Junior Miss Amazing honored

BY MARIEKE-DACIA ANDRONACHE
 Special to the Bethlehem Press

Emmaus HS graduate Rose Varano was honored at the July 29 Lehigh County Commissioners meeting. Varano, who suffers from Cerebral Palsy, was recently crowned Pennsylvania Junior Miss Amazing 2022.

A proclamation, sponsored by District 5 Commissioner Jeffrey Dutt, passed unanimously by the commissioners, congratulating and wishing Varano all the best for the National Miss Amazing Summit 2022, taking place July 29-31 in Nashville, Tennessee.

The National Summit Miss Amazing is a gathering of young girls and women with disabilities who come together to exchange stories, make connections and share resources. They are community leaders focused on educating others on the important contributions and achievements made by those members of society who struggle with certain disabilities.

Keeping cool together

BY TAMI QUIGLEY

As temperatures soared into heat wave territory, the Bethlehem Police Department – together with the Bethlehem Health Bureau and Cops 'n' Kids – turned up the fun factor at Park Day July 23 at Friendship Park at East North and Linden streets.

"It's police reaching out to individual communities within Bethlehem to let them know they care," said Cops 'n' Kids President Beverly Bradley.

The afternoon of fun included many activities, free books from Cops 'n' Kids and ice cream. The sprinkler was a star attraction as children – and some police officers – took a spin through it on the bike course.

"It's a good thing. We have kids who don't get out of their hometown, so we bring the community to them. It's connecting kids to the community through literacy," Bradley said, noting Cops 'n' Kids just received 8,750 brand new books from PPL Electric Utilities.

NORTHAMPTON COMMUNITY COLLEGE

'I want to be that kind of teacher'

BY NATE JASTRZEMSKI
 njastrzowski@nonline.com

It started with a love of math. From rural Maryland outside Baltimore, young Dr. David A. Ruth set his professional sights on education, and he has taken his place as the fifth president of Northampton Community College. He replaces Dr. Mark Erickson, who held the job for 10 years, and is also a product of the system he now leads.

"I had a very positive experience with my middle school and high school math teachers," Ruth said in a recent interview. "I said, 'I want to be a high school math teacher just like you because you made it seem, not easy, but understandable. I don't want my students to be afraid of me and my subject matter. I want to be able to make a difference as a math teacher.

Dr. David A. Ruth college's fifth president

"Hagerstown Community College was a very reasonable alternative to going to a four-year institution. I never even thought about it. I knew exactly what I wanted to do throughout my younger years."

Ruth front-loaded his schedule so that by the time he transferred to Frostburg State University for a five-year program, he completed it in four years. "I did it for affordability and was able to do it in a much more efficient manner."

While at Frostburg he was told his natural facility as a resident advisor would serve him well in a career in student affairs. He found a graduate program with free tuition was available at Lehigh University in 1990, and two years later he'd decided math didn't add up and pursued higher education.

"I never taught a single day of high school math in my life," he laughed. "You don't grow up saying 'I want to be a dean of students.' You don't even know what that is when you're in high school. I stumbled into higher education."

Ruth did teach college-level math at Drexel University for many years while also working in administration, eventually attaining that strange "dean of students" title.

Mark Erickson was Ruth's dean when he was at Lehigh, and Ruth saw a great opportunity to return to his roots and work with a respected mentor as vice president of NCC. "I was like, 'Oh, Bethlehem! I get to go back to the Lehigh Valley.'"

When a colleague said it would be hard to return to four-year school administration after working at a community college, Ruth wasn't worried. "I love it here. I love the mission, I love our students, I love that we work in the community. You can see the impact that this place makes on students and their lives every day and I wouldn't imagine leaving."

"Why would I want to go back?"

Ruth is adamant community college was an important part of his success, and it can be just as important to his students today. "I've experienced aspects of the higher education world as a student and as an administrator and never once did I look back and say, 'Had I not gone to community college I could have done this or that. I finished faster; I made it all the way up to Ph.D. It wasn't like I had a second-rate education."

"Here we have residence halls, campus activities, clubs. You don't just put your money in the meter, go to class and go home. When you're here you're engaged. We're a two-year college with a four-year feel. That resonates with me." Previous administrators have done great work, he said, and which he plans to continue by taking a fresh look at enrollment, possibly rebranding the Monroe campus and marketing the Fowler Family Southside Center differently. Community college should not hold a stigma as the 13th grade or student's last educational option. It should be the first option.

Pure in his advocacy of NCC's advantages and culture, he said, "From my experience, non-traditional students are terrified in the classroom. All you have to do is encourage them. Don't be afraid of this, you got this. We'll do this together."

dedication of the 2202 Grove Road municipal building entrance as Paulus Way.

