NoCo Council approves swaption terms

Bond contract increased by $2M

By CAROL SMITH
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Finding themselves between the proverbial rock and a hard place, Northampton County Council members took back their earlier decision to write a $25 million check from the county's rainy day fund to terminate its bond contract with Bank of America.

Council members at their June 21 meeting learned that the cost of ending the swaption agreement had increased by another $2 million, and it was likely to continue to increase by the July termination deadline.

County Executive John Stoffa said he knew council would not approve the additional funds needed to end the county's bond swaption agreement. So, council searched for a new plan. At the meeting, members discussed three alternatives: one new and two old resolutions.

By a vote of 7-2, council approved ending the swaption with a new financing plan. The plan introduced by Councilman Scott Parsons calls for writing a check out of the rainy day fund for $18 million and then financing the remaining $9 million by issuing taxable bonds.

While this funding plan received the majority of votes, Councilmen Lamont McClure and Tom See NoCo on Page A3

ALLENTOWN No hockey for 2012-13 season

By BERNIE O'HARE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Allentown will see no hockey games in the 2012-13 season. According to The Glen Falls, N.Y. Post-Star, six home games have been scheduled thus far and they will all be played in Glens Falls, starting Oct. 13.

Allentown hopes to fund the arena where the team would play and other projects, at least in part, with earned income tax that would otherwise be directed to surrounding municipalities. But 19 municipalities and one school district have challenged this funding mechanism in Commonwealth Court, arguing it is the result of a special law that only applies to the Queen City.

Preliminary arguments in that litigation, spearheaded by Bethlehem and Hanover townships, are scheduled for September.

SUMMER ARRIVES

Despite sweltering temperatures in the mid 90s on the first two days of summer, last Wednesday and Thursday, some Bethlehem area residents found ways to enjoy the outdoors. ABOVE: Splashing in a backyard pool brings relief from the oppressive heat on the first full day of summer for Staci and Joel Scheetz, who enjoy the cool water under the watchful eye of their grandmother, Wanda Scheetz, at their Hanover Township home.

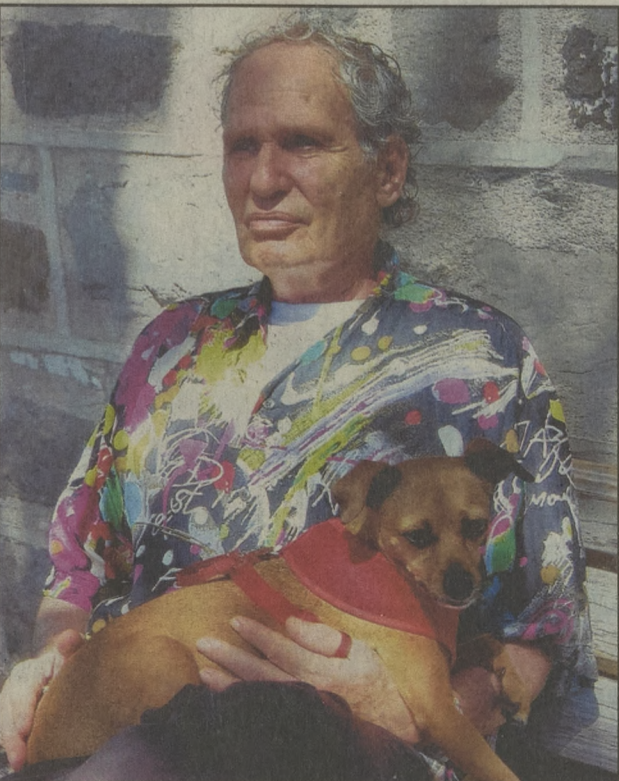

Liberty HS Boys Volleyball Team off-season training begins for Justin Pietkiewicz and Daniel Shuck despite the heat. Teammates Johnson Hypolite, red shorts, and assistant coach Angelo Fattore, LHS graduate 2011, position themselves in the practice game at Lafayette Park in Bethlehem.

On the first day of summer, soaring temperatures in the mid-90s encourage Bethlehem native Bill Repsher to water his flowers on the front steps of his home on Washington Avenue. "It needs it," said the retired USPS employee after watering the plant and hosing down the rest of his yard.

Main Street merchant Hirsch Banner takes a break in the shade with his dog Tinkerbelle on a bench in downtown Bethlehem outside the historic Sun Inn Thursday afternoon, the second day of summer. Banner operates Wears and Wares, a women's clothing store at 554 Main St.

JULY 4TH

Eye docs ask for holiday safety

By NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzemi@ntonline.com

Reminding residents to have a safe Fourth of July, the Pennsylvania Academy of Ophthalmology in a recent press release asked us all to keep our eyes free from injury and offered a number of safety tips.

Leave fireworks to the professionals, said Dr. Kenneth Cheng. "Too many Fourth of July celebrations are ruined because a child has to be rushed to the emergency room after a fireworks accident. Potentially blinding injuries can be avoided if families attend a professional public fireworks display instead of putting on a home fireworks display."

Children are the most common victims of fireworks accidents, with those 15 years old or younger accounting for half of all fireworks eye injuries in the United States. For children under the age of five, seemingly innocent sparklers account for one-third of all fireworks injuries. Sparklers can burn at nearly 2,000

Bethlehem Mayor John Callahan, chair of the HBP board of trustees Bruce Palmer, State Sen. Lisa Boscola, HBP executive director Charlene Donchez Mowers, Anthony Scarcia, president of the project contractor Allied Building Corporation, chair of the Kemerer Museum board of directors Barbara Hollenbach, and consulting engineer Charlie Martin are ready to turn the first shovelsful of earth at the groundbreaking.

The Kemerer Museum will expand at the rear by adding a 5,000-square-foot addition to house and display more than 12,000 artifacts.

Kemerer $2.5M expansion begins

By DANA GRUBB
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Public officials, members of the Historic Bethlehem Partnership and Kemerer Museum supporters gathered June 8 for a ceremonial groundbreaking to begin construction on a two-story 5,000 square foot collections resource center at the rear of the museum. Charlene Donchez Mowers, president of HBP, told attendees the project had been in planning for seven years and that the state-of-the-art vaults would provide a temperature and humidity controlled environment for more than 12,000 objects, among which will be the first time exhibit of the 5,000-piece E.J. Prime dollhouse and toy collection. State Sen. Lisa Boscola, who had been instrumental in obtaining a $3 million Redevelopment Capital Assistance Program grant for this and other Historic Bethlehem Partnership projects, said that RCAP dollars do give a return when investing in projects like the Kemerer Museum expansion. "You can only tell the story of history through projects like this," Boscola said. Barbara Hollenbach, chair of the Kemerer Museum board of directors, said she hoped the $2.5 million expansion would spur additional restoration of the exterior of the museum's north wing. Funding for the project has come from the Seeking Excellence Campaign which includes many private donations and a portion of the RCAP funding from the state. The collections resource center will be completed in spring 2013.

Pennsylvania Sen. Lisa Boscola played an important role in obtaining state funding to help complete the project. The collection's resource center addition will be built in the courtyard location in which Boscola spoke.

11 Things You Need to Know to Pass a Home Inspection

LEHIGH & NORTHAMPTON COUNTIES

According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale.

Whether you own an old home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 11 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home sale or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether.

In most cases, you can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for. And knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help home sellers deal with this issue before their home is listed, a free report entitled, "11 Things You Need to Know to Pass a Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved.

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your free copy of this report, call 1-800-610-9855 and enter ID #1011. You can call anytime, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Call NOW to learn about how to ensure a home inspection doesn't cost you the sale of your home.

'Birth' day celebration July 1

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church and Salem Lutheran Church, both of Bethlehem, have agreed by vote of both congregations in November 2011 to work together for the sake of mission and ministry. The Holy Trinity/Salem Lutheran Parish Charge will be born July 1.

This partnership will enable both congregations to share program resources and discover ways to do mission together. This arrangement will also allow the congregations to share the financial burdens of maintaining vital ministry in Bethlehem and beyond.

At this time both Holy Trinity and Salem will keep their current building with the office for the parish located at Holy Trinity, 514 Third Ave. Pastor Lori Kochanski will serve as interim pastor for the parish until it is time to call a pastor to serve the charge.

The staff also includes a director of music ministry, a bell choir director, a Sunday Church School coordinator, parish treasurer and a parish secretary.

The charge is born after many years of work and conversation about how to maintain vital ministry

Local Parish Council members Jean Theman of Salem Lutheran Church and Bob Hannabery of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church prepare for a new beginning at the Center City's Lutheran churches. Sunday marks the first time the two parishes will operate under a single pastor and staff. This "pastoral charge" also includes members of Grace Church, which recently closed.

in a changing time. The work has led to a charge that can be better understood as a marriage rather than a merger.

Like any marriage the union has not been entered into lightly. There are still many things to discover about the work that will be done together.

"Along the way, we will be learning about how to best use our gifts of resources, both people resources and financial ones, to serve God," Pastor Kochanski says.

The birth will be noted by festive worship on July 1 at the 11 a.m. worship service.

"We will share in the communion meal and be reminded of the strength that with God anything is possible," Kochanski says. At the picnic following worship the congregation will celebrate new birth, recognizing all of the work, commitment and grief that have brought the two congregations this far in faith. More on Trinity Lutheran Church in This Week in Bethlehem History on page A9.

Dietrich disagreed on the grounds that the new plan did not adequately show the total cost to the county. McClure pressed Parsons and the county's financial adviser, Bob Fuller of Capital Markets Management, L.L.C., to show him the cost estimates to the county that would accompany this new financing plan.

Fuller said his best estimate would be under $13 million or about $850,000 a year over the bond's timeframe between 2012 and 2030. Currently, fixed rate interest is at 3 percent. By terminating the swaption agreement, the county would not incur other costs and fees that staying in the swaption would include.

If the county allowed the terms of the bond agreement to be activated, it would be paying 4.9 percent interest on the county's 2001 bond issue, currently at about $115 million.

McClure favored and presented for consideration two earlier funding plans that had failed to win council's approval. McClure's resolutions use a mix of fixed rate bonds and variable rate bonds to extend the swaption and that would allow the county more flexibility with its funds and better financing options in the future. McClure opposed any bond financing plan that did not include a variable interest rate. As interest rates increase, the value of the bond decreases.

Several council members were opposed to keeping alive the swaption agreement with Bank of America. The best financial advice on these predatory agreements has been to end the agreement and try to minimize the loss to the debtor.

In supporting a plan to end the county's bond agreement with BAC, Parsons said "$18 million is something we could live with and the county's debt ceiling would not go up." In addition to keeping the debt ceiling flat, a fixed rate plan on taxable bonds would eliminate the risk of a variable rate plan to the debt ceiling, said Parsons.

Councilman Bruce Gilbert said he favored the new financing plan because it would allow $7 million of the $25 million to remain in the county's general fund budget.

After the meeting, Stoffa was relieved to be able to make the call to BAC to terminate the swaption under the new financing plan. "We'll never make everybody happy," said Stoffa of council's decision.

Stoffa said that he had tried with weeks of phone calls to negotiate a reduction in the cost of ending the swaption with BAC, but the best he had accomplished was $600,000 off the cost, which brought it to $27.275 million.

"We have to be realistic," Stoffa said, in realizing that council would never agree to an additional $2 million to the total cost.

Council's next regular meeting is at 6:30 p.m., July 5 on the third floor of Northampton County Courthouse at 669 Washington St., Easton.

degrees Fahrenheit, which is hot enough to cause a third-degree burn.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, more than 9,000 fireworks-related injuries happen each year. Of these, nearly half are head-related injuries, with nearly 30 percent of these injuries to the eyes. One-fourth of fireworks eye injuries result in permanent vision loss or blindness.

"Among the most serious injuries are direct trauma to the eye from bottle rockets," according to Cheng. The rockets fly erratically, often injuring bystanders. Injuries from bottle rockets can include eyelid lacerations, corneal abrasions, traumatic cataract, retinal detachment, optic nerve damage, rupture of the eyeball, eye muscle damage and complete blindness.

For a safe and healthy Independence Day celebration, the PAO urges observance of the following tips:

Never let children play with fireworks of any type. View fireworks from a safe distance: at least 500 feet away, or up to a quarter of a mile for best viewing.

Respect safety barriers set up to allow pyrotechnicians to do their jobs safely.

Leave the lighting of fireworks to trained professionals.

Follow directives

given by event ushers or public safety personnel.

If you find unexploded fireworks remains, do not touch them. Immediately contact your local fire or police departments.

