

Selvaski, Joseph F.

RECEIVED ADVANCEMENT
SERVING WITH U. S. NAVY

7-16-1942

Variety is said to be the spice of life and that's what Joseph F. Selvaski, 22, appears to like, for he started in Uncle Sam's service in the U. S. Army and, after a hitch as a civilian instructor in air mechanics, now is serving in the Navy, where he recently was advanced in rating. Selvaski, son of Mrs. Helen Selvaski, who resided in Miller Heights until two months ago and now lives in West Conshohocken, enlisted in the Army three years ago this month. He was stationed at Hickham Field, Hawaii, with the 23rd Bombardment Squadron, for two years.

JOSEPH F. SELVASKI

Afterwards he was a civilian airplane mechanic instructor, a job he held until April 7 of this year. He then transferred to the Navy. He is still in Hawaii and has not been home since his original enlistment. Selvaski's new rating is that of aviation machinist mate, third class.

July 16, 1942