Vice Chairman Michael Woolley, who also made the original motion for the honoring resolution, delivered a short speech before a cover was pulled from the street sign, revealing Paulus Way in white and blue.

Paulus first joined municipal government in 1988 and sat on the zoning board for four years. He then moved to a council position and took his first leadership role as vice chairman in 2000. He was elected chairman just a year later. He has dedicated more than 30 years to township work.

The resolution not only honors Paulus' "unwavering dedication, relentless hours and exceptional service" but his ability to provide "exemplary guidance" to the board and township throughout the years, it was agreed.

This is the second honor given to the Paulus name, as a bench outside the front door of the municipal building is in honor of the late Patricia Paulus. She was not only a partner to Bruce Paulus, but also an important member of the township, serving a role on the planning commission for 25-plus years.

The small ceremony returned back inside, and the crowd celebrated with cake before returning to regular business. The July 20 agenda was short, only quoting monthly reports as necessary business to go over.

Wehr briefly discussed the Community Night event, which is set for 4-7:30 p.m. Aug. 23 at Canal Park, 1960 Dauphin St. The gathering will include local food and drinks and activities for kids, including a petting zoo, pony rides and a visit from Tootsie the Clown.

The meeting wrapped up with approval of municipal bills.

Council will next meet 7:30 p.m. Aug. 3 at the municipal building. The agenda can be found ahead of time by visiting hanleco.org.

CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

For years, Penn State Lehigh Valley Associate Professor of Biology Jacqueline McLaughlin has committed herself to giving her students high-quality, real-world educational experiences.

Case in point -- her work as founding director of Penn State's CHANCE (Connecting Humans And Nature through Conservation Experiences) program, which for the past several years has focused on interdisciplinary water issues confronting the sustainability of the Danube Delta.