If you get an eye injury from fireworks, seek medical help immediately.

Participants either donated items to the Mill for sale or paid a $10 fee to set up shop and sell on their own, according to Fox at the Mill Environmental Center executive director Karen Dolan, who said proceeds would benefit environmental action and education. ABOVE: Riley Aidala bargains with Karen Dolan to purchase the book "Our Powerful Planet" as his mother Beth watches. Art Scott and wife Sue Kubik get a standing ovation as they enter Lipkin Theatre.

NCC honors retiring leaders

By PAT KESLING

Special to the Bethlehem Press

The farewell party for Dr. Arthur Scott, and his wife, Susan Kubik, was filled with joy, love for students, faculty and community mixed with professionalism, just like their nearly four decades at the college.

Scott, president of Northampton Community College, and Kubik, vice president of Institutional Advancement and executive director of the NCC Foundation, are both retiring.

This article will refer to them as "Art and Sue" because that is what most people, including many students, at NCC have called them.

For 500 attendees, surprises of the night were special gifts that brought tears to the eyes of these overwhelmingly popular leaders, called "two giants in education" by State Sen. Lisa Boscola.

First, the college has renamed the athletic facility, the Spartan Center, the Arthur L. Scott Spartan Center. It is the hub of activity on the campus, and one Art, always an athlete, oversaw creation with three gyms, a fitness center, lockers, training facilities and athletic offices.

The citation said this hands-on, usually smiling leader was a president who "knew the importance of team effort, played hard and valued fairness, one who never took his eye off the goal of helping students succeed in the classroom, in community service, on athletic fields and in their careers in life."

Next, Sue was honored with the naming of the Susan K. Kubik Tribute Garden, which she helped to create two years ago on two acres on the main campus. The tribute says, "Her inspired and ambitious vision have combined with unparalleled fundraising efforts and brought untold numbers of dreams to life." She was credited with making a national name in college fundraising.

The college had also commissioned a portrait of Art. It portrays him in his president's robes and will be displayed with portraits of the other two presidents in a special place. He has served in many roles in the last 37 years at NCC, the final nine as the third NCC president.

He says he is most proud of the creation of the Spartan Center, the establishment of the Fowler Family Center on the Southside of Bethlehem and the creation of NCC's Monroe Campus. A special gift also brought tears to the couple. Dear to their hearts is the foundation which, among other things, helps students with financial aid. It was announced that $40,000 will be given to the fund in their names. Sue is credited with creating the sixth largest community college foundation in the country. Over four decades, it has raised $60 million.

Other gifts included what donors knew would be meaningful to Art and Sue. They were a vacation to Pebble Beach, Calif.; a Martin Guitar, signed by all members of the NCC Foundation; two miniature billboards with pictures of Art and Sue, similar to the ones hanging all over the Lehigh Valley promoting the college; and two commissioned sculptures.

This was no regular retirement party. It was a light and happy evening, with lots of smiling, laughing, hugging and recollections, which appears to be what Art and Sue, faculty and students call "The Northampton Way."

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church

In 1870, when a bridge was erected at Broad Street across the Monocacy Creek, West Bethlehem began to grow. Industry, homes, schools, hotels and churches were rapidly constructed by the end of the 19th century. The Lutherans living in West Bethlehem desired their own church. As with many other local churches, it began as a Sunday school. On July 17, 1887, the first class was held at the Fairview School (built in 1884) and directed by George H. Young.

Karen M. Samuels
Columnist

The first services of the church were held in the fall of 1886 and the spring of 1887, in the Moravian Chapel (built 1884) at the corner of Prospect and Third avenues. The church was officially organized on July 29, 1887 under the name "Holy Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church." The Rev. William Daniel Casper Keiter of Allentown was selected as the first pastor. Keiter was 24 years old and newly ordained by the Philadelphia Seminary. He served as pastor until Nov. 9, 1909, when he resigned to become secretary of the board of trustees of Muhlenberg College.

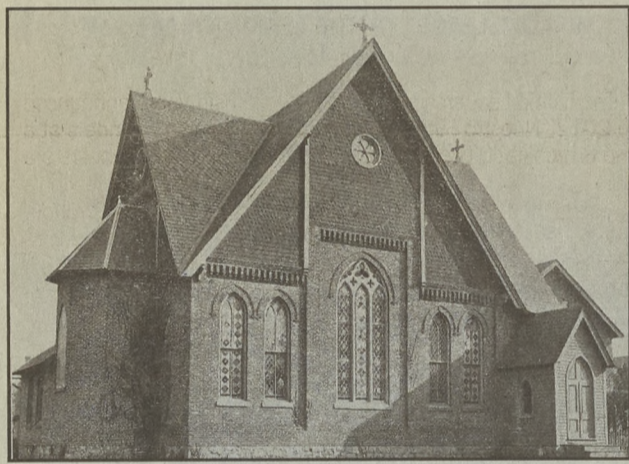

The church organization bought a lot on Third Avenue from George Applegate for $1,000. The laying of a marble cornerstone took place on Oct. 30, 1887. The following items were placed in the cornerstone; constitution of Lutheran church, English hymn book, English Bible, Luther's Small Catechism, copies of the Herald and Zeitschrift, der Jungen Freund, the Allentown Chronicle, the Bethlehem Daily Times, the Star, names of the members of the church and Sunday school and several coins dated 1887.

The church was completed on March 25, 1888, Palm Sunday. It was a one-story gothic style brick building, 53 by 38 feet. A wing in the rear measured 33 by 20 feet. The interior was finished with yellow pine and stained glass windows. The cost of the building was $7,000. Additions were added in 1892; however, the membership soon outgrew the building. Services in German were discontinued in 1901. In 1904 a two manual pipe organ, built by Bates and Culley of Philadelphia, was installed. I.H. Bartholomew was the organist and choirmaster at the time.

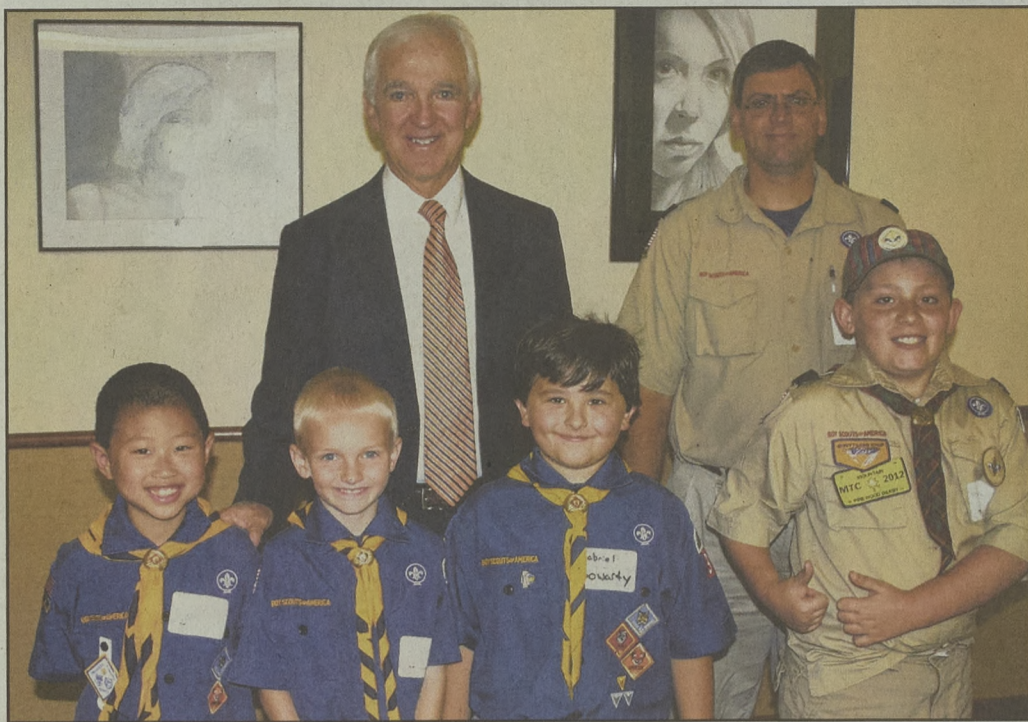

In 1915 the old church was demolished and the beautifully ornate church we know today was built on the site. The Rev. L.D. Lazarus of Reading (served 1910-1922) supervised the building of the church. After Lazarus came the Rev. K.P. Otten (1922-1932) and Benjamin Lotz (1932-1947). Lotz reported a membership of 751 in 1933.

A sermon delivered on May 12, 1912 by Lazarus, during the 25th anniversary celebration of the church, offered a quote that could inspire the members today,

"The PAST is secure. What shall be the FUTURE? It is useless for us to veil our faces to some real difficulties that confront us; but the way to meet them lies through courage and devotion, together with the aspiration of a clear fixed purpose, to the cause of Christ in the immediate PRESENT."

LV Red Cross honors volunteers

By ANDREW CASS
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Although it happened when she was only 4 years old, Leighton seventh grader Sierra Walck vividly remembers the fire that destroyed her family's home.

Walck told her story as part of the American Red Cross of the Greater Lehigh Valley's award celebration and annual meeting June 18 at the Banana Factory.

"I was out shopping with my aunts when everyone's cell phones started ringing, that's how I found out my house was on fire," Walck said. "We rushed to our cars so we could get home as fast as we could."

"We could not even drive to the house because the road was blocked with fire trucks. Even though we had to park all the way down the street, you could still see the flames."

"When they finally got the fire out, the house was totaled. We had lost everything. We only had the clothing we were wearing."

Walck said the support that she and her family received from the Red Cross after the fire inspired her to become a student volunteer and give back to the community. The work that she and her classmates in the Leighton Area School District put in was recognized with the Exceptional Partnership Award. The school district's service included participating in blanket donations in Carbon County, soup kitchens, programs for senior citizens, the Feed a Neighbor program and Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

"I got tired just reading that list," regional Red Cross CEO John Hughes said.

Other award recipients included Joe Lennert of Bethlehem, who was the recipient of the Clara Barton Honor Award for Meritorious Volunteer Leadership. Lennert served as chairman of the board with the Red Cross of the Greater Lehigh Valley from 2009 to 2011.

Current chairman of the board Bill Coles said Lennert helped guide the chapter through tough economic times and was involved in looking at a new board structure that focused on the Red Cross's three main goals: philanthropy, mission and marketing.

Lennert and his wife Tiana also chaired the Clara Barton Society campaign in 2011, which raised more than $170,000.

"Joe personifies every aspect of a true leadership volunteer," Coles said. "His spirited influence has benefited this chapter tenfold."

The Special Citation for Volunteer service was given to John Weaver of Nazareth and the Department of Nursing at Cedar Crest College. Weaver was honored for his work with the Red Cross in the mental health field, as well as for creating and maintaining social media accounts for the chapter. The Department of Nursing was honored for volunteering at various health fairs throughout the area.

Embassy Bank and Joshi Hotels Group were also honored for their work in the community with the Good Neighbor Award.

In addition to the award ceremony, the Red Cross of the Greater Lehigh Valley also honored outgoing board members Dawn Washington, George Hlavac and Jim Dunleavy, and held nominations for new and returning board members.

Bridging cultures

Like a Phoenix rising from the ashes, a magnificent pavilion is rising along the Greenway between Taylor and Webster streets. Ten Lehigh University students participating in the "China Bridge Project" are constructing the pavilion as a result of their study and design initiative, which is intended to bridge the cultures of China and America, technical and humanistic disciplines, and history and geography by focusing on construction of a physical structure. Project co-director Professor Norman Girardot notes that its location along the Greenway also builds a bridge between Lehigh University and the community. Funding for the project comes from the Henry Luce Foundation. All wood for the project is from local sources and students have received guidance from local master timber framer Marcus Brandt. Professor Christine Ussler, also a local architect and historic consultant, explained that roof rafters, sheathing and tile roofing are all that remain to be completed by students in the fall. A formal dedication will be held upon completion of the pavilion. ABOVE: Construction on the first phase of the China Bridge Project pavilion is completed and awaits installation of a tile roof, final roof rafters and sheathing this fall. ## LEGION BASEBALL Bath among NORCO's best

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It's not a bad way for Gene Sostarecz to start his NORCO Legion gig as boss of Bath's baseball team.

Bath is off to a great start of the summer with an 11-2 mark, but one of those blemishes in their loss column was an 8-0 loss to now first-place Nazareth (10-1) on June 17, and it may be the most important result of the season.

