NOTRE DAME HS MINI-THON

'For the Kids'

By MARY PAIGE NESFEDER
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Notre Dame's fifth annual MiniTHON this past weekend featured 250 students standing and dancing for a total of 24 hours, raising money and awareness for pediatric cancer.

The participants, split up into six different color teams, went up against each other in various games throughout the 24 hours. They also enjoyed taking part in Zumba routines, a visit from athletic trainer Barry Lovelace, as well as energizing pilates exercises.

The dancers ate every three hours, feasting on foods such as Chick-fil-a sandwiches, fruit and eggs and bacon for breakfast.

Energy filled the gym as the last hour began, with family and friends packing the bleachers to cheer on the participants.

After a long 24 hours, students watched a slideshow of pictures chronicling their 24 hour long journey. Cheryl Fenton, who started Notre Dame's MiniTHON with the help of her daughter Sierra, a Penn State graduate, sat on the stage and thanked the countless individuals who made this year's MiniTHON a possibility.

As the team leaders slowly made their way to the front of the gym to reveal the amount of money raised, the gym was silent. Slowly, the number was revealed, starting backward.

This year, for Notre Dame's MiniTHON fifth anniversary, dancers raised $61,291.29 and counting for the Four Diamonds Fund. More donations were received last minute and had yet to be counted into the total.

After hearing of the amount, the crowd burst with excitement and school pride.

"THON was the best yet this year," said senior Andrea Ross, who participated in THON for four years. "ND really becomes a family."

Spending 24 hours together in a tiny gym really brings a school community together. See KIDS on Page A2

Board approves budget draft

By DEB BOYLAN
Special to the Bethlehem Press

During a special meeting Feb. 11, Bethlehem Area School Board members voted to approve a preliminary budget for 2013-14 by a 6-2 vote, with Basilio Bonilla Jr. and Irene Follweiler dissenting.

Total revenue for 2013-2014 is projected at $216,448,028, up 1.85 percent from last year and expenditures are $224,644,723, up 5.71 percent. The proposed budget represents a revenue/expenditure gap of $8,196,695, or about 2.89 mills. Cost drivers contributing to the shortfall are salaries, state retirement payments, health-care, charter schools and existing debt. The budget vote could go to referendum if an expected city tax hike goes into effect. The district cannot raise millage above the ACT 1 index, which is capped at 3.8 percent.

Dr. Christine Brennan of the Colonial Intermediate Unit 20 presented a general operating budget for 2013-14 at the board's finance committee meeting.

The proposed general operating budget for IU20 is $3,017,300, which reflects See DRAFT on Page A2

'Results speak for themselves'

"Ten years ago, I said, 'In the next decade, Bethlehem will become the benchmark for livable urban communities, where people can live, work and play all in walking distance.'"

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzowski@thonline.com

Mayor John Callahan gave his ninth and last state of the city address to a crowd of friends and officials at ArtsQuest SteelStacks the morning of Feb. 14.

After a decade, he said he felt compelled to compare today's hard truths with his own optimism from 2004, but that Bethlehem has made better improvements and a more transformative recovery from its industrial past than any other city in the region.

"For 125 years, the answer to most questions in Bethlehem was 'Bethlehem Steel,'" he said. "But in 2004, both literally and figuratively, we were left to find those answers for ourselves."

"Today, I can say that over the last decade, we found those answers: Bethlehem is a national example of a successful midsized city, a prosperous place where success can be achieved by every resident."

He said a Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia study last year found Bethlehem's 1950 manufacturing employment of 60 percent of the total population cost us grievously in recent years. Of 13 cities in the study, "No city on that list lost more than Bethlehem."

Yet Bethlehem was ranked No. 1 as a city on the rebound.

"We have had to make tough calls to make sure our fiscal house was in order and our fiscal house is in order," Callahan said. He explained the city has $90 million less debt than when he took office and recent measures are on target to reign in bloated pension costs for future administrations.

Callahan also heralded increased spending on public safety as intrinsic business growth. "In 2003, public safety spending represented 41 percent of the budget. Today it represents 53 percent. Investments in public safety are some of the most important any city can make and the results speak for themselves - We have been the safest city in the commonwealth for nine years running."

Also key to growth, and what he said he hopes will be the basis for plenty of delayed gratification, is innovation in investment and business.

nology small-business incubator and other efforts are reforging Bethlehem as a City of Innovation.

In his conclusion, Callahan said, "Ten years ago, I said, 'In the next decade, Bethlehem will become the benchmark for livable urban communities, where people can live, work and play all in walking distance."

"That's exactly what Bethlehem is today. We are the safest, most prosperous and fastest growing city in Pennsylvania. And we should all be very proud to have achieved that goal together."

"But there's always more to be done."

Hundreds of Notre Dame students gather as they participate in a miniTHON to benefit the Four Diamonds Foundation in its battle against childhood cancer.

KIDS

"I'm so unbelievably proud of everyone who stuck it out for 24 hours," said senior Erika Edwards, who also participated in THON for four years. "Seriously, they were all so inspiring and I'm so grateful for all of them."

Senior Amanda Megee, also a four-year THON veteran, expressed a similar opinion.

"I couldn't be more grateful to be a part of Notre Dame's MiniTHON," said Megee. "We really are a family."

With freshmen and sophomores representing a majority of the MiniTHON participants, the future for the dance marathon looks promising. With the help of schools like Notre Dame, the Four Diamonds Fund can continue to combat pediatric cancer. No matter which school decides to put on its own MiniTHON, students are proud to represent the same cause raising money "For the Kids."

That same weekend, 700 Penn State University students danced for 46 hours to raise $12.3 million to help the fight against pediatric cancer. The total shatters last year's record of $10.6 million. THON is billed as the world's largest student-run philanthropy in the world. Students have now raised more than $100 million for the Four Diamonds Fund at Penn State Hershey Children's Hospital since 1977.

a 1.4 percent increase. This increase of $44,100 is primarily due to a rise in pension obligations. Another contributing factor is healthcare costs that have risen by 25 percent following several years of stability. The 13 school districts in the IU20 service area will see no increase in contributions because of a reserve in the state retirement account. This is the third year the IU20 budget will not require an increase in district contributions.

Russell Giordano, district director of human resources, proposed an increase in wages for substitute support staff to bring the base rate of these positions in line with the school districts in the IU20 and IU21 region. Of the sample area, BASD ranks last in pay scale for substitutes custodians, security, secretaries and teacher assistants. The positions of custodian, secretary and security staff have a pay rate of $8 per hour, while teacher assistants are paid the state minimum wage of $7.25.

The proposal seeks to increase pay to $10 per hour, which represents between a 2 and 2.75 percent change from the current rate. Pay for support staff has been stagnant since 1999. Subsequently pay for supplemental custodians would also rise from $9 per hour to $10.

The total proposed increase multiplied by hours worked among all positions is estimated at a cost of $60,013 and will have to be added to the proposed 2013-14 budget.

Upon visiting Bethlehem in 1782, General George Washington received a brief tour of the town. One can make the point that this tour has never truly ended, for high atop South Mountain in Lehigh University's Sayre Park, Washington continues to look over our city. This, however, is "George Washington Rock" - a natural formation that bears a striking resemblance to the profile of our nation's first president.

At the Feb. 4 school board meeting, the last before the Feb. 25 final decision on the Nitschmann MS renovation versus rebuild debate, district engineers D'Huy compared the old building's general space deficiencies with the more efficient newer buildings.

Thirteen areas were deemed deficient by current standards, Director of Facilities and Operations Mark Stein said, but the discussion seemed to be little more than additional confirmation of existing problems to a board already leaning toward constructing a new school. The facilities meeting continued by prioritizing items for the summer project plan.

These include replac-

ing storm systems at Spring Garden, Farmersville and William Penn elementary schools at a cost of $180,000 total, the condenser water pipe at the Liberty HS classroom center at $186,000 and replacement of the cast iron boiler system in favor of a high efficiency model at Lincoln ES at $180,000.

School districts undertaking major capital projects statewide were able to submit a planning and construction workbook, known as PlanCon, to the State Department of Education to apply for reimbursement funds. PlanCon is a series of steps documenting the school district's planning process and compliance with existing state laws.

Currently there is a moratorium on PlanCon applications and approvals due to state budget constraints. This moratorium took effect Oct. 1, 2012. Compiling a PlanCon would cost the district nothing, but could result in $7.6 million of potential state funding. D'Huy recommends beginning the process of PlanCon, and Superintendent Dr. Joseph Roy said he hopes the moratorium will be lifted next year to find BASD's report ready for review.

Liberty HS Principal Harrison Bailey III detailed an ambitious Grade 9 Plan in cooperation with Freedom HS during the curriculum meeting. The program seeks to stem course failures and absence rates while increasing graduation rates, Keystone exam performance and overall GPA.

The proposal includes the creation of a Ninth Grade Center where all students will work together in core classes, and a hybrid schedule consisting of full and half block classes expected to improve the transition from middle school to high school.

Students will also retain the same guidance and support counselors throughout their high school tenure, and siblings attending the same school would share that counselor to establish longer, more personal relationships with families.

The Feb. 25 meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at East Hills MS, 2005 Chester Road.

Board OKs calendar change

A snow day taken Jan. 28 has impacted this year's Saucon Valley School District calendar.

Saucon Valley School Board members approved changing the district calendar. The board decided Feb. 12 to change June 10 to a full day of school and June 12 as an early dismissal.

SAUCON VALLEY SD

In other business, the board decided to reserve its March 12 meeting for budget discussions.

Board member Ralph Puerta recommended the board discuss the budget in March, rather than April, to allow the board to determine whether it will refrain from increasing taxes or increase taxes to offset expenses such as employee pension costs.

During the Jan. 29 meeting, the board discussed a potential tax increase of 1.66 percent and the phasing out of 2.5 positions, which would aid the district in avoiding its first tax increase in five years.

The proposed 1.66 percent tax increase would raise property taxes for residents by $88 for a property assessed at $100,000.

A plan proposed by District Superintendent Sandra Fellin would involve, through attrition, the elimination of a third grade teaching position, a technology teaching position at the middle school and a part-time consumer science teaching position. Fellin also suggested the district not replace a bus.

Fellin stressed to the board in order to avoid a tax increase, the school board must find another $475,000 in savings.