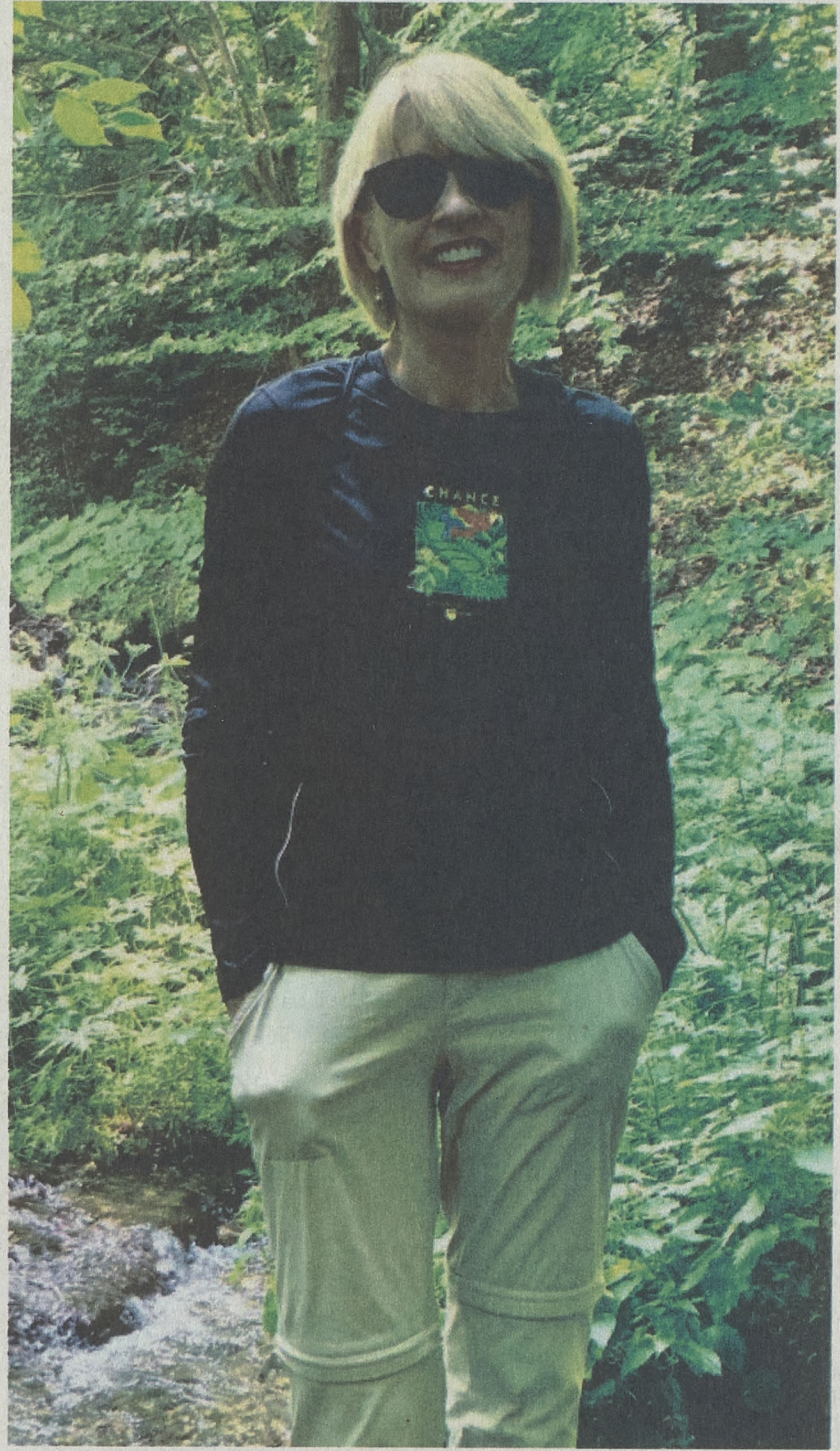

This year, 11 Penn State students — three from PSU-LV and eight from other campuses — were chosen to take part in the binational, two-part CHANCE program. After engaging in online instruction during the spring semester, they traveled this summer with McLaughlin and other Penn State faculty to Romania to collaborate with 11 students and several faculty members from the University of Bucharest.

While there, the students engaged in field research that included designing independent experiments, collecting, recording and interpreting data, and presenting their research findings at an international symposium. In addition to improving their research skills, the students had the opportunity to enhance their networks, workforce "soft" skills and global competencies.

McLaughlin's efforts haven't gone unnoticed.

In early June, she delivered a virtual keynote address centered around her CHANCE work to attendees at the FarmConect Romania agriculture conference held in Slobozia, Romania. The U.S. Embassy in Bucharest put the conference's organizers in touch with McLaughlin, who in 2020 served as an Embassy Science Fellow.

"That was truly a privilege and a paramount opportunity for Penn State CHANCE," McLaughlin said. "Since fulfilling my service, I not only continue to work with the U.S. Embassy Bucharest in

"I'm grateful for this church community and really honored and grateful - this scholarship will help me get the best education I can."

"I am most looking forward to finding new opportunities and connections with companies around all of Bethlehem," Koch said of her future aspirations.

Rosemont mailed scholarship packets to six Lutheran churches in Bethlehem as well as Liberty and Freedom high schools, but the scholarship is open to all students who wish to apply.

Koch found out about the scholarship just by being a member of the church from a young age.

"I remember seeing the kids who were older than me apply for it, and so I always sort of knew I would be able to apply one day," she said.

As a member of Rosemont, Koch was an acolyte for years, and now serves as a lector and sometimes plays her trombone with church organist Mark Suter.

Her hobbies include writing, drawing, music, sports, being outside and cooking.

Koch is the daughter of Karen Koch and Daniel Koch.

"I am very grateful to the scholarship committee for choosing Devon and for recognizing her accomplishments," Karen Koch said. "I am extremely proud of her and of all the hard work she has put in over the years to get to this point in her academic career. This scholarship will greatly assist with the next step of her educational goals."

The Rev. Jack Steltzer, pastor, thanked the scholarship committee for its work.

"It's not an easy decision to choose the scholarship recipient, but they have done an amazing job," Pastor Steltzer said, noting he is not involved in the selection process.

A reception in Koch's honor followed the service in Laros Hall, where everyone enjoyed the delicious vanilla cream cake the church served for the celebration, literally the icing on the cake on a very special morning.

Koch's mother Karen and maternal grandparents Les and Rita Stauffer joined her for the happy occasion.

Dr. Irene Todd, a member of Rosemont since the 1940s, bequeathed funds to the church upon her death in December 2004. As a result of Dr. Todd's generous bequest, Rosemont established a scholarship fund in her name in 2015 for students seeking an undergraduate bachelor's, associate's or trade school degree. Dr. Todd was a podiatrist in Bethlehem.

Rosemont established the scholarship fund for the purpose of forwarding its mission to Christ and in support of education.

Each year since the scholarship's formation, a $1,500 scholarship has been awarded to a student who has demonstrated academic competency as well as compassion and caring through service to his or her church and community. Eligibility requirements include applicants submitting an essay of approximately 300-500 words focused on their background, educational goals, reasons for applying and explaining how the scholarship would help them achieve their career goals.

