HIGHLIGHTS

Splashes of excitement against the background of everyday activity, the highlights of school life return year after year, bringing a change of pace to the routine of each day . . .

A radiant Marie enjoys her night on the town with Brad.

Alma "accidentally" gets an earful of Jan's plans for the future.

Jan begs the phone company to do something about her party line problem.

Junior Play Features Telephone Romance

The trials and tribulations of love between a sophisticated career woman and a smooth-talking bachelor came to life in the Junior Class's version of "Pillow Talk," presented on November 17 and 18, 1978, in the LHS auditorium.

Because of Brad Allen's continuous use of their party line, a bitter dispute erupts between Jan Morrow and himself. Intrigued by Jan, Brad sets out to capture her heart, in the process disguising himself as a naive Texan. It's rough going at times, especially when his true identity is first discovered, but love triumphs in the end.

The amorous Brad Allen was portrayed by Doug Weiss, with Vaughn Patterson as the unwilling recipient of the party line calls. Both were most convincing in their roles. Fine performances were turned in by Harry Van Keuren as Jan's former beau, Doug Field as her business partner, and Sarah Aronson as a comical and bold housekeeper, unafraid to make her feelings known to all who cared to listen, and even to those who didn't. The supporting performers, under the able direction of Mr. Dale Kehler, were also instrumental to the success of the production, as were the special committees and the hard-working stage crew.

Shocked and unhappy, Jonathan discovers that Jan no longer loves him.

Mrs. Frost ponders Jan's interior decorating suggestion.

Exciting Week Marks Homecoming Festivities

The end of the football season brought with it the beginning of a week of fun which marked the annual festivities associated with Homecoming at Liberty High.

Things got off to a lively start with the sale of "Skin-the-Pates" buttons and a spirit contest sponsored by WKAP in which both Liberty and Freedom students were asked to show how enthusiastic they were by sending in 3X5 cards on which were written the names of their respective schools. By a 3 to 1 margin, Liberty captured that contest.

WAEB's Gene Werley supplied the music Thursday night at the dance in the Girls' Gym where Jill Castro was crowned Homecoming queen. Members of her court included Sharon Ache, Faith MacMurtrie, Connie Jordan, Laura Moore, and Ann Villani, all members of the senior class.

By noon Friday, November 10, the festivities were in full swing. A dunking machine near the patio proved to be most popular while another group of students busied themselves by applying a sledge hammer to a wrecked car on the football practice field. The Grenadier Band added to the occasion as it marched around the campus playing school fight songs. A rousing, confetti-filled pep rally ended the day.

Enthusiasm only goes so far, though, and unfortunately it wasn't enough to prevent Liberty from sustaining a 27-6 defeat at the hands of city rival Freedom that night.

KNEELING: Homecoming Queen Jill Castro. STANDING: Homecoming Court members S. Ache, C. Jordan, F. MacMurtrie, L. Moore, A. Villani.

Confetti fills the air with Maria Donofrio on the receiving end.

Meg Veruki and Ellen Gallagher show that they're ready for the big game (TOP) as Mr. Fair and Angelo Fetter duel on the obstacle course.

Ready to unleash a toss at the dunking booth is Mrs. McKellin.

Before the game Frankie West leads the Hurricane onto the field.

Even after a cream pie assault, Kim Padfield's all smiles.

From the Liberty viewpoint, this sign says it all.

With the kickoff still an hour away, the stands are already filled with excited, cheering fans.

Holiday Season Begins With Annual Vespers

Liberty's musical organizations welcomed the holiday season with their traditional Vespers on December 13, 16, and 17 before large audiences in the LHS auditorium. Sacred and secular songs both were enhanced by living tableaux which provided visual pleasure to match the sounds.

Directed by Mr. Donald Snider, the Liberty Ensemble opened the program with "Come to the Manger" and "Christmas Hymn." Candlelight provided a fitting atmosphere as the Glee Club entered singing Holst's processional "On This Day" and Sargent's arrangement of "Silent Night." The program continued with a series of nine songs, two of which featured soloists Cheryle Veanus, Harry Van Keuren, Sue Mavis, Frankie Roberts, Ann Heisler, Craig Creyer, and Nick Elias.

The orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Ronald Sherry, was then spotlighted in Anderson's "Christmas Festival." The instrumentalists joined with the combined vocal ensembles to perform "Carol Cantata #2" by Bennett. A stirring rendition of Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus brought the program to a thunderous close, in the process creating the special magic feeling that is unique to this time of year.

Gustav Holst's "On This Day" is sung during the Glee Club processional (TOP), and then the group continues with "Let Carols Ring."

The Liberty Ensemble offers Kountz's "Come to the Manger."

"From Heaven High the Angels Come" features soloist Frankie Roberts.

Cathy Allen accompanies a selection by the Liberty Ensemble.

Ginny Moore, Ann Rich, and Joe Gross portray the Nativity scene as the program comes to a close.

Colorful 'Hello Dolly' A Superb Production

The Class of 1980 can be justifiably proud of its colorful production of "Hello Dolly." The entire cast, nothing less than gorgeous in their rainbow-colored costumes, lit up the stage for all four performances on the evenings of March 14, 15, and 17 and on the afternoon of the 16th.

As the matchmaking Dolly Levi, Sarah Aronson was a joy to watch as she wheeled and dealt and managed and manipulated, in the process bringing love into everyone's lives, including her own. Joe Gross was quite convincing as the cranky, money-hungry Horace Vandergelder whose self-proclaimed cleverness proved to be no match for Dolly's wiles.

Also highlighting the play were hilarious performances by Harry Van Keuren as Cornelius Hackle and Doug Field as Barnaby Tucker, Vandergelder's two naive but most likeable clerks who vow to put on their Sunday clothes, see the world, and not come home till they've kissed a girl. On the receiving end of those kisses were Connie Jordan and Julie Hartranft as Irene Molloy and her assistant Minnie Fay, both of whom brought such beauty and talent to their roles as to make them instant sentimental favorites with the audiences at each enthusiastically received performance.

An energetic and most attractive chorus added much to the musical. Particularly pleasing was the "Waiters' Gallop" in which male members of the chorus put on a brilliant display of dancing and acrobatic maneuvers.

At the helm of the production was Mr. Dale Kehler, who succeeded in directing a polished and professional-looking endeavor. Mrs. Diane Signarovitz was responsible for the choreography, and Mr. Gregory MacGill was in charge of the fine pit orchestra. Special mention must also be made of the efforts of Mrs. Jean Hafner, who designed the costumes, and Mrs. Suzanne Kroboth and Mrs. Shirley Daluisio, who helped Mrs. Hafner to make the beautiful outfits.

"I'll never marry you," says Dolly, playing hard to get.

Ecstatic at her return, Dolly greets an old friend.

Sue Donnangelo is featured during a number by the chorus.

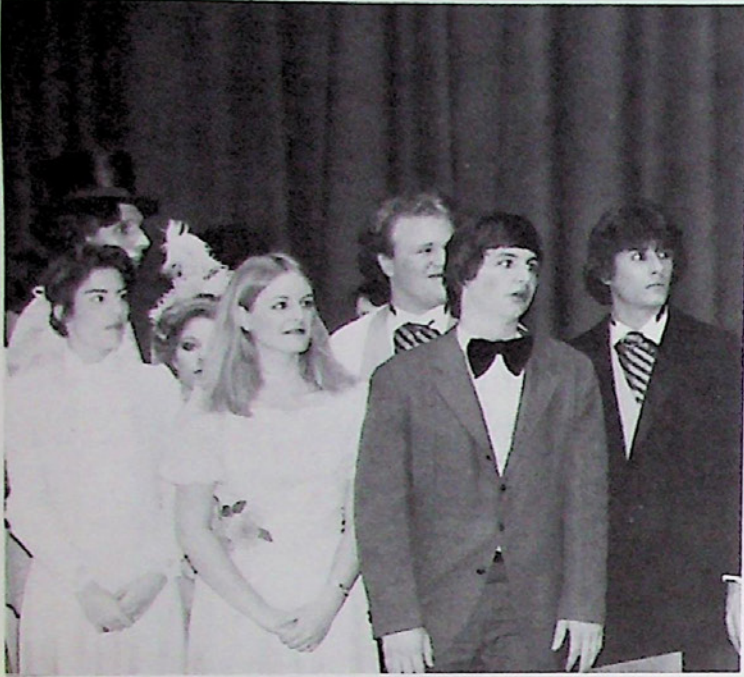

Dolly explains to the Harmonia Gardens waiters that she's glad she's back where she belongs.

The young lovers proclaim their "elegance" to the world.

Irene and Cornelius agree that "it only takes a moment" to fall in love.

In court the brawlers await the judge's verdict.

Mrs. Molloy sings of how she hopes to catch a gentleman's eye.

Tricky Dolly tries to convince Horace that Irene Molloy is not for him.

At Rudolph's command, the waiters move quickly to their appointed places (TOP), and Vandergelder once again scolds his clerks.

Dolly makes her triumphant return to the Harmonia Gardens.

Vandergelder gets a flirtatious glance from Ernestina Money.

Arguing over their future are Ermengarde and her fiance Ambrose.

Liberty Band Superb In Concert Performance

Eight herald trumpets sounding the notes of a spectacular fanfare marked the beginning of one of the finest concerts performed by the Grenadier Band. The two performances, held on the evenings of March 28 and 29, attracted well over 2,000 enthusiastic listeners. Highlighting the program were a pair of demanding overtures, Strauss' "Die Fledermaus" and Rossini's "William Tell." Especially outstanding in the Rossini work was the playing of oboist Linda Henkelmann and flutist Mike Sewell. Other selections included "Parade of the Tall Ships," "Holiday for Winds," "The Irish Washerwoman," Bach's "Air" from the "Suite in D Major," "Bricusse and Newley on Broadway," conducted by Assistant Director Greg MacGill, and, of course, marches by Sousa.

The soloist for this year's concert was Kimberly Wessner, whose flawless bassoon playing in Godfrey's "Lucy Long" won her warm applause. The talented senior displayed an expertise which is very seldom seen at this level of musicianship on any instrument, much less one as difficult as the bassoon. The spotlight also fell upon Senior Cheryle Veanus, who was presented with the Raymond Hoffert Award for outstanding service to the Grenadier Band.

As always the hard-working supporting units added that flashy "something extra" guaranteed to please any audience. The majorettes, who put on a particularly excellent routine, the highland dancers, pipe corps, and color guard were all well received, and deservedly so.

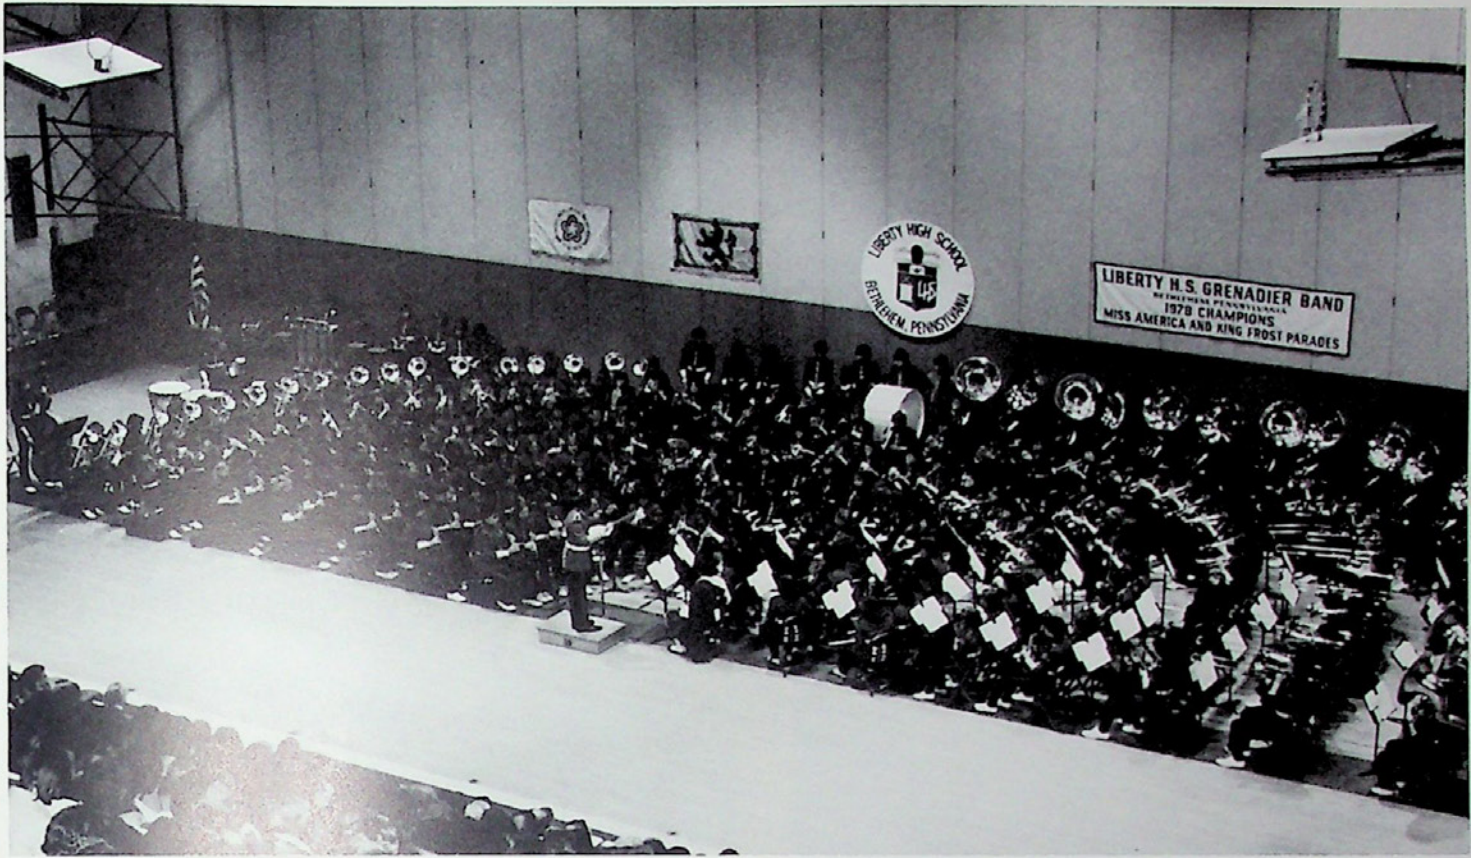

The majorettes complete their routine to "National Emblem" (TOP) and the flutes move expertly through "The Irish Washerwoman."