Seton Academy students attend their last Ash Wednesday Mass at Saints Simon and Jude Church in Bethlehem; the elementary school is closing this year. Kneeling attentively during the service are Faith Matuczinski and Rachel Watters with ash crosses on their foreheads marking the start of Lent. The Catholic Diocese of Allentown recently announced that Seton Academy ES will close at the end of its academic year. According to Principal Patricia Coughlin, the academy opened in 2006 with 245 students from Bethlehem area parishes Saints Simon and Jude, Incarnation of Our Lord, Holy Ghost and St. Ursula, but declining enrollment to the present 88 students and financial problems have figured in the school's closing. Consequently, the number of local Catholic elementary schools will be reduced to four - Holy Infancy, Notre Dame and St. Anne's in Bethlehem and Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Bethlehem Township.

Northampton County council members had opposing reasons for declining a $700 gift from the county executive. By an 8-0 vote, council refused John Stoffa's $700 donation to the county's Department of Fiscal Affairs. Councilman John Cusick was absent from the Feb. 7 meeting.

While some council members viewed Stoffa's intent as a kind gesture that could not be accepted, others saw it as a ploy to absolve himself from guilt, and still others saw it not as a gift but as a reimbursement for misuse of taxpayer money.

To recap, the Coalition of Alzheimer's Families (COAF) and county Controller Stephen Barron Jr. have accused Stoffa and his administration of using taxpayer dollars to have lawyers to oppose the COAF's attempt to get a referendum on the May 2012 primary to keep Gracedale as a county-owned nursing home. With the support of the required number of petitions, the COAF did get the referendum on the ballot and saved Gracedale from being sold to a private corporation.

For the record, while the Rev. Mario Martinez of the COAF persists in calling Stoffa a liar and declaring there was wrongdoing and criminal intent on the part of the county executive's administration, the lawsuit with these claims has been dismissed at every level of the state justice system from the state's Court of Common Pleas to the state's Supreme Court.

Despite these facts, Martinez urged council at its Feb. 7 meeting to refuse Stoffa's gift. Martinez went on as part of courtesy of the floor to demand that council take action to censure and/or to ask for Stoffa's resignation.

Councilman Tom Dietrich saw it as acceptable for council to accept gifts under the Home Rule Charter, but he publicly questioned Stoffa's donation as a possible attempt to absolve himself from guilt in the Gracedale affair and therefore Dietrich voted to decline the gift.

Councilman Lamont McClure refused to accept the gift because he saw it more as a reimbursement to the county for misuse of taxpayer money which he did not view as criminal.

"It's time for it to be over. Let's not be mired in the quicksand of the past," added McClure in casting his "no" vote.

On that, Stoffa is in agreement. In an email to council accompanying the donation, Stoffa wrote: "I am donating this as a gift in hopes that I can use my remaining time in office to discuss more important issues. A centralized human services building awaits your decision. We need to focus on deteriorating bridges, capital improvements at Gracedale and repairs around the Courthouse."

Stoffa's email concludes that he was only doing what council had authorized him to do in the matter of the Gracedale referendum.

More than 100 Moravian College students, faculty, and staff gathered in the campus Fitness Center recently to participate in the college's first annual Greyhound Gauntlet Fitness Run. After participants were divided into groups of 10, the first group headed to the first of five sites on campus where they faced a series of physical challenges. The other groups followed at 10-minute intervals.

The Greyhound Gauntlet is one of several programs being held at the college this year in support of the Wounded Warrior Project. Started in 2003, the project's goals are to raise public awareness of and assistance for the thousands of servicemen and women who have been injured in the Iraq and Afghanistan wars.

Among the feats participants in the Greyhound Gauntlet performed were navigating an obstacle course on the college hockey field, elbow crawling through a sand pit, pencil rolling across the gym floor and then crossing it on their hands and feet. Contestants included members of Moravian athletic teams as well as a group of cheerleaders.

Assisting at the event were Moravian students, some of whom are members of the ROTC at Lehigh University.

An awards ceremony is planned and will honor the top male and female student and the top female faculty/staff finishers.

Also recognized will be the organization/club with the most members who participated.

The event raised $700, bringing the total sum of money raised so far by Moravian's athletic department to $1,670. Additional fundraisers on behalf of the Wounded Warrior Project are planned.

Hypnotherapy is becoming mainstream

How is hypnotherapy different from only hypnosis?

It's hard to make permanent lifestyle changes on our own, even if they are good for us. Perhaps some help in the form of a new approach is in order if you are to truly succeed with your goals this year.

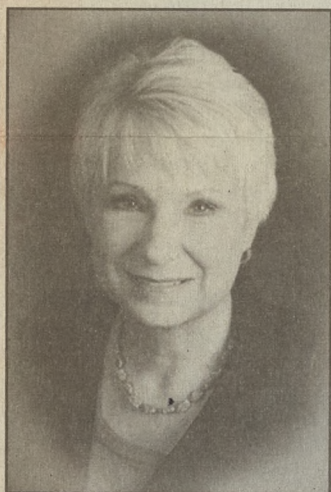

Have you considered hypnotherapy which uses hypnosis? No, not the "bark like a dog" carnival amusement kind. Hypnosis can be a powerful means for instituting positive change in your life. It can be extremely effective when used for weight loss and smoking cessation as well as for addressing trauma, emotional issues and physical conditions like those you would address with a psychotherapist with traditional counseling approaches. It is, however, important to be an informed consumer if you are considering its use.

There is a difference between hypnosis and clinical hypnotherapy. Why is this distinction made since both hypnosis and clinical hypnotherapy induce clients into a hypnotic state? The difference is that only mental health professionals have the special training and state licensure to perform psychotherapy when clients are in a hypnotic induced state. They can help their clients deal with the core emotions underlying the thoughts that produce the unwanted behavior. It is common knowledge that hypnotherapy can help one to quit smoking or with weight reduction, but research has demonstrated it has also helped with migraines, allergies, irritable bowel syndrome, facing cancer, chronic pain, trichotillomania (hair pulling), surgeries and dental work. It is effective with children as well as adults.

Only 10 percent of the brain is responsible for conscious thought. The remaining 90 percent is the subconscious part. It is there that repressed emotions, feelings, and sensations are stored as unpleasant emotions and feelings related to our experiences and physical conditions. The Division of Psychological Hypnosis of The American Psychological Association explains that "... people who have been hypnotized do not lose control over their behavior. They typically remain aware of who they are and where they are, and ... they usually remember what transpired ... hypnosis makes it easier for people to experience suggestions, but it does not force them to have these experiences." Hypnosis is defined as a treatment intervention, comprised of inducing the client into a relaxed, suggestible state and then offering post-hypnotic suggestions for relief from symptoms. Hypnotherapy is the process of providing psychotherapy with a client who is in the hypnotic altered state of consciousness. The clinical hypnotherapist's approach delves farther into the subconscious and includes addressing emotions, sensations, beliefs, values and pain.

The Integrative Medicine Department at the world-renowned Cleveland Clinic has endorsed heart-centered hypnotherapy as part of their holistic approach to treat patients as the whole persons we are, by addressing the mind, body and spirit. Trained mental health practitioners who are certified as heart-centered hypnotherapists, realize that is where we need to focus our attention as mental health professionals. Their treatment focuses on the emotional basis for our addictions and issues that affect our daily lives and gives us the path to freedom from these burdens.

See the advertisement on this page from Susan Toohey, certified clinical heart-centered hypnotherapist.

Why Clinical Hypnotherapy can help you or a loved one master Weight Loss or Stop Smoking when other methods have failed. ... used in the Cleveland Clinic with good results ... these methods can help you.

Susan Toohey is a Licensed Professional Counselor in Pennsylvania, a National Certified Counselor and a graduate of Lehigh University's master's program in Counseling and Human Services. A blood drive in memory of Tanya Rosado was conducted at Sacred Heart Church in Bethlehem Township recently. During a seven-month battle with acute myelogenous leukemia two years ago, Tanya received numerous blood transfusions. She is survived by her husband, David Rosado, and daughter Jayden. Tanya's mother, Judy Negrete, organized a blood drive with Miller Keystone Blood Bank "to give back what was given to her that allowed my daughter to survive some of the toughest situations during her journey." Judy is planning a 5k event this year in her daughter's memory, to raise awareness of leukemia. ABOVE: Valacious Rose, Victoria Rose, Kianily Rose and Jessenia Velez (top) put their face-painting skills on display during the memorial blood drive.

Council, police face tough choices

By DOROTHY PYLES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

For the first time this year members of the Fountain Hill Borough Council had to call an executive session. The executive session was held in private before the council meeting, and outcomes were made public after the session was over. On Feb. 4, Mayor Jose Rosado announced that during the executive meeting all members of the council had come to a unanimous decision. The mayor, on behalf of the council, decided to terminate officer Grady Cunningham for conduct unbecoming of an officer. Fountain Hill Police Department and the Fountain Hill Council deemed that this executive action is to be applied immediately and termination of the officer was placed into effect.

The police department has had another loss and is awaiting the final resignation letter of part-time officer Jeffery Redinger. Chief Ed Bachert is awaiting proper resignation letters and contact with the former part-time officer so that this motion also can be completed.

Although the Fountain Hill Police Department has lost two officers, Bachert said he is ready to employ more. Bachert asked council for permission to begin interviewing new candidates and hire three more part-time officers. Council voted to grant this motion, and candidate interviews will begin immediately.

While matters of public safety and police business were spotlighted in the monthly meeting, Rosado wants to remind residents that property crimes in the area are still on the rise. The mayor urged people to keep their homes and cars locked to prevent such offenses.

With property crimes on the rise the police department is staying actively involved in solving any crimes reported immediately. During council's monthly police report it was announced that two incidents of burglary in the Fountain Hill area were solved promptly. The incidents included a burglary at a local Wawa in which the back door to the facility was kicked in. Police were able to identify the footprints and had a suspect in custody within hours. The second incident occurred at a St. Luke's facility in which $6,000 worth of pharmaceutical drugs were stolen. Officers confiscated camera recordings from the building and arrested a suspect immediately.

Liberty boys raise the Lehigh Valley Conference trophy after knocking off Parkland in the finals.

Liberty coasts to title win over PHS

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Maybe Liberty was built for tournament runs, or perhaps the Hurricanes are just putting things together at the right time. But there was no disputing who was the better team on the court last week in the Lehigh Valley Conference playoffs, as the 'Canes made things look easy with wins over Central Catholic and Parkland en route to claiming their third LVC title in the past five years.

