

McAndrews, F. J.

Doctor McAndrews,
Army Captain, In
New York Hospital

Captain F. J. McAndrews of the U. S. Medical Corps, is confined to an Army hospital at Staten Island, N. Y., undergoing treatment for foot trouble.

In the country's service since Aug. 10, 1942, Dr. McAndrews, who formerly had an office on West Fourth Street, spent the greater part of the time at U. S. camps in England, following a brief stay at a medical base at San Antonio, Texas.

While abroad, the medico developed arch trouble and was returned to this country, being temporarily out of field service.

October 30, 1943