Modernized 'Macbeth' An Imaginative Treat

Shakespeare once again came alive this year as the Liberty High School Drama Club presented Macbeth as its all-school play on the evenings of April 17, 18, and 19 in the auditorium. In keeping with its past two such efforts, the club's production was far from being a traditional one for, under the direction of advisers Judith Smullen and Leonard Perret, all preconceived notions of how a Shakespearean play should be performed were cast aside and replaced by a modernized and sometimes almost disturbingly surrealistic interpretation. The production was well mounted and well done, offering further proof, if any is really needed, of the greatness and universality of Shakespeare's works.

A special set, done in red and black with mirrors strategically placed around the stage, was designed by Doug Field. LeeAnn Schray and Donna Muschlitz created the special effects and lighting which did much to enhance the ominous mood of the story, as did music ranging from Tchaikovsky to Pink Floyd and Kansas. And some excellent acting, particularly on the part of Chris Allman as the title character and Juliann Gregus as his scheming wife, also deserves recognition as having contributed to the performances' success.

Pops Concert Features Massapequa Musicians

A large and responsive audience was on hand in Memorial Gymnasium on the evening of April 25 as the Liberty High School orchestra presented its 15th annual Pops concert. Joining the Liberty ensemble this year were the 77 members of the Massapequa High School orchestra from New York under the direction of Mr. Martin Feldman.

The massed contingent of 170 players got things off to a rousing start with Hector Berlioz's "Marche Hongroise." Under the baton of Mr. Ronald Sherry, the orchestra continued to please the audience with such favorites as Gliere's "Russian Sailors' Dance" and von Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," which featured some fine solo work by Patti Berger on cello and pianist Mako Haruta.

Mr. Feldman then took the podium and conducted "Danse Infernale" from "The Firebird" by Stravinsky and selections from the Broadway hit "The Wiz." A special feature encouraged by Mr. Sherry, orchestra members, and the audience was a novelty violin solo by the Massapequa director called "Hot Canary." Mr. Feldman's clever playing got plenty of laughs from the audience and an enthusiastic round of applause from all, particularly the string section of the orchestra, who appreciated the difficulty of the piece.

During the program orchestra president Maria DiTroia was presented with the Hoffert Award for her outstanding contributions to the organization.

The soft and haunting "Berceuse" and the thunderous and exhilarating "Finale" from Stravinsky's "The Firebird" brought the program to a close.

LHS Music Ensembles Welcome Spring Season

Liberty High School's vocal ensembles and orchestra welcomed spring in their own unique and thoroughly enjoyable manner on the evenings of May 2 and 3 in the auditorium. Under the direction of Mr. Donald Snider the program opened with a series of songs from the 1930's as sung by the Liberty Ensemble. Featured in this segment of the performance were vocal solos by Ruth Erickson, Debbie Smith, Tracy Savercool, and Aileen Wells, and the dancing talents of Michele Naeyaert, Alison Willey, Lisa Hahn, and Heidi Ushafer. The glee club then entered, singing "Tomorrow" from the Broadway hit "Annie." In the spotlight during this portion was Nick Elias, who played a violin accompaniment to "Here's That Rainy Day" and then dazzled and pleased the audience with a lively solo on the bouzouki.

After the orchestra had provided an instrumental interlude that ended with the rousing "Finale" to Stravinsky's "Firebird," the combined groups continued the program with a series of Lennon and McCartney love songs featuring solo work by Sue Mavis, Cheryle Veanus, Terri Micek, Ann Villani, Kathy Grebenar, Scott Ernst, Tom Starrett, Fran Brown, Sarah Krasnansky, Joe Burghardt, Carl Raub, and Harry Van Keuren. Stepping into the spotlight next was Matt Walker, who did an outstanding job of performing the soliloquy from "Carousel." The program came to a close with Lutkin's "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

Jill Castro Reigns As Queen Of The Prom

Over 250 couples gathered in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Bethlehem on the evening of May 9 as Liberty High held its annual Junior-Senior prom. During the evening Jill Castro was crowned queen of the event. She was escorted by Joe Morrison and attended by a court including Sharon Ache, LeeAnn Brown, Dorrit Elmquist, Melissa George, Connie Jordan, Faith MacMurtrie, and Michelle Weiss.

The theme this year was "The Way We Were in 1980." Four large stage flats, each with a star and the words "The Way We Were" painted on it against a sky blue background, were joined by a 32-foot chiffon ribbon as the centerpiece of the decorations. Twelve paper rainbows were attached to the balcony arches, and a 20-foot square screen was used by Jon Kleintop to present a continuous slide show featuring Liberty students in daily scenes from throughout the year. A light show by Edwin Erickson also enhanced the evening. Music for the occasion was provided by The Topics, with sponsorship of the affair underwritten by the Junior Class.

Suspense, Surprises Mark 1980 Graduation

For those who like suspense, surprises, and "cliff-hanger" endings, 1980 was the year to graduate. Because of the 180-day minimum state requirement, some questionable planning of the school calendar by the central administration, and a pair of snow days that left the district short of the legal limit, the date of commencement exercises see-sawed between the traditional weekend ceremony, scheduled for June 7, and a mid-week graduation on June 11. Finally, after much discussion and debate coupled with the unwillingness of the state legislature to pass a special bill exempting the BASD from the 180-day regulation, the mid-week date became Graduation Day for the Class of 1980.

One of the better commencement exercises in the past few years began with an invocation by Joseph Gross, class treasurer, and continued with two speeches on the theme "In Celebration of Liberty." Class Speaker Kevin Morano stated that the knowledge gained at Liberty "is something we will use and build on the rest of our lives," while Faculty Speaker Connie Jordan stressed that the lives of the graduates "will be so much more complete and fulfilling when we do courageously enter this world, reaching for every possible liberty within our grasp." Soloist Matthew Walker then delivered an outstanding rendition of "Climb Every Mountain," accompanied by the orchestra.

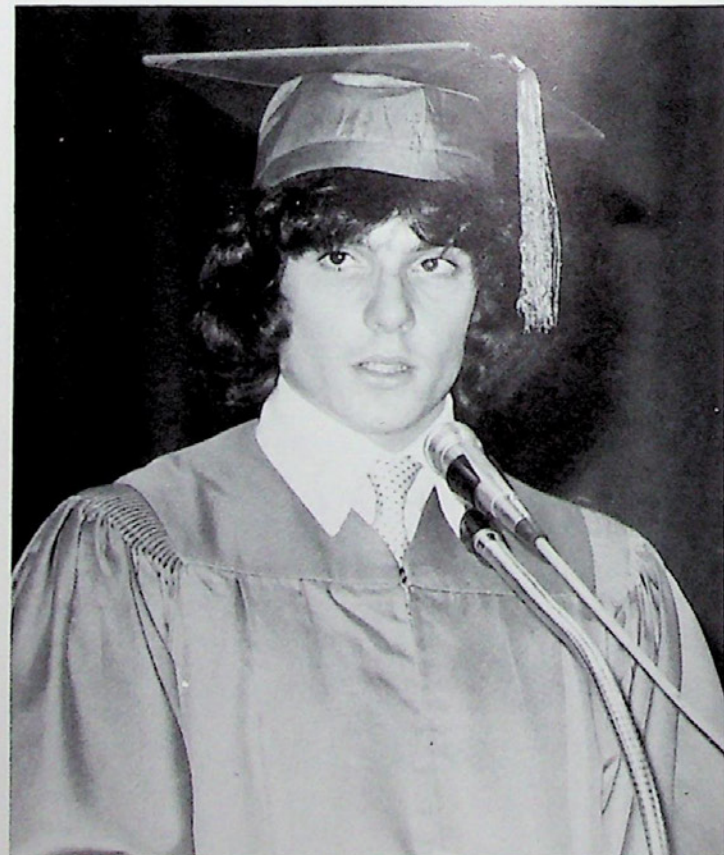

After the recognition of scholastic achievement by Principal Charles Klein and the awarding of prizes to class members, Mr. Craig Borst, a member of the Class of 1960, came forward to present a portrait of Mr. Klein to School Superintendent Robert LaFrankie. Mrs. Jean Trend then announced the names of this year's scholarship winners.

At that point Class President Faith MacMurtrie stepped forward to receive a diploma on behalf of the graduates from School Board Vice-President William Fenstermaker. In her acceptance speech she thanked her classmates, among others, for their perseverance and determination to succeed over the past three years at Liberty High.

Comments from Dorrit Elmquist, foreign exchange student from Denmark, were followed by Vice-President Margaret Veruki's presentation of the class gift which this year included the replacement of three trees on school grounds and a special plaque to be awarded to a deserving senior at graduation for the next twenty years. September Young, class secretary, bid farewell to the Class of 1980 but welcomed the graduates as "a new generation of young adults," at which point appreciative seniors displayed their feelings by tossing their red and blue mortarboards into the air. And at 8:50 p.m., with the singing of the alma mater, 573 more names were added to the list of alumni of Liberty High School.

ACTIVITIES

Numerous clubs and organizations provide opportunities to become involved in social, intellectual, and service activities . . .

Student Assn. Plays Vital Role At Liberty

Every Tuesday during the school year, eight representatives from each class at Liberty High School met to discuss current issues and problems affecting the student body. This group, known collectively as the Student Association, was also responsible for providing some of the social life at the school, including a special Halloween costume dance and a toga dance. On the more serious side, the organization dealt with the ever-present problem of student discipline and played an integral role in the re-opening of the patio as an alternative to study halls or library work. The Student Association also sponsored a very successful pro-America rally in support of the Iranian hostages.

Kathy Zug served as president of the Student Association and was aided by Vice-President Robert Zahm, Secretary Marisa Cerase, and Treasurer Callie Durner. Mr. Constantine Loupos assumed the position of faculty adviser, there to keep a watchful eye on the association's activities and to provide much helpful advice.

Fall Car Wash Raises Funds For Charities

Under the direction of Dr. Frederick Gilmartin, the Liberty Service Club managed well to live up to its title by providing aid to those in need of a helping hand in the community. Among the club's accomplishments were two parties at the Lehigh Valley Child Care Center at Christmas and at Easter, both of which did much to brighten the holiday season for the children in attendance. A car wash was held early in the year, the proceeds from which were donated to the Juvenile Diabetes Association, and club members also gathered in the Whitehall Mall at Christmas to help with the wrapping of presents for busy shoppers. At year's end the group relaxed with a trip to New York City.

Diane Lynch and Cindy Pierog served as co-presidents of the Service Club, Nancy Miravich was the secretary, and Sandy Gerencher held the position of treasurer.

Active Interact Club Aids School, Community

Upholding its reputation as one of the most active organizations at Liberty High, the Interact Club served both the school and the community well. For the student body, a number of dances were sponsored and regular bake sales were held. Money from these endeavors, as well as the proceeds from the club's annual raffle, in turn, was distributed to various charitable organizations in the community. The organization also sponsored an Easter egg hunt on the morning of April 5, a yearly event which attracts more participants each time around and seems to bring nothing less than the greatest joy to all the children present.

Serving as adviser to the club was Mr. George Pitsilos. Officers this year were President Maria Donofrio, Vice-President Jill Castro, Secretary Ann Clymer, and Treasurer Karen Parra. On April 30, the club finished off the year's activities with a trip to New York to see "Annie."