Last Friday night at Easton Area Middle School, Liberty was on cruise control in a dominating 66-48 victory over the second-seeded Trojans.

Deshawn Oyeniyi presented major matchup issues for the Trojans, as he scored a team 19-points as Liberty's interior play was no match for Parkland.

K.J. Williams added 17-points and Greg Noack chipped in 15 rebounds as Liberty (17-7, 10-4) led from start to finish.

Noack, along with guards Chevon Williams and Pat Donnelly, are part of the trio of Liberty seniors to have two LVC championships on their resume.

"We were together last year and we didn't even make the league playoffs, so this was a big goal for us," said Williams. "We wanted to beat Parkland bad because the last time we played them they didn't get a taste of Deshawn and we got embarrassed."

Can Hawks send 10 again?

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

So what will Bethlehem Catholic do for an encore at this year's District 11 2A wrestling tournament?

After advancing a district record 10 wrestlers to the finals a year ago and crowning seven champions, how will the Hawks fare when this weekend's tournament kicks off on Friday afternoon at Freedom, but ends Saturday evening at Liberty with both the 3A and 2A finals.

Head coach Jeff Karam doesn't know if this year's team can replicate advancing 10 wrestlers to regionals, but he won't put it past them.

"I don't know if we'll ever see that again," said Karam in reference to what his team did at districts last year. "That was a special group of wrestlers, but I wouldn't put anything past this group. I'd always love to send more guys to regionals and we'll see what happens."

The Hawks return four champions from last year led by senior Darian Cruz (120), who is going for his third straight district crown.

Zeke Moisey (126), Ryan Todora (138) and Josh Alpha (195) also return as defending champions, while Jose Ortiz (182) was also a finalist a year ago, but lost in the finals.

All five of those wrestlers should find themselves back in contention for district titles this weekend, but it's the second tier group that can really make history for Becahi with their performances.

Luke Karam (106), Lee Todora (132), Mark Maloney (152), Connor Hedash (160), Nick Cortopassi (170) and Andrew Dunn (HWT) also have the prospects of claiming one of the top four spots to move on to next week.

If you count up the names, the list includes 11 names, which would See Hawks on Page A11

The District 11 3A wrestling tournament is always a spin on the roulette wheel.

Liberty and Freedom just hope the work they put in throughout the season pays off when things kickoff at Memorial Gymnasium this weekend.

Both programs have aspirations of bringing home a district champion and those duties will be rested upon Liberty senior Grimaldi Gonzalez (126) and Freedom senior Evan Kauffman (220).

Both figure to be the top dogs in their respective weight classes and both are looking to find themselves back in the finals, just like last year.

Gonzalez won district gold a year ago at 120, but Kauffman lost to Nazareth's Aaron Bradley in the 220-pound championship.

Bradley is competing at heavyweight this season, which paves the way for Kauffman to become the program's first district champion since Zach Sigley won six years ago for the Patriots.

"Evan's been in the finals the past two years and we feel like this is his weight class," said Freedom head coach Brandon Hall. "We think he's capable of winning and he's primed to make a run for the district and regional titles."

Gonzalez has aspirations of more than repeating as champion at dis-

BASKETBALL

Pates, Hawks seeded for runs

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

Liberty may have won the Lehigh Valley Conference title last week, but Freedom won the seeding puzzle that comes together once the District 11 brackets are assembled.

The Hurricanes (17-7), who play in the district's toughest conference, scheduled the most competitive nonleague dates this season and who completely dominated the LVC tournament last week en route to the championship, have to settle for a second-seed in this year's 4A bracket.

That's because Pocono Mountain West (19-4), winners of the Mountain Valley Conference, took the top spot.

The Panthers are actually the defending district champions from last year, but are a far cry from that this season, as all four of their losses have come from LVC opponents including Easton, Liberty, Freedom and an 18-point defeat to Whitehall.

But enough with the facts and onward to the reality, as a Liberty-Freedom district championship would be a dream final for Bethlehem, as the Pates were a free throw away from beating Parkland in regulation during last week's LVC semifinals.

Head coach Joe Stellato's team enters the district tournament as the fourth-seed and will take on either fifth-seeded Easton or 12th seeded Allen on Saturday.

The Patriots (15-8) split both of their games with the Rovers this season, but defeated Allen in their only encounter.

"Allen is playing well late in the year and Easton plays great defense, but I think we match up well with both teams," said Stellato.

The top-seeded Panthers get the winner of the eight-nine matchup between Whitehall and Stroudsburg.

As mentioned earlier, the Zephyrs defeated West 56-36 on February 2 and Freedom posted a 53-42 victory on the road against the Panthers back in early January.

Being able to avoid Liberty and Parkland until a possible final is something that Stellato isn't going to cry about.

"We'll certainly take it," he said in reference being in the top-half of the bracket. "It's all about energy and effort for our guys. We know we can compete with anybody. We just have to bring that energy every night and I think our guys understand that now."

Second-seeded Liberty meets the winner of the Emmaus (seventh-seed) and Pleasant Valley (10th seed) matchup on Saturday.

Bangor got the third-seed after winning the Colonial League last week and will probably have a quarterfinal matchup with sixth-seeded Parkland on Saturday, as the Trojans should have little trouble dispatching 11th seeded East Stroudsburg South in Wednesday's preliminary round.

The possibility of a semifinal matchup between Liberty and Parkland seems realistic, but Landis isn't counting on anything until his team gets past their quarterfinal opponent.

"It is what it is," he said. "We lost too many games that we shouldn't have this year and that's why we're not the top-seed. Now we just have to go out and beat the teams in front of us."

Both 4A and 3A will send three teams to states, which gives Bethlehem Catholic real hope to extend their season by a couple weeks with how well the Hawks were seeded in 3A.

Becahi (11-10) is the fifth-seed out of the 10-team tournament and travel to Martz Hall Friday night to battle fourth-seeded Blue Mountain (18-4).

Head coach Mike Frew is entering his first district tournament in his seven years of coaching at Pen Argyl and Becahi and is excited for the opportunity.

"I think all of our guys are excited about the chance to compete in districts," he said. "We've seen Blue Mountain play and they execute well."

Freedom girls hoops ends season with a victory

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

The Freedom Patriots ended their season with a record of 8-14 under new head coach Ron Garza, doubling their wins from the previous season.

"If we ended better than we started—that was our ultimate goal. We got a late start, considering I was hired mid to late October, but the kids got better, and the team got better. What more can you ask for? I think we had an awesome season," Garza said.

Three straight victories over Whitehall, Dieruff, and Stroudsburg at the end of January put the Patriots even in the Lehigh Valley Conference, but a one-point loss to Emmaus began a downward spiral that kept Freedom out of district playoffs.

"That became the low point, and then Easton beat us," said Garza.

On the upside, Freedom ended its season with a makeup game against Selinsgrove in which the Patriots won, 38-37.

Throughout the season, Garza noticed improvement on defense, while hoping for a better shooting percentage.

"Our man defense improved. I didn't think it would be our strength, but we played it better

FHS boys win 99-86

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Freedom swimming coach Reik Foust was looking forward to Valentine's Day, almost since the start of the high school swim season, but not for the reason you may think.

This Valentine's Day would be the first time that father and son swim coaches would go head-to-head in one of the biggest, yet friendliest, rivalry meets in the Lehigh Valley: Freedom versus Liberty.

In the boys meet, the Patriots landed on top, 99-86 over the Hurricanes.

Freedom's Connor Harrigan, Trevor Watlington, Shjon Watlington, and Kyle Hanchick opened the meet with a 1:48.50 victory in the 200 medley relay.

Freedom's Sam Magnan won the 200 free in 1:49.11, followed by Harrigan and Liberty's Alex Fitch. Eric Lawrence won the 200 IM in 2:05.42, followed by James Sheplock and Matt Buell, both for the Hurricanes. Freedom's Scott DelFranco took first place in the 50 free in 22.73. Liberty's Evan Smith and Cole Ledger placed second and third, respectively.

Sam Kimcaid won the diving event with 179.70 points for the Hurricanes. Liberty's Bryan Rivera came in second, and Freedom's John McGinty came in third.

Peter Conzola won the 100 butterfly in 54.16 for the Patriots, followed by Lawrence and Liberty's Sean Vanatta. Smith took first place in the 100 free in 51.89 as the Hurricanes swept that event with Brandon Hlavaty coming in second and Brandon Merkert coming in third. Magnan placed first in the 500 free in 4:47.67, Harrigan placed second, and Fitch came in third.

DelFranco, Lawrence, Magnan, and Conzola swam to a first place finish in the 200 free relay in 1:32.11, followed by two teams from Liberty.

Conzola went on to win the 100 backstroke in 54.02, DelFranco placed second, and Sean Vanatta placed third, and Trevor Watlington won the 100 breaststroke in 1:06.91, Liberty's Nolan Vanatta placed second, and Freedom's Brandon Burnette placed third.

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcDonald@tnonline.com

Depth was the key to Liberty's girls Valentine's Day victory over neighboring rival Freedom, as the Hurricanes defeated the Patriots 98-87 in their final regular season swim meet.

Adding to the love of one of the friendliest rivalry meets in high school sports was the father-son coaching rivalry of Liberty and Freedom, respectively.

Competing against his son for the first time, Liberty coach Reik Foust said, "I wanted to win everything: every event and both meets [girls and boys]. There were some really close races, and it was high energy."

Even though Emily Cecchini, Maggie Olock,

Rachel Rider, and Emma Williams won the first event of the night, the 200 medley relay in 1:55.59, Liberty's second and third place finishes were crucial in the Hurricanes' victory.

Freedom's Shannon Howell won the 200 free in 1:58.34, followed by Liberty's Jocelyn Baker and Kayla Drago. Freedom's Carly DelFranco placed first in the 200 IM in 2:17.03, followed by Brooke Munion for the Patriots and Madison Sauer for the Hurricanes. In the 50 free, Freedom's Helen Hsu took first place in 24.66, Olock was second, and Williams was third.

Rachel Steiner won the diving event for the Hurricanes with 179.55 points. Freedom's Kaycee Stoudt placed second, and Liberty's Victoria Carter placed third.

Munion took first place in the 100 butterfly in 1:00.79, Rider was second, and Cecchini was third.

