

DeFulvio, Camille

Receives Stripe

Besides informing his parents that he is now a private first class, Pfc. Camille DeFulvio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine DeFulvio, 630 Hayes Street, has written that recently he met one of his old friends, Andrew Bresnak, this city, in the North African war theater. The latter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bresnak, 1632½ Mechanic Street, and is a seaman first class in the Navy. DeFulvio received his basic training at Fort George G. Meade and in October, 1942, was sent to England. Bresnak observed his 21st birthday Saturday. He has been overseas six months.