'Enthusiasm' Key Word For Liberty Hoop Girls

Only people wildly enthusiastic about Liberty High and vitally interested in promoting school spirit would stay up all night to make signs and decorate the homes of players before important athletic contests. But LHS had such people, and, collectively known as the Hoop Girls, they did their job very well, to say the least.

The decorating of players' homes was only part of the group's work, however. The 18-member club also provided large hoops, with appropriate messages inscribed on them, through which Liberty athletes ran prior to the start of a game. The "hoopies" could always be counted on to take part in amusing skits at pep rallies, and they also provided an important service to the school community at large by making signs and posters publicizing the meetings and activities of the school's numerous organizations.

Bake sales and the selling of Slim Jims helped defray expenses. Kathy Lewis and Beth Earley headed the Hoop Girls, who were advised by Mrs. Judith Smullen.

Grenadier Pipe Corps Adds Scottish Touch

The unmistakable and unforgettable sound of bagpipes filled the air on many occasions this year as the Grenadier Pipe Unit again provided the colorful Scottish music for which it has become so well known. Under the leadership of Pipe Major Greg Glaros and Principal Drummer Brian Roberson, the 16-member corps spent hours over the summer polishing their marching and maneuvering and refining their musicianship on an instrument that's not all that easy to play. Often joined in their performances by the Highland Dancers, the group was always warmly received no matter where it performed in the greater Lehigh Valley area.

Impressive Grenadiers Garner New Accolades

The stirring sound of a 258-member band thrilled and pleased many a listener this year as the Grenadiers added another chapter to an already impressive history. Under the direction of Mr. Ronald Sherry, assisted by Mr. Gregory MacGill, the band spent many hours over the summer, before each school day, and even during school-year vacation periods perfecting its marching and musicianship. The hard work paid off as the Grenadiers took first place awards in parades at Reading and New Holland and served as the honor band in the Miss America Parade in Atlantic City. The band also journeyed to Knoxville, Tennessee, in early April to participate in that city's Dogwood Festival. There, in competition against nearly eighty other bands, the Grenadiers marched off with a second place award in parade.

Naturally the band was kept busy around Bethlehem, taking part in local parades and playing for many of Liberty's athletic contests, including all football games. Randy Mahl served as Senior Officer this year and was aided by Junior Officer Scott Ernst, Secretary Ann Heisler, Treasurer Sherri Conca, and Head Librarian Maria DiTroia.

Majorettes And Dancers Complement LHS Band

Reputations are often difficult to live up to, and since the majorette squad at Liberty has been consistently excellent for years, the pressure to maintain that excellence is particularly great. But the sixteen members of the squad, under the leadership of Head Majorette Annette Picucci and co-heads Patti Berger and Sharon Ache, were more than equal to the task. Giving up many hours of free time during the summer months, as well as before and after school, this hard-working group on every occasion displayed the poise, choreographic and twirling skills, and the enthusiasm that has come to be expected of Liberty's majorettes.

From the ranks of the squad were chosen eight girls to become members of the Highland Dancers. This group, led by Principal Dancer Annette Picucci, specialized in Scottish folk dances and performed on numerous occasions during the course of the school year both at Liberty and in the community for special events sponsored by civic groups.

Stage Band Captures Honors In Tennessee

Where does a musician go who's tired of rock and disco and who wants to play good, solid jazz instead? Try the Liberty stage band. Under the direction of Mr. Gregory MacGill, the group rehearsed on a weekly basis and then showcased its talents in a number of instances, including basketball games and the special Easter assembly. The ensemble also took part in several stage band competitions at area high schools. Undoubtedly the group's most outstanding achievement this year was the first prize it won in a contest at the Knoxville Dogwood Festival in Tennessee in April. Cited for special commendation were drummer James DelGrosso and the entire trombone section. Selected individuals from the band also did a superior job, in combination with several orchestra members, of providing the musical accompaniment for the Senior Class musical, "Hello Dolly."

LHS Orchestra Travels To Massapequa High For Special Concert

Musicians are usually thought of as being a pretty well traveled group of individuals, and Liberty's orchestra proved to be no exception to that generalization as the ensemble engaged in its second exchange concert program in as many years. Last time it was a trip to Ontario, Canada, while this year the group visited Massapequa, New York, in early spring. In turn, the Massapequa contingent journeyed to Bethlehem to appear at the annual Liberty Pops concert.

Naturally the orchestra was kept busy at home, performing at special assemblies and with the LHS vocal ensembles at Vespers and the spring musical. Officers during the 1979-80 school year were Maria DiTroia, president, Cheryle Veanus, vice-president, Lisa Sweterlitsch, secretary, and Carol Krisulevicz, treasurer. Mr. Ronald Sherry was conductor of the nearly 100 instrumentalists in the organization.

Liberty Vocal Groups Continue Fine Tradition

Although the numbers were not as large as in the past, Liberty's vocal groups maintained their well-deserved reputation for excellence. Under the direction of Mr. Donald Snider, the Glee Club, Choraliers, and Liberty Ensemble provided many beautiful musical moments, not only for the students of Liberty, but for the community as well.

Since too few sophomore boys displayed an interest in participating, Mr. Snider decided to phase out the Sophomore Choir and add all first-year singers to the Glee Club, an organization which, prior to this time, had consisted only of juniors and seniors. The result, as might well be expected, was an organization with even greater depth and quality. Membership in the Choraliers continued to be limited to a select group of senior Glee Club members, while the all-girl Liberty Ensemble provided another musical dimension.

All three groups participated in the annual Vespers program and the spring musical. The Glee Club took part in a special Thanksgiving Day assembly and a gathering designed to honor American hostages in Iran. The Choraliers provided entertainment at the Easter assembly, and all three groups journeyed into the community to bring their sound to various church and civic organizations.

The Choraliers are featured in a special Easter program for the Liberty student body.

During Vespers the alto section is spotlighted.

Liberty Scholars Shine In Academic Contests

Liberty's math and Scholastic Scrimmage teams did well this year thanks to the helpful and patient assistance of their dedicated coach, Miss Doris Helms.

The Scholastic Scrimmage team was composed of four students: Josh Simon, who acted as captain, Randy Mahl, Clare Feigl, and Bob Tinsman. The competitors got off to a good start with a 250-120 victory over Whitehall in a contest which was much closer than the final tally would indicate. Unfortunately Freedom put an end to any hopes of gaining the TV championship in the next encounter late in March.

Tinsman, Feigl, Vance Morrison, Matt Rzucidlo, and Joel Bader made up this year's math team. In an oral competition, which was held at East Stroudsburg State College, Tinsman, Rzucidlo, and Morrison made an outstanding showing and finished in first place. The written competition team, composed of Tinsman, Feigl, Morrison, and Bader traveled to Millersville State College where they were put to the test, the results of which were not known as of the yearbook's publishing deadline. Hopes, however, were justifiably high for another top-place award for Liberty.

Joel Bader, Matt Rzucidlo, Bob Tinsman, Vance Morrison, and Clare Feigl join Miss Helms in a practice session prior to a math contest.

National Honor Society Recognizes And Rewards Scholastic Achievement

The National Honor Society, under the advisership of Mr. Chris Miller, enjoyed a most successful year. This organization gave recognition to the determined seniors who had managed to attain a 3.5 cumulative average or better in their previous two years at Liberty.

The group, following a trend which has developed over the past several years, dedicated itself to providing service and raising money to be donated to area charities. To that end, members arranged a party at Christmas for patients in the children's ward of St. Luke's Hospital and held numerous bake sales and car washes, the proceeds from which were to be given to selected charitable organizations chosen by the membership at year's end.

Office holders this year were President Alexi Assmus, Vice-President Mako Haruta, Secretary Tina Pippis, and Thomas Knight, in charge of handling finances.

Liberty Debaters Lose In Schoolmen's Club's Annual Forensic Test

Nineteen eighty proved to be a bad year for Liberty's debate team, which lost both halves of the annual forensic contest sponsored by the Bethlehem Schoolmen's Club to crosstown rival Freedom. The Liberty contingent came out on the short end of things in the initial debate held at Freedom but could still have won the trophy had they performed well enough on their "home field." Unfortunately the Patriot debaters were more than equal to the task, not only presenting a more convincing argument, but doing so in a more self-assured and convincing fashion. The Liberty team particularly appeared to lose its composure when facing the aggressive cross-examination of Freedom questioner Walter Speck, a situation which cost them valuable points.

Arguing for Liberty were Frank Amigo, Kris Link, Sarah Strohmeier, Tina Pippis, and Connie Jordan. Mr. Mark Pesavento served as adviser to the group.

Connie Jordan points out a flawed argument to Tina, Sarah Strohmeier, and Kris Link.

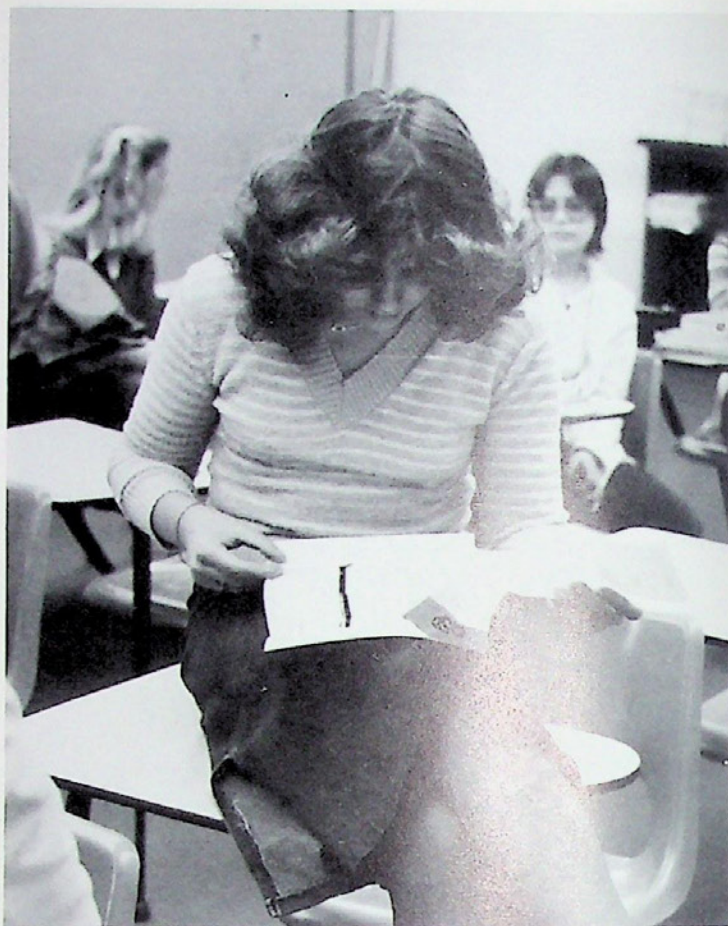

Language Clubs Study International Cultures

The language clubs at Liberty provided students with the opportunity to gain a greater knowledge of the lifestyles and cultural characteristics of other countries — something which cannot always be done in the classroom.

Approximately fifteen members made up this year's edition of the Spanish Club, advised by Mr. John Pinto. Officers included President Cathy Guldner, Vice-President Cindy Borger, Secretary Debbie Smith, and Treasurer Martha Ringer. Like most other clubs, this organization raised funds to meet its expenses by getting involved in salesmanship, in this instance the selling of candy.

Among the events on the agenda for this organization were a trip to New York to see a Broadway musical and a party, complete with traditional Spanish food and a pinata, for other foreign language students.

President Jane Shatsky was in charge of the twenty-member German Club, which met on a monthly basis to explore both historic and modern Germany. In addition club members were able to enjoy a hayride, Christmas party, and a special trip to New York City. The sale of Advent calendars and the ever-popular "gummi" bears proved to be an excellent means of raising money to cover the group's expenditures. Other officers included Vice-President Robert Zahm, Secretary Joyce Dickey, and Treasurer Terry Petraglia. Mr. Jerry Damandl served as the faculty adviser.

Ambitious Drama Club Displays Stage Artistry

Perhaps no organization at Liberty has members that set higher goals for themselves than the Drama Club. What's more, the organization succeeds in attaining those goals, the most ambitious of which was the production of a modernized version of Macbeth, an event that marked the third consecutive year that a Shakespearean play was successfully performed and well received by the students at LHS. Also on the agenda this year was a night of improvisational skits, based upon the theme of family life, and a pair of plays especially geared for younger audiences, which were performed at three of the city's elementary schools.

Harry Van Keuren served as president of the club and was aided by Vice-President Doug Field, Secretary Debbie Thomas, and Treasurer Kim Hosfeld. Mrs. Judith Smullen and Mr. Leonard Perrett were the co-advisers.