Hsu placed first in the 100 free in 53.73, while Drago took second place, and Liberty's Madison Sauers took third. In the 500 free, Howell won first place in 5:17.17, followed by Baker, and Freedom's Rebecca Busby.

Howell, Hsu, Molly Magnan, and Munion combined to win the 200 free relay in 1:40.86, setting a pool record at Liberty.

DelFranco won the 100 backstroke in 1:00.77, followed by Rider and Cecchini. Liberty's Shannon Hogan took first place in the 100 breaststroke in 1:15.44, followed by Kelly Kopko from Freedom and Anita Kundu from Liberty.

Howell, DelFranco, Munion, and Hsu ended the girls meet with a 3:42.54 victory in the 400 free relay, followed by two teams from Liberty. "I was really happy with the way the kids swam. They were fantastic," Foust said.

Liberty's Grimaldi Gonzalez is hoping to bring home a second straight district gold.

tricts and regionals. His run toward an elusive state title starts this weekend, but so does Liberty's chances of advancing more wrestlers than just Gonzalez to regionals.

"Grim is certainly our best shot at gold," said Liberty head coach Jody Karam. "There are about four or five other guys that are able to advance if things go right, but things got to go right."

Joe Curzi (106), John Ritter (113), Ardis Smith (145), Richard Ruiz (160), Noah Klingborg (170) and Jake Gunning (220) round out Liberty's hopefuls of moving on.

Freedom is looking at the likes of Dylan Brown (106), Josh Young (152), Jake Young (170) and John Callahan (182) to join Kauffman en route to regionals.

Wrestling kicks off at 4 p.m. Friday and quarterfinals are slated for 7 p.m.

Semifinals will get under way on Saturday at 10:30 p.m. with consolation finals set for 5 p.m.

Finals, which will include both 3A and 2A finalists on two mats, starts at 7:15 p.m.

preparing just like the way they were a year ago and the seniors have done a great job guiding this group.

"We'll be ready to go and I'm looking forward to see what they can do."

A Becahi victory Friday night would put them in next Tuesday's semifinals.

Meanwhile, Central Catholic should find themselves in the semis against either third-seeded Wilson or sixth-seeded Salisbury. Should the Hawks continue to play the way they have at the end of the regular season, when they knocked off Easton and Liberty to close out the final week, Becahi could land in the finals and on their way to states.

Hawks

give Becahi a sizable cast into regionals. But whether or not the Hawks can send 10 to the finals would truly be a remarkable feat for a second straight season.

"Records are meant to be broken," Karam said. "We set the record last year and I think our guys would like to do it again this year. This team is with Becahi center Matt Husek in the middle at 6-foot-11.

Pottsville (18-4) was given the top-seed because it won its conference, meanwhile Central Catholic (20-3), the most talented team in the bracket, is the second-seed and will take on either Northern Lehigh (seventh-seed) or Tamaqua (10th seed).

The Crimson Tide await the winner of the eight-nine matchup between Southern Lehigh and Lehighton.

Boys

"They're a hard-nosed team and we're traveling up there for a playoff game, so it's not going to be easy."

The Eagles have defeated Salisbury and Northampton this year for their share of notable Lehigh Valley wins.

Flew did note that Blue Mountain doesn't have any players over 6-foot-3 on their roster, which should pose a matchup problem

Champs

"This time it was a different story."

Liberty lost to Parkland (17-7, 11-3) at home on January 8 by a 90-78 margin and that encounter provided fuel for the fire once the Trojans landed a spot in the finals after knocking off Freedom in the LVC semifinals.

"They were so hot the first time they played us," said Donnelly, who scored 12 points in the LVC final. "We stepped up our defense in this game and really made them work for their shots."

And making teams work is what the Hurricanes hope is going to be on the agenda as they move forward into the district tournament.

After hitting bumps in the road in the second half of the season, including losses to Bethlehem Catholic and Freedom in the final week of the regular season, the 'Canes appear to be hitting on all cylinders after impressive wins in the LVC tournament.

Head coach Chad Landis has been holding strong the motto of focus and intensity for his group as of late, and the Hurricanes showed what they're capable of when they maintain on that path.

"These guys like important games and they wanted to win this title bad," said Landis. "Some of the struggles we had this season did help us now because it shows the importance of focus and these guys have really played well as of late."

Now the question is whether the Hurricanes can play well moving forward?

Liberty has failed to win the district title in both of their previous seasons when they won the league crown.

Shifting focus from being league champs to winning the district title is what's on the agenda currently.

"It is difficult to get kids refocused on another journey and tournament run, but that's what we have to do as a staff," Landis said. "It's nice to have a week off for us to regroup and heal up a little."

"These seniors have been with it for the past two years and it's good to see them get rewarded. Now they got to be hungry enough to get rewarded again in districts."

Garza stressed to his team the importance of working offseason on their individual skills.

Returning will be four key juniors and some key sophomores.

Garza said, "I do think we're heading in the right direction."

Housing gives 12th Berrios award

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI

Gloria Mitchell is not the type to take it easy.

From her early-morning workouts at the gym to cruising to numerous volunteer appointments in her Camaro, this Army veteran and all-around good neighbor in public housing can't sit still.

Her efforts on behalf of the community were recognized by Bethlehem Housing Authority Jan. 28 – two days after her 91st birthday – with the 12th annual Josefina A. Berrios Community Service award.

A lifelong Bethlehem resident, Mitchell graduated from what is now Liberty HS and used her seamstress skills as a parachute rigger and repairer for the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1944-45. She later married a Marine, Bill Mitchell, and continued to work as a seamstress here in the city.

She has volunteered at Lehigh Valley Hospital-Muhlenburg for more than 20 years, and participates in military honor guard burial ceremonies and other events with the Lehigh Valley Military Affairs Council.

attended the small party and said he's happy to know Mitchell and is proud of her activity – doing more than most people with a fraction of the years. "To see folks as young as Gloria helping is wonderful," he said with a chuckle.

For her part, Mitchell simply said, "I'm not one to sit and watch TV or read. You have to keep moving."

And as to why she's always out at events and dining with others, she said, "It's easier to have friends than make enemies."

Executive Director

Clara Kendy said the Berrios award is also about promoting the BHA neighborhoods. "We want to the community to know we have such wonderful tenants."

And to Mitchell, she added, "When we made this award, you're what we had in mind."

Tax Tips from IRS.gov

Taxable and Nontaxable Income

Most types of income are taxable, but some are not. Income can include money, property or services that you receive. Here are some examples of income that are usually not taxable:

- Child support payments;
- Gifts, bequests and inheritances;
- Welfare benefits;
- Damage awards for physical injury or sickness;
- Cash rebates from a dealer or manufacturer for an item you buy; and
- Reimbursements for qualified adoption expenses.

Some income is not taxable except under certain conditions. Examples include:

- Life insurance proceeds paid to you because of an insured person's death are usually not taxable. However, if you redeem a life insurance policy for cash, any amount that is more than the cost of the policy is taxable.
- Income you get from a qualified scholarship is normally not taxable. Amounts you use for certain costs, such as tuition and required course books, are not taxable. However, amounts used for room and board are taxable.

All income, such as wages and tips, is taxable unless the law specifically excludes it. This includes non-cash income from bartering – the exchange of property or services. Both parties must include the fair market value of goods or services received as income on their tax return.

If you received a refund, credit or offset of state or local income taxes in 2012, you may be required to report this amount. If you did not receive a 2012 Form 1099-G, check with the government agency that made the payments to you. That agency may have made the form available only in an electronic format. You will need to get instructions from the agency to retrieve this document. Report any taxable refund you received even if you did not receive Form 1099-G.

"Root of Bitterness"

The dictionary defines bitterness as a deep-seated ill will. Last week's story of former Los Angeles police officer, 33-year-old Chris Dorner, illustrated the devastating fruit of bitterness as Chris sought revenge for his perceived mistreatment in losing his badge in 2008 for lying about a fellow officer. Since then, Chris harbored his feelings of being wronged and allowed his grudge to fester until his root of bitterness exploded into open hostility, multiple revenge killings, and his own tragic death in the flames of fire.

The Bible warns, "Looking diligently lest any man fall of the grace of God: lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled" (Hebrews 12:15). Note three things:

1. Bitterness is a root that will spring up to trouble you! Note "lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you." A root is under the surface. The same is true with bitterness in a person's soul. It lies beneath the surface like a bubbling fountain of seething hatred. It often begins when a person feels he has been wronged and he nurses the hurt feelings inside where they fester and grow. The idea of getting even becomes all consuming. Soon his sin of bitterness springs up and results in troubling outward sins such as anger or murder. Even before then, the gnawing inner bitterness produces many troubling illnesses and opens the door for demons which thrive on bitterness. It has been said that holding bitterness is like drinking poison and expecting your enemy to die.

2. Bitterness will infect and affect many around you! Note "thereby many be defiled." Bitterness is a cancer and poison that destroys millions of victims every year. Unchecked, it destroys families, churches, and nations.

3. Bitterness results in failing to accept the grace of God to humbly forgive those who wrong you! Note "lest any man fall of the grace of God" God gives grace to forgive only to the humble! "Be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble" (1 Peter 5:5).

caramel de lite coconut creme pie with fresh whipped cream and chocolate ganache are available at Emeril's Chop House. Emeril's Burgers and More features the Girl Scout peanut butter sandwich with vanilla bean ice cream and caramel drizzle. Emeril's Italian Table offers the Girl Scout lemonade cream with white chocolate gelato and blood orange blossom curd. Recipes for each are available on the Emeril's website.

National Girl Scout Cookie Day fell on Feb. 8 and Sands Resort director of food and beverage

Victor Bock called the opportunity to feature Girl Scout cookies in the special desserts a "great cause."

"The fact that they asked Chef Emeril to be involved at the three restaurants here was a great opportunity for us," Bock said.

Stacy Calles, Chef de Cuisine at Emeril's Cop House, said that over a two-week period the pastry staff assisted her in developing the desserts around the various Girl Scout cookies.

"It was a lot of fun," said Calles.

The Girl Scouts of the USA sell more than 50 million boxes of cookies annually, according to Maggie Barla, director of communications and marketing for the Girl Scouts of Eastern Pennsylvania. Emeril's made an initial purchase of 20 cases of each cookie flavor featured and expected to need more.