Along with Pastor Steltzer, the scholarship committee is comprised of Art Smith, chair, who was unable to attend the service; Lorraine Goff, who is also president of the church council; Patricia Nelson; and Michelle Curry.

Past scholarship recipients include Lilliana Brockway, 2021; Aaron Matthew Strawn, 2020 and 2019; McKenzie Eisenreich, 2018; GianCarlo Seixas, 2017; Joseph Furrer-Starrett, 2016; and Shawn Hartzell, 2015.

Animals are available for adoption at the Center for Animal Health & Welfare no-kill shelter, 1165 Island Park Road, Easton. The shelter is working to end pet overpopulation by running a clinic so animals can be spayed or neutered before they go home. For more information, call 610-252-7722 or visit www.healthyanimalcenter.org.

Noel, a 6-year-old domestic shorthair, has been at the shelter for a while. She is cat friendly but fearful with people. Noel would love a home with at least one other cat and no children, or she would make a great barn cat.

At 7 years old, Ranger is a very sweet and gentle dog that enjoys taking walks and cuddling. This hound-mix loves people and is dog friendly. He would be a great companion for anyone looking for a laid-back dog.

Eagles
training
camp sites

BY JEFF MOELLER
tnsports@tnonline.com

Does anyone remember watching the Eagles training camp at Widener or West Chester?

Over the years, those were two of the Eagles' stops along the way of the greater Delaware Valley and parts of Reading. Old Timers may recall Hershey as being a longtime site from 1951-67, as it wasn't considered to be a long drive for players back then.

There were plenty of good and bad anecdotes about players, coaches, and the sites. And yes, Lehigh was a staple for a long time.

In this week's version of Yesterday — a trip back in time to the 60s, 70s, 80s and sometimes beyond — I will look at some of the Eagles' training camps sites, as well as some late July happenings and other memories.

That Long Ride:

West Chester actually was the Eagles' site in 1938, 1940, and 1944-45. It became a 16-year stay from 1980-95 after the Birds had a seven-year stretch at Widener. Former head coach Dick Vermeil was highly critical of Widener for several inadequacies, as well as player car burglaries.

But for those who ever made a trip to West Chester, they'd surely attest to the seemingly endless ride to get there, only to have to find street parking.

Once on the campus, one could sit on the hills and watch the players practice. This also was a time when players would stay in one of the college's dorms.

Former head coach Buddy Ryan was famous for his two-a-day practices there, and also for his many quips about players. There was one legendary story about former quarterback Randall Cunningham, who kicked a series of 40-plus-yard field goals one late July afternoon. People often forget Cunningham was a great punter.

One local player who generated some talk at West Chester was Parkland product Billy Hess, who was a two-way player at West Chester. The Eagles signed him in 1989, but he was cut at the end of training camp. Hess played for the World League (remember that?) as well as two seasons in the CFL.

West Chester was a homey spot saddled in neighborhoods, but its practice fields were always called into question.

Bethlehem Catholic's girls were crowned Lehigh Valley Summer Soccer League champions after their 8-2 victory over Saucon Valley on July 18 at Lehigh University's Goodman Campus.

Becahi was the number-one seed entering playoffs, which included teams from Delaware Valley, Stroudsburg, Pleasant Valley, Bangor, Liberty, and Notre Dame.

In the championship final, Summer Hill scored four goals, Talia

Hill, Sarah Gowell, Maddie Nicholson, and Gabby Mutis added one goal apiece, and Gabby Amato was in goal.

Becahi defeated Stroudsburg in the semifinal, 2-1, and Bangor in the quarterfinal, 7-1.

The Hawks also won the regular season championship with a record of 8-1, losing only to Delaware Valley by a score of 2-0 but had the fewest goals allowed for the entire season.

Also playing for Becahi this summer were Anna Truscott, Joanne Bozzi, Kristen McMenimen, Mackenzie Davis, Miranda Sedor, Molly

Lodwig, Sophia Arvelo, Tealyn Boyle, Audrey VanHute, Ella Troxell, Emily Pepe, and Jaon Lee, led by head coach Brad Kratzer and assistant Kaleb Missmer.

"This girls team is the first team from Bethlehem to win the division (girls started in 1991)," said Coach Kratzer. "I am super excited for the fall season with this group, especially with the incoming freshmen."

End-of-season stats for the Hawks were 73 goals scored through 12 games and only 11 goals allowed.

FHS, BC enjoy runs at the Throwdown

It was another productive weekend of summer basketball for Freedom and it's something that they've become accustomed to over the years.

The Patriots went 3-1 last weekend at the A-town Throwdown at Cedar Beach, losing in the round of 16 to Executive Charter 46-42 to exit the tournament on Sunday.