Talented Stage Crew Keeps Things Moving

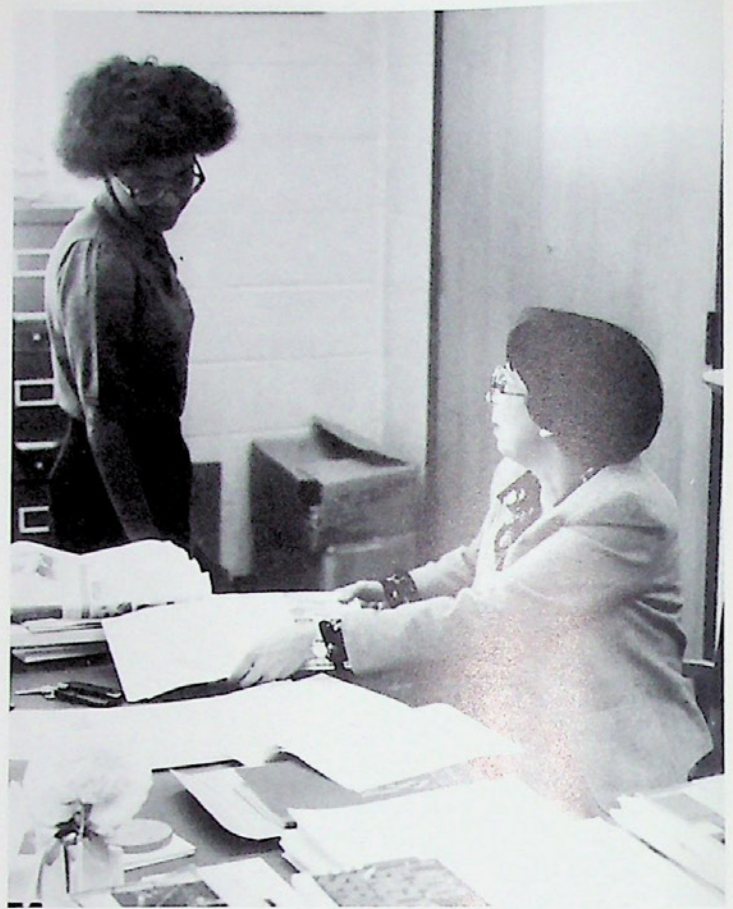

Behind the scenes at every Liberty High School play, concert, or assembly, a group of industrious and technically talented individuals worked to insure a good performance. The stage crew, advised by Mr. Dale Kehler, was responsible for the making and placement of scenery and props, lighting, special effects, and countless other operations, both major and minor, without which no production would have succeeded. The normally unpublicized group was composed of students from each of the three classes, and this year included seniors Tom Kucsan, Brett Lovitz, and Lori Nebinger.

LHS Brotherhood Club Sponsors Special Week Featuring Black History

Highlighting the activities of the Brotherhood this year was the club's involvement in Black History Week. During that special five-day period in February, the club saw to it that the student body was both informed and entertained by a program prepared by the group. Showcase exhibits and films helped to increase the awareness of all as to the many contributions that have been made by blacks and Hispanics to American culture. Serving as adviser was Ms. Anita Amigo. Officers for this year were Sharon Butts, president, Ubaldo Cruz, vice-president, Denise Rios, treasurer, and Karen Neupauer, who served as club secretary.

'Excellent' The Word For School Newspaper

Probably every high school newspaper staff goes to work with a commendable and fervid ambition to produce the finest edition in the history of the school, and thus it was with the 1979-80 Liberty Life staff. Under the fine leadership of the editor-in-chief, Alexi Assmus, many hours of hard work were given to the compilation of the monthly publication which kept both the faculty and students informed of the important events in the high school community. However, the newspaper could not have survived without the much-needed help given by the entire staff and the four assistant editors, Susan Sibley, Sarah Strohmeyer, Dave Sullivan, and Kym Tihansky, in charge of news, features, art, and sports, respectively. A great deal of expert guidance based on experience was provided by the faculty adviser, Mr. Roger Hudak. The results of the time, thought, talk, and effort applied by the entire journalistic staff proved to be a truly representative picture of the life at Liberty.

Young Writer Captures Highest State Honors

Maintaining its reputation as an excellent showcase of students' literary and artistic talents, Young Writer produced yet another fine issue in May. Last year's magazine took top honors in state competition, and this year's edition would surely seem to be a strong contender for that same recognition by the prestigious PSPA.

In the annual contest sponsored by the staff, seniors Lisa Transue and Laura Libricz both walked off with $25 savings bonds as winners in the art and literature categories, respectively, for their fine efforts.

Barb Stretzky and Frank Barella served as literary co-editors, and Judi Maloney and Cindy Pierog were in charge of the art section. Sue Foster was placed in control of financing the publication, and she did an excellent job of seeing to it that the necessary funds were available. Money Problems Solved, Cauldron Goes To Press

"To be, or not to be, that is the question." This famous Shakespearean quote seems most appropriate in describing the question that was foremost in many minds this past fall — whether or not the Cauldron would exist. Since the senior class was severely lacking in the way of money, the outlook for the yearbook seemed bleak. But sufficient financial support was finally amassed thanks to the massive fund-raising efforts of the class officers, and the go-ahead for production was given in December.

Few people realize the amount of hard work necessary to make the yearbook a success. It is not until one takes part in writing stories, doing layouts, rushing to meet deadlines, and solving the numerous problems associated with the book's production that one begins to see what it's all about. The long hours and headaches are forgotten in the end, however, replaced by a feeling of pride in knowing you've helped to capture memories of the final high school year of nearly 600 individuals who make up the Class of 1980.

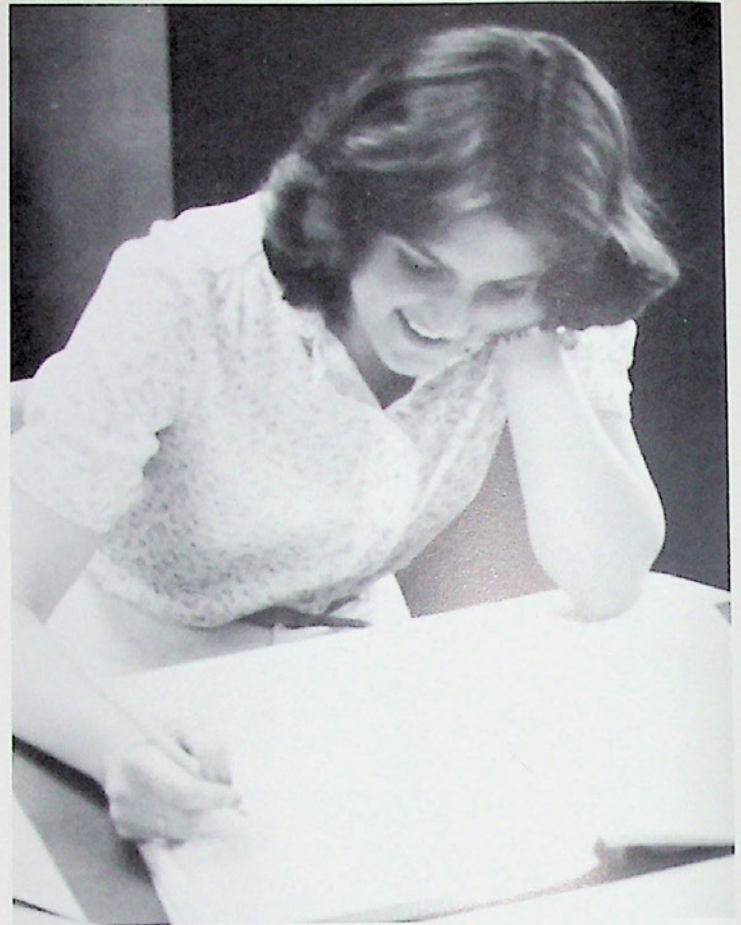

This year Clare Feigl served as editor-in-chief of the publication with Lorraine Hamel and Jane Shatsky as the literary co-editors and Juliann Gregus as the layout editor. Meg Veruki, Faith MacMurtrie, Alison Willey, Kathy Zug, and Laura Moore were the editors of the academics, seniors, activities, highlights, and sports sections, respectively. New Club Explores World Of Business

Future Business Leaders of America was a nationally affiliated organization comprised of students who were enrolled in at least one business course. The club sponsored service projects for the community and at the same time gave its members the opportunity to develop leadership skills.

Among the club's activities this year were a series of fund-raising events and the taking of field trips to area businesses. FBLA participated in competitive events at other high school chapters and obtained a state charter.

This year faculty advisers Dennis Gehris and Glenn Koplin organized a club of thirteen charter members, among them President Aileen Wells and Vice-President Joseph Walker. Joanne McIntyre served as secretary, the treasurer was Lisa Frankenfield, and Karen Kuhns served as historian.

Liberty High School Extends Warm Welcome To Danish Student

It was Liberty's good fortune this year to play host to one of the most personable, intelligent, and charming exchange students the school has ever welcomed, and that is Dorrie Elmquist from Denmark. Now a resident of Copenhagen, Dorrie was originally from Sweden where she lived for the first ten years of her life. She is no stranger to this side of the Atlantic, having already spent time in Mexico, Florida, and Texas three years ago. While in Bethlehem, Dorrie stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller. Her bright, warm personality made her an instant favorite with students and faculty alike. Those who were able to get to know her surely consider themselves fortunate for the experience, for she is the kind of person whom one rarely meets, so special are the qualities which she possesses.

Energetic Cheerleaders Boost Morale Of Teams

Many hours of hard work paid off handsomely for the LHS varsity cheerleaders during the '79-'80 season. These girls made sure that the teams knew that someone was always rooting for them, giving each squad a morale boost, which is often the difference between winning and losing.

The squad consisted of seniors and juniors, captained by Mary Ann Shramko and Laura Moore, and was coached by Miss Chris Ortwein. Fund-raising projects were instituted to provide money to send each cheerleader to camp. While there they won a number of ribbons, including an award for the most spirited squad at the sessions.

Squad members in addition to the captains included Kathy Zug, Debbie DeFazio, Anita Stroble, Ginny Moore, Heidi Ushafer, Lesa Morrison, and Carol King.

All-Stater Valianatos Paces Winning Campaign

The Cosmos? The Fury? Well, not quite. But Liberty's soccer team continued to be just as much of a force to reckon with on its own level of play as the Hurricane captured 14 of twenty contests, in the process once again contending for the EPL crown and capturing a berth in the district playoffs held in Allentown.

In his second season as head coach, Joe Tavares was faced with something of a rebuilding job. Only four seniors returned to the field, so most of the lineup consisted of relatively inexperienced underclassmen. Particularly missed was Senior Tim Nonnemacher, unable to play this year, whose talent can be attested to by the fact that he was drafted by the Pennsylvania Stoners, the Lehigh Valley's entry in the American Soccer League.

After tuning up and making adjustments in the pre-season Elco Tournament, Liberty opened its East Penn League campaign with a 12-game win streak that included a thrilling come-from-behind 3-2 victory over intracity rival Freedom under the lights in BASD Stadium. An upset loss to a scrappy Emmaus contingent and a three-overtime scoreless duel with Freedom left Liberty and the Patriots tied for the championship, necessitating a playoff two days later at Moravian College. Freedom, playing a superb defensive game, blunted the Hurricane attack sufficiently to walk off the field with a 3-1 triumph and the EPL title. A week later Liberty, emotionally drained by its encounters with the Pates, dropped a 3-2 decision to Emmaus in the opening round of the District XI tournament at Patriots' Park.

Senior Mike Valianatos was the Hurricane's chief offensive threat, and his outstanding play earned him a spot on the all-state team. Chris Allman, Jeff Raniere, and Derek Fleck were the other veterans who formed the nucleus of the club. Underclassmen Joe Petraglia, Brian Rodenbach, Ken Pellatiro, Ed Hrichak, Pete Csongradi, Mike Molnar, Jim Collins, and Brian Spadaccia were all instrumental to the team's success and will certainly make the Hurricane a championship contender again next year.

Liberty Gridders Create Surprise Success Story

In a pre-season interview, Coach Frank Gutierrez was not terribly optimistic about his team's chances. "We're very inexperienced," he said. "We've only got 13 seniors, and some of them are out for football for the first time. It's almost an unbelievable situation."

Following the first game of the season, a 33-7 thrashing at the hands of eventual EPL champion Dieruff, most fans agreed that it would indeed be a long and dismal campaign. They were proven wrong.

Displaying to the fullest that intangible called "character," the Hurricane refused to live up to the "they-aren't-going-anywhere" reputation with which many had already tagged the team. Four straight wins made Liberty a surprise contender for the league crown, and although the title was not to be, the team's heart-stopping 14-12 victory over Allen on October 26 did assure the Hurricane of its first winning record in three years, something few people thought possible in what was obviously a rebuilding season.