Anyone looking to purchase Girl Scout cookies can visit the Girl Scouts of Eastern Pa. website at www.GSEP.org, where a cookie locator by zip code is available.

The Lemonade Creme with white chocolate gelato and blood orange blossom curd is available at Emeril's Italian Table.

Women became wartime workers

In 1942, the grounds of a Bethlehem golf club were covered with 133 temporary trailers for Bethlehem Steel workers. What was unusual was that these workers were all women; most had never worked outside their homes before. Many women were willing to work but had no one to care for their children. Bethlehem Steel arranged for childcare in one of the trailers. Other trailers served as a laundry and a community clubhouse.

Karen M. Samuels
Columnist

The trailers were located on a barren hill overlooking the steel mill. Many of the male Bethlehem Steel workers were not happy working alongside women. Female instructors were provided to train the women and to make them feel more comfortable. The men often taunted them, however, with "Go back to the sweatshop where you belong."

As Bethlehem Steel Corporation's wartime orders increased, so did the rate of male workers leaving for enlistment or draft. Approximately 2,200 female workers were hired to work at the Bethlehem plant between 1942 and 1943. Thousands more were sought in 1944.

Bethlehem Steel carried on a national campaign for women workers. They distributed a short movie to the movie houses and schoolteachers were hired during the summer of 1943 to canvass neighborhoods to recruit workers. The women worked 48 hours a week and were paid 78 cents an hour. They worked through Thanksgiving and Christmas. Their jobs included operating machines, furnaces, cranes, drill presses, saws, buggies and grinders. Special safety garments were designed for the women.

The War Manpower Commission created a committee to recruit women to war industries nationwide. Chairman Paul V. McNutt said, "Increasing participation of women in our all-out war production is essential to its success."

Women filled jobs wherever needed. By 1944, along with the six million employed by the war industry, they filled a multitude of other jobs such as in the railroad, automotive industries, streetcar personnel, elevator operators in hotels, mail delivery and messengers.

During the war, women were seen about Bethlehem in uniforms. The Bethlehem Red Cross chapter gathered women to sew surgical dressings and garments at the Dodson Building on New Street. The Office of Civil Defense, which was created in 1941, also employed local women. OCD trained women in first aid techniques and management of rationing and recycling. A 1942 Bethlehem Globe-Times issue published a spread showing nine different variations on the female Red Cross and OCD workers' uniforms. Every uniform was in blue.

'I was helping the Army'

By CHRIS PARKER
cparker@tnonline.com

Helen Chomyn was born in Nesquehoning in 1921, when Warren G. Harding was president and Coco Chanel introduced her signature perfume, Chanel No. 5.

She grew up to work as a "Rosie the Riveter" during World War II, shares her birthday with the infamous attack on American soil by Middle Eastern terrorists on Sept. 11, 2001, and with a happier event, her wedding day.

A daughter of Ukrainian immigrants Wasyl and Antonia Matsinko, she was one of 10 children, two of whom died at early ages. As a teenager, the small-town girl ventured to New York City to work with her sister, Mary, in a mill that made yarn for crocheting.

Two of their brothers also worked in the city, and on pay days they pooled their earnings to pay their bills, sending anything left over back home to help their parents.

Two years later, she returned to Pennsylvania. In 1942, she married Paul Eckhart. The couple had two children, Dennis and Karen. Paul worked at Bethlehem Steel, and the young family lived in Lehigh, and was active in Grace Lutheran Church.

In 1943, seven months after their first child, Dennis, was born, their lives changed forever when Paul was drafted into the U.S. Army.

With her husband overseas, Helen did her part for the war effort. She applied for and was hired as a full-time inspector of Army shells at Bethlehem Steel. Each day, she rode to work with six co-workers - she was the only woman.

Her mother cared for Dennis while she labored for 90 cents an hour, the only woman on the quick-moving inspection line.

Her favorite part of the job? "I was helping the Army," she said proudly.

When the war ended, so did her job.

"I was glad the war was over, and that we were in better shape. And I was glad it was all over and Paul was coming home," she recalls.

Her husband returned from war with a Bronze Star for bravery, and suffering from malaria. He died at age 46 in 1962.

As Helen worked to support herself and her children, she also earned her high school diploma, later attending classes at Cedar Crest College as she worked her way up the ladder at the Phoebe-Devitt Homes.

After 14 years as a widow, she met widower Michael Chomyn of Philadelphia. They wed on her birthday, Sept. 11, 1976. He died on May 21, 2011.

Helen now lives in Lehigh and is grateful for her life, the good along with the bad.

"I thank God for everything, especially the parents He gives us to instruct and train us in our early age," she said.

'It was a good place to work'

By ELSA KERSCHNER
ekerschner@tnonline.com

Many women took defense jobs during World War II. They filled the jobs men had left to serve in the armed forces. Walnutport resident Sophia "Sue" Kester was one of those women. She operated a 10-ton crane at Bethlehem Steel.

Sue grew up in Palmerton during the Great Depression. Her father worked at the Zinc Company. Her mother stayed at home.

During high school she worked doing housework in Residence Park for $1.75 a day. When she graduated from Stephen S. Palmer HS in 1937, she moved on to Segal's Department Store, beginning at $5 a week for a 48-hour week. By the end of four years she was making $14. Because she spoke up, she was the first person ever to get overtime pay.

She even asked for vacation pay, but was told, "You deserve it, but I didn't say when."

Sue walked out of the store so mad she cried.

"When something bad happens, it's because something better is waiting," she says, recalling that day in her life.

She told her mother she was going to join the Woman's Army Corp or look for defense work, but the idea of her daughter in the WACs so disturbed her mother that Sue applied at Bethlehem Steel.

She was hired almost immediately. She received training and when she was certified as a crane operator, she was given a medal. If the medal was lost or not returned there was a 25-cent fine. Kester still has her medal and did not pay the quarter.

"It was a good place to work," she says.

She worked a 10-ton overhead crane in the scarfing department. The department's job was to remove bad parts from a piece of steel. She said it was mostly small spots that had to be removed.

"That was one of the dirtiest places to work - brown smoke so you couldn't even see the men on the floor," Kester recalls.

Workers, both she in the overhead crane and the men on the floor, had to wear respirators and change the filters frequently. She had to stand to operate the crane but does not recall for sure if there was a stool to sit down on when it was not operating.

Six billets of steel were chained together before she moved them. One day she felt that a load was not chained tightly. She yelled to the men down below but they could not hear her.

When she started waving them off, they jumped out of the way as the load fell. The only investigation made was when an inspector asked if anyone was hurt.

At Bethlehem Steel, Sue worked different shifts. She worked five days on and had two days off but never on a regular schedule. She did not like the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift because she could not sleep during the day.

Any woman who got a job at Bethlehem Steel knew it wouldn't last after the war when the men returned home. After the war she got a job with General Electric assembling toasters. It was where she met her husband to be, Allen Kester.

She and Allen lived their entire married life in the Kester family homestead near Walnutport.

NOTRE DAMENOTES

MiniTHON helps break up winter

Rather than being in November, this year's fifth annual MiniTHON was held in February, providing a shining light in the dreariness of the winter months.

Mary Paige Nesfeder
Notre Dame HS

After a long 24 hours, students were proud to hear they raised more than $61,000 for the Four Diamonds Fund. When the school's attention was not on MiniTHON, students showed their pride for winter sports. Although both the girls and boys basketball teams lost in the Colonial League semi-finals, their spirits remain high for the District 11 play-offs.

Each team boasted members who received All-Colonial League honors. Senior Shannon Moran earned a spot on the first team, while fellow senior Lexi McGivern, who scored more than 100 3-pointers during her high school career, was named to the second team. Senior Tara Gorman earned an honorable mention for her work this year.

As for the boys, junior standouts Tannor Reed and Vincent Eze both made the first team for their efforts. Senior captain Noah Miller was selected to participate in the Via All Star Basketball Classic March 30 at Northampton Community College.

Despite a losing record, first year wrestling coach Ryan Wasser has the team headed in the right direction. This year's squad included senior standouts Dennis Atiyeh and Seever Hoyak.

The Speech and Debate team continues to achieve success, placing eighth out of 60 schools in the recent Pennsylvania Falcon Invitational. Senior Natalie Prager received a Degree of Superior Distinction from the National Forensics League (NFL) for earning at least 750 NFL points based on competition and service.

Notre Dame has much to look forward to in the spring. The spring sports season begins officially March 4 with baseball, softball, track and field and boys tennis commencing.

Juniors and seniors recently received their prom invitations in the form of a candy bar. Prom is set for May 19 at the Palace Center in Allentown. The committee, headed by senior Tiffany Baker, chose "Sweet Dreams" as this year's theme.

Notre Dame will be hosting its first gala May 4 at DeSales University. The semi-formal event includes dinner, dancing and an auction. All proceeds from the gala will go toward updating the school science labs. The theme of Kentucky Derby coincides with the live race to be shown during cocktail hour. Any questions concerning the gala can be answered by Pat Boyle at pboyle@ndcrusaders.org.

Another fundraiser by the Athletic Booster Club is a golf tournament June 9 at 1:30 p.m. at Scramble at Green Pond Country Club.

For more information on any of these topics, as well as more happenings at Notre Dame, place visit our website at www.ndcrusaders.org.

NORCO Phillips seeks council seat

Hayden Phillips, a career information technology manager and university adjunct professor, has announced his candidacy as a Republican for Northampton County Council.

Phillips said in a statement he feels his training and experience will be a real asset in influencing the county's budget process and monitoring its overall fiscal responsibility. Also, in his experience in business, he has mastered group facilitation, group dynamics and consensus building, skills he feels are important to county council members as they work on council as a team.

He served in the U.S. Marine Corps and reserves, retiring as a colonel. He holds an undergraduate degree from Mansfield State University and a masters in business administration from Lehigh University. He is currently an adjunct instructor at Pennsylvania State University-Lehigh Valley, teaching courses in project management.

Phillips and his wife, Zulma, reside in Lower Nazareth Township.

NORCO Borso seeks Council seat

Northampton County native Christen T. Borso has announced her run for one of five of the county at-large council seats.

Borso is a Liberty HS class of 1987 graduate. She graduated from NCC in 1991. Since then, she has devoted her time to starting and growing two small businesses here in the Lehigh Valley.

