is the nicest, sweetest and most conscientious student I have ever known," he said. "Her volunteer hours are at a level I have never seen in my 22 years as a counselor."

Weintraub has been volunteering with St. Luke's Hospital since 2015 in the pharmacy, lobby and the NICU. She is passionate about the medical field and desires to pursue a career in the NICU. She is

Donation helps with animal medical expenses

Some members of Lehigh Valley Charter HS for the Arts' senior class presents a $500 donation to Jackie Burke, Julia French, and the sweetest dog named Ophelia from Last Chance Ranch, an animal rescue located in Quakertown. "Ophelia and all the animals at Last Chance Ranch thank you for this donation," Burke said, adding that the donation will go toward medical costs for the animals. The senior class chose this charity due to its mission to provide a safe and secure refuge for abused, unwanted or neglected animals. The senior class raised the money through the school's Penny Wars competition, which was held in March. In addition, they put out various collection jars in the community and throughout the school. In addition to her pursuit of career goals, Weintraub participates in school activities and committees, including the National Honor Society, Special Needs Sports Club, Medical Science Club and SADD. She serves as the yearbook marketing manager and volunteers with the soup kitchen, the Special Olympics and at her church.

"Lauren is a special young lady who is making the world a better place," Geiger said.

Guest speaker E. Robert Fritz, pricing manager at Knoll Inc., shared stories about his career in business as well as some of his personal journey through life's up and downs. Fritz is a Louis E. Dieruff HS graduate and went on to graduate from Kutztown University with a degree in finance. Fritz commended and thanked all the honorees for their service and dedication to the community and for serving as outstanding examples for others to follow.

"While life is always on the go, remember to slow down and appreciate life," he said, reminding them that they will make mistakes. When they do, they should hold themselves accountable, but be willing to forgive themselves, too. He explained the importance of a positive attitude, and that they should always use their talents to make a difference. Fritz wished the seniors well in all their future endeavors.

The TPA is a national nonprofit organization and has been around for well over 100 years, and is known for its dedication to safety. Post L in the Lehigh Valley is the largest post in the Pennsylvania division.

At this year's altruism award event, a check was presented to Parkland HS senior Alex Ocasio.

A New Life!

I have had people tell me that if they could just leave behind their present bad situations and move far away to another state, they would be able to start a new life—everything would be different. Of course, the problem is that they would take with them all of their old habits and character flaws. If a person is bound by alcohol, drugs, or sexual lusts, it doesn't really matter where he moves—his new setting will be affected by those evil bondages. His need is not a new location, but a new life!

A woman caught in the act of adultery was brought to Jesus by hypocritical Jewish leaders. They pointed out that Moses' law required she be stoned to death and they asked what Jesus had to say about it. Jesus responded, "He that is without sin among you let him first cast a stone at her." Her accusers, aware of their own sins, quietly slipped away. Jesus asked her, "Hath no man condemned thee?" and then said, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more" (John 8:3-10). This was true to Christ's mission as John 3:17 declares, "For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved." Jesus said, "I came not to judge the world, but to save the world" (John 12:47). Jesus not only forgave this woman of her sin, but He gave her a new life—a life free from sin—a life with an exciting new future as we see in His next words, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

God promises, "A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you" (Ezekiel 36:26). Christ alone can give you a new life! "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (2 Corinthians 5:17). Through Christ, you can "walk in newness of life" (Romans 6:4)! Ask Jesus now to forgive your sins and give you a new life!

PPL CENTER DEBUT

'Part of the story'

Skater's thrilled with role in Cirque du Soleil 'Crystal'

BY CAMILLE CAPRIGLIONE
Special to The Press

The world-famous Cirque du Soleil brings a thrilling and "cool" new show, "Crystal," to PPL Center, Allentown, June 26-30.

The production blends stunning acrobatics and figure skating. With aerial feats and impressive artistry on ice, "Crystal" is predicted to surpass expectations in a breakthrough show.

"Crystal" has an international cast of 43 performers, including figure, extreme and freestyle ice skaters, plus acrobats, musicians and comics.

The storyline for "Crystal," directed by Shana Carroll and Sebastien Soldevila, and under the artistic direction of Fabrice Lemire, is about a misfit heroine named Crystal who takes the audience on an exhilarating tale of imaginative self-discovery.