"I think that was definitely a wake up call for these guys," said Sostarecz. "I think that showed them that they need to show up ready to play everyday. We got that loss out of the way now and hopefully we can build from it. It's a long a season."

Highlighting Bath's team are Liberty's Pat Donnelly, Pete Daland, Ed Albertson, Chase Kohn, James and Robert Bertolotti. Bethlehem Catholic's Pat Mergel and Connor Ryan are also featured, along with Liberty graduate and University of Scranton player Jimmy Sawyer.

"The one good thing we have is that we're deep with pitchers," said Sostarecz. "We have six guys that can go on any given day. Our bats are starting to come alive right now too, so I think our guys are ready to take things to the next level."

Bath has only allowed 10 runs this season and have brought home 56 through its first 10 games. Their pitching staff has tossed two one-hitters and

LWB off to slow start

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

It's been a slow start for Lehigh West Bethlehem's legion campaign, but that doesn't mean manager Rich Gaugler doesn't think his troops can't turn it around.

LWB sits at 2-4, but the competitive level is raising Gaugler's crew over recent play.

"This my first year as the coach here, so there's an adjustment period for the team and I to get on the same page," said Gaugler. "We have a small roster with only 13 players and one of our players is out for the season with an off the field injury."

Some of LWB's top players include Liberty's Nick Vigilanti and Dean Kutos. Vigilanti plays all over the field for Gaugler and is one of his top pitchers, while Kutos is relied upon as one of the team's top hitters.

Braydon Knipe and Zac Sedlar are two Bethlehem Catholic products also share the spotlight, as Knipe is the shortstop, as well as a pitcher. Sedlar is the center fielder, along with being one of the team's top hitters.

Liberty youth product, Tyler Lutseo is only 15 years-old, but Gaugler has high hopes for him.

"He's off to a great start to the season," Gau-

MCDONALD'S ALL-STAR GAME

Red blows out Gold

By PETER CAR
pcar@tnonline.com

The McDonald's All-Star Football Classic has had its share close encounters over the past 42 years of the annual summer contest, but last Thursday's battle between Red and Gold was about as lopsided as picking a Big Mac and a McRib sandwich.

The Red team, compiled of mostly Northampton County players, dominated in all facets of the game last week against their Gold counterparts during a 48-19 victory at Nazareth's Andrew Leh Stadium.

The Red squad ran up a 31-7 halftime advantage and appeared to overmatch their Lehigh, Carbon and Monroe County adversaries with size on both fronts and athleticism in nearly all the skill positions.

Pen Argyl quarterback Connor Gum led the way with a 9-of-14 passing performance for 143 yards and two touchdowns, while Liberty's Devon Jones highlighted the speed advantage the Red had over the Gold squad, as he rushed for 74 yards on three carries and a score, along with a 23-yard TD reception.

"Coach [Rob] Melosky knew what type of talent we had and he knew how to get us in the best positions for success," said Jones in reference to Red head coach Rob Melosky's plan coming into the

CARPENTER CUP SOFTBALL

Valley just short of title

By KATIE MCDONALD
kmcaldonald@tnonline.com

No one would have predicted that this year's Lehigh Valley Carpenter Cup Softball team would end its 2012 tournament run in second place, but on June 21, Lehigh Valley accepted the runner-up trophy after a 7-2 and a 4-0 loss to Suburban One/Bicentennial at FDR Park in Philadelphia.

"It was a big surprise to everyone, but our bats just weren't there," said Bethlehem Catholic's Jackie DeSarro. "It wasn't the tough pitching. People were hitting, but not at the right time."

Lehigh Valley rolled through the Carpenter Cup Softball Classic with three victories on opening day and another last Wednesday over Berks County, 4-0. But on the hottest day of the year, so far, Lehigh Valley was stopped in its tracks by the same team twice.

"We were very confident [between games]. All the girls were sitting in the dugout, trying to cool down, and we were excited about the second game, but it was the same problem. Our bats weren't there," DeSarro said.

In the first game against Suburban One/Bicentennial, Lehigh Valley scored first when Saucon Valley's Arastina Barry had a bunt, stole second base, went to third on a passed ball, and scored on a single by Cassidy Sullivan of Emmaus.

However, Suburban One/Bicentennial scored six runs in the top of the second, and Lehigh Valley scored only one in the seventh when Liberty's Mariyah Kondravy scored on a single by Nazareth's Lizzie Deutsch.

In the second game, Suburban One/Bicentennial had another big inning in the second, scoring four runs. Lehigh Valley left two runners on base in the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh innings.

Each player from the Lehigh Valley team was awarded a second-place crystal trophy at the conclusion of the tournament.

DeSarro said, "I thought the experience was great. If I was a sophomore, I'd do it all over again."

Coach John Eyer refused to allow disappointment permeate the Lehigh Valley team.

"Obviously, they did

CONNIE MACK Lehigh-Beth. battles for first

By SCOTT W. PAGEL
spagel@tntonline.com

The Lehigh-Bethlehem Connie Mack team continued to play well during a busy stretch, winning four of five to climb within a point of first.

"The team played their hearts out all week," said manager Dave Caccamo. "Thanks to a great pitching staff, we were able to compete in all of the games."

On June 16, the team started slow against North Parkland before winning 8-6. Trailing 4-2, the bats of Bobby Diaz, Sean Kelly and Paul Karoly helped things come alive. Dave Guarriello had the game-winning RBI in the top of the seventh.

Karoly and Michael Lancaster pitched through 5 2/3 innings to a tie game then Jordan Santee came in and got the win with only nine pitches in an inning and third.

On June 18 against Nazareth, Matt Leon went five innings allowing just one hit while striking out five to lead the way in a 7-2 win over Nazareth.

Caccamo put Tyler Pieper behind the plate, giving John Neupauer some time off, and Pieper played well. Alex Caccamo led the hitting going 3-for-4 with a double, scoring twice and adding an RBI. Neupauer was right behind him going 2-for-2 with two RBIs and a run. Diaz, Ian Black, Kelly, Karoly and Leon each had a hit. Carlo Perugini, Drew Appleman, Jordan Morales and Santee all played well defensively.

Lehigh rolled on June 20, taking a 10-0 game over Fullerton. Santee needed only 78 pitches and allowed just four hits. Neupauer and Santee each went 3-for-3 with a run. Sakitis and Lehman were 2-for-2 with an RBI. Diaz, Black, Kelly, and Karoly had hits.

"The game against Eastburg was our challenge this week," Caccamo said of the team's 9-3 loss. "Through five inning, we had the lead 3-2. I take the responsibility of this game as I should have made the pitching change when my mind was telling me."

Karoly had pitched a great game through five innings, despite keeping the ball up, and the defense was playing well, Caccamo said. But, the next inning, East Stroudsburg scored seven runs and put the game away.

"We had our chances throughout the game," Caccamo said. "We left bases loaded in the first, second, fourth and fifth."

Black and Kelly had two hits each and Karoly, Santee and Chase Sakitis each added a hit.

"Defensively, the mental mistakes hurt us. Offensively, we just couldn't get the timely hit we needed," Caccamo added.

The team rebounded with a 6-4 win over Palmerston. It was a pitchers' duel early on as Leon and Kuntz were engaged in a 1-1 game until the sixth when the Bombers went up 3-1.

"I told the team 'you owe your pitcher a win,'" Caccamo said. "With patience at the plate, we got the bases loaded then took advantage of the situation scoring five runs."

That gave Lehigh a 6-3 lead. Caccamo came on in the bottom of the seventh and walked the first runner, but then forced two flyouts, and finished things with a strikeout.

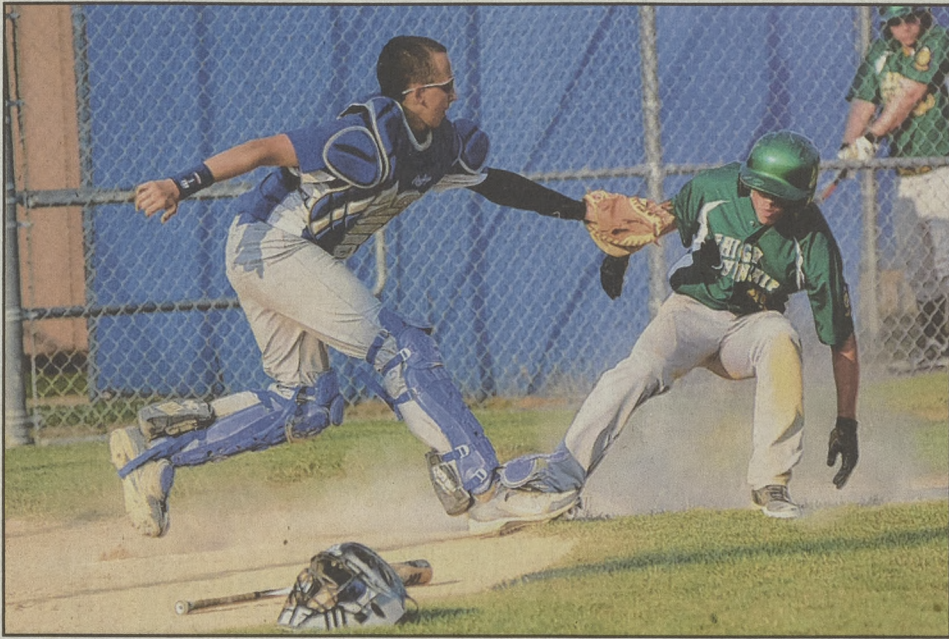

Andrew Milham was solid in left, and Sawyer came in after an injury to Diaz and played a perfect second base. Appleman went in for Caccamo playing a perfect right. Perugini came in to pinch run for Lehman and scored the tying run in the seventh.

Their most recent game with a 199 win over Moore, despite a sluggish start.

"I don't think I got the kids motivated enough to play the game," Caccamo said about the slow start, as his team fell behind 6-1 in the fourth.

Lehigh rallied and scored 13. Black got on base every time with three walks and hit by pitch, scoring each time. Pieper went 2-for-2 with two runs and two RBIs. Kelly went 2-for-3 with two RBIs and two runs scored, Karoly had a triple and a double with three RBIs, Lehman went 2-for-2 with two RBIs and two runs, Sawyer and Perugini went 1-for-1, Leon, Santee, Morales and Guarriello had hits. Caccamo ended things with a triple.

"It was a tough week, playing five games in seven days, but the players all supported each other," Caccamo said.

Lehigh-West Bethlehem among tops in Jr. Legion

By JEFF MOELLER
Special to the Press

Lehigh-West Bethlehem head coach Paul Miller is glad his team is off to a fast start this season in the Northampton County Junior Legion. The veteran coach realizes, however, challenging games for his team lie ahead.

Through Sunday's action, the Lehigh-West Bethlehem entry had a stellar 10-1 record. A lone loss to Pleasant Valley was the only blemish on their slate.

"Absolutely," stated Miller when asked if he was pleased with the fast start. "In our only loss (Pleasant Valley), we got a little sloppy and committed some untimely errors. Aside from that, our pitching has been sensational, and our defense has been spectacular. We have also been getting some steady hitting throughout the season."

"Everything has really come together for us this season. We have a lot of kids who have been playing together for years."

momentum when they will meet undefeated Lower Macungie, Parkland, and Quakertown. "We will be facing those teams over the next few weeks," Miller said. "We are off to a nice start, but we haven't faced any of the undefeated teams. Facing them will be a nice gauge of our progress. We feel we have some strong pitching, but those games will be a big test for us."

Overall, Miller sees this season in the league as a very competitive one. "There are some teams at the top and there are another group of teams who are around the .500 mark or just over it," Miller said. "There are a lot of strong teams and there is a lot of depth around these teams."

"Something will have to give and we want to be right in the middle of things. We have to keep working and it will be an interesting end to the season."

There should also be plenty of interesting challenges ahead.

Miller, who is in his first season coaching the Junior Legion team after spending six years in the Lehigh system, hopes his team can keep their limit on his talent."

One thing LWB must limit on their end is allowing runs, as they've been outsourced 51-16 on the year, with 30 of those runs coming in losses to the Wanderers and Hellertown.

Still, with the season off to an early start, Gausonship," said Sostarecz. "Hopefully we can keep playing well and get that far, but there's a lot of good teams out there and we need to be ready to play every game."

gler knows that there's plenty of baseball left in the summer.

"Our expectations are to develop into a better team and compete for seven innings every game," he said. "If we can do this, then we can think about making the playoffs."

