Explains GI Bill's Provision Assuring Places in Old Jobs NOV 15 1944 For Returning Service Folk

Re-employment provisions of the Selective Service Act and matters relating to re-employment of service men were discussed by Major Henry N. Gross, of the Veterans Personnel Division of the Selective Service, Harrisburg, Pa., at a meeting of the Lehigh Valley Industrial Association, held at the Elks Club last evening.

Service Act, which deals without the re-employment of service men, and stated that discnarged service men shall be entitled to all rights, such as seniority, status and pay, unless the employers circumstances have so changed that it is impossible, or unreasonable to do so.

He also stated that a veteran returning from service and being unable to secure his former position.

changed that it is impossible, or the reasonable to do so.

He also stated that a veteran returning from service and being unable to secure his former position should contact his Selective Service Board. However if the veteran does not wish to return to his former employment, he is eligible to obtain another position through the United States Employment Service.