She would like to focus on strengthening NORCO's relationship with the Lehigh Valley Economic Development Council. She believes Northampton County has a lot to offer to corporations looking for a new home: an educated workforce, favorable tax rates and many existing, move-in ready buildings waiting for new tenants.

Infrastructure is another area of focus for Borso. She says it is being ignored and we must focus on major bridge repairs. The time to act is now, as this has become a major problem.

Christen resides in Bethlehem with her husband John Borso Jr. Their son Justin, a recent college graduate, works and resides in Delray Beach, Fla.

Camacho

LEHIGH CO. Camacho seeks board seat

Lawyer and Democrat Juan P. Camacho has announced his candidacy for a seat on the Lehigh County Board of Commissioners. Camacho is running to represent the voters in District 3, which includes East and South Side Allentown, West Bethlehem, Catasauqua, Fountain Hill and Hanover Township.

Camacho is an attorney for Fries Law Office in the city of Allentown, where he resides. Camacho is currently a member of the Allentown Zoning Hearing Board and serves on several nonprofit boards, including Casa Guadalupe Center, Renew Lehigh Valley and the Bar Association of Lehigh County.

Camacho graduated from the University of Central Florida, Orlando, in 2004 with a bachelor's degree in political science. Shortly after graduation, he started his law school career in Lansing, Michigan but ultimately graduated in 2007 from California Western School of Law in San Diego.

NORCO Reibman to run for exec. seat

Glenn Reibman, a former county council member and executive, announced Feb. 19 he is a candidate to once again serve as executive.

Reibman, a Democrat, was first elected county executive in 1990 and served two terms before joining county council, in which he served eight terms, six of which as president.

He said in a statement he is excited about continuing to serve and finish the work he began in 1990.

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@ttonline.com

City Councilwoman Karen Dolan has announced she will run for a third term.

"I love the work, and I believe my role on council is important," Dolan said in a statement. "A lot of people recognize my name for environmental and historic preservation work, but on council, I advocate for all quality of life issues: safe streets and walkable neighborhoods, maintained parks and job-producing economic development, reasonable tax rates and the highest quality city services we can afford."

Dolan said the focus of her third term would be keeping city costs under control by supporting "work smart" initiatives such as ending the practice of the city maintaining privately-owned property that should be maintained by its owners, and planning ahead for severe weather, which is more cost effective than reacting to it.

If elected, Dolan said she would continue to "research the issues before developing an opinion and stand up for what is right for the majority of Bethlehem residents, as well as advocating for under-represented groups like senior citizens and children."

Dolan retired from teaching in 2011 and is executive director/CEO of the Gertrude B. Fox Environmental Center at Illick's Mill in Bethlehem, an organization she founded after restoring the condemned mill with the help of Liberty HS students.

Her role as Gertrude B. Fox head demands strategic, operational and vision planning, as well as organizational and comprehensive administrative skills.

Dolan

Dolan has been married to John Chay for 23 years, and they have two sons; Zachary and Cooper, attending college at University of Pittsburgh and University of Scranton, respectively.

Melnick seeks city council seat

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
njastrzemi@ttonline.com

Longtime local economic development director Steve Melnick announced his candidacy for city council Feb. 12.

"Bethlehem is not making the investments in our city's future that are needed to increase our vibrancy," he said in a statement, "and as a result we are at a crossroads. I believe I have the experience, ideas, partnerships and commitment to help ensure a better future for all residents."

Since 1997 Melnick has worked in the Bethlehem and Lehigh Valley Economic Development corporations and the Southside Bethlehem Keystone Innovation Zone, and he said this has given him practical, real-world experience in generating business success the city could use on a larger scale.

Melnick said making sound fiscal decisions and finding creative solutions to problems are central to ensure future stability and encouraging growth, as he did with the Keystone Innovation Zone to guide dozens of businesses to success.

He said he believes municipal budgeting should reflect what has proven successful in the private sector, and he wants to investigate departmental budgeting based on performance. "My background in budget and program management gives me experience in identifying problems and actually solving them," he said.

Melnick said he also believes in government accountability to citizens. "We are entitled to have our government provide professional and timely customer service in all departments," he said. "It's doesn't cost money to be professional, responsive and courteous. It takes leadership. And that starts with a new standard of service."

Melnick is a U.S. Army veteran and graduate of Parsons College in Fairfield, IO. His community service includes membership with the American Legion, Northampton Community College, Rising Tide Community Loan Fund and PNC Bank Community Advisory Board.

Down on the farm

Larry Fink photographs of Lower Saucon family opens ArtsQuest Santa Bannon/Fine Art gallery

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

Life is a collection of moments. Sometimes they don't add up.

Photographer Larry Fink reveals life in unpredictable and often startling ways. Fink is a master of capturing unguarded moments.

An exhibition, "Work in Process ... The Family," by the internationally-renowned photographer who lives in Martins Creek, Northampton County, continues through Feb. 28, Santa Bannon/Fine Art, ArtsQuest Banana Factory, 25 W. Third St., Bethlehem.

"The Family" is the inaugural exhibition for Bannon's gallery, which relocated Jan. 1 from the Banana Factory's second floor, where it had opened Oct. 1, 2012.

Bannon's husband, photographer Thomas Shillea, has studio space at the 1,200-square-foot gallery. They live in Bethlehem Township. Bannon has been a private fine arts dealer for 30 years.

In addition to Fink and Shillea, she represents photographers Michael A. Smith, Paula Chamlee and Bruce Katsiff and ArtsQuest glass artists John Choi and Dennis Gardner, who run the Banana Factory's Hot Glass Studio.

Shillea has work in the Philadelphia Museum of Art and The Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

Smith and his wife, Chamlee, live in Bucks County. Smith had a 25-year retrospective at the George Eastman House International Museum of Photography and Film, Rochester, N.Y.

Katsiff is retired CEO of the James A. Michener Museum, Doylestown.

Fink, a two-time John Simon Guggenheim Fellowship and National Endowment for the Arts recipient, has had one-person shows at the Museum of Modern Art and The Whitney Museum, both New York City, among others.

Bannon also shows work at her gallery of those she doesn't represent. Next up is an exhibition of expressionist paintings of Easton by Ian Summers, March 1 - 31.

"I want more people to buy art and buy local," says Bannon. "They don't have to go and schlep to New York — and not just my gallery. There are a lot of other good galleries."

"We wanted to do something that would generate interest and take us to the next level," says Janice Lipzin, ArtsQuest Director of Visual Arts and Education, of Bannon's gallery.

An estimated 300 attended Larry Fink's artist talk and book signing at the Feb. 1 Bethlehem First Friday.

"One of the things I want to do is have a workshop where I can educate people about buying art," Bannon says. "I'm going to have different artists come in. Larry [Fink] is going to be one of them."

"The Family" developed after Fink befriended Stacia Horvath, a night nurse, when he was recuperating at Lehigh Valley Hospital. "I tend to stay up late and play harmonica and jazz. So, I'm an active patient," Fink says.

Last summer, Fink visited the Lower Saucon Township organic farm run by Stacia and her husband, Dennis, who is also a commercial roofer. They raise chickens, ducks and geese and sell eggs and produce. Their daughters, Kayden, 9, and Trinity, 10, help out on the farm.

"They tolerated me poking my camera in their face, nose and eyes without any restriction of what they were going to look like. So, that was fabulous. And I kept on going back."

Of the Horvaths' farm, Fink observes, "It's never so much fun to kill anything, but it's propagation to provide healthy food for the family."

"The [Horvath] kids don't mind it and don't like it at the same time," he points out.

Fink is noted for his forays into domestic and other scenes, notably celebrity functions and fashion shows. The New Yorker magazine commissioned him to photograph two of the inaugural balls last month held for President Barack Obama.

Among Fink's many coffee table books of photographs, several of which are available at Bannon's gallery, are: "The Vanities: Hollywood Parties 2000-2009" (Schirmer-Mosel 2011), "Attraction and Desire: 50 Years in Photography" (The Sheldon Art Galleries 2011); "Night at the Met" (University of California Berkeley, Blurb 2009); and a second publication of "Social Graces" (Power House Books 2001).

Not quite three years ago, Fink switched from film photography to digital photography. He uses small cameras, a Sony PX100 or Ricoh GX4, and, for his prints, Epson photo scanners. He has two assistants.

"With digital you don't have to use a flash. They're more about available light," says Fink, who still does black and white photography.

"I have film. I have a refrigerator full of it. I have all my old cameras. But the digital frees you. And you can go from micro to infinity. The variants are profound."

"It allows me, as an old-time photography guy, to play as a kid. It's really liberating. You don't have to develop it in the morning. And you back it up three or four times on different hard drives so it doesn't go bye-bye."

Of his approach to making photographs, Fink says, "It's very, very obvious and transparent and up front. I don't do it but to explore the honesty of their lives. And I don't have any fear or contradiction within it, so I don't call any attention to myself."

"I photograph very close and nobody minds it. And the thing is, this family [the Horvaths] is completely uninhibited."

True to the series title, "Work in Process," Fink attended funeral services for Dennis' Horvath's father followed by a party Feb. 13.

"This is a saga which might go on for several years," says Fink.

Edgar Baum exhibit at Baum School

An opening reception for "Edgar S. Baum: For the Love of Painting" will be held 6 - 8 p.m. Feb. 20, David E. Rodale Gallery, The Baum School of Art, 510 Linden St., Allentown.

Dr. Edgar S. Baum (1916 - 2006), was a physician, artist and resident of Allentown. The exhibition features paintings that he created during five decades. His father, Walter E. Baum, was the well-known Pennsylvania Impressionist and founder of The Baum School of Art.

Edgar was a prolific and creative painter who also expressed himself through the use of dyes, sculpture, poetry and wit.

Everyone who knew him agreed, "To know him was to love him." His gift was to express not what we commonly see, but rather those things that we do not see. Every spare moment of his busy life was dedicated to creating hundreds of objects of art.

His steadfast love of The Baum School of Art, the students, teachers, and administration played an important role in the growth and success of the school. The Edgar S.

Baum exhibition is in recognition of the recent endowment gift from the Holt Family Foundation, made in memory of Edgar and June Baum.

An opening reception for "The Paintings of Edith Roeder" will be held 6 - 8 p.m. March 6 in the Rodale Family Gallery at Baum.

The exhibition features 22 works of the 92-year-old local painter. Roeder began painting in oils when she retired after 25 years of teaching English at Northern Lehigh High School.