SUMMER HOOPS

Local teams staying busy

By JOE ZEMBA
Special to the Press

Brandon Holland scored 30 points in a losing effort to Stew's Tire (LCCC). His Team Swag got edged 54-53 in Catty Summer League adult action.

Jonathan Familia gave him assistance with 17 points. Khalil Moses led LCCC with 15 points and Alan Rockel added 11.

The Nites of Bethlehem were led by Cory Baker who lit up the Sportsfest Team with 22 points. The Nites only allowed 36 points in the contest.

The Nites put together a 57-48 win over Stahley's Bar.

Daku's Auto Body from North Catty bested Casa Mia of Bethlehem 64-43. Derek Hall, from Northampton and Albright College, led all scorers with 22. He got assistance from former the 2006 Catty High District 11 champs, Matt Morton, Andrew Armellino and Josh Yoo. Andrew Kohler from Notre Dame scored 18 points.

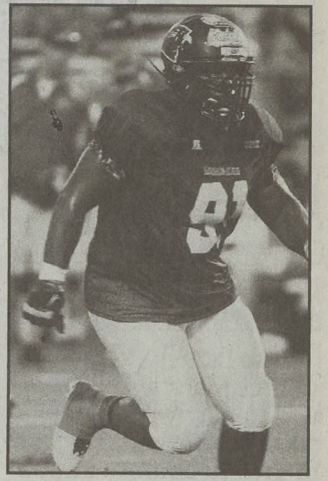

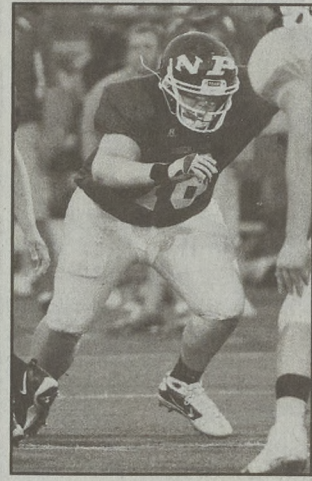

Stahley's Bar of Allentown defeated P.J. Whelihan's 54-44. Former Central Catholic Star netted 22 points for Stahley's.

Starter's Riverport got by 58-56 behind former Whitehall star Matt Greene's 22 points. Greene made two free throws to win the game for Starter's. Starter's Riverport and Daku's Auto Body engaged in a good game last Wednesday night and Starter's won by a 67-60 score. Ken Gula was the high man for Riverport with 17 points.

Liberty girls get by Dieruff

By JOE ZEMBA
Special to the Press

Liberty High Lady Canes coach Amy Yencho said it was a scary win.

Dieruff High School played right with the Lady Hurricanes before falling 41-37.

The Lady Canes were good on the high-low. The Canes didn't work the ball enough in the first half for their coaches satisfaction, though.

Tori Ruvovilis had the stroke on three-pointers for Dieruff, hitting two of her three in the first half and finishing with 12 points for the Lady Huskies.

Maggie Zerbe matched Ruvovilis' output in the first half as Liberty clung to a 20-19 lead at half.

Liberty and Dieruff were back and forth most of the second half.

The Lady Canes Spencer Lee came on strong in the second after Leh blocked a shot. She was like a house on fire doing a little bit of everything for Liberty, making both ends of a one-and-one, blocking a shot, running downcourt and scorching the net with a long three-pointer. A drive to the rack put Liberty up by five points with two minutes to play.

Kali Shumock made a steal and converted two free throws to put the Canes up seven with 1:30 to play.

After a three by Ruvovilis, four points down was the closest the Blue and Grey would come.

Shumock led Liberty with 13 points. She also made five steals and registered four rebounds. Leh pumped in 11. Zerbe added seven points and controlled the boards with eight rebounds. Amanda Pinter scored four points and added eight rebounds. Anne Golden was a steady rebounder.

The Hurricane guard play was also steady with Gabby Pastor. Fours were wild for incoming freshman Kayline West - four points, four steals, four rebounds.

Liberty's Devon Jones makes a catch across the middle at least week's game.

Things to consider before buying a kayak

By NICK HROMIAK
Special to the Press

As this is prime kayaking time, there is a new development for the sport that should interest folks who are contemplating a kayak purchase.

L.L. Bean has introduced a rigid, modular, polyethylene kayak made by Point 65N from Sweden. The kayak slips apart (Snap-Tap system) similar to children's plastic building blocks and secures inside the kayak with nylon straps. The craft measures 13 feet, 8-inches (front section measures 5.7-feet, mid section, 5.4 and stern, 4.8) is 27.6 wide and weights 77 pounds as a solo kayak. As a tandem (or beyond), each section adds 24.3 pounds to the kayaks overall weight.

The nicety of this boat is its portability and storability. It can be slipped apart and stowed in the back of an SUV or pickup truck (or, as Point 65N says, under your bed), thereby eliminating the need for high reaching roof racks. And there's no need to buy two kayaks as two can share either singularly or riding tandem for up to as many sections as you want.

The Point 65N kayak comes with a rudder, a 7.9x7.9-inch bow hatch, 17x10-inch aft hatch, a 33x18-inch cockpit, paddlelocks on either side to stow the paddle when fishing and a molded-in "fish-o-meter" to measure your catch-and-release trophy fish. It can be used in fresh or saltwater although there are limitations depending on wave height and length of the kayak. A protective skirt can also be added to the cockpit to keep dry when paddling through rough water.

One testimony on Point 65N's website comes from a party who says, "I've used my solo Tequila three times in the first week of receiving it. I'm new to kayaking and think this is a great boat. I own a 2011 Subaru Outback and it fits easily in the back with the rear seats folded. No roof rack is needed and the two pieces are less than 25 pounds each. The red color is more like tomato soup, but still very attractive. I'm 5-8 and this boat fits me perfectly. I can stretch my legs out flat and still use the last foot brace. The longest trek I've taken thus far was two hours and covered a little over five miles. Very comfortable, handled well in light chop on a large lake, and kept course in light winds. I highly recommend this boat."

To prove the crafts' modularity, L.L. Bean assembled a Guinness World Record setting Point 65N kayak that was 407.7 feet long and manned it with 100 Bean employees on June 2 at their paddling center in Freeport, Maine. The event was part of Bean's 100th anniversary celebration.

To check out a Point 65N kayak stop by L.L. Bean at the Promenade Shops off Route 309 in Center Valley. While there, ask for Steve Johnson, department manager, for a demo. It's a unique kayak and not overly expensive. Prices range from $589.20 for a solo on up to $1119.20 for a Sit-In and $959.20 for a Sit-On. Add-on pieces start at $268. Padded seats are extra.

that we would have success, but I don't think we ever thought the game would end up like this."

Liberty's Jimmy McCarthy and Stephen Font-Toomer each added rushing touchdowns on the night, along with Freedom's Eddie Elliot. It was a plethora of talent that Northampton lineman Ian Diehl enjoyed to be blocking for.

"We just had some great talent at our skill positions," said Diehl. "We worked real hard over the past two weeks at practice and it's nice to finish my senior year like this. We had a tough year at Northampton and it wasn't the type of season I'd like to have for my senior year, but this is just a great way to end my year."

Both teams were nearly identical in total yardage, as the Red had a 280 to 279 yard advantage, but their ability to capitalize with points helped them build a 24-0 lead after the first quarter.

For Whitehall's Andrew Harris, the loss didn't take away from the experience of playing in the game.

"The outcome wasn't what we wanted, but this game was really just a lot about having fun," said Harris, who was sporting a new maroon Whitehall helmet to be used this season. "It was just fun strapping it up and play football one more time. Especially to be with some of my Whitehall teammates for one last game meant a lot."

want to win, but they had such a good time meeting other girls and becoming friends with them, and when that happens, as coaches, we're doing our job," Eyer said. "It was somewhat disappointing, but like I told them, if one of you gets a call from a college coach, this makes it all worthwhile."

Board agrees on tax increase

By DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Bethlehem school district's school board passed its final $212.5 million budget June 18, which will raise the budget 4.84 percent over last year's budget.

The board, as is the normal procedure, kept the increase below the 5.92 percent point where a risky voter referendum would have been required.

Three board members, Irene Follweiler, Michele Cann and Eugene McKeon, voted against the budget. Those voting for the increase cited the need to preserve programs for the school district and "the children."

Follweiler said she was confused and appalled by the board's decision to raise taxes in this economy.

Resident Randy Toman called the budget intolerable and said, "You're going to bankrupt the citizens."

"You're failing to educate kids and you're raising the ante," said Toman. Resident Stephen Antalics suggested the school board could reduce expenses by eliminating all extracurricular activities, including sports.

"The district is not here to develop jocks to get in the NBA or the NFL," said Antalics.

Former school board member Judith Dexter applauded the board's decision to raise taxes by passing the budget.

"There is no way the board should consider cutting extracurricular activities related to positive academic performance," said Dexter. "Colleges look at extracurricular activities."

Board member Aurea Ortiz said, "We want our children to have the best within our limits."

The $212.5 million budget reflects the planned expenditures for 2012-13, but the expected income for that period will be $206.3 million. The budget will raise taxes 4.84 percent or 1.23 mills.

Moravian Academy breaks ground for wellness center

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

Students Finn Barrett (Grade 11), Katie Persin (Grade 8) and Matthew Fanning (Grade 2) join Headmaster George N. King Jr. in breaking ground May 21 for Moravian Academy's new Athletic and Wellness Center. This project is a major part of the Honoring Our Heritage, Building Our Future campaign to raise $15 million. The campaign has raised about $5.44 million. The planned facility will measure 40,000 square feet and serve both the upper and lower schools with new athletic team opportunities, and provide expanded spectator seating.

Board approves ER expansion

By BERNIE O'HARE
Special to the Bethlehem Press

At their June 18 meeting, Bethlehem Township Commissioners unanimously endorsed plans by St. Luke's Hospital to double the size of the ER facility at its Anderson campus, located off Freemansburg Avenue. At a cost of $4.5 million, it will expand from 15 to 32 treatment rooms, adding 11,000 square feet to its facility.

BETHLEHEM TOWNSHIP

Anderson Campus President Edward Nawrocki, at a May 29 meeting of township planners, said emergency services have been double what was initially projected. This expansion will enable the hospital to treat 60,000 patients per year.

St. Luke's hopes to complete its expansion by next spring.

In other business, commissioners unanimously approved a liquor license transfer for Constantino's Pizzeria & Ristorante, a new Italian restaurant to be located at 4202 William Penn Highway, near the Friendly Food Market. This eatery will operate at the site of a vacant farmers' market. Attorney George Baurkot, representing owner Thomas Raffaele, told commissioners the business will close at 9 p.m. most evenings, and has room for 36 vehicles.

Commissioners also accepted a dedication of streets inside the Townes at Highland Park, a major subdivision first proposed 10 years ago.

"I don't know of any complaints in this development," said Manager Howard Kutzler.

Scoutreach program gets boost

By DOUGLAS GRAVES
Special to the Bethlehem Press

The Scoutreach program at Union Terrace ES in Allentown got a $5,000 check from PPL's Regional Community Relations Director Melinda Stumpf recently in a brief after school ceremony in front of the school.

The money will support the Cub Scouts who are in the Scoutreach program, according to Scoutreach District Director Jimmy J. Torres from the Minsi Trails Council, headquartered in Hanover Township.

According to Torres, the Scoutreach program, formerly called Urban Scouting, is an after-school scouting outreach effort of the Minsi Trails Council that helps bring the "fun, character building and leadership development benefits of scouting to disadvantaged youth."

There are about 1,000 children in Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton involved in the Scoutreach program, according to Torres. About 40 are in the program at Union Terrace ES.

"The 40 Cub Scouts in the program can be role models for the rest of the school," said Principal David Hahn. He said it helps teach all of the students to be responsible citizens.

"This money provides opportunities for these kids to participate in the program - kids that otherwise may not be able to participate," said Stumpf.

The Minsi Trails Council plans a reception Oct. 25 in honor of Lenny Fowler, when she will receive the Whitney M. Young Jr. Service Award for her "outstanding service in the development and implementation of Scouting opportunities for youth from low-income urban and rural backgrounds."

At that reception, the council will also posthumously award the Vale La Pena Service Award to Luis A. Ramos, the former Community Relations Manager for PPL. Ramos will be honored for his "outstanding service and demonstrated involvement in the development and implementation of Scouting opportunities for Hispanic/Latino youth."

To sponsor Scoutreach events or support the program, go to www.minsitrails.com <<http://www.minsitrails.com>>, or contact Scoutreach District Director Jimmy J. Torres at jimmytorres@scouting.org or call him at 610-465-8562.