Crystal soars through a surreal and colorful world, and transforms into what she was destined to be. "Crystal" stuns with astonishing visual effects and a soundtrack that blends popular music with the signature sounds of Cirque du Soleil. "Crystal" is suitable for all ages.

Mary Siegel, who plays the role of Reflection, has performed in "Crystal" since its inception in July 2017.

"The storyline is about a girl named Crystal and she doesn't feel like she fits in with society," says Siegel in a phone interview.

"She's being told that she's odd and peculiar. She's had enough of it, so she decides to run away from home, and finds herself on an [icy] pond that eventually cracks. She falls through. That's where I come into play.

"The first time you see me, I'm suspended 30 feet in the air and upside down, looking at Crystal. It's an intense moment.

"Reflection is her guide through the 'under the ice' world. So, it's kind of a warped sense of reality and I'm almost like the White Rabbit in 'Alice in Wonderland.' I take her through her journey of self-discovery.

"I think one of the really pow-

Siegel is a double gold medalist and was a 2003 Eastern Great Lakes champion skater. She per-

Director Shannon Fugate said Wood's son Jonas contacted Baum to arrange the exhibition. Wood donated "Opera Singer Turn of the Century Vienna" (pastel and ink; 40.5 in. x 27.5 in.) to the Baum School to commemorate the death of Baum Executive Director Rudy Ackerman in 2015. The painting is from Wood's "Ordinary

According to Fugate, Wood said, "I paint ordinary women because no woman is ordinary." Pam Dent, who is on the Baum School board, and her husband, former congressman Charlie Dent, have been collecting Wood's work for many years.

Grumbling about airlines

I was surprised this week when the main story in our local Florida paper was about a flight on Allegiant Air that was 14 hours late taking off.

The story ran in big bold type across the front page like it was "big news."

The whole gist of the story was that the plane was delayed for several hours for a safety check, then for a change of crew.

The couple quoted in the story thought the airline was negligent in that they were only given one free drink while they waited all those hours.

What surprised me wasn't that a flight was delayed 14 hours. My surprise was that the paper thought that was big news.

Let me summarize in one sentence what most of us know: Airlines ain't what they used to be.

My flights have been delayed or outright canceled so many times that I'm at the point where I fly somewhere the day before I have to be there.

It happened again this month as I waited leave for the airport for a flight back home to Florida.

When I checked my phone as I was ready to leave there was a message from the airline saying the flight was canceled. No reason was given.

It just said the airline would contact me when it made arrangements for a new flight.

Dummy me. I thought they meant there would be another flight later that day.

My son-in-law, who seems to be on an airplane as much as he is in a car, was savvy.

Give me your phone, he said, and I'll book you on the first flight out of here.

The first flight out was leaving the next day. Greg told me I had to book immediately because everyone that was supposed to be on the canceled flight would be trying to get on the next day's flight.

I'm so naive that I really believed the airline would be rescheduling me.

Seasoned traveler that he is, my son-in-law just laughed.

So, OK, I listened to him and rebooked for the next day.

Did you notice the new scam many most airlines now run? After you pay premium for a ticket, they asked you to pick your seat. They charge extra for the seat.

The first time my friend Ruth ran into this situation, she refused to pay another $49 for a seat.

"Don't you have to give me a seat when I buy a ticket?" she asked.

"Yes, but you can't pick your seat. You might get the middle seat in the last row," she was warned.

She said she didn't care what seat she was given and she wasn't going to pay extra since they had to give her one.

Well, using that strategy, I wasn't going to pay extra for my new flight. I didn't care where I sat. I just wanted to get home.

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

Again, my son-in-law used his knowledge of airport situations to caution me.

"If you don't have an assigned seat," he said, "when you get to the airport you might find they overbooked and you are out of luck."

OK, I paid the extra money for a seat, even though it was a middle seat in the back.

When I got to the airport, I found Greg was right. The flight was overbooked. An airline employee was offering a voucher for a free flight the next day to anyone willing to give up a seat.

It took a while for them to convince five people to do it. If I would not have paid extra for a seat, I might have been one of the out-of-luck flyers.