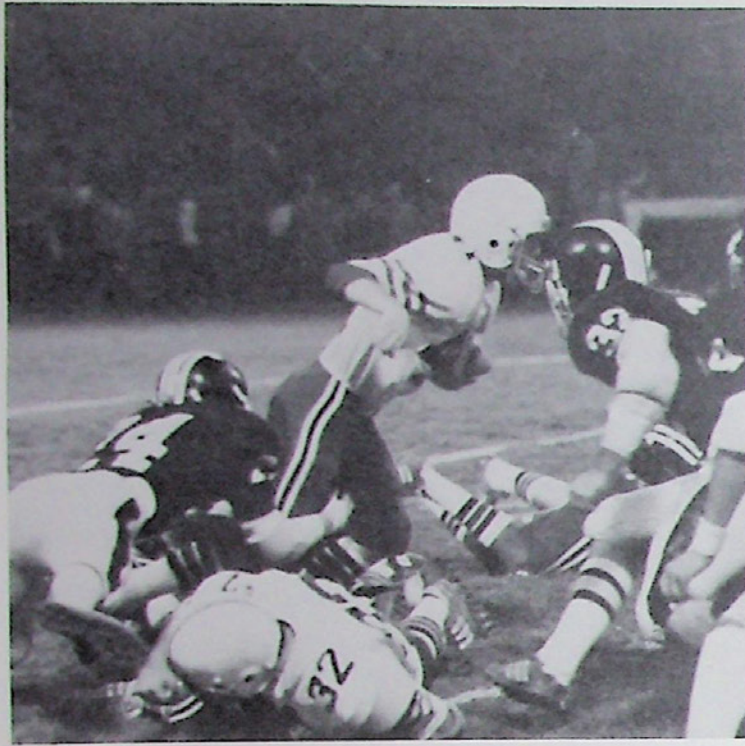

The running of Bob Detweiler, the pass-catching of Frankie West and Tom Haupt, the blocking and tackling of John Hnatishin and Jeff Lynn, and the overall field generalship of Mike John all contributed to the Liberty success story. Detweiler and Hnatishin were named outstanding back and lineman, respectively. And surely words of praise should also be directed towards the coaching staff, a hard-working group that obviously had much to do with the final results.

Lessons Learned Well, Tennis Team Rebounds

What a difference a year can make. Last time around Coach Sandy Seidel had to start from scratch to rebuild a team depleted by graduation. That meant a lot of new people taking the court for the first time, and in the highly competitive East Penn League, that translates into "losing season." But this year was a different story as the Liberty girls, having obviously learned their lessons well, rebounded to take eight of eleven contests and reverse last season's mark in impressive fashion.

Junior Debbie Barreiro, still trying to add the dimension of consistency to her game, was Liberty's top player. She had plenty of help, however, from Senior Marisa Cerase, Junior Lori Suit, and Sophomore Marianne Zweifel, all of whom gave clear indication of just how quickly and how far their skills had progressed in one year. Other senior members who helped the team to its successful campaign included Carol Krisulevicz, Sue Ellis, Nancy Bednar, and Sue Foster. With three of the top four singles players returning and new talent available in the persons of Theo Loupos, and Yvonne and Arlene Gallo, the Hurricane should be a definite title contender when next September rolls around.

Unfortunately Miss Seidel won't be with them. At the end of the season, she announced that she was resigning her coaching position. As the first and only coach of girls' tennis since the program was established in 1973, her accomplishments are many and serve as testimony to the excellence of her coaching. Included in her record are four consecutive unbeaten seasons, four straight EPL titles, and an overall 61-20-1 record. Given the ever-changing roster of players on the high school level, that .753 won-lost percentage is no small feat. She will be missed.

Determined Hockey Team Responds To Challenge

Although the 1979 girls' field hockey team may not be remembered for winning, it will certainly be thought of whenever someone reflects on how a team responds to adversity. Few in number to begin with, the squad was depleted even further by injuries and illness. Especially meaningful was the loss of Senior Co-Captain Faith MacMurtrie, an EPL all-star and, perhaps, the finest hockey player ever at Liberty. Her inspired play and leadership on the field were greatly missed throughout the greater part of the season.

Yet the Hurricane held its own and never went down to defeat easily; and sometimes the team's enthusiasm and never-say-die attitude brought success, like a most-pleasing 1-0 triumph over Freedom on the Patriots' home field. Co-Captain Meg Veruki, Alison Willey, September Young, Sue Reynolds, and Ann Wrable, all in their last season, played well. Juniors Ellen Gallagher, Gretchen Young, Grace Delp, and Pam Sobchak form the nucleus around which Coach Janice McKellin will build next year's squad.

Small Turnout Hinders Cross Country Team

Things certainly didn't look very promising to Coach Mike Buonassi when he took a look at the turnout on the opening day of practice. Not all that many runners had reported. After all, to someone of high school age there's still probably more "prestige" involved in kicking goals in soccer or toting a football than toiling alone near exhaustion over a three-plus-mile cross country course. Gone, too, was Len Mellon, one of the finer runners to ever compete for the Hurricane and the mainstay of last year's squad. Obviously even the most optimistic observer did not expect a winning year, and events simply proved how accurate that pre-season assessment actually was.

Yet the Hurricane performed admirably in an extended EPL schedule highlighted by three wins in four outings against city rivals Becahi and Freedom. In a number of meets the difference of one or two places would have easily turned the score around, so the won-lost record tends not truly to indicate how competitive the team really was. Better things seem to be on the horizon since Tom Collier and Keith Brown, who led the way for Liberty, will be back. Collier was particularly impressive and placed fifth in the all-league meet and a more-than-respectable seventh in districts.

Hurricane Linksmen Have Rebuilding Year

After dominating the tough East Penn League for the past three years, the Liberty golf team finally came back down to earth in a classic example of what happens during a rebuilding season. Performing in a pressure-filled sport like golf is not easy for the best of players, and newcomers often find that pressure a little too much to handle. But with no returning lettermen to count on, Coach Charlie Peters had no choice but to go with untested talent for the most part, and thus inexperience kept the Hurricane from challenging for a third straight EPL title.

On the brighter side, A.G. Pitsilos and Dan Burke, both in their final year, provided a steadying influence for some of the younger players. And Ann Cululi, a senior who last year had the distinction of being the first girl to compete for Liberty in golf, had an outstanding season which she capped by winning the District XI girls' championship and finishing in the top twenty in state competition.

Since this past season took care of the experience factor, there are high hopes for next year when Matt Rzucidlo, Frank Horwath, Tim O'Keefe, John Missimer, Roger Uhler, Jeff Foreman, and Paul Pavelko will all be around to try to put Liberty back on the championship track once more.

Wrestlers Learn Fast, Post Winning Season; Bresnak State Champion

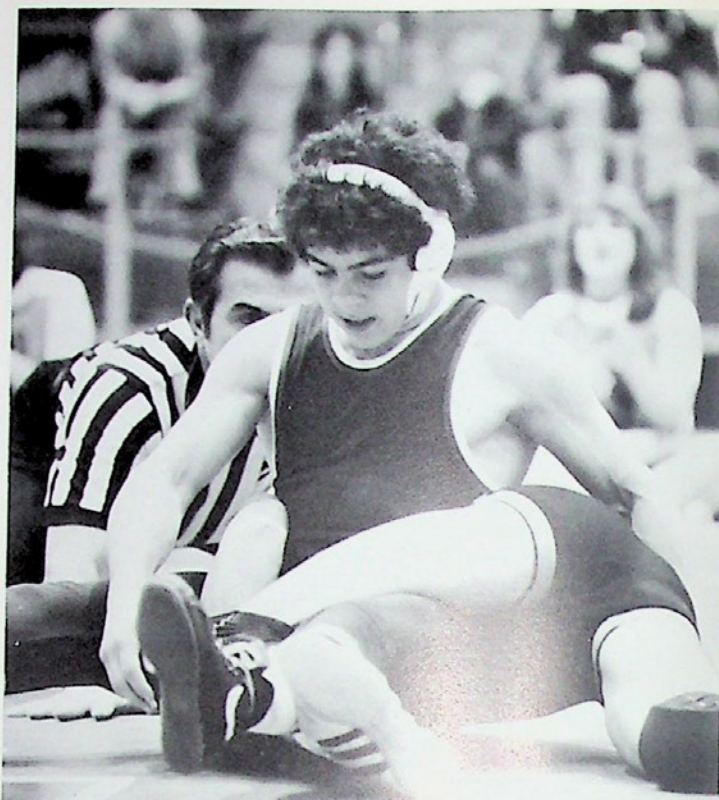

When graduation takes a heavy toll, when the turnout is not particularly big, and when, as a result of the previously mentioned items, you enter a season with the stigma of being "an easy team to beat," you have to pull off some big wins to prove yourself. That's exactly what the Hurricane did, though, in the process earning much well deserved respect, not only for the team, but for Coach Frank Gutierrez, whose next accomplishment may well be a stroll on the surface of some local body of water. His ability to take a team that featured six relatively inexperienced underclassmen, including two freshmen, two seniors who had never wrestled varsity before, and, for a time, no legitimate heavyweight, and mold them into a winner was no small accomplishment.

Highlighting the year was Liberty's victory over Becahi in a contest no one thought the Hurricane could possibly win. No one, that is, except for Coach Gutierrez and his scrappy crew who put an end to the Hawks' 26-meet unbeaten string. It was a tremendous team effort.

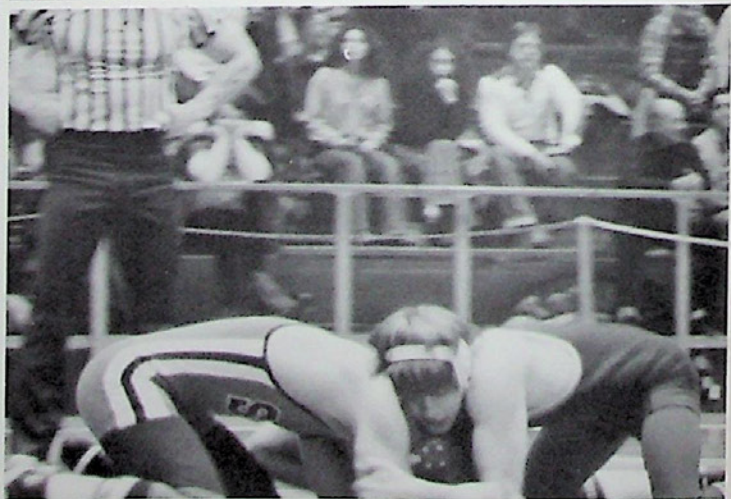

Individually freshmen Darron Henning and Dave Romig at 98 and 119, respectively, both had fine seasons and displayed lots of potential. Scott Kelly at 126 held his own against some of the toughest competition in the state, while Junior Dave Torres at 132 can boast of a pin against Becahi that proved to be the turning point of that contest. Angelo Fetter (108) and Fran Gutierrez (145), both sophomores, showed much promise, and seniors Dave Molnar (138) and Steve Humma (185) turned in creditable performances, particularly when one considers that this was the first year either had gone out for the sport. Rounding out the squad were seniors Mike Willner at 167 and Kenny Kocher at heavyweight, both of whom made strong contributions.

But the most exciting and impressive seasons came from seniors Bryan Callahan (155) and Jim Bresnak (112). Callahan ended three successful years of varsity wrestling by placing first in districts, second in regionals, and being named to the EPL all-star team. Only a severe ankle injury prevented him from achievement in the state meet, where he still managed to advance to the quarterfinals.

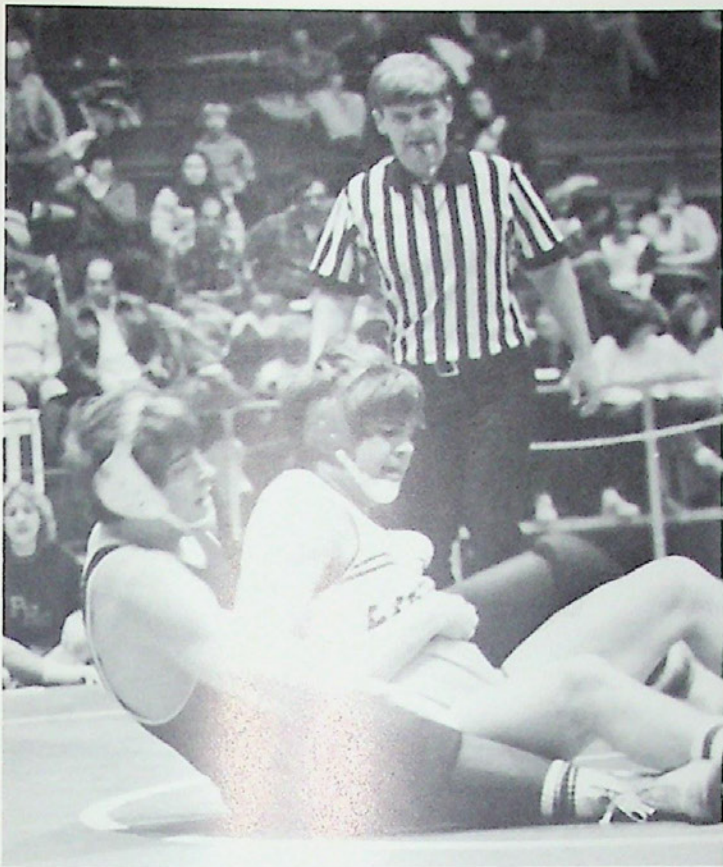

Bresnak finished third in the District XI meet but turned the tables on the duo that defeated him by knocking off both competitors in a spectacularly wrestled pair of bouts at regionals. That accomplishment was only the start, though, as the strong and very talented Hurricane grappler then went on to hand losses to the same two individuals in the final rounds of the state tournament to bring home yet another state championship to Liberty High School.