Academy offers closer look at county gov't.

By CAROL SMITH
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Northampton County residents will have the opportunity to learn what county government is all about. This fall, a first-time ever Citizens' Academy will offer 25 citizens an educational 10-week course, very similar to Bethlehem's Citizens' Academy.

The two-hour sessions, which take place from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at various county locations, will begin Wednesday, Sept. 12 and end Thursday, Nov. 15.

It's an opportunity to educate people about what goes on here and can serve to recruit members for the county's many volunteer boards, said County Executive John Stoffa at a June 21 Northampton County Council meeting.

The academy is accepting registrations now. The first 25 citizens to sign up will attend classes covering topics such as public works, emergency management, district attorney's office, sheriff's office, human services and corrections. Presenters will include appointed and elected officials.

According to the county's Web site at www.northamptoncounty.org, the academy's goal is to "foster a better relationship between county government and its constituents while providing for greater citizen participation on Northampton County's boards, commissions and authorities."

Any interested citizen can get more information or register for the academy by calling Camille Bartlett at 610-559-3182.

Council's next regular meeting is at 6:30 p.m., July 5 on the third floor of Northampton County Courthouse at 669 Washington St., Easton.

"Perfect Peace"
You can have peace within when there is turmoil all around you. The prophet Isaiah said, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee. Trust ye in the LORD for ever: for in the LORD JEHOVAH is everlasting strength" (Isaiah 26:3-4). Chaos can surround us, but when our thoughts are focused on the Lord and not on our surroundings, God will "keep us in perfect peace!" This constant focus on the Lord is evidence that we are trusting in the Lord, "because he trusteth in thee!" Isaiah encourages us to forever trust in the Lord our "everlasting strength" since God alone has the strength—the supernatural ability—to give us inner peace during surrounding havoc, or to change it!
One day Jesus went in a ship with his disciples to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. "But as they sailed he fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake; and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy. And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water: and they ceased, and there was a calm. And he said unto them, Where is your faith?" (Luke 8:23-25). What a pertinent question! When the storms of life surround us, is our faith in the Prince of Peace? Does He retain our focus in the midst of the storm? Is our "mind stayed on" the Lord?
"Perfect peace" means that in the midst of trials we will have a peace in our hearts to face them and still come out the victor by the power of God. The hymn says it well, "Like A River Glorious is God's perfect peace, Over all victorious in its bright increase; Perfect, yet it floweth fuller ever day. Perfect, yet it growth deeper all the way. Stayed upon Jehovah, hearts are fully blest; Finding as He promised, perfect peace and rest."

A beautiful natural setting not far from home

By PAT KESLING
Special to the Bethlehem Press

At the 2012 Society of the Arts (SOTA) Designer Showhouse and Gardens at Three Chimneys Farm, Coopersburg, guests dined and toured at a party in support of the Allentown Art Museum's major fundraising event.

They gathered for a country-style dinner to celebrate the "in the country atmosphere" of the home built in the 1870s. Today, it is on 75 acres and belongs to Bruce and Anne Lawrence of Bethlehem. It had been his family home in the 1960s and was originally bought in 1770 from the family of William Penn.

SOTA approached the Lawrences to rehabilitate the home for the SOTA house to raise funds for museum programs. More than 15 local decorators and landscapers transformed the property, giving visitors a chance to experience not only professionally decorated interior spaces but also a beautiful natural setting not far from home. The barn, from the original property, remains and served as a boutique and cafe for tours that were offered in May.

It is a breathtaking site viewed from the road, showing the house, the barn, a new garden landscaping and a pond, with a background of centuries-old trees. The Lawrence family will use the property for a retreat for their four daughters and their children.

Three Chimneys Farm is located at 1770 Pleasant View Road, outside Coopersburg.

The monkey temple in Jaipur offers many opportunities to feed a number of the local primates.

When a pack of kids saw me with my camera sitting on a bench or standing by the side of the road, they'd surround me and start chanting "one photo, please."

The Lake Palace in Udaipur is the city's draw. Like a pearl on the light blue waters, complemented by an equally picturesque blue sky, the palace provides many a photo op and an opportunity to envy tourists who could afford a one-night stay.

By BRANDON TAYLOR
Special to the Bethlehem Press

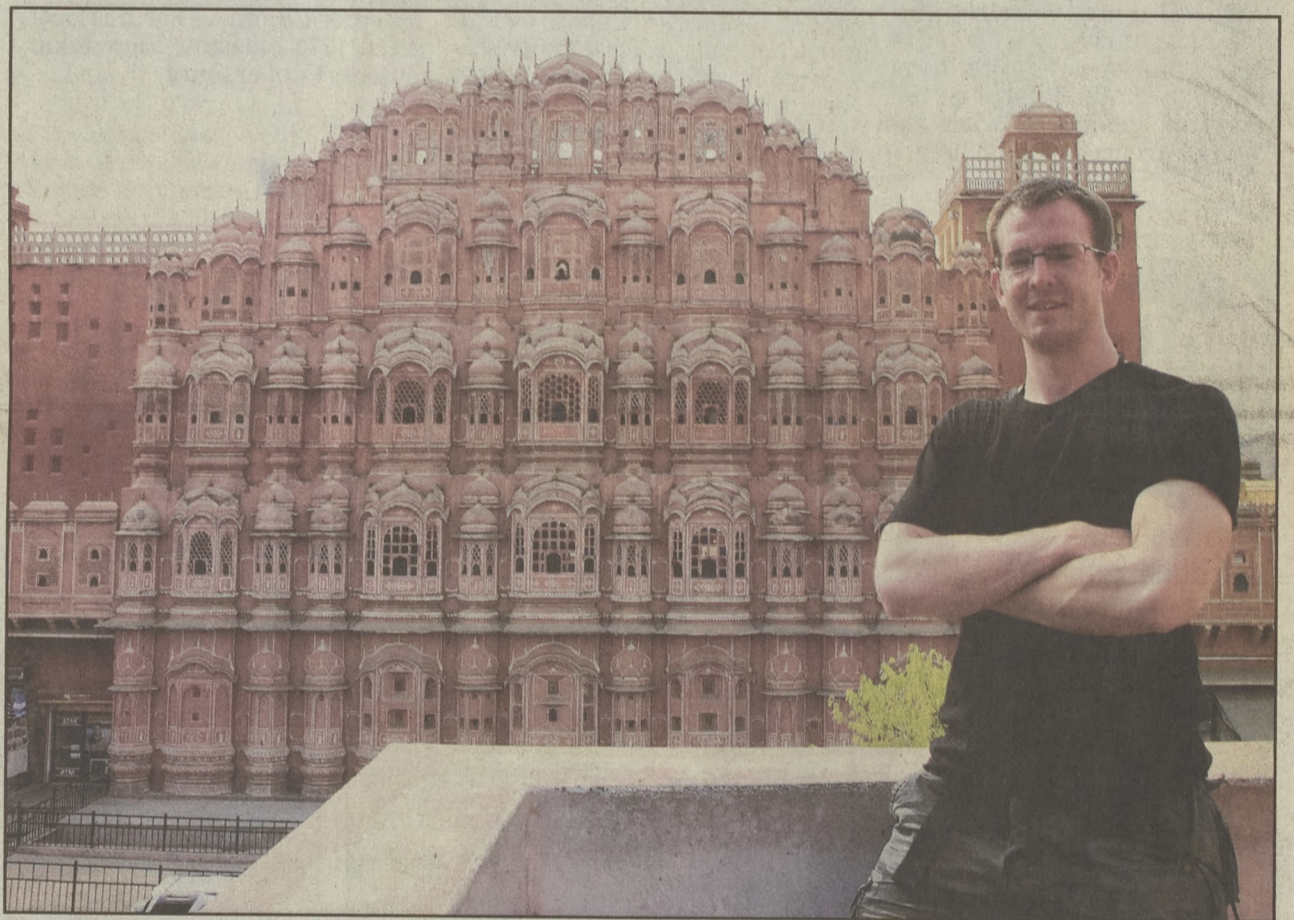

Elegant palaces of shimmering gold and white. Fortresses looming over sleepy, ancient towns. A landscape of mountains, jungles and deserts. This was Rajasthan, India's westernmost and most diverse region. As I traveled from the southern tip to the western edge, each city provided the feeling that I'd managed to cross a major international border into a new country. No two cities shared the same architecture, from the palaces to the dirty city bazaars, and no two city populaces shared the same chaotic characteristics of their workaday lives.

For hundreds of years, the cities of Rajasthan existed as autonomous kingdoms, allying with each other to defeat common enemies or consolidate power. Today, the princes and kings are gone, or have at least been stripped of their power, but the old cities remain, packed snugly inside ancient fortress walls.

In Udaipur, known as the white city, the main attraction is the pearly colored Lake Palace. A VIP resort off limits to tourists, the palace is the pride of the city, a gem atop the clear waters of Lake Pichola. It was also prominently featured in the James Bond film "Octopussy," another point the locals are fond of mentioning.

Jaipur, the pink city, is the region's bustling capital, a mixed design of sandstone buildings that turned from red to pink as the daylight waned. I received more than the usual attention in the old city, with school children running up to me and politely asking for "one photo, please."

As I walked through the busy markets, several of the locals stopped me for a quick chat. A Muslim man explained many of the current problems facing India and the Indian people, from corruption and economic development that was creating a larger wealth gap to the effect of traditional arranged marriages on a more modern-embracing public. We also talked about me, my home country (America), thoughts on India (amazing and marital status (single). The last question always gets looks of amazement and disapproval followed by further inquiries (What! Not married! Why?).

On the outskirts of the city, I fed monkeys and watched a parade of marching, face-painted elephants. The elephants were also looking for food, but I had none to spare, having used all my peanuts on the primates.

Overall, the old cities and their people remain as they have lived for hundreds of years, albeit with a few more smartphones, television sets blasting cricket matches and other sophisticated contraptions. And while the temptations of a modern life were abundant, most people cling to their traditional ways, preferring a cup of chai to an iPhone 4S.

Elephants, their faces painted as part of a festival, march up and down the side of a hill leading up to one of Jaipur's forts.

Chai, a combination of tea, milk and sugar that's heavy on the sweet side, is India's drink of choice. Be it on a train, walking down the street, or sitting and people watching, shouts of "Chai, garam chai" (tea, hot tea) can be heard almost anywhere in the country.

Bikes are still one of India's primary modes of transportation. During my trip around the country, I got a kick out of seeing bikes piled with people - this one had five youngsters, but later in my trip I saw a mo-ped carrying six.

Special to the Bethlehem Press

Since June 1, Allentown Dept. of Economic and Community Development Director Sara Hailstone has peppered Bethlehem and Hanover townships with a total of 28 Right-to-Know requests. Those two municipalities are spearheading a municipal challenge to the legality of Allentown's 130-acre Neighborhood Improvement Zone (NIZ).

Under a state law passed in 2009 after a record-breaking budget stalemate, the NIZ was created. It authorizes Allentown to pay for a hockey arena and other improvements with the EIT revenue of anyone working inside the zone, even if he or she lives in another municipality. But this legislation has been attacked in Commonwealth Court as an unconstitutional "special" law that could only ever apply to Allentown.

Hailstone has asked for meeting minutes from both municipalities, even though those are already available online. She requests minutes of executive sessions, too, even though those are never kept. She wants copies of all email exchanges with developer Nic Zawarski, even though he's been retired for 15 years and his sons now operate the business. She has asked the townships to tell her how much they've paid to Bethlehem law firm Broughal and DeVito, which represents both townships.

Finally, she wants all emails concerning an alphabet soup of agencies, from ANIZDA to ACIDA to AEDC.

Hailstone's multiple requests have been referred to Broughal and DeVito for legal review.

The Bethlehem Press learned of these Right-to-Know requests as a result of its own Right-to-Know requests.

She is a member of the National Honor Society, Spanish Honor Society, and the National Society of High School Scholars.

Mascarenhas has attended the Brown University Summer Pre-College program, the Johns Hopkins Center for Talented Youth and the Penn State Lehigh Valley Emerging Leaders Conference.

She has been a member of the Notre Dame Theater Company, Key Club, GEO Club and SADD.

The Donley Awards for Excellence are the namesake of Edward and Inez Donley. Edward Donley has had a decades-long passion for educational empowerment and he and his wife established the Donley Foundation in 1987.

Donley is the former chairman of Air Products and Chemicals. He started with that company in 1943. He became president in 1966, and chairman in 1978. He retired from Air Products in December 1986, and from the executive committee of the firm's board of directors in 1992.