Now, I ask you. How much sense does it make to sell an airline ticket but say we have to pay extra for a seat?

Don't know if you noticed, but the extra charge for the seat can range from $17 to the "prime location" $70 seat.

No, prime location does not mean sitting in the first class or business section.

I think it's all a bit of fraud they get away with.

The same thing is true when it comes to the discount airlines advertising prices that are way lower than other airlines.

So, you sign up for a discount ticket costing $179 for a round-trip ticket. What you don't know is that before you finish paying their extra charges your $179 trip will be close over $400.

The last time that happened to me we were scheduled for a Spirit flight out of Atlantic City. We paid for a ride to the airport and settled down to wait for our flight.

As I was first in line waiting to board, the announcement came over the loudspeaker that the flight was canceled.

Not delayed. Canceled.

There we were in Atlantic City with no car and no way home.

Without boring you with details, we didn't get out of that airport for three days. There were no flights back to Florida until then.

Remember when airline employees were called stewardess and they were all pleasant, nice looking women?

Now they're called flight attendants and if you had a dime every time one smiled you still wouldn't have enough for a cup of coffee.

I used to love airports and flights to anywhere.

Either I'm getting old and cranky or I'm right about airlines. They ain't what they used to be.

Gossip reflects poorly on character

Dear Jacquelyn, I have a friend who I really like, with one exception. She will tell me things others have told her and it makes me uncomfortable. It makes me wonder what she says about me when I am not around. I would like to be able to keep this friendship, but not being able to speak freely with her makes me uncomfortable. How can I steer the conversation away from gossip?

Dear Reader, Gossip is unnecessary, unflattering and reflects poorly on character.

It would appear your friend is someone who thinks gossip is innocent and makes it a topic of conversation.

RESPECTFULLY YOURS

By Jacquelyn Youst

This is far from the truth. Gossip is hurtful and destroys reputations. This very unmannerly behavior has negative consequences and is something you should actively avoid.

Anytime someone engages in sharing private information about others, it's a serious friendship breach. Friends are supposed to be the ones you can trust. You can try preserving your friendship by nipping this in the bud with some clever conversational skills.

Since you want to try to remain friends when your friend makes comments about others, stay neutral. Do not express your opinions. This only encourages the topic of conversation to continue.

You might try saying, "Do you think that person wants this known?" Let your friend know what she is talking about sounds like a private matter and you want to respect that privacy.

You are right to be concerned. A person who will gossip about others is certainly likely to gossip to others about you. To prevent the far-reaching consequences of rumors, avoid sharing personal information about yourself or your family.

Gossip deflects attention from a person's own imperfections onto other people's shortcomings. It's important to realize you may not be able to change her behavior, but you can change your behavior and distance yourself from your friend.

Always keep in mind that what you choose to discuss helps define who you are as a person.

Respectfully Yours,
Jacquelyn

Summer programs can enrich youth

Q. Summer begins June 21. I am wondering what to do with my children, ages 8-15, to keep them active, safe and moving forward educationally. I don't have money to send them to camp and I don't want them spending their time in front of the computer or TV or on their phones. Any suggestions?

The panel had lots of suggestions. It would have been helpful to know how many children are being discussed and what their genders are.

"Interests will vary depending on how old each of the children is, and whether they are male or female," said panelist Pam Wallace.

Panelist Chad Stefanyak took the children's side. "It's OK for them to be on the computer or watching TV some of the time because it is their break," Stefanyak said. "The parents should focus on setting limits for those activities, rather than trying to structure other activities every day of the summer."

"If there isn't some kind of planning, however," panelist Michael Ramsey warned, "the summer will just blink by." Ramsey suggested including the children in the planning process. "Let them be creative. Find ways for them to use their computers or phones to find out what they would like to do. Create options, but also allow for down-time."

"You can find educational elements in everything from using a map to reading a sports magazine," Stefanyak said. "Reading is reading is reading."

Addressing the financial element, Ramsey noted that there are camps that operate for shorter lengths of time than the entire summer. There are also summer programs, such as for sports and swimming, in area parks run by township recreation commissions that are free, low-cost or offer scholarships. "Some schools have summer programs," Ramsey said.