No problem for Jim Bresnak as he gets set to pin his Allen opponent.

Talented Trio Leads LHS Basketball Team

Paced by the scoring of Mike Arner, the rebounding of John Schneckner, and the playmaking of Frankie West, Liberty's basketball team came ever so close to a berth in the District XI playoffs this season. In fact the Hurricane was eliminated by a technicality which required that a spot be given to a team from another geographic area of the district, so while Pottsville was in, Liberty was out.

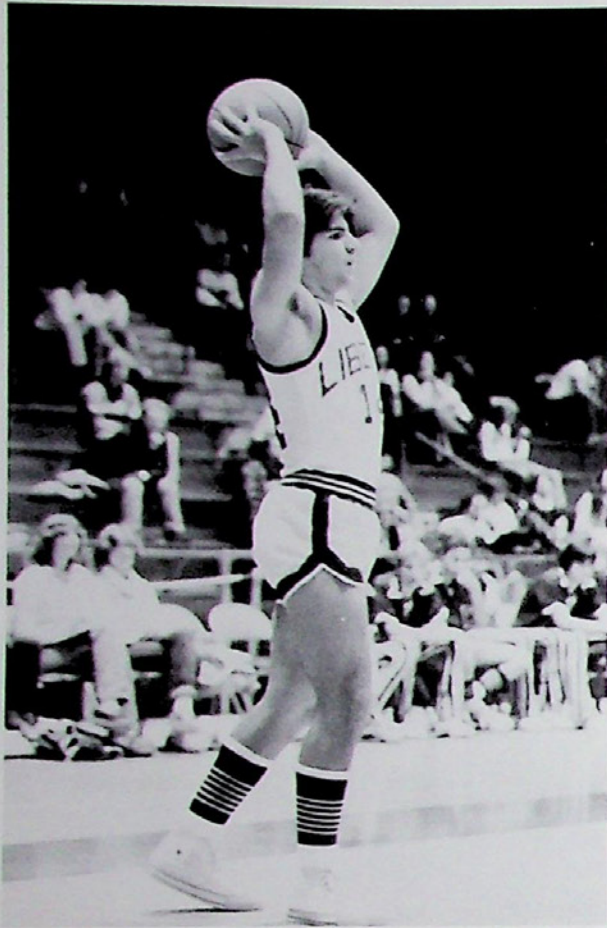

Arner, who, as a sophomore, showed considerable promise, gave evidence that he was no "one-year wonder." His better-than-17 ppg. average was just a fraction short of that which would have given him the EPL scoring title, yet his game was anything but one-dimensional. Rebounding, ballhandling, passing, and defense — Arner did them all, and did them all well. Schneckner, who transferred from Becahi, proved to be a tower of strength underneath and also helped out on the offensive end of the court with some timely scoring. And there were few quicker or more clever guards around than West who, despite his diminutive size, was a key ingredient to the success of the team.

Senior Maurice Anderson, much more consistent this year, knew how to fill up the basket, while Junior Corky Carter, the best leaper on the team, was a tremendous asset in the rebounding department. The heir-apparent to West's playmaking guard spot is Junior Mike John, who showed that his quarterbacking talents are not limited to the football field. With Carter, John, and Arner all back next season, Liberty should once again be a playoff contender.

Inconsistent Offense Plagues Liberty Girls

Though plagued on occasion by an inconsistent offense, the girls' basketball team managed a respectable showing in the always tough East Penn League and returned to District XI playoff competition for the first time since 1976. At one point the team, coached by Miss Fran Bentkowski, mounted a modest three-game win streak during which the Hurricane defeated each of its opponents by a better than 20-point margin. Included in that string was Liberty's first-ever victory over Emmaus by a 66-45 score. At that point, however, the offense once again went cold, and that resulted in the team's sub-.500 final record.

Three-year veterans Faith MacMurtrie, Callie Durner, MaryBeth Marcincin, and Carrieann Molnar were joined by Sophomore Marianne Zweifel to form the starting five on most occasions. Junior Diane Wruble, however, saw a great deal of playing time and, with Durner, who was named to the EPL all-star squad, paced the rebounding. Molnar was the top scorer with strong support from Wruble, who demonstrated that she can play very effectively at both ends of the court and who will surely rank as one of the top performers in the circuit next year. Also important to the Hurricane effort were Junior Jackie Salak, another tough rebounder who excelled at driving the lane, and Sophomore Dawn Conover, a clever guard who showed signs of becoming a fine play-maker.

Medley Relay Team Paces Girl Swimmers

An impressive 8-3 record and a strong showing in District XI competition, where the Hurricane finished second to powerful Emmaus, were the results and rewards of the many hours of hard work put in by members of the LHS girls' swimming team coached by Mr. Robert Snyder.

At districts the medley relay team of Sue Knight, Monique Gravez, Barb Streletzky, and Karen Follweiler swam off with a first place, in the process breaking their own school standard with a time of 2:00.36. That mark was bettered only a few days later, however, when that same quartet brought their time down to 1:59.54 while competing at states.

Individually Streletzky was just barely nudged out of second place by .05 second in the District XI backstroke final while Follweiler, Knight, Gravez, Sue Foster, Jill Lewis, Jessica Phelps, and Sharon Rehm all were listed among the top ten finishers in that same competition. Follweiler was particularly impressive with a pair of fourth places in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events in the meet.

Six New Records Set By Liberty Swimmers

There are two features about the 1979-80 boys' swimming team that immediately come to mind as being noteworthy: the squad was responsible for setting six new school records, and the team consisted of only thirteen swimmers. The fact that so few did so much is testimony both to the talent and drive of the athletes themselves and the coaching skills of Mr. Robert Snyder. In a post-season interview Snyder said he felt that the season was "The most satisfying in years. It was very successful. The kids we ended up with did the work. They worked hard."

Senior co-captains Don Enright and Tom Knight were the mainstays of the team and leaders of the record-breaking assault. Enright broke standards in the 50 freestyle and 100 free, while Knight did the same in the 200 IM and 100 breaststroke. The duo of Knight and Enright then combined with Junior Fred Johnson and Sophomore Rob Cuthbert to reset the 400 freestyle relay record. Individually Johnson also established a new record in the 200 freestyle.

Added to the above-mentioned efforts were the considerable talents of Bill Danish, Mike Engiles, Bob Franssen, George Mowrer, and Jim Willner.

Of the nine swimmers who qualified for districts, Knight took first in the 100 breaststroke and 200 IM, and Enright took first in the 50 free and second in the 100 free. The team of Enright, Knight, Johnson, and Cuthbert placed third in the 400 freestyle relay. Enright and Knight also did very well at states where they placed seventh in the 100 breaststroke and eighth in the 50 free, respectively.

DeFazio, Tihansky Pace LHS Gymnastics Team

Led by Junior Kathi DeFazio, the gymnastics team completed its first winning campaign ever in its brief five-year history with a 4-2 mark, a record which included an exciting victory over an Emmaus squad that featured three members of the nationally ranked Parkettes Gymnastics Club. Only losses to District XI co-champions Easton and Freedom marred the log compiled by Coach Janice McKellin's team.

DeFazio was the team's most spectacular and most consistent performer, and her confidence and ability seemed to grow perceptibly with every meet. She re-wrote the school record book on four different occasions, made a strong showing as an all-around competitor in both the league and district meets, and earned herself a berth in the state finals.

Another very important performer for Liberty was Senior Kym Tihansky, a four-year veteran whose gracefulness on the beam resulted in a third place finish in District XI competition. Maria Donofrio, a fifth-place finisher on the uneven bars, Jill Castro, who was particularly strong in floor exercise, Sue Reynolds, and Tina Trinkle, all seniors, were vital to the team's success.

The outlook for the future is bright, not only because DeFazio is returning, but because of underclassmen like Kim Reynolds, Fran Yuhas, Allison Diamond, Pam Schneck, Paula Pavelko, and Freshman Toni Iasiello, all of whom displayed considerable poise and talent throughout the season.

LHS Marksmen Undergo Rebuilding Campaign

Following an act like that of former coach John Bauman, whose teams never seemed to lose and who walked away with a whole collection of EPL championships, is a difficult task, as new coach Chris Miller discovered. To complicate matters the Hurricane found itself squarely in the middle of one of those infamous rebuilding seasons where last year's best are gone and next year's best are just getting around to achieving that stature.

The losing campaign was not without its brighter moments, one highlight being a tense 500-499 victory over Allen. The Hurricane also retained its mastery over Freedom — the Patriots have never defeated Liberty, and that string was kept intact. Individually Bill Thomas and Anne Wheeler were particularly good. Since the great majority of the team was comprised of underclassmen, Coach Miller's theory that next year Liberty High School will be "the team to beat" seems to have a great deal of merit.

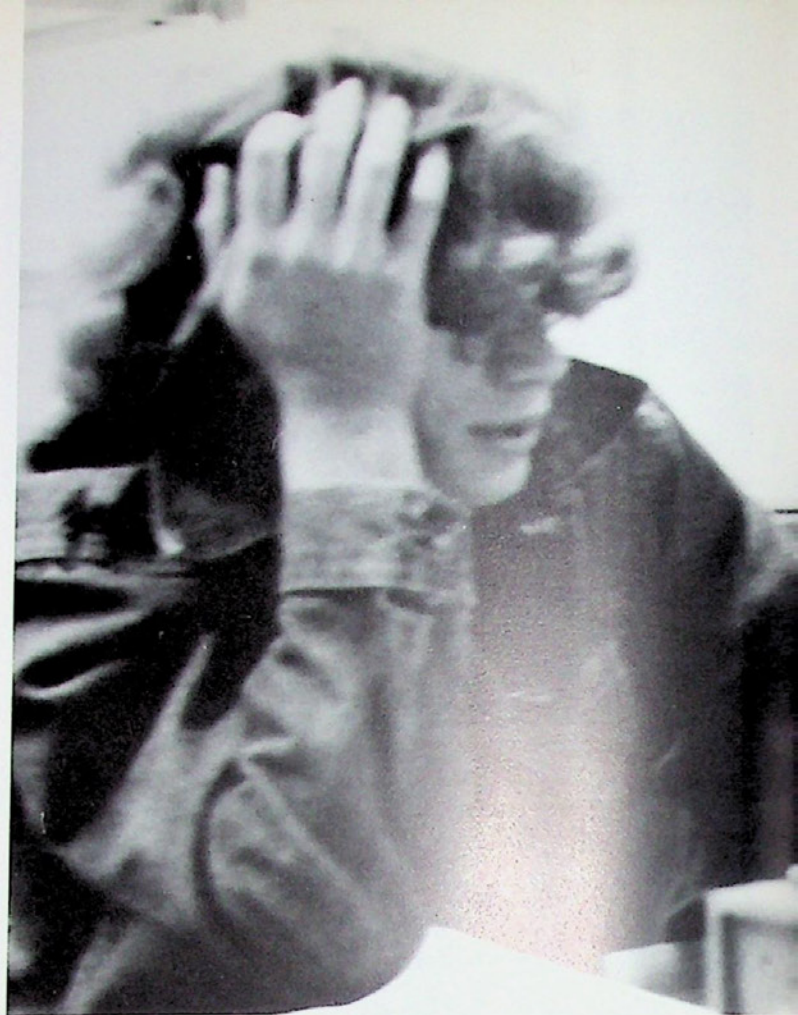

Jim McKelvie's shot is headed right for the center of the target.

Liberty Chess Team Suffers Losing Season

The game may seem to be slow moving and lacking in action, but in its own special way chess provides a challenge unique in sports in that it forces the players to anticipate far in advance of their happening the moves and strategy of an opponent as well as their own. Though anticipation is an integral part of any sport, it takes on a tremendous amount of significance in chess where reliance on physical strength is obviously very secondary, but mental exertion is at its peak. In some contests, physical response to an opponent's moves can make up for a mental miscalculation. In chess, such a miscalculation cannot be compensated for.

Liberty's entry in the Penn-Jersey League enjoyed a fair amount of success this year under the leadership of David Stengle, a 1978 graduate of LHS and a four-time Lehigh Valley Junior Chess champion. Jim Dolan, Gary Duranko, Becky Stengle, Scott Zahm, Mark Burke, Scot Nungesser, Carl Tiers, and Bill Bader made up the squad, with Duranko and Dolan ending with the best records of the Liberty contingent at the Individuals Tournament at Allen High in February.