Active in education, Donley served on the boards of the Pennsylvania State Board of Education, and the Pennsylvania Partnerships for Children. He is the former chairman of the board of the Education Policy and Leadership Center. He is a founding member of the U.S. Chamber's Center for Workforce Preparation and Quality Education.

As the featured speaker at the awards breakfast, held April 16 at the Best Western Lehigh Valley Hotel, Route 512, Bethlehem, Donley said the award recipients, one from each of the Lehigh Valley's 29 high schools, are the top one-half of one-percent for educational accomplishment in the region.

Lehigh U. Linderman exhibit honors author's bicentennial

By DOROTHY GLEW
 Special to The Press

Who has not made the acquaintance of Oliver Twist, David Copperfield, Pip, Fagin, and, of course, Ebenezer Scrooge while growing up?

Whether loved or hated, these characters have made their creator one of the most beloved and celebrated novelists of all time. Lehigh University is paying tribute to Dickens in this bicentennial year of his birth with an exhibit, "The Familiar Dickens, Illustrated and Evaluated," through July 6, Reading Room and Café Gallery, Linderman Library.

Among the items on exhibit in the first-floor Reading Room is the first American edition of "A Christmas Carol." Dickens was enormously popular in the United States, but with no copyright law to protect him, he was rarely compensated for American editions of his work.

Like many of his novels, "The Old Curiosity Shop," was written in installments. The novel was so popular that Americans clamored for the next installment. Dickens' readers would crowd around ships as the cargo was unloaded, eager to learn the fate of little Nell, the heroine.

As noted in the exhibit, Dickens began his career as a journalist. His big break came when he was asked to provide text for a series of comic illustrations with a hunting club theme. Dickens shifted the focus of the project from the illustrations to the story, and "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club" was a sensation that launched his career. As a novelist, Dickens worked closely with his illustrators, which often resulted in strained relations. Not surprisingly, Dickens had several illustrators.

In the Café Gallery on the lower level of Linderman, visitors may view the work of Dickens' many illustrators. They include Hablot K.

Browne, whose willingness to defer to Dickens's judgment resulted in a more positive relationship than Dickens had with his other illustrators. Browne, who illustrated 10 of Dickens's novels, adopted the pseudonym Phiz to match Dickens' Boz.

Among the illustrations are plates for "A Christmas Carol" and "The Old Curiosity Shop," illustrated by Browne; "Our Mutual Friend," the last novel completed before Dickens' death; and "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," which was unfinished when Dickens died.

While readers revel in Dickens' plots and characters, Dickensian scholars enjoy arguing about how Dickens planned to solve the murder mystery in his final novel.

Your look ahead at Valley Arts

Fantastic "Do": The Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre's production of "Hairspray: The Broadway Musical" continues through July 1, Paul C. Empie Theatre, Baker Center for the Arts, Muhlenberg College, Allentown. The show, adapted from the 1988 John Waters written and directed movie partially filmed in Dorney Park and Wildwater Kingdom, South Whitehall Township, features Angela DeAngelo, above center, as Tracy Turnblad, and, above foreground left to right, Casey Elizabeth Gill (Velma Von Tussle), Joe Spiotta (Corny Collins) and Benjamin Raffalli (Link Larkin). MSMT mainstay Bill Mutimer, not in the photo, plays Tracy's mother, Edna Turnblad. The high-spirited musical, with book by Mark O'Donnell, music by Marc Shaiman, and lyrics by Shaiman and Scott Wittman, is directed by MSMT co-founder Charles Richter. The 33-member cast is accompanied by a 15-piece orchestra. Tickets: muhlenberg.edu/SMT, 484-664-3333

You can't stop 'Hairspray'

Standing backstage in the Paul C. Empie Theater in Baker Center for the Arts at Muhlenberg College, you hear the excited and lively chatter of the audience and the warm-up notes of the 15-piece orchestra conducted by Ken Butler, music director.

Another performance of Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre's "Hairspray: the Broadway Musical" is about to begin. All of us in the production have microphones taped to our heads. Our wigs, costumes and dance shoes are on.

Dancers are having final stretches so their muscles are ready for two and one-half hours of intense footwork. Singers have warmed up vocally so their voices are ready to belt out the upbeat pop songs.

The backstage crew is going through its final checklist to ensure props and set pieces are in their proper places. Dozens of costumes, wigs and shoes are at the ready for quick offstage changes.

There's a nervous excitement before every performance. Each show is like a new opening. Every audience has its own "personality," so no two shows are ever the same.

Director Charles Richter,

Behind the Scenes
 By JoAnn Wilchek Basist

MSMT co-founder, welcomes the audience and thanks them for their patronage. Actors give final hugs and "break-a-leg" wishes and jump into place as the orchestra hits that pulse-racing opening with a bang on the drums.

The overture begins. The curtain opens, revealing Tracy Turnblad played by Angela DeAngelo tucked into her vertical bed. The audience bursts into spontaneous applause. We're off to a great start.

It's my belief there's nothing like live theater. Although a show is scripted and well-rehearsed, you never know what might happen during a performance. Actors and stage crew must be prepared for any number of wild and crazy mishaps.

Angela (Tracy) and Ariane Torres (a Corny Collins TV show teen council member) have had wigs fly off during dance numbers. Did they stop performing? No.

They kept right on dancing and singing like pros.

Microphone packs have slipped and fallen to uncomfortable places or dangled in mid-air; but the performers never let the audience know anything was amiss.

Set pieces have gotten stuck as they were pushed on stage, hand props have gone flying out of hands, and zippers have broken on costume pieces (yes, the actor went onstage with the back of the dress open). Performers have battled laryngitis and have been pumped full of antibiotics.

Every time I put on my tap shoes to dance my way through "The Big Doll House" number at the top of Act Two, I cannot believe that I am actually tap dancing in front of a paying audience in the very same shoes I bought more than 25 years ago to wear in a beginner tap class taught by Shelley Oliver at Muhlenberg.

My skills haven't improved much, but I am having a grand time "faking it" as Prudy Pingleton, Gym Teacher and Prison Matron. Sharing the stage with this company and many of my friends is sheer joy.

We rush through costume and wig changes so we can watch each other perform from the wings and silently cheer each other on. We delight in the responses and applause from the audience. Listening to Matthew Alan Smith and Bill Mutimer work the audience in their duet, "You're Timeless To Me," is a highlight of every performance.

This has been an amazing and wonderful journey these past weeks. The show has grown into a slick and polished production. Audiences have been incredibly generous in their appreciation. They leap to their feet and join in the dancing during the final bows and sing along with the finale, "You Can't Stop the Beat" It just doesn't get better than this.

Years ago, I made the comment that "theater magic" doesn't just happen. It is the result of diligent hard work. This "Hairspray" family has created magic and we have given MSMT supporters something that is priceless. See "Hairspray," through July 1, before it's a memory and legend of the Lehigh Valley theater scene.

This is the last of the three-part "Behind the Scenes" at Muhlenberg Summer Music Theatre's "Hairspray" with Lehigh Valley actor and theater teacher JoAnn Wilchek Basist.

LLS honors nine for fundraising efforts

The winners of The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's (LLS) Man & Woman of the Year were announced at the Grand Finale June 21, ArtsQuest Center, SteelStacks, Bethlehem. The night was a celebration of the nine honorees' collective fundraising. The event included cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, live and silent auctions, and dinner and dancing.

For 10 weeks, the nine candidates competed for the title of Man & Woman of the Year, where they utilized their leadership abilities to conduct their own fundraising campaigns for LLS. Every dollar counted as one vote. The male and female candidates with the most votes were named the Eastern Pennsylvania's Man & Woman of the Year. Money raised from Man & Woman of the Year benefits LLS' mission to cure blood cancers and to improve the quality of life for patients and their families. This year's fundraising was in honor of two patient heroes: 2012 Boy

& Girl of the Year Braden Sell of Quakertown and Coco Lazaridis of Bethlehem. "We are so grateful for the commitment and generosity of these nine fine men and women who took a 10-week journey with us to challenge themselves to raise money for a lifesaving cancer research," said Maida R. Milone, Executive Director of the Eastern Pennsylvania Chapter. In 2011, four candidates collectively raised $65,000. Jay Charlie of Whitehall was named Man of the Year and Julie Knight of Bethlehem was chosen Eastern Pennsylvania's

Woman of the Year. LLS is the world's largest voluntary health agency dedicated to blood cancer. LLS mission is to cure leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's disease and myeloma, and improve the quality of life of patients and their families. LLS funds blood cancer research around the world and provides free information and support services. LLS, founded in 1949 and headquartered in White Plains, N.Y., has chapters throughout the United States and Canada including the Eastern Pennsylvania chapter. Information: LLS.org

Regulating life by the days of the week

WARMEST REGARDS
By Pattie Mihalik
newsgirl@comcast.net

Last week, when Dave and I invited friends to kayak with us at a new spot, they were all for it until we mentioned it would be Wednesday. "Ohhh, Wednesday," said the wife, "that's the day I clean my kitchen and scrub the floor." I think I giggled. "When do you do your cleaning?" she asked. "Whenever I want," I told her. "And when I don't want to, I don't."

That solicited another "ohhh" from her. "I wouldn't get anything done," she said, "if I didn't have a specific day when I do it. That way, I know when not to schedule something else." I remember when life was like that for me but it was another lifetime ago. Monday was washday. Tuesdays, I worked late on deadlines. Wednesday I cleaned the upstairs and Thursdays I cleaned the downstairs. I got that system from my mother. She had set days for everything and by darn, it better be done on that day. Or Else. (You never wanted to be the brunt of my mother's or else.)

I tell my friends I no longer wear Days of the Week panties (remember those?) and I no longer let the calendar control my activities. This week, I was down on my hands and knees, cleaning the woodwork in my house. When a friend rang my doorbell, I laughed and said, "saved by the bell." I never tell someone I don't have time for him or her because I'm cleaning. I remember all too well when I was first married and didn't have my own car. One day I walked a few miles to see my mother. When I got there, she told me she could sit and talk only after she scrubbed the kitchen floor and cleaned her stove. After all, it WAS Friday. One of the joys of retirement is that there is no regulation. Not unless you want it. I love spontaneity and will drop any chore if something better comes along. For me, listening to a bird sing is "something better." Calling a friend is something better. So is watching the ducks in the water outside our home. I got a wonderful email from an East Penn reader named Jeanne Trump that resonated with me. This is part of what Jeanne wrote: "Sometimes I just sit outside (weather permitting) and listen to the sounds of nature. Does a room need cleaning? Oh, well, it will be there after I sit at the train station in Macungie and watch the trains go by. Do my windows need cleaning? Oh, well, it's too sunny today so I'll play the piano instead." It was her note that made me think about how regulated life used to be compared to now. Some, like my kayak friend, may still be ruled by the calendar. But I'm ruled by whim. How about you? What regulates the web and flow of your life? If you're still working, life must necessarily be dictated by fitting everything into your work schedule. But when you retire, you will find much of that structure can be rewritten any way you want. It's called freedom. And it feels great.

Tailbone injury in fall can be treated

Q. I was racing down the cellar stairs a few days ago when I slipped and fell on my tailbone. I've had pain ever since. What should I do about it?

HEALTHY GEEZER
By Fred Cicetti
fred@healthygeezer.com

The coccyx, or tailbone, is made up of three to five vertebrae at the lower end of the spine. Most have a coccyx of four of these spinal bones. The coccyx functions as an attachment site for muscles, tendons and ligaments. Coccyx comes from the Greek word for cuckoo. The coccyx's shape is like the beak of a cuckoo. The human coccyx is considered a vestige of what was once a tail. Most coccyx injuries are bruises and ligament strains. The coccyx rarely breaks. The most common tailbone injuries occur from falling on a hard surface. Women suffer most coccyx injuries because the female pelvis is broader and the coccyx is more exposed than it is in males. Pain in the coccyx, called coccydynia, can occur in children and adults. Degenerative changes of the coccyx seem to increase with age. Usually, the cause for coccydynia is not known. Among the common known causes are falls, prolonged sitting, medical procedures such as colonoscopy, and childbirth. Substantial pressure may be placed on the coccyx as the baby descends through the mother's pelvis. The pain is felt in a variety of circumstances. The most common distress comes from sitting on a hard surface. There can be intense pain when getting up from a seat. Bowel movements and sex can also produce pain. Coccyx pain is treated in a variety of ways: Non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) to reduce pain and inflammation. These include ibuprofen, naproxen and aspirin. A customized seating cushion that shifts pressure away from the tailbone. Physical therapy that might include exercise to stretch ligaments and strengthen muscles in the tailbone area. Heat, massage and ultrasound. Injections of local anesthetics into the coccyx are sometimes given for continuing pain. Manipulation to move the coccyx back into its proper position.