For example, summer STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, Math) educational enrichment programs are offered in Parkland School District, Northampton Area School District and at Lehigh Carbon Community College. In Allentown, City Arts Camp is provided by a consortium of The Baum School of Art, Allentown Art Museum, Miller Symphony Hall, Community Music School, Civic Theatre of Allentown and Repertory Dance Theatre.

Other suggestions discussed by panelists included attending free concerts and movies throughout the area, the parents and children making their own event by taking a hike on one of the area Rails-to-Trails area, and holding a picnic or cookout. A family camp-out might be a much cheaper alternative to a summer recreational camp.

Panelist Jackie Gisonti said that the summer is an opportunity for youths to learn about responsibility. "Teach the 15-year-old to mow the lawn or do chores around the house," Gisonti said. "You can also give the older children more freedom, along with ground rules, to test their ability to deal with challenges and temptations, without the added pressure of classes and homework."

Bypass, hemorrhoids, kidney stones

Q. When you have a bypass, what exactly do they do to your heart?

In conventional heart bypass, an incision about one-foot-long is made down the center of the chest to expose the heart. The surgeon takes a section of healthy blood vessel, often from inside the chest wall or from the lower leg, and attaches the ends above and below a blocked artery so that blood flow is diverted around the narrowed portion of a diseased artery.

Because the heart beats constantly, it needs a steady flow of blood. If a blood shortage is serious, you have a heart attack and muscle begins to die. During traditional bypass surgery, a patient is put on a heart-lung bypass pump to oxygenate and circulate blood.

The surgery usually takes between three and six hours. On average, surgeons repair two to four coronary arteries. After surgery, patients spend a day or two in the intensive care unit. Recovery takes 6 to 12 weeks.

And then there is minimally-invasive heart surgery. Minimally-invasive surgery may avoid placing the patient on a heart-lung machine, and may be done with several small incisions.

Minimally-invasive heart surgery isn't an option for everyone. Potential benefits of minimally-invasive heart surgery compared with open-heart surgery may include: less blood loss, lower risk of infection, reduced trauma and pain, shorter hospital stay and faster recovery.

Q. How can you avoid the pain and bleeding associated with hemorrhoids?

Hemorrhoids are inflamed and swollen veins around the anus (external) or in the lower rectum (internal). Hemorrhoids are caused by straining when defecating, aging, pregnancy, sitting or standing for a long time, obesity and heavy-lifting.

Avoiding constipation is critical to preventing hemorrhoids. Doctors recommend increasing fiber and fluids in your diet to develop softer stools that don't lead to straining. It's important to eat whole grains, vegetables and fruit. Taking a fiber supplement each day helps, too. Drink liquids. Exercise.

A few other pointers: If you have to sit or stand for a long time, take breaks often.

Don't sit on doughnut cushions because they can increase the pressure on the veins in the anus.

Don't hold your breath when trying to defecate. This creates greater pressure in the veins in the lower rectum.

Go to the bathroom as soon as you feel the need. Waiting can make your stool dry and harder to void.

Avoid laxatives that can lead to diarrhea.

Keep the anal area clean.

Apply ice packs or cold compresses on the anus to relieve swelling.

Over-the-counter pain-relievers such as acetaminophen, aspirin or ibuprofen can relieve discomfort.

Q. Kidney stones run in my family. What can I do to combat them?

Kidney stones are composed of crystals of substances in urine. Many small stones pass unnoticed from the two kidneys down the tubes (ureters) leading to the bladder. If they are too large to pass, you may feel pain.

Kidney stones can be caused by heredity, diet, drugs, climate, infection and other conditions that create an increased concentration of calcium, oxalate and uric acid in the urine.

If you don't drink enough fluids, your urine can become more concentrated and that can lead to stone formation. People exposed to heat are more likely to get kidney stones. That's why kidney stones are more common in summer.

Here are a few tips for reducing the chances of getting a stone:

Drink about six glasses of water daily. When it gets hot, try to drink twice as much.

Cut down on meat in your diet.

Reduce your salt intake. Remember, most of the salt you eat is in prepared foods, not the shak- See GEEZER on Page B5

30-year-old hails from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Siegel, who has been skating since the age of seven, started in group lessons, then transitioned to private lessons, with a dedication to the rigorous physical aspect.