Returning Lettermen Spark Volleyball Team

Based on the fact that three lettermen — Brian Rodenbach, John Hartranft, and Joe Petraglia — were returning, Coach Larry Deutsch was rather optimistic about his volleyball team's chances for success this year. Although recognizing that his squad was still learning and still undergoing a rebuilding process begun last year, Deutsch did feel that winning eight of 12 scheduled regular season contests was a realistic goal. His expectations proved to be a little high, as the Hurricane finished at .500 instead, but he stated at season's end that he was pleased nevertheless.

Joining the above-mentioned trio in the starting lineup were Fred Gozum, Rich Stauffer, and Tim Haupt. Mike Molnar also saw considerable action. Especially because of his devastating spikes, Hartranft, following in the footsteps of his older brother, was named a first team East Penn League all-star. With everyone back next year, there's every reason to feel optimistic regarding Liberty's chances to contend once more for the EPL crown.

Girls' Volleyball Team Has Improved Year

Last year the girls' volleyball team suffered through what could only be called a disastrous season, winning only once in fourteen outings. Most of the girls who played on that squad were back again this year, and it didn't take long to see that they were determined to erase that unhappy memory. That determination, coupled with a less tentative and much more aggressive style of play, paid off to the tune of a 6-8 season, not at all bad when one considers the state of affairs a year earlier. Certainly helping to make the year an even greater success was Liberty's ability to hand defeats to Freedom and Dieruff, consistently two of the better teams in the East Penn League.

New coach Sherry Ruth was able, for the most part, to field a veteran team. Seniors Marisa Cerase, Callie Durner, Laraine Groff, Andrea Huertas, and Kathy Zug were usually to be found in the starting lineup. They were joined by Sophomore Marianne Zweifel, a talented newcomer around whom next year's team will be built.

Attitude Alteration Produces Winning Year

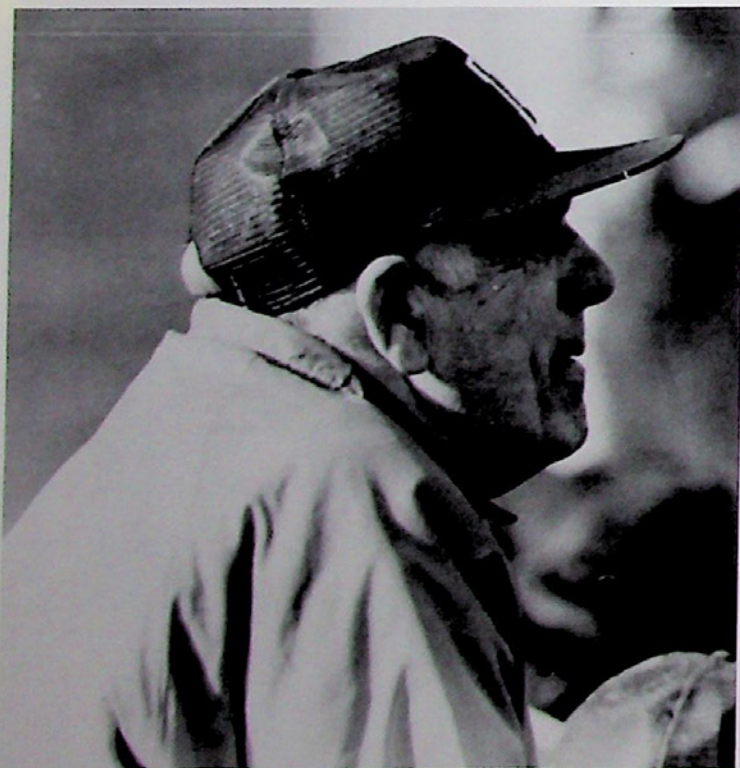

A team can have all the natural physical talent in the world, but if the attitude of the players is not positive, the team won't win. That was the problem last year for veteran coach Bernie Fritz's squad, but this year was an entirely different and much happier story.

Pitching, hitting, and fielding were all improved this year for the Hurricane. Senior Bruce Muhlberger and juniors Jeff Scheck and Bob Schoenberger proved to be the mainstays of the mound staff, with help from reliever Roy Mills. Bob Detweiler, Mike Stein, Wally Batt, Gary Radcliffe, Schoenberger, and Scheck all contributed to the offense. Most important of all, however, was that change in attitude. Instead of rolling over and playing dead when behind, like last year's club, this year's contingent kept fighting back. The results were obvious and gratifying.

All ball clubs seem to suffer a slump at one point or another, and Liberty was no exception. A stretch in which the Hurricane lost six of nine contests effectively sealed off any chances Liberty had of contending for the East Penn League title. However the Hurricane did manage to end with a winning record and was also ranked ninth among area high school teams by local sportswriters.

Senior Bob Schoenberger is ready for the pitch.

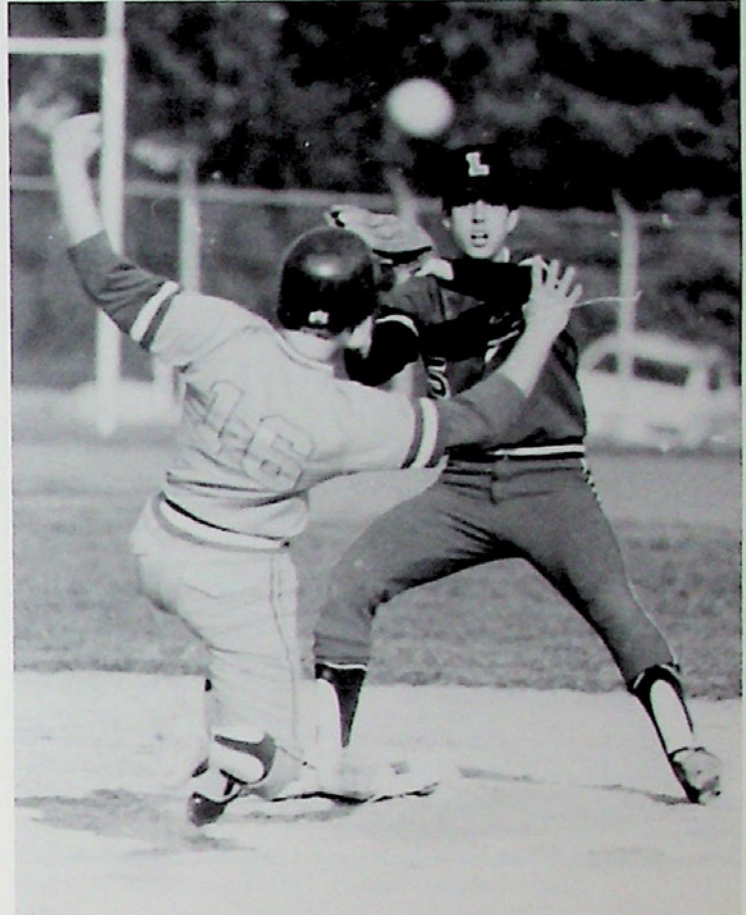

While watching the action, Coach Fritz plans a new bit of strategy.

Digging in at the plate is Mike Stein.

Rich Mearhoff stands poised to field anything hit his way.

Underclassmen Spark Liberty Softball Team

Normally a coach doesn't expect all that much from sophomores on a team. They're there to learn, for the most part, and any contributions they make are usually accidental. But this year Mrs. Phyllis Fissel looked to her sophomores for immediate help — graduation having depleted the ranks — and she found it, turning what could have been a dismal rebuilding season into an exciting and perfectly acceptable campaign that saw the Hurricane go 6-7.

Two of the more memorable contests this year were played against Phillipsburg and Becahi. The Stateliners always seem to have good teams, so Liberty's 4-3 win at Phillipsburg was thoroughly satisfying. In that contest Pitcher Missy Yob hammered a home run in the top of the eighth inning to break a 3-3 deadlock and then held P-burg at bay in the bottom of that same frame to notch the victory. Against Becahi the Hurricane battled back with an early deficit to capture a 9-8 verdict on a catcher interference call in the bottom of the seventh with bases loaded.

Seniors Carol Krisulevicz, Fran Lamb, Carrieann Molnar, and Tamie Yob were the nucleus around which Coach Fissel built. Juniors Missy Yob, Sharon Rehm, and Tammy Umstead, and sophomores Dawn Conover, Lisa Supeck, and Diane Williams all made important contributions as well.

Inexperience Limits Track Team's Success

With only two returning lettermen, Coach Bob Williams knew that any chances for a successful season rested squarely on the shoulders of the virtually untested newcomers. If the new people could respond to the challenge quickly enough, the Hurricane would have a satisfactory year. If they couldn't, the campaign would be a long one. Get out the calendar — only a season-opening 89-61 defeat of Nazareth kept the squad from going winless.

Senior Jon Kleintop, one of the two veterans, had a good year while doubling in the 110 high and 300 intermediate hurdle races, also turning in some strong performances as part of Liberty's 1600 meter relay team. Kleintop ended his high school career with a sixth place finish in the 110 high hurdles at the District XI meet. Junior Tom Collier, a middle distance runner and the other experienced hand on the team, also did a solid job for the Hurricane. Coming back from an early season injury, Mike Lawryk managed a third place finish in the pole vault at the EPL meet. Seniors Ken Kocher, Tony Derrico, Bill Danish, and Tom Bicking could also be counted on to add points to the Hurricane cause.

Looking to the future, Coach Williams will have both Collier and Lawryk back along with distance runners Matt Ortega, Dave Hero, and John Selesky, fieldmen Mark Sadler, Pete Terry, Fran Amigo, and Andy Bartek, and a whole army of potentially fine sprinters in Joe Spengler, Reggie Nelson, Mike Kelly, Mark Margaro, Bill Bachman, and Gordy Kunkle.

Long jumper Tony Derrico leaps to a first-place finish against Parkland.

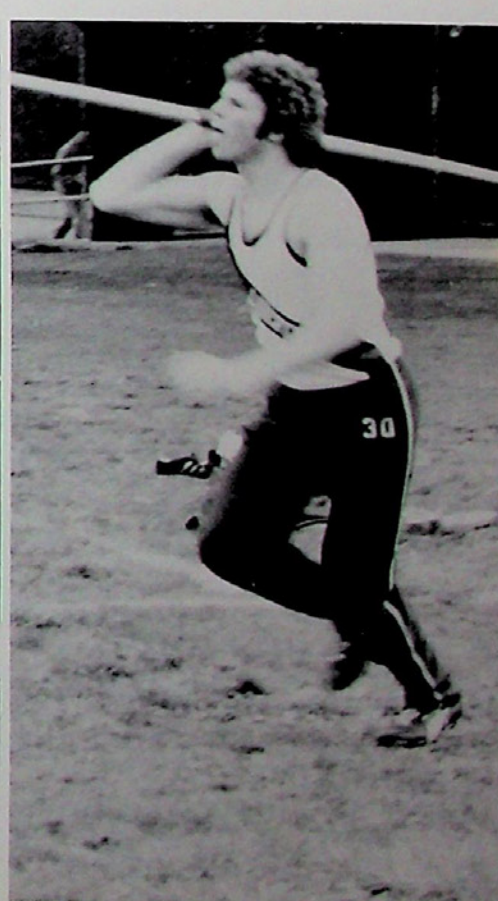

The pack moves out in the 800 meter run with eventual winner Tom Collier on the far right.

Even as a junior, Don Lightop usually was way ahead of the field when it came to the hurdles races.

Lisa Hudock Shines, New Talent Develops For Girls' Track Team

Rebuilding a team can be a painful process, but when you start with cornerstones like Lisa Hudock, Sue Schneck, and MaryBeth Marcincin, some of the sting disappears. New coach Tom Zelko found this to be true when he inherited a team which last year won the EPL title but also lost some very key performers to graduation. Some of the new people — notably Diane Wruble, Pam Sobchak, Fran Yugas, Lisa Henry, Pam Schneck, and Carol Danish — should return Liberty to prominence in the future, but this year was, for the most part, a time to learn and experiment.

Despite the sub-.500 final record, there were a number of brighter moments for individuals. Diane Wruble set a new school record in the shot put and finished third in Districts, missing a trip to the state meet by only a few centimeters. Pam Sobchak progressed steadily in the triple jump and also came within a few centimeters of a trip to States with her third place finish at Districts. The 4x100 relay team, composed of Marcincin, Yugas, Sue Schneck, and Hudock, and the 1600 meter relay team, composed of the first three girls plus Pam Schneck, both made it to States after finishing second in District XI competition. LeeAnn Schray did a capable job in the hurdles despite injury, and top distance runner Cathy Snyder performed well before having to end the season on the sidelines with a severe case of Achilles tendinitis. Lisa Henry and Carol Danish displayed blossoming talent in the high and long jumps, respectively.

But the best has been saved for last. Lisa Hudock, justifiably ranked as one of the top ten sprinters in Pennsylvania, was a consistent quadruple winner, taking first in the 100 and 200 meter dashes and the triple jump, and anchoring the 4x100 relay in dual meets throughout the season. Probably the most memorable moment of the season for her and for those who cheered her on came in the District XI meet at Metzgar Field on the afternoon of May 17 when she walked away with both the triple jump and 100 meter dash titles, winning the latter event in 12.4 seconds while decisively defeating Allen's Kathy Isaac, who some had mistakenly thought to be the best sprinter in the area. The ESSC-bound Hurricane senior also established a school record 37 $\frac{1}{4}$ " in the triple jump at the state meet and just missed qualifying for the finals of the 100 meter dash by .004 second, both accomplishments coming despite being hampered by a severe throat infection and a painful ankle injury with which she had had to run all season long.