Surgery to remove the coccyx is recommended only in very severe cases. There is a high risk that surgery won't alleviate pain. Coccyx pain can be especially taxing because substantial relief may not come for months. However, most cases of traumatic coccyx injury get better within several weeks. With a long siege of pain, you may develop depression and anxiety. This emotional distress should be treated as soon as it is recognized. ## Wildlands presents Friend Awards

The Wildlands Conservancy's Friend of the Lehigh River Awards were presented to Mario Spangoletti, Tom Shive, and the Hokendaquua Chapter No. 535 of Trout Unlimited during the closing ceremony of Wildlands Conservancy's 16th Annual Lehigh River Sojourn, June 25, Pool Wildlife Sanctuary, Lower Macungie Township. Mario Spangoletti, a Wildlands Conservancy volunteer, is on the Whitehall Township Environment Advisory Council (WTEAC). Past WTEAC member Dale Ott credits Spangoletti with "singlehandedly feeding the birds at the Whitehall Parkway observation station." Spangoletti's caretaking extends to maintenance of bluebird boxes and rehabilitation of the township barn along Chestnut Street. Also noteworthy is his dedication to the township annual recycling drive and stream work with the Little Lehigh and Hokendaquua chapters of Trout Unlimited. Tom Shive is a retired Central Catholic High School (CCHS) teacher who helped bring Wildlands Conservancy's EnviroMentor program to Sacred Heart Regional School. Shive, CCHS Conservation Club leader, involved student members in annual clean-ups of the Jordan Creek, installation of bird houses and planting of riparian plants to support soil conservation. Shive, a Jordan Heights Green Space committee member, supports Wildlands Conservancy's proposed Jordan Creek Greenway & Trail, that would connect five township, city and county parks and recreation sites, from Jordan Meadows Park, Allentown, to the Trexler Nature Preserve. The first 1.27-segment opened in December 2011. Hokendaquua Chapter No. 535 of Trout Unlimited, chartered 25 years ago, has completed bank restoration in Northampton and in the Kreidersville Covered Bridge area. Community education programs include sponsorship of "Trout in the Classroom" at Catasauqua High School, assisting youth field days, fly fishing instruction at the Women-in-the-Outdoors event, equipment and instructional support for "Casting for Recovery" (a breast cancer survivors program) and "Project Healing Waters" (an activity for wounded veterans) and streamside-education for Cub and Boy Scouts and local schools.

Rear-window view of wildlife parade

I often use a song title, song lyrics, a movie title or movie theme to develop the main topic of my column. This column is no different.

Summer came in full of drama June 20 with a high temperature of 95 degrees Fahrenheit. It was the highest temperature since last summer.

The hot and humid first day of summer coincidentally was also the day of my scheduled rotator cuff surgery. I tore the rotator cuff about 12 years ago and I made the decision to live with the injury and not have surgery. I gave up overhand activities such as tennis and racket ball. I was able to pursue my other outdoor activities, including skiing, hunting, fishing, hiking, kayaking, photography and working in the garden and yard.

A fall on sticky wet snow in March at Elk Mountain, Susquehanna County, produced a more serious shoulder injury and rotator cuff tear. That injury plus a recent shoulder dislocation following a fall in a Pocono stream during a fly fishing adventure made the decision to finally have rotator cuff surgery a no-brainer. All activities using my right arm including typing with both hands became next to impossible.

So, what song or movie did I choose to correlate with this column and my surgery? One of my all-time favorite film directors and producers is Alfred Hitchcock. His 1954 film, "Rear Window," a mystery thriller starring Jimmy Stewart, is one of Hitchcock's finest films and one my favorites. It also involves a number of similarities to my present condition.

Stewart plays a photographer with a broken leg. He spends most of his recuperation watching the neighbors from his apartment rear window. The film's plot thickens when Stewart witnesses what he believes to be a murder. His broken leg and lack of mobility add to the excitement and intrigue.

Stewart's costar is Grace Kelly, who left the glitter of Hollywood in 1954 at age 26 to marry Prince Rainier III of Monaco. Rather than play the part of royalty in Tinsel Town, as she did in "The Swan," her last feature movie role, she went off to Monaco to live out her life as a true princess.

The results of my accidents, surgery and subsequent rehab have me spending many hours of downtime peering through my rear window. But unlike Stewart, I'm watching squirrels, chipmunks, white-tailed deer, wild turkeys, songbirds and other wildlife species, not the wild life of my neighbors.

The young gray squirrels from this spring's first litters are almost the same size as their parents and appear to have quickly learned how to empty my birdfeeders. A few have also inherited the ability to climb my eight-foot-high PVC pole that supports my birdseed and suet feeders. The skilled gray climbers hang by their feet while leisurely feasting and dropping seeds to the non-climbers

An occasional white-tailed deer and wild turkey stroll through the yard add to my rear window vicarious adventures. The deer come by to dine on the jewelweed stalks and the grass. The turkeys are drawn in to take advantage of last fall's acorn crop.

We keep our birdfeeders filled throughout the year, thus attracting many of the colorful neo-tropical birds including warblers, indigo buntings, cedar waxwings, northern orioles, redstarts and red-breasted grosbeaks. Feeding the birds during the four seasons, especially spring, summer and fall is more of a treat for the providers than it is a treat for the birds. The three warm seasons normally provide enough natural food for the birds to survive.

On the down side, my rear window observations, much like the movie, generated a homicide of its own. I was watching the birds when they suddenly flew off in all directions—a sure sign of trouble. An unsuspecting mourning dove was caught off guard by the swift attack of a Cooper's hawk. The hawk swooped in and carried off the dove to a protected spot high in our tree canopy.

Actions such as these are common components of Mother Nature's cycle of life. Fortunately for me, unlike Stewart, I did not become part of the neighborhood homicide mystery.

One last similarity to the Hitchcock movie: Stewart, Kelly and myself were born in Pennsylvania.

FIRST FRIDAY Banana Factory reception set

Recent works by Kutztown artist Cheryl Agulnick Hochberg are on view through Aug. 19, Crayola Gallery, ArtsQuest's Banana Factory, 25 W. Third St., Bethlehem.

An opening reception for the exhibition, "Creature (dis-)Comfort," is 6-9 p.m. July 6, as part of south side Bethlehem's First Friday.

Her artist's statement is: "Unlikely combinations of subject matter contribute to the quality of visual surprise that I seek.

"My work runs the gamut from straightforward painting on panel and framed drawings, to works with collage or metal leaf, cut-out drawings and interactive boxes.

"I enjoy including materials that are somehow 'wrong' and enjoy how that impropriety helps to challenge viewer expectations as to what art is, who it is for, and how humanity values it."

Hochberg, a Kutztown University professor and Fine Arts Department Chair, is the advisor for Eckhaus, a student-run gallery along Main Street, Kutztown.

She received a bachelor's in fine arts from Tyler School of the Arts, Philadelphia, and a master's in fine arts from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Her work has been exhibited throughout the United States, with recent solo exhibitions at Sweetbriar College, Lynchburg, Va.; David E. Strawn Gallery, Jacksonville, Ill., and the eDavid Gallery, Bethlehem.

FIRST FRIDAY Walk to honor Mr. Imagination

A "Procession of Remembrance for Mr. Imagination" will be held

7-8 p.m. July 6 as part of the July First Friday on Bethlehem's Southside, starting at the bus shelter the artist created at the Banana Factory and concluding at Home & Planet.

The procession honors artist and former Bethlehem resident, Gregory Warmack (1948-2012), who called himself Mr. Imagination. Warmack died recently in Atlanta, Ga.

PSF 'Tempest' majestic vision

By PAUL WILLISTEIN
pwillistein@tnonline.com

"The Tempest," William Shakespeare's final play, is a metaphor for the stirrings of men's and women's souls.

In Director Jim Helsinger's bold and brilliant reimagining, Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival's "The Tempest," through July 15, Schubert Theatre, Labuda Center for the Arts, DeSales University, Center Valley, is — true to the play's own pronouncement: "a most majestic vision."

PSF's "The Tempest" is spectacular. It's a production of special effects. In the three-quarter round Schubert, it's like being in an IMax 3D theater.

To convey the setting of an island, Set Designer Bob Phillips created craggy gray outcroppings, a mysterious cave, a sheer backdrop of folds replicating day or night, and an ocean of aqua-hued material manipulated by Spirits to open the show with a ship-wrecking storm.

Lighting Designer Thom Weaver, working with Phillips, adds to the sense of a storm, and of places and persons transformed by the "rough magic" of self-appointed island ruler Prospero (Greg Wood in his 19th PSF season) and of the passage of time.

Costume Designer Sam Fleming contrasts the brass buckles and cardinal red and green cloth of the Italian court officials with the gauzy leggings and wrappings of the fantastical Spirits, led by Ariel (Dameka L. Hayes, who created her own dazzling choreography), and a magnificent "magic garment" for Prospero, who, with his daughter, Miranda (Kelsey Formost in her PSF debut), are otherwise in tatters.

Wig and Makeup Designer Martha Ruskai has layered thick dreadlocks on Miranda and provided "Lion King"-esque manes for the Spirits.

Fleming's costume centerpiece is that of Caliban (an unrecognizable Richard B. Watson), half-man, half-fish, with one left webbed foot and one right clawed hand, in a one-piece green barnacled leotard that would scare the Creature back to the Black Lagoon.

There is also mask work and a totemic Spirits procession.

All of this is played out against Australian and African-inspired (didgeridoo, drums, flutes) original compositions by

Greg Wood as Prospero in PSF's "The Tempest"

Daniel Levy, with song lyrics from the play. Sound Designer Matthew Given alters Ariel's voice effectively and fills the air with sonic intensity. Prospero's magic staff has become a rain stick, and its sound adds to the sense of tribal peoples.

The aforesaid enhances the actors' performances, giving free rein to their creativity.

The most telling moments in PSF's "The Tempest" occur in near silence, sans effects, when the storm has been silenced. This is no more true than when, at center stage, Greg Wood as Prospero utters the play's centerpiece monologue, the "Our revels now are ended" speech, which includes the famous line, "We are such stuff as dreams are made on." Wood pauses a beat, then adds the even more important, if not always quoted, line: "And our little life is rounded with a sleep."

The dynamic between Wood as Prospero and Formost as Miranda is one of care and tenderness. Prospero champions and sanctions Miranda's love-struck joy at meeting Ferdinand (Brandon Meeks). Formost imbues her Miranda with wide-eyed giddiness. "O Brave new world that has such people in't," she enthuses. Meeks creates an energetic and handsome Ferdinand.

Wood's Prospero has a love interest of sorts in Ariel, a very independent sprite at that. In this role, Hayes is a bundle of energy, with balletic grace and acrobatic athleticism, seemingly dancing on air and floating across the stage.

Among the cast of 20, returning PSF actors provide balance and ballast.

Wayne S. Turney is memorable as the talkative Gonzalo, gently mocked by Carl N. Wall-nau as Antonio, intoning one of his ever-perfectly timed ripostes: "Watch out. He's winding the watch of his wit."

The Naples' dignitaries include Alan Coates, commanding in voice and stature as Alonso, Steven Dennis as the dutiful Sebastian, and Erik J. Huertas as Francisco.

Brad DePlanche as Trinculo and Eric Hissom as Stephano form a merry duo, providing a majority of the show's laughs. Their scenes are shared with Richard B. Watson, who as Caliban, writhes, hops and rasps so convincingly you are taken aback. The Caliban character is at once menacing and sympathetic. Watson achieves this fine, uneasy balance.

And so does PSF's "The Tempest," which has the stuff that truly great Shakespeare productions are made of.

Discover 'Moonrise Kingdom'

"Moonrise Kingdom" is the cinema discovery of the 2012 summer movie season.

"Moonrise Kingdom" is one of those movies that captures summer vacation-time adventures. It's one of those rare cinema experiences you don't want to end and could see again and again.

"Moonrise Kingdom" is a throwback to 1980's cinema: the pre-teen world view of "Stand By Me" (1986); the rambunctiousness of "Raising Arizona" (1987); and the charm of "The Princess Bride" (1987), "A Christmas Story" (1983) and "Back to the Future" (1985). It's "The Wonder Years" (1988) with twists. "Moonrise Kingdom" is something more. It's as sweet as a schoolyard crush with the aching heart of first love.