"Skating is a high-intensity sport mixed with the movement of dance," says Siegel. "I pretty much skated every day, all day. I even started home-schooling so that I could train."

"I never thought I would be a performer. I grew up in competition. I still have that passion and that fire for skating, so I think it's kept me going. Getting to perform and travel and do what I love and get paid to do it, I couldn't ask for anything better."

As for challenges that performers face while executing daring feats on ice, Siegel says, "For the skaters, this is our setting. It's more for the acrobats where the danger is involved. They're doing what they know how to do, but on a surface they're not used to. Cirque had to make special equipment for the acrobats."

The acrobatics bring new and heightened thrills to the show.

"You can expect everything from a normal Cirque du Soleil show, just over ice," says Siegel.

Siegel's coach is Stephanie Miller, who trained Siegel for 12 years during her time in competitive skating. Miller acts as a second mother, providing moral support and frequent phone calls.

"She acts more as a therapist nowadays," Siegel says.

"Crystal," touring nationally and internationally, heads to Russia in fall 2019.

"The most impressive thing about our show is the projection effects. It gives [the audience] that full, immersive feeling. We can simulate what happens on the projector with our movements."

"You feel like you're part of the story," says Siegel.

"Crystal" is Cirque du Soleil's 42nd original production since 1984. The company has performed for more than 180 million spectators in more than 450 cities on six continents.

Cirque du Soleil has more than 4,000 employees, including 1,300 performing artists from 50 countries.

The Cowsills, left to right, Bob, Paul and Susan, perform in "Happy Together Tour 2019," 8 p.m. June 20, Penn's Peak, Jim Thorpe.

'The Rain, The Park' & Cowsills

BY ERIN FERGUSON
Special to The Press

The "Happy Together Tour 2019" offers hit tunes from the 1960s and 1970s in one concert, 8 p.m. June 20, Penn's Peak, Jim Thorpe.

The tour, now in its 10th year, features six headlining artists: The Turtles; Chuck Negron, formerly of Three Dog Night; Gary Puckett & The Union Gap; The Buckinghams; The Classics IV, and The Cowsills.

The concert is expected to include 35 hit songs from the era.

"The 'Happy Together Tour' is a show that takes you down memory lane for sure, but the memories are very big and the songs we perform bonded us as a generation and that bond surfaces again during this show," says Bob Cowsill, guitar-vocals, of The Cowsills.

"We came from love, peace and understanding and there was nothing wrong with that message," says Cowsill in a phone interview.

The "Happy Together Tour" began in 1984 with the band, The Turtles. The tour stopped, resuming in 2010. The Cowsills joined the tour four years ago.

The Cowsills' hits include "The Rain, The Park & Other Things," "Indian Lake" and "Hair."

"Everyone knows how old we are now, but these songs don't age," says Cowsill.

"Our greatest accomplishment right now is happening on this tour. To get to these shows and see these classic artists, the memories run deep. And these songs can bring out some deep emotions in people."

Longing to be like

The Beatles, The Cowsills, Bob (Robert), Billy (William), Barry and John, which is the original lineup, are a family singing group of six siblings from Newport, R.I., that formed in 1965.

Their mother, Barbara, joined the group and recorded, "The Rain, The Park and Other Things" (1967), which sold one million copies and reached No. 2 on The Billboard 100.

Shortly thereafter, their seven-year-old sister, Susan, and brother, Paul, were added to the group. Bob's twin brother, Richard, was the only one out of seven siblings to never join the group. Their father, William Sr., "Bud," was a United States Navy recruiter.

In 1968, the band scored another million-selling hit, "Indian Lake," which reached No. 10 on the charts.

The band had a No. 2 hit and a million-seller with its version of "Hair" from the musical.

"We all kept singing individually even after our star faded. As artists, my sister continued playing in New Orleans and me in L.A."

"The most fun we had as a family was on tour singing, so to be able to come together, be on stage and sing our songs again, I can't tell you how grateful we are for that," says Cowsill.

Brother Barry drowned during Hurricane Katrina. On the day before the memorial service for him, brother Billy died from complications from emphysema.

Brother Richard died in 2014.

Their mother Barbara died in 1985. Their father William Sr. died in 1992.