Her subjects include shoppers at the Allentown Farmers' Market, West Park band concert, and Art in the Park.

She is a member of the Lehigh Art Alliance, Bethlehem Palette Club Parkland Art League. Her paintings are on display at Palmerton Hospital, Lehigh Valley Hospital, Westminster Village, Phoebe Home, The Heritage Center, Parkland High School, McCaskey High School in Lancaster and many private collections.

The perks of coffee are still brewing

Q. I keep hearing about how bad coffee is for you. I also hear about how good coffee is for you. What gives?

The average American drinks more than 400 cups of coffee a year, so how this popular beverage affects our health is an important issue.

Let's start with the bad part.

For the general population, the evidence suggests that coffee drinking doesn't have any serious detrimental health effects, is a summation from Dr. Rob van Dam, Assistant Professor in the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health.

Dr. van Dam says that drinking up to six cups of coffee a day is not associated with an increased risk of death from any cause. He warns that

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeez.com

some people may want to avoid coffee or switch to decaf. These include pregnant women and those who find it difficult to control their blood pressure or blood sugar.

"If you're drinking so much coffee that you get tremors, have sleeping problems, or feel stressed and uncomfortable, than obviously you're drinking too much coffee," Dr. van Dam said.

"But in terms of effects on mortality or other health factors, we don't see any negative effects of consuming up to six cups of coffee a day."

The cup he's talking about is an eight-ouncer with 100 mg of caffeine, not one of those grandes you get at Starbucks, which can keep you awake until Jimmy Fallon goes off the air.

OK, what about the good part?

Some research has suggested that drinking coffee may protect against cardiovascular disease, type 2 diabetes, Parkinson's disease, several cancers, liver cirrhosis, depression and Alzheimer's disease, according to Dr. van Dam.

Coffee may have potential health benefits, but more research needs to be done.

When studying the effects of coffee, the focus is not just on the caffeine in the brew. Coffee contains more than 1,000 compounds that can impact your health.

There is another health issue that doesn't receive much publicity. How you brew your coffee has an effect upon LDL cholesterol, also known as the bad cholesterol.

Coffee contains substances that raise LDL levels in your body. Brewing coffee with a paper filter removes these substances. Other methods of coffee preparation, such as the French press, espresso or simple boiling, put the substances in your cup. Single-serving coffee pods contain filters.

An inspiring dolphin's tale

I am drawn to dolphins as much as I am drawn to sunlight. I think they are smart, amazing creatures.

A recent Internet story tells us dolphins are also loving and caring.

I was moved by the story to the point where it made me think about my own actions. I think it's important enough to share the story with readers, so here it is, just as it appeared on Yahoo.

Members of the Cetacean Research Institute in Ulsan, South Korea, were surveying cetaceans in the Sea of Japan when they encountered a pod of dolphins.

A female dolphin was clearly hurting, wriggling, and tipping from side to side, and sometimes turning upside-down, and its pectoral flippers appeared paralyzed, according to New Scientist.

The other dolphins crowded around it, often diving beneath it and supporting it from below. After about 30 minutes, the dolphins formed into an impromptu raft: they swam side by side with the injured female on their backs. By keeping the injured female above water, they may have helped it to breathe, avoiding drowning.

After another few minutes some of the helper dolphins left. The injured dolphin soon dropped into a vertical position. The remaining helpers appeared to try and prop it up, possibly to keep its head above the surface, but it soon stopped breathing, say the researchers.

Five dolphins stayed with it and continued touching its body, until it sank out of sight.

"It does look like quite a sophisticated way of keeping the companion up in the water," says Karen McComb at the University of Sussex in Brighton, U.K. Such helping behaviors are only seen in intelligent, long-lived social animals. In most species, injured animals are quickly left behind.

That touching tale made me ponder this question: How many of the hurting have I left behind?

We all like to think we are always there for people. It's not true. Not always. My friend Wanda lost her husband three months ago. I loved Tom and still care deeply about Wanda. I promised I would call her and we would often get together.

I did it once. Once in three months.

She doesn't live in the same town I do and I have to cut a full day out of my schedule to see her. Between doing newspaper interviews, writing, going to medical appointments and keeping physically active, it's hard to carve a full day to be away. That's my excuse. But it's only an excuse.

In truth, if Wanda were a hurting dolphin, I would be like the dolphins that swam away, letting it drown.

But you might say, the dolphin was going to drown anyway. True. But the car-

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

ing dolphins that stayed with it gave comfort to the sick dolphin until the very end.

That's a very big thing to do.

I remember when my late husband Andy first suffered two strokes and two cancer operations, he worked so hard to improve. It was a happy day for him, after long months of rehab, when he could drive to his best friend's house then walk slowly with a quad cane to his friend's door. He anticipated how happy his good buddy would be to see his progress.

But the man's wife came to the door and wouldn't let Andy in. She said it would be best if my husband went home without seeing his friend. Her husband, she said, would be "too upset" to see Andy's frail condition.

Andy didn't tell me about that incident for almost a year. He said it was too painful for him to admit. And I know it caused him to lose hope that he could recapture a normal life. That was his longtime friend and he thought they had a strong bond.

Back to the dolphin analogy. I guess his good friend and his wife would be like the dolphins that swam away. Maybe it was "too painful" for them to see death coming.

When Tom was dying, my husband and I were there for him. We could do nothing to help him but we held his hand and told him we loved him. His wife said he was comforted by knowing he had caring friends and by knowing he touched lives in a positive way.

We were like the caring dolphins in staying with Tom as he neared death. But we are not following through by visiting his lonely wife.

Because of the newspaper interviews I do, I am privileged to talk with people from all walks of life and even more privileged that they share their life with me.

So many widows tell me the same story: They are abandoned after their husbands die, even by so-called good friends they thought would be there for them.

"This is a couple's world," said one woman. "When I was no longer a couple, my friends wanted nothing to do with me. So much for caring."

Maybe you're like me. Maybe you have so many good intentions. But you don't turn those good intentions into deeds.

The story about those dolphins resonated with me. It made me think about all the good intentions I have.

I want to be like the caring dolphins that didn't abandon one of their own. What about you?

What kind of dolphin are you?

Have you swam away from a hurting friend?

Or, do you help form a raft of caring?

Soderbergh's final 'Effects'?

"Side Effects" is a good crime thriller with a twist that you probably won't see coming.

Jude Law plays Dr. Jonathan Banks, a psychiatrist who is paid as a consultant for a pharmaceutical company that is doing trials with a new drug.

One of his clients, Emily (Rooney Mara), is institutionalized after she negotiates an NGRI plea (Not Guilty For Reasons of Insanity) plea over the death of her husband Martin (Channing Tatum).

Law consults with Dr. Siebert (Catherine Zeta-Jones), Emily's previous psychiatrist, who may or may not be withholding information from him.

Emily's case jeopardizes Martin's marriage with Kayla (Mamie Gummer).

The screenplay in this psychological thriller emphasizes the side effects, hence the movie's title, of pharmaceutical drugs. However, there is a lot more here than what is on the label.

Steven Soderbergh directs in a workmanlike fashion. Soderbergh ("Magic Mike," "Contagion," "Haywire," "Ocean's Eleven, Twelve, Thirteen," "Traffic," "Erin Brockovich," "Sex, Lies, and Videotape") uses a bland palette of blues and browns, often filming major scenes with the main characters' faces in shadows, as if to imply there are secrets lurking inside.

The screenplay by Scott Z Burns ("The Bourne Ultimatum," "Contagion") has just enough medical jargon to make it convincing and not too much to make it confusing.

There are also some interesting psychology references, such as that to William Styron's "Darkness Visible," whereby depression, it's said, "rolls in like a poisonous fog bank."

There's also some valuable behavioral-health tips: "Past behavior is the best prediction of future behavior."

"Side Effects" has the sense of "Fatal Attraction" meets "Girl, Interrupted." And late in the movie, just when you think the plot line is going one way, it veers in another direction.

Jude Law ("Anna Karenina," "Sherlock Holmes," "Contagion") plays a very somber doctor in a performance that anchors the film. Law communicates well the unraveling of the world of the psychiatrist he plays.

Rooney Mara ("The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo") is a strong and compelling presence as the young wife who seems to have an ever-increasing number of psychological problems. While she has a slight screen presence, not unlike a young Winona Ryder, she is forceful.

Catherine Zeta-Jones ("Ocean's Twelve," "The Legend of Zorro," "Chicago") seems to have enormous fun in what is a scene-chewing role.

Channing Tatum ("Magic Mike," "21 Jump Street," "The Vow," "Haywire," "Dear John") has such a minor role that it's almost as if it's a cameo.

"Side Effects" will have one effect on you. It won't bore you. And it may make you read more carefully the label on that bottle of prescription medicine.

Soderbergh can be depended on for delivering an interesting film. However, even for him, there were side effects to "Side Effects."

Soderbergh claims "Side Effects" will be the last feature film he will direct. I left is doubtful.

A golden year for film and Oscar picks

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
Focus Editor

The year 2012 in cinema will be remembered as one of the best ever.

Many of the Oscar-nominees pictures garnered critical and popular acclaim. Look for Oscar to spread around the gold.

Here are domestic box-office grosses, as of Feb. 17, of the Oscar picture nominees:

"Amour" - $3.9 million, four Oscar nominations

"Argo" - $126.8 million, seven Oscar nominations

"Beasts of the Southern Wild" - $12 million, four Oscar nominations

"Django Unchained" - $156.9 million, five Oscar nominations

"Les Misérables" - $145.2 million, eight Oscar nominations

"Life of Pi" - $110.8 million, 11 Oscar nominations

"Lincoln" - $176.2 million, 12 Oscar nominations

"Silver Linings Playbook" - $98.4 million, eight Oscar nominations

"Zero Dark Thirty" - $88 million, five Oscar nominations

The picture category is filled with films of remarkable storytelling creativity, directorial craftsmanship, technical achievement and acting prowess.

In this crowded field, my choice is: "Argo," which has been consistently winning awards: Golden Globes for drama and director Ben Affleck, Screen Actors Guild Award (cast), Writers Guild of America Award (adapted screenplay), Producers Guild of America Award, American Film Institute (Movie of the Year) Broadcast Film Critics Association Award and a BAFTA (British equivalent to the Academy Award).