Sue Schneck takes a first after a well run 400 meters.

Jamie Bobyak stands ready to put the shot.

Mid-Season Slump Hurts Hurricane Tennis Team

If only the beginning and the end of the season had counted, Coach Bob Wilson's tennis team would have been an EPL championship contender. But there's always a middle to every campaign, and that's where all the damage was done as the Hurricane, at one point, lost five straight matches before turning things around once again to defeat Allen, Whitehall, and Northampton. Those last two contests meant the difference between finishing with a winning or losing record, so the pressure was on. Against Whitehall George Mowrer, Evan Haruta, and Tim Bragg all produced key singles victories, while Eric Miller, Haruta, and Scott Howlett had the big wins against the visiting Konkrete Kids.

Miller, in his final year of interscholastic competition, was Liberty's top singles player. Haruta and Mowrer occupied the second and third courts, respectively, while number four singles was usually a toss-up among John Forsyth, Tim Bragg, Roger Jeffery, and Howlett.

Liberty Administrators Inspirational Leaders

In his 32nd year as chief administrator, Principal Charles Klein continued to strengthen the character of the Liberty High School community. His efforts to continually improve faculty-student relationships have won him respect and recognition, both of which he richly deserves. In addition, his was the responsibility of coordinating the multitude of events that make up the school year, and, as the song says, nobody does it better.

Aiding Mr. Klein were two dedicated assistants, Mr. John Spirk and Mr. John Saunders. Both gave unselfishly of themselves as they dealt with the tasks of handling disciplinary action and the scheduling of students.

All three men worked tirelessly to insure the best possible learning environment for both students and faculty.

Meanwhile the Guidance Department labored diligently to reach its goal of aiding students in the selection of courses, dealing with scheduling difficulties, and providing vocational and personal counseling.

English Courses Pose Challenge

"Teaching English" is a phrase that embraces much work. Those who did so at Liberty High School were faced with the challenge of guiding high school students towards an understanding and appreciation of literature in its many forms. Students became acquainted with the many kinds of prose narrative, such as the short story, the romantic novel, the realistic novel, and the adventure story, several kinds of drama, various forms of poetry, and the critical essay. Moreover there is a host of difficulties relating to the use of the English language itself, and teachers worked to insure the basic literacy of students by emphasizing on each level the rules of correct usage. Courses in journalism and creative writing provided students with the opportunity to explore a possible career area or to experiment with new and different modes of self-expression.

Mrs. Sally Campbell headed the department and skillfully brought to a conclusion a three-year program of curricular revision that saw the courses on each grade level extensively revamped and updated to student needs.

Citizen's Skills Given Emphasis

The ability to make a sound, logical choice on election day is a skill that members of the Social Studies Department, under the direction of Mr. Phillip Fair, particularly stressed this past year. With a presidential election only a few months off, at which time many members of the Class of 1980 will be eligible to vote, that knowledge becomes particularly invaluable. To that end, all seniors had to successfully complete a course in government in order to graduate, a requirement that will stay in force in the future.

A wide variety of offerings allowed students to explore in considerable depth the role of many in society. Most popular were the courses in psychology and sociology, while a large number of students attempted to get a head start on the practical problems of daily finance by taking the course in economics.

The department, in conjunction with the social studies departments of other area high schools, was also responsible for sponsoring the Model United Nations at Moravian College in January. Although hampered somewhat by the imposition of midterm exams this year, the program once again proved to be a great success.

Math Department Provides Answers

Whether an individual was interested in the most abstract and theoretical of mathematical concepts or simply wanted to know how to fill out an income tax form or prepare a household budget, the Mathematics Department had a course to provide the answer. Under the direction of Mr. Harry Buss, the department offered the basic full-year courses in algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and general math, as well as a wide variety of semester-length topics such as medical math and math of chance. Again, one of the more popular courses was College Board Review Math, designed to help students prepare for their SAT's by reviewing mathematical techniques taught in previous years.

Extensive Program Given In Sciences

During the 1979-80 school year, Liberty provided an extensive and outstanding science program. Twenty-one courses were available, and next year yet another additional class in biology will be offered.

The overall objectives of the Science Department, headed by Mr. Robert Buffman, were to provide students with a well rounded science education and to create a general appreciation of the discipline in the physical, chemical, and life science areas. The department worked towards meeting those goals by implementing a program in which students first become familiar with basic terminology and the tools of scientific investigation. Afterwards, pupils were allowed and encouraged to progress as far as ability and interest could take them in specific areas of study.

On the senior level the department not only provided rigorous training for college preparatory students, but also stressed in its courses information which would help those not intending to further their education by introducing them to science-related occupations not requiring a college degree.

Languages Needed By All Students

In line with the current national tendency, fewer students were enrolled in foreign language courses at Liberty than had been the case several years ago. This decrease in numbers is usually attributed to the elimination of a language requirement by many colleges, which in turn allows students to rationalize their non-participation on the grounds that the study of a foreign language has no "practical value." Department Chairman Jerry Damandl disagrees with that rationale, however, and believes that students are making a mistake in an attempt to find an easy way out of academic responsibilities. He stated that language study provides a student with a discipline that no other course can provide, increasing the individual's ability not only in the new language, but in English as well, since only a strong fundamental understanding of English will allow a student to succeed in learning a new tongue.

Although the enrollment may not have been at an all-time high, it was noted that those students taking a language were of a high caliber and generally stayed with it for four full years, beginning in junior high school. German, Spanish, French, Latin, and Russian were the courses from which students could choose.

Business Courses A Popular Choice

One of the most popular programs at Liberty High School is the one that prepares students for entry into the business world. Individuals were able to acquire the necessary knowledge through one of five sequence — secretarial, accounting, general business, clerical skills, and distributive education — each of which dealt with a particular skill area.

Distributive Education was a course previously available only at Vo-Tech, but Mr. Joseph Meier brought the program to Liberty in order to accommodate more students. Those who participated in the course gained valuable managerial experience in the school store.

Increased enrollment on the part of sophomores and college preparatory students has caused the overall program, under the leadership of Mr. Dennis Gehris, to flourish. It seems that many students wish to have more than one area in which they receive training so that they can better deal with the uncertainties of today regarding the job market and the economic situation.

Elective Subjects For Every Interest

A wide spectrum of offerings ranged from Nursery School to Gourmet Foods to Shop to Glee Club was provided by the Fine Arts Department, chaired by Mrs. Virginia Murphy, this past year.

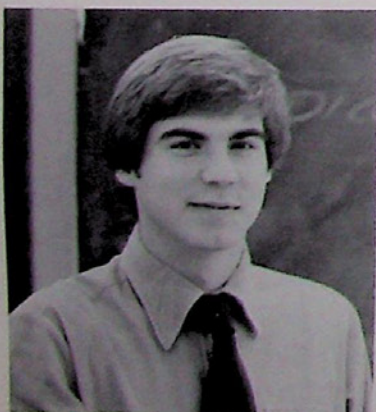

The home economics division offered courses in homemaking, foods, family studies, child development, clothing, and nursery school. The latter program involved students who were responsible for planning and running a ten-week laboratory school for pre-schoolers.

The art division featured three levels of general art as well as two levels each of ceramics and photography. The industrial arts program served as an introductory course in drafting, woodworking, and metal work. It proved to be especially important for those who were unable to fit Vo-Tech into their schedules.

Those individuals with an interest in music had plenty of opportunity to both develop and display their talent thanks to the music division of this department. Vocalists could turn to the Liberty Ensemble, Glee Club, or Choraliers, while instrumentalists had the band, orchestra, and stage band, as well as numerous smaller ensemble groups, from which to choose. Students whose interest went deeper had available to them courses in music appreciation and theory.

'Lifetime Sports' Emphasized At LHS

Each year the nation seems to become more aware of the value of physical fitness. Much of the credit for that awareness has to go to instructors in physical education like those at Liberty who work to create a sound body to go with the mental development of each student. More and more the department, this year chaired by Miss Sandra Seidel, has turned away from muscle-straining calisthenics and towards activities which lead to participation in "lifetime sports" by which an individual can maintain both health and fitness in a pleasurable way. To that end students were allowed to choose each semester from a wide variety of activities including volleyball, tennis, swimming, gymnastics, jogging, and dancing. In addition state-required health courses were taught by members of the department.

Special Programs Aid LHS Students

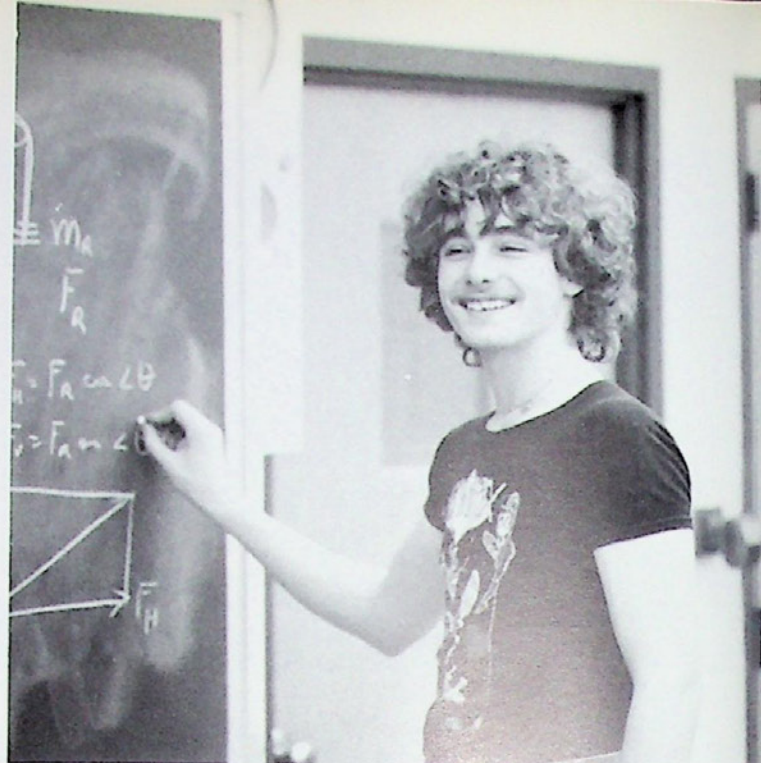

The Cooperative Diversified Occupations Program is an enterprise shared by the Bethlehem Area School District and various merchants and manufacturers. Under the direction and supervision of Mr. Albert Senavitis and Mr. Robert Kishbaugh, approximately 75 students spent half-days on the job and the remainder of the day in school. The aims of the program are three-fold: (1) to provide students with vocational training, (2) to provide students who experience financial hardship with an opportunity to meet this need and still remain in school, and (3) to provide potential dropouts with a half-day school, half-day work program. Those involved worked twenty to forty hours each week.

The Occupational Education program was under the direction of the same two individuals, aided by Mrs. Nancy Wilcrou. The approximately fifty students in this division had to find their own employment and spent half of their day at Vo-Tech.

The bi-lingual program was formed at Liberty in an attempt to help students who come into the district at the high school level with little or no knowledge of English. Although Hispanics comprise the largest segment of those enrolled, world affairs have created a growing number of Asiatic students new to the area. The goal in every case is to teach these students enough English to allow their speedy enrollment in regular classes, thus minimizing the disruption of the learning process in regular areas of study.

Students were given the opportunity to sharpen their driving skills thanks to the efforts of the driver education instructors. Classroom presentations, time in the simulator, and on-the-road training made up the program required of all juniors.

The usual fine job of providing special services to the student body and faculty alike was done by the school nurses and librarians. Their efforts were, perhaps, not appreciated as much as should have been the case, for their work is seldom spotlighted. But without them the school would surely run less efficiently.

Fund-Raising Problems Plague Class Officers

Once again, almost overwhelming financial obligations, particularly the raising of funds needed to produce the Cauldron, were the major problem for the senior class officers. President Faith MacMurtrie, Vice-President Meg Veruki, Secretary September Young, and Treasurer Joe Gross, along with advisers Mrs. Suzanne Kroboth and Mr. Joseph Kimock, launched a massive effort to collect dues to insure that a yearbook would, indeed, become a reality.

Many hours of hard work were put into planning Homecoming activities, the senior class musical, and Dorney Park Night. A very successful in-school movie was shown to help the class meet its financial obligations. Although the goals sometimes seemed impossible to reach, the senior officers and advisers worked well and energetically together and ended the year with a job well done.

*Now we exit this arena,
Leaving room for those who follow.*

*We enter the stage before us,
Taking the places of those
Who have passed ahead . . .*

*The cycle continues.
We move on with time,
Enriched by the past,
And hopeful for the future.*