Writer (co-writing with Roman Coppola, "The Darjeeling Limited") and director Wes Anderson ("Fantastic Mr. Fox," "The Royal Tenenbaums," "Rushmore") sets the story on a New England island circa 1965. Sam (Jared Gilman), a wayward Khaki Scout (standing in for the Boy Scouts of America), runs away with Suzy (Kara Hayward), his girlfriend.

"Moonrise Kingdom" creates a world of lazy summer board games of Parcheesi, exaggerated deeds and adolescent angst. It's a rip-roaring good yarn with a bevy of stellar performances:

Bruce Willis is winsome, wistful and thoughtful Captain Sharp, Island Police chief;

Bill Murray is Walt Bishop, a crabby lawyer married to Laura, another lawyer; the always enigmatic Frances McDormand;

Edward Norton is obsessed, caring and intense Scout Master Ward, Khaki Scout leader of Camp Ivanhoe;

Tilda Swinton is a gung-ho Social Services official;

Jason Schwartzman is Cousin Ben, an enterprising Khaki Scout chaplain;

Harvey Keitel is Commander Pierce of the Scouts' Fort Lebanon, where the Hullabaloo (read Jamboree, or Jambo) is to be held; and

MunOpCo's 'Sugar' is sweet

By PAUL WILLISTEIN pvillistein@tnonline.com

For its summer theater season show in its 85th season, MunOpCo Music Theatre pours a little 'Sugar' on a cinema classic translated to the stage...

MunOpCo Artistic Director Larry A. Williams, conducting the 11-piece orchestra and directing the show; Choreographer Theresa M. Williams, along with a talented cast of 32, put the zing in the zingers...

'Sugar' is based on the 1959 Billy Wilder-directed classic that starred Marilyn Monroe, Jack Lemmon, Tony Curtis and Joe E. Brown.

The musical version opened in 1972 on Broadway with songs by Jule Styne and Bob Merrill.

Much in the musical's book by Peter Stone seems to be lifted intact in plot and dialogue from the 'Some Like It Hot' screenplay by Billy Wilder and I.A.L. Diamond...

isn't perfect, either, but has plenty of enthusiasm, some game performances, lovely, colorful and eye-popping costumes (also by Theresa A. Williams) and boasts a scene-stealing performance by Kerry McGuire...

Daphne (the Jack Lemmon role in the original movie) McGuire seems to have mastered not only the art of a man walking in women's high heels, but dancing (backwards, too, just like Ginger), skipping and running...

McGuire proves quite the vocalist, belting it out in his solo, "Magic Night," and several duets, including "Beautiful Through and Through" with Claude Foreman as retired millionaire Osgood Fielding III...

Brown role, who pursues Daphne, not realizing she's actually Jerry; and "Doin' It For Sugar" and "Penniless Bums" with Keith Moser as Joe the saxophone player dressed up as Josephine...

Lehigh Valley community theater veteran Foreman is charming and a genuine crackup as Fielding, avoids mimicking Joe E. Brown and makes the role his own as a dignified if, shall we say, still active, senior citizen.

Moser perhaps has the show's most difficult challenge, playing three - that's right, three - roles in one: that of Joe, Joe posing as Josephine, and Josephine posing as a wealthy yacht owner and heir to the Shell Oil fortune...

Moser also eschews parody, wisely taking a different tack than Curtis's homage to Cary Grant in the original.

Theresa Williams' choreography keeps the Syncopaters moving and is often very amusing, as in "Sun on My Face" and

"November Song," when elderly persons' canes and a tottering "war dance" are put to great effect.

Mandy Trollinger as band singer Sugar Kane (the movie's Marilyn Monroe role) is a sassy, cutie-pie voiced coquette, a prancing and preening vision in blonde and, again, gorgeous dress costumes.

Trollinger is in excellent voice throughout, most especially her duet, "We Could Be Close," with McGuire, and one of several big ensemble numbers, "Hey, Why Not?" with the Yachtsmen and Syncopaters...

which sets up a cute sight gag with Daphne, near the top of Act Two on a beach set, which is the MunOpCo show's most successful scene by Set Designer Mary Seng, augmented with evocative lighting by Lighting Designer Ed Hartman and the ocean waves sounds of Sound Technician Jonathan Tobias.

Geri Kery as Sweet Sue, leader of the all-female Society Syncopaters band, is fine in the opening and closing numbers, "When You Meet A Girl in Chicago" and "When You Meet a Man in Chicago."

Colin Sergent as Spatz Palazzo (the movie's George Raft role) enters and departs humorously, tapping all the way to the - and his - end.

Tony Kohl is funny as Bienstock, the Syncopaters' manager. MunOpCo Music Theatre's "Sugar" provides sweet entertainment in the comedy tradition of Red Skelton, Milton Berle and Jack Benny...

with a bit of nudge-nudge, wink-wink spice for good measure.

Briana Malcol, student speaker

Briana Malcol

Parents: Beverley Jones and Wayne Malcol

College: Pennsylvania State University

Career plans: I would like to become a homeopathic physician who promotes the use of natural medicine.

Theme of your speech: The theme of my speech is how the IB curriculum, which my school is based on, has affected my life and the lives of my fellow graduates for the better. I spoke about how I plan to use what I've learned over the last four years to pursue future challenges and accomplish my career goals.

Decision about theme: I decided upon this theme because I wanted to share my personal views of how the IB curriculum has molded me into the accomplished and ambitious young woman I am today. I also wanted to include a special "thanks" in my speech to the faculty and staff who encouraged me to make the most of my education!

School memories: I will always remember the unconditional support our school faculty and staff were always willing to give to our student body. I will remember the fact that there was never a day that my class and I haven't shared a laugh with one another. I will also surely remember the tribulations my class and I endured together and how amazing we all felt when we accomplished tasks we first viewed as impossible!

Secret of your success: I would say the secret of my success is to keep my priorities intact. I constantly bring along schoolwork when I go on road trips or even just when visiting family and friends. I would also be found studying at my part-time job when exam dates were near because I know that my part-time job is temporary but my education is everlasting! Remembering my priorities allows me to meet assignment deadlines, score well on exams and maintain balance in my social and academic life.

Advice to underclassmen: I would like to advise underclassmen to make wise decisions and remember the importance of an education. I would also like to encourage underclassmen to go after opportunities they feel they deserve because there is no better feeling than reaping the benefits of something you went after yourself!

Message to classmates or community: I would like my community to know that I intend to make you all proud of me and all I plan to accomplish in the future!

Arushi Gupta, John Amos Comenius Award recipient

Parents: Dr. Puneet Gupta and Mrs. Virna Gupta

College: Columbia University

Career plans: I plan to major in computer science or computer engineering and to someday head a non-profit that can make educational software more accessible to all people.

School memories: I've made some of the most important realizations about myself at Moravian. I remember my first day attending the Moravian Academy's Amnesty International Activity meeting. I wrote a letter that day demanding the freedom of a prisoner of conscience and for the first time I realized that as a student I could make a difference. That memory was singular and pivotal, but there are others that latch onto one another; eating ice cream behind Snyder House with friends after despite it. I have been incredibly lucky to attend a school which encourages its students to be involved in their community and to develop their own talents and beliefs.

Advice to underclassmen: You have so many wonderful opportunities available to you; don't be afraid to take advantage of them. Learn from your faculty and classmates—they will teach you things that will last you a lifetime.

Message to classmates or community: Thank you. Thank you for sharing pieces of your lives with me, for taking time out of your day to explain things to me I didn't understand, helping me carry my science project to my locker, or just letting me enjoy your company. You've given me more than I could have ever dreamed of having and I will never forget it.

Secret of your success: The support of both my family and my school community has given me the strength to be unafraid of failure and persevere

Compiled by Mark Reccek

Erica Mascarenhas, valedictorian

Parents: Suzette Barreto, M.D., and Daniel Mascarenhas, M.D.

College: Boston College, majoring in biochemistry

Career plans: Become a physician

Theme of speech: Farewell, good luck and remember the good times.

School memories: The 24-hour dance marathon fundraisers for pediatric cancer that she participated in all four years of high school

Biggest challenge: None of us in high school had any big problems. High school was a safe haven. Now we have to adjust to the outside world.

College will be a new environment where we will have to adjust to people with different backgrounds.

Secret of success: [She is graduating with a 4.0 average.] I worked hard. I wasn't afraid to ask for extra help from teachers. I stayed after class to reinforce my understanding of topics.

Advice to underclassmen: Time goes really fast so make the most of it.

Message to classmates: Be true to who you are.

Judson Carlisle Smull, Liberty Scholar

Parents: Thomas and Deborah Smull

College: Lehigh University

Career plans: Entering integrated business and engineering honors program at Lehigh with plan to become either a chemical or civil engineer.

School memories: First I remember cheering at sports events and participating in soccer and track. I remember all the great teachers I had who kept me challenged. Finally, I will always remember my friends who supported me throughout my high school years.

Biggest challenge facing age group: How to acquire the necessary tools to succeed in a competitive world given the complexities of today's world. I was lucky because my family and friends helped me keep my focus.

Secret of my success: I worked incredibly hard and kept my focus throughout my high school years. I was not afraid to challenge myself and get involved in activities.

Advice to underclassmen: Stay focused and do not be afraid to challenge yourself.

Message to classmates or community: I appreciate the support and many opportunities that I received from my teachers and administrators at Liberty.

Jasmine K. Singh, valedictorian

Parents: Jasminder and Ravinder Singh

College: Lehigh University

Career plans: My career plan is to become a doctor.

Theme of speech: The theme of my speech is to follow your dreams and to believe in yourself.

Decision about theme: I chose this theme because I wanted to inspire my classmates to fulfill their aspirations.

School memories: My favorite school memories are just being part of the BECAHI community – not only are there are so many extracurricular opportunities, but at BECA you are a name, not a number.

Biggest challenge facing your age group: I think that the biggest challenge facing our age group is maintaining a balance between success and humility. There are so many opportunities for success and acclaim that it is very easy to become proud.

Secret of your success: The secret to my success is focus and determination. For the past four years, I have worked hard and remained committed to my studies.

Advice to underclassmen: "Shoot for the moon – because even if you miss, you will land on a star."

Message to classmates or community: Hard work is the key to success.

Parents: Eric and Kathy Overholt, Bath.

College: Philadelphia Biblical University

Career plans: Elementary education and some involvement on the mission field

School memories: Some of the greatest memories from LVCHS have been the activities and extra time spent from being a part of the women's volleyball and soccer teams. Traveling to games and spending time with the girls on the team have been a blessing. They are like another family to me and have helped create some wonderful memories throughout high school.

Secret of your success: Staying focused and working hard is really what it takes. What you reap, you sow, and in the same way, the amount of effort you supply and how seriously you take your school work will determine the results. Do everything wholeheartedly to the best of your ability and to the glory of God, and allow yourself to reap the rewards of your efforts.

Advice to underclassmen: Do your very best in everything that you do in high school. Whether it is a sport, a paper to write or a project to work on, do things right and to the best of your ability. Never give halfheartedly, because regardless of the outcome, you can be satisfied with your work if you know that you have done your very best. Don't forget to have fun as well and enjoy making some awesome memories during these exciting four years of your life!

Message to classmates or community: Although academic success and growth are very important and should be praised and encouraged, it is far more important to follow and pursue Christ. In all of our accomplishments in life Christ is ultimately to be glorified and praised. Praise the Lord for the work He has done in my life during high school, and for the work He will continue to do throughout our community.

Joey Barone, student speaker

Parents: Evelyn and Robert Barone, Slatington
College: Bennington College, Bennington, Vt.
Career plans: Technical theatre director/designer

Theme of speech: Time. How we are affected by it, change for it and often wish it were different. How it can change everything and what might happen if we approached it differently.

Decision about theme: Reflections about how much time I devoted to LVPA over the past four years led me to thoughts about spending time with friends and how I had used my high school time.

School memories: I will always remember the strong sense of community and understanding I felt at LVPA. We all stuck together – the students, teachers and administration – and I really felt I was cared about. It was like family.

Biggest challenge facing your age group: The transformative and sometimes scary nature of this time in our lives. We're used to what we've had, yet we want to become independent and move on. It can be difficult to make that change.

Secret of your success: My persistence. No matter what, I just keep moving ahead, through long hours in the theater and papers and classes.

Advice to underclassmen: Don't ever give up. Just keep going.

Message to classmates or community: The same: Don't ever give up.