"Argo" was tension-filled, sometimes humorous and always entertaining. It is too bad that in Affleck's year he was slighted by not being nominated in the Oscar director category

Picture: "Argo"

Director Ang Lee's "Life of Pi"

Michael Haneke directed one one of this year's most excruciatingly painful films, "Amour." Benh Zeitlin made one of the most intense cinema experiences, "Beasts of the Southern Wild." Steven Spielberg's "Lincoln" brought history to life as few films have. David O. Russell's "Silver Linings Playbook" was a slice of neurotic charm playing for comedy and understanding. Ang Lee's "Life of Pi" was otherworldly.

Actor: Daniel Day-Lewis, "Lincoln"

In any other year, it might be Bradley Cooper, fine in "Silver Linings Playbook"; Hugh Jackman, robust "Les Misérables"; Joaquin Phoenix, wacky in "The Master"; Denzel Washington, laser-like in "Flight." But in any year when Daniel Day-Lewis has a role and such a role as in "Lincoln" where he embodied President Abraham Lincoln, then the Oscar is his.

Actress: Jennifer Lawrence, "Silver Linings Playbook"

A remarkable field: Jessica Chastain was riveting in "Zero Dark Thirty"; Emmanuelle Riva danced with death in "Amour." Quvenzhané Wallis was remarkable in "Beasts of the Southern Wild." Naomi Watts achieved "The Impossible." Jennifer Lawrence was the page-turner in "Silver Linings Playbook"

Supporting Actor: Tommy Lee Jones, "Lincoln"

Good performances all: Alan Arkin, hilarious in "Argo"; Robert De Niro, back in form in "Silver Linings Playbook"; Philip Seymour Hoffman, scintillating in "The Master"; Christoph Waltz, magnificent in "Django Unchained." Tommy Lee Jones, in "Lincoln," provided a crusty, cantankerous and sometimes comedic balance, a yin to Daniel Day-Lewis's yang.

Supporting Actress: Anne Hathaway, "Les Misérables"

Amy Adams was memorable in "The Master." Sally Field was extraordinary in "Lincoln." Helen Hunt was believable in "The Sessions." Jacki Weaver was cute in "Silver Linings Playbook." Anne Hathaway's performance made "Les Misérables" sing.

Animated Feature: "Brave"

"Frankenweenie" was odd. "ParaNorman" was entertaining. "The Pirates! Band of Misfits" was predictable. "Wreck-It Ralph" was arcade redux. "Brave" soared on many levels.

Artist's rendering of new location for Mayfair, May 24 -26, Agri-Plex area, Allentown Fairgrounds, Allentown.

Mayfair goes to higher ground

Mayfair Festival of the Arts, one of the Lehigh Valley's longest-running and largest annual events, is moving this year from Cedar Beach Park, Hamilton Boulevard and Ott Street, Allentown, to the Lehigh County Agricultural Society Allentown Fairgrounds, 17th and Chew streets, Allentown.

"This new location gives Mayfair Festival of the Arts options it has never had," said Arlene Daily, Executive Director of Mayfair, Inc. "In addition to what we offer outdoors, we are adding climate-controlled indoor space and free onsite parking."

Mayfair Festival's location at Cedar Beach Park lacked the indoor space to exhibit many art forms which can't stand up to the elements, such as heat, humidity, and wind. Relocating the "Mayfair Village" from the park to the grounds and exhibit halls on the western end of the Allentown Fairgrounds will provide outdoor and indoor spaces for artists, drawing a greater number and variety of visual artists to Mayfair Festival.

The new location will also offer stages both outdoors and indoors, allowing for a broader range of performing arts. "Some forms of staged art are difficult to hear outdoors," said Daily. "Theater, comedy, poetry and other performing arts will now be more enjoyable at Mayfair because we'll have an indoor stage."

The comfort of festival patrons is also a major reason Mayfair is making this move. "A location that offered our patrons no option to escape rain, mud, heat, cold, or humidity, with practically no on-site parking, hasn't allowed us to create the kind of quality event that we want for our community," Daily said.

"The exhibit halls on the Fairgrounds provide climate-controlled interiors so our patrons will be comfortable, no matter what the weather. Plus, our agreement with the Agricultural Society includes using the infield for parking. Free parking will be just steps away from the Mayfair Festival entrance."

"This move propels Mayfair Festival of the Arts strongly in the direction we initiated last year," said Mike Hill, President of Mayfair's Board of Directors. "The Board's priority is to increase the quality, quantity and diversity of the artists in our Artist Market. Offering indoor space for those artists is a major step in making that happen. Better accommodations for our patrons is yet another major improvement."

Much of what people loved about Mayfair Festival of the Arts will not change.

Patrons will still be able to enjoy getting outside in the spring, strolling past vendors, enjoying festival food, and listening to music. KidSpace will still offer hands-on, educational children's art projects and fun kids' performances.

The Mayfair Festival of the Arts 2013 schedule is: 10 a.m. - 9:30 p.m. May 24, 25, 26 and 10 a.m. - 7 p.m. May 27.

A no-cost school field trip will again be offered May 24. Schools must register in advance and receive field trip tickets. Regular admission will be charged to patrons who don't have the school field trip ticket.

Mayfair partners for the 2013 Festival to date are: The Children's Hospital at Lehigh Valley Health Network, People First Federal Credit Union, PPL Corp., Service Electric Cable TV & Communications, Crayola, Wal-Mart, Alvin H. Butz, The Century Fund, The Rider Pool Foundation, Pennsylvania Council on the Arts and Lehigh County.

Art Museum director departs

Allentown Art Museum of the Lehigh Valley Priscilla Payne Hurd President and Chief Executive Officer J. Brooks Joyner will leave the museum effective Feb. 28 to pursue other opportunities.

A committee has been formed to launch a nationwide search to identify Joyner's successor. The board of trustees has asked the museum's Director of Development & Marketing, Elsbeth Haymon, and Director of Administration, Don Gunn, to serve as interim co-directors.

Joyner was appointed by the museum board of trustees in March 2010 to coordinate the museum's $15.4-million expansion and renovation project.

The expansion began in May 2010. The museum reopened Oct. 16, 2011, adding 10,000 square feet, creating storage space, new galleries and an expanded store and cafe.

"The museum, having recently celebrated its 75th anniversary, was fortunate to have had Brooks as the president to successfully re-open and position the museum for the next 75 years," said Dolores Laputka, board of trustees chair.

Joyner helped promote the successful exhibitions, "Shared Treasure: The Legacy of Samuel H. Kress," the blockbuster photography exhibit "Who Shot Rock & Roll," and "Franz Kline: Coal & Steel." He was instrumental in bringing to the museum the fantasy-art exhibition "At the Edge" in summer 2012 and in attracting the annual fantasy-art symposium IlluXCon to the museum for this fall.

"I came out of retirement to take on the challenge of guiding the Allentown Art Museum through its renovation and refurbishment and into a period of renewed growth," said Joyner. "With the expansion completed on time and very close to budget, and with a strong exhibition schedule in place for the next few years, I can finally step back from the hectic pace."

Joyner came to the Allentown Art Museum from the Joslyn Art Museum, Omaha, Neb., where he was director 2001 - '09.

Christians mark the first day of Lent

Zion Lehigh Lutheran Church holds an Ash Wednesday communion service Feb. 13, marking the beginning of the season of Lent. The ashes are made from the palms used in the Palm Sunday celebration of the previous year. They are christened with Holy Water and are scented by exposure to incense. The ashes symbolize penance and contrition. The guest pastor was Rev. MaryAnn Hamm.

4. The "Borough of Catasauqua Table of Permitted Uses by District, Primarily Nonresidential Districts" at Section 280 is amended to provide for a planned multi-family residential community as a permitted use in the TC, INS 1 and INS 2 Zoning Districts.

Section 3 establishes the effective date as following enactment by Council and Mayoral approval. Section 4 repeats all other ordinances in conflict to the extent of any such conflict, and Section 5 is a savings clause which preserves the balance of the proposed Ordinance if a part thereof is deemed invalid.

PUBLIC NOTICE
ZONING HEARING BOARD OF BETHLEHEM
TOWNSHIP, NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA
FEBRUARY 27, 2013

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE FOLLOWING APPELLANTS HAVE FILED AN APPEAL FOR A PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE ZONING HEARING BOARD OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BETHLEHEM, A HEARING TO BE HELD AT 6:30 PM ON WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 2013 AT THE TOWNSHIP MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 4225 EASTON AVENUE, BETHLEHEM, PA 18020. THE MEETING, AMONG OTHER ISSUES, CONCERNS THE FOLLOWING ZONING APPEALS:

Appeal # 01-2013: Robert B. and Mary Jane Lutton, 3210 Applewood Court, Bethlehem, PA request a dimensional variance from Section 275-49E of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for permission to encroach upon the required front yard setback with a 6 foot high vinyl privacy fence along two street frontages. This is a corner lot property and as such Zoning Code requires a minimum front yard setback of 25 feet for both principle and accessory structures. The applicant proposes a setback of 3 feet for a 34 foot length of fence along Washington Street and a setback of 10 feet for several fence sections along Easton Avenue. Therefore, variances of 22 feet and 15 feet respectively, are being sought. In addition, permission from Section 275-171B(3) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, is sought to encroach upon the minimum required front yard setback along Washington Street and Easton Avenue. The property is located within the Medium Density Residential Zoning District with a Neighborhood Enhancement Overlay District (MDR / NEOD). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number M7SW2 14 10 0205.

Appeal # 02-2013: Moravian Academy, 4313 Green Pond Road, Bethlehem, PA and John Weber, CFO and Business Manager request two dimensional variances from Section 275-162B(1) of the Bethlehem Township Codified Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for permission to place signage for identification of Moravian Academy's newly constructed Athletic and Wellness Center. Zoning Code allows one wall sign not to exceed 10% of the total area of the building face on which it is visible or 32 square feet, whichever is less, and the sign is only permitted on the front wall of the structure. The applicant proposes a 420 square foot sign. The applicant proposes to place the sign on the rear of the structure. Therefore, a variance of 388 square feet is being sought, as well as the ability to place the sign at the building face at the rear. The property is located within the Rural Residential Zoning District with an Institutional Overlay (MDR / INO). The property maintains Northampton County Tax Parcel Identification number L7 14 1 0205.

All interested parties are invited to attend and be heard.