The remaining siblings, Bob, Paul and Susan, have continued the Cowsills' legacy and perform together and individually.

The Cowsills were the inspiration for the "The Partridge Family" TV show (1970-1974).

"In 1970, we were approached about the show, 'The Partridge Family,' and they did come to our house to check us out and see if we could be the kids in the show. But we were a little older and we weren't actors."

"They thought of using our little sister, but it was really all or nothing. We had hit records going on and were touring and working a lot so we weren't really disappointed," says Cowsill.

From 1968 through 1972, the band played an average 200 performances annually.

"The Rain, The Park and Other Things" is on the soundtrack of the movie, "Dumb and Dumber" (1994).

"It was great because most movies just play a clip of your song, but they kept going back to it. We have fans that Googled us from hearing our song in the movie and found us on the internet," Cowsill says.

"You're going to love it," says Cowsill. "You will know all 35 songs in the show. They were big hits and you aren't going to get that in any other show. We all sound pretty good, too, and the kids that go to the show are always like, 'Boy, you are amazing.' We are going to bop until we drop."

"She was a dear family friend of the Dent family," said Pam Dent, adding, "But, especially a friend of Charlie's uncle, the late Charles C. Dent, who was also an artist like Polly, and a collector like Polly." Charles C. Dent, also a trustee of the Baum School, had mentored Wood.

"As an artist, she celebrates the female figure. She celebrates women, female empowerment," said Pam Dent.

Some of the works in the exhibit are from the Dents' collection, including "Untitled," an ink and pastel portrait of a graceful young woman from another era pensively nodding her head.

Pam Dent's favorite memories of Polly Wood are their road trips to Adamstown, Lancaster County, for art and antiques "to see what treasure we might find that day," she said with a smile.

Some of Wood's art depicts strong women in angst, such as "Bewitched, Bothered, and Bewildered" from the "Ordinary Women Series." The figure's face is green and expresses annoyance, yet it appears there is a tear forming in one eye.

Wood rendered her feminine subjects in oil, pastel, ink and gouache. She would start by drawing a grid as a guide. She sometimes deliberately left parts of the grid exposed.

There are several three-dimensional pieces in the Wood exhibition, including "Baby Hava," a metal sound sculpture she created in collaboration with Val Bertoia.

"I have always viewed my work as important, not just as a reflection of personal experiences, but on a larger collective scale that speaks to all. After all, the human experience is universal," Polly Wood had said. "My work reflects life on a more emotional plan and it is my intent to express these emotions in a visual form."

The exhibit is sponsored by Stout Associates, LLC.

'Pets 2' Paw City

The concept for "The Secret Life of Pets" was brilliant: What do pets do when their owners are away? It being an animated feature movie, we learned and heard what pets thought and said.

"The Secret Life of Pets 2" gets the pets out of the house to some good and not so good effect.

Director Chris Renaud ("The Secret Life of Pets," 2016; "The Lorax," 2012; "Despicable Me," 2010; "Despicable Me 2," 2013), Parkland High School, Class of 1985, graduate, along with co-director Jonathan del Val (an animation director in his big-screen co-directorial debut) and screenwriter Brian Lynch ("The Secret Life of Pets"; "Minions," 2015; "Puss in Boots," 2011) borrow pages from screenplays of live-action and animated movies.

There's an automobile chase. There's a chase scene atop a moving train. There's a martial arts scene. There's a Cat Lady.

The film is padded out at the start of the end credits with cute live-action social media clips of infants and pets, plus an animation scene during the credits.

There's a "paw-city" (paucity) of original plot ideas in "The Secret Life of Pets 2."

Basically, Max loses his toy, Busy Bee, and Gidget attempts to find it. Max makes friends with a sheepdog named Rooster when the family goes for a drive. Snowball rescues a white tiger at the zoo. There's a circus owner named Sergei and a pack of wolves.

None of this in the episodic plot makes much sense.

"Pets 2" has a frenetic pace, as if the action will whiz you past the plot.

The film was seen in 2D. I don't think it's necessary to see the film in 3D.

"The Secret Life of Pets 2" should be fun for children. Teens and adults may be not as entertained. There is humorous dialogue at times.

