

Correll, James N.

Sailor Advanced

Announcement has been made of the advancement of James N. Correll (above), son of S. N. Correll and Mrs. Jane Correll, of this city, to second class petty officer. Young Correll who enlisted in the Navy July 30, 1942, at the age of 17, received his boot training at Newport, R. I., and attended electrical training school. For the past eight months he has been serving as an electrician on a destroyer somewhere in the Pacific. In his last letter he said, "Everything is fine—able to lead a healthy, normal life." Before enlisting he attended Bethlehem and Fountain Hill schools.
