

Richter, William

Marine Succumbs To War Wounds

Private William Richter, son of John J. Richter, died Sept. 15 of wounds received in action in the Pacific war theater, according to a Navy Department announcement. He would have been 23 years old Oct. 7.

Surviving in addition to his father, an employe of the Southern New England Telephone Company, are two sisters, three brothers and his grandmother, who makes her home with her son.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nonnemaker, 416 First Avenue, are uncle and aunt.

SEP 21 1943

September 21, 1943