The animation of "Pets 2," in the style of previous Illumination Entertainment animation films, is refreshing in character style originality, brightness of scenes and colorful pastel palette.

The voice talent in "Pets 2" is especially good.

Patton Oswalt voices Max, the top dog, who narrates the film. He replaced Louis C.K.

Other voice talents include Eric Stonestreet (Duke), Kevin Hart (Snowball), Harrison Ford (Rooster), Tiffany Haddish (Daisy), Lake Bell (Chloe), Jenny Slate (Gidget), Bobby Moynihan (Mel) and Hannibal Buress (Buddy).

"Pets 2" has the usual array of pop, rock and hip-hop hits to move the story along.

It's no secret that "The Secret Life of Pets

Stoneback 'Jazz Upstairs' to swing

BY GEORGE VANDOREN
Special to The Press

If you have a taste for Big Band music, mark 7:30 p.m. June 21 on your calendar when the Rob Stoneback Big Band holds court in Miller Symphony Hall's Rodale Community Room for the "Jazz Upstairs Series."

The 19-piece unit has performed with such notables as Rosemary Clooney, Natalie Cole, Aretha Franklin, The Manhattan Transfer and Frank Sinatra and Frank Sinatra, Jr. to name a few. The Stoneback Big Band has four CDs to its credit, and has recorded with Simone, Nina Simone's daughter.

Stoneback got his start the way a lot of area musicians did. He says, "I started trombone at nine-years-old in the fourth grade in the Parkland School District. I played all the way through college and grad school."

Stoneback received a bachelor's degree in English from Franklin and Marshall College and did graduate work in English at Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge.

He recalls, "I had free a ride as a TA (Teaching Assistant). It was 80 miles from New Orleans and I jammed a lot there. I had a seat in the LSU Baton Rouge Jazz Band, even though I was studying English, not music."

"I came home in the Summer of '75 and started to look for English teaching jobs. The market was very tight. Substitute work was available, but spotty."

"I went to the King

George Inn [formerly at Cedar Crest and Hamilton boulevards, Dorneyville] and sat in with Dave Roper. A guy heard me play and asked if I ever thought of going on the road."

"Long story short, he had a friend who did booking. They had a trombone vacancy in the Tommy Dorsey Band in two weeks. So, I went on the road with the Dorsey Band."

Stoneback returned to the Lehigh Valley and played with the Bobby Bear Allentown Jazz Ensemble and later with Reds Moll's Patriot Band. He got the urge to start a band of his own.

"I decided to give it a whirl. I was co-student leader of the F&M Jazz Band, plus the director at LSU wanted me to lead the band even though the music majors wouldn't have liked it."

"We started with a lot of the guys from the Bobby Baer Band and Reds' band. We would rehearse in the junior high cafeteria in Emmaus."

Stoneback is enthsiastic about his band, calling it "the best band I get to play in. Everyone is working as a team to make it better. You don't always have that in a band."

In the trumpet section, Bill Hicks and Steve Lombardi split the lead while Dale Forris and Doug Matz share the jazz book.

In addition to Stoneback, the trombone section consists of Chuck Dressler and Bill Smith with James Burrowski on bass trombone.

Stoneback explains, "We always split things up: solos, lead, etcetera. Every guy who can solo will get a chance to solo."

Saxophone players are Greg MacGill and Neil Wetzel, alto; Tony Gairo and Ken Moyer, tenor, and Chris Heslop, baritone.

The rhythm section is Marty Milliner, piano; Paul Demarest, guitar; Paul Rostock, bass, and Garry Rissmiller, drums.

The band's vocalists are Dennis Jeter and Robin Work.

Collectively, band

members have performed with a "who's who" of jazz players and continue to do so. They teach, lead their own ensembles, write arrangements, and have degrees from prestigious colleges and universities. They're first-call players if you're looking for jazz. Many have been with the Stoneback Band since the 1980s.

Stoneback says the "Jazz Upstairs" audience can expect "Big Band jazz. Swing is our main thing. We'll do some Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Basie, probably Maynard Ferguson."

"We'll do some of my arrangements and some by others in the group. We'll play 'Los Zapatitos' by Neil Wetzel, with a Latin groove. We might even venture into the rock area. Overall, it will be a night of good straight-ahead jazz."