Still, it was a promising sign for Joe Stellato's group to keep building off their playoff campaign from the winter with summer reps.

"We are playing the way we have been wanting to for three years," said Stellato. "The players have bought into the team and are trusting one another. This was a problem early in the summer, but the players got past that and realized we have to play together to win. Yes, it's only summer, but we have not won consistently until now. This tournament completed our summer schedule, and it was a perfect end to the summer."

Mountain East to reach Sunday's round of 16.

Falling to Executive was a disappointing to see their end run, but Stellato knew the group took away valuable lessons from the contest.

"We played great, but we missed some key foul shots and layups at the end of the game or we would have come out on top," Stellato said. "We are missing a few key parts to our lineup, and we will be excited to get them back and throw them in the mix." Bethlehem Catholic also went 3-1 in the tournament, knocking off Cedar Cliff, Stroudsburg and St. John Vianney.

The Hawks fell to Alen 45-35 in the round of 16 to see their weekend commence.

Liberty went 1-2 in the event and didn't qualify for Sunday's action.

The Hurricanes defeated Red Lion, but dropped games to Timber Creek and Abington.

NW's state run comes to end

BY KATIE MCDONALD

Northwest Bethlehem southpaw JJ Cruz made up his mind that he was going to pitch the Cyclones to a do-or-die victory in the Connie Mack Baseball State Tournament and tossed an 11-0 shutout in five innings-mercy rule against Centennial (Southampton/Warminster) on July 24 at Limeport Stadium.

"I felt great out there the whole game. Every pitch, I felt comfortable throwing. There was not one pitch I trusted more than the other one. Everything was clicking today for the team and me," Cruz said. "I was mostly working my fastball and curveball, but I like to fit my changeup in there sometimes too. I like how Mikey (Mariano, Jr.) called my game for me and how he mixed up the pitches a lot."

Mariano, the Cyclones' catcher, had Northwest's second RBI double of the game in a five-run third inning that started with Cruz's base hit, followed by Paul Erfle's RBI double to left center.

Erfle went 3-for-4 with his second double in the fourth inning that scored two runs.

"I saw him quick pitch me, and I just thought, get the barrel around the zone. It felt good, felt good, just to be able to piece it," Erfle said.

While the Cyclone offense racked up runs, Cruz faced just three batters in the second, third, and fourth innings, as the Cyclone infield shut down Centennial.

"Most of the plays were easy cans of corn because of our pitcher, but mostly the first baseman (Luke Piripavel) caught the ball to get the out," said Northwest shortstop Zander Frey. "Also, Angel (Fuentes, second base) and I have a great connection in the middle of the infield."

And with Erfle playing third, Northwest's infield was flawless.

"I just wanted to come out here and do my part, hit the ball well, play the field well," said Erfle. "Some of them were tough plays. The slow roller ones are usually a little bit tougher, so if I see the ball bouncing, I go charge it, get my glove to it, and make a strong throw."

The Cyclones turned two double plays in the game, and Cruz threw four strikeouts.

Northwest's fifth inning started with an infield single by Frey, and Ethan Fleck was safe at first on a fielder's choice. Fuentes' single knocked in Fleck, and Cruz's hit brought in Fuentes. Cruz then scored the Cyclones' 11th run on Erfle's base hit to left field.

"Everybody was hitting all around the lineup, so I'm proud of how we played today," said Cruz. "I was ready to come out here and pitch today, but we all knew that last game was a fluke, and we had to come out and play like we had been the whole season."

That last game was Northwest's dropped tournament opener against Chestnut Hill on July 22.

"The last two years, we've struggled to put a complete ballgame together here, but today we were able to do that. Really, for the first time at this stadium, we came

BLOOMSBURG NAMES SCHOLAR-ATHLETES

The Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) recognized a school-record total of 297 Bloomsburg University student-athletes for the 2021-22 academic year as scholar-athletes. The 297 Huskies join a PSAC-record of 4,144 student-athletes from the league's 18 institutions.

To be eligible, the 2021-22 student-athletes must maintain a cumulative GPA of at least 3.25 upon completion of the academic year. With 4,144 student-athletes eligible, it marked 53% of the PSAC student-athlete population. The PSAC has registered at least a 30% growth rate for 14 consecutive years.

Julia Burcin, from Bethlehem, a member of the volleyball team, was one of those recognized.

Yamilet Ferruffino, from Bethlehem, a member of the women's cross country / track & field teams, was one of those recognized.

Alyssa Kapcsos, from Bethlehem, a member of the women's tennis team, was one of those recognized.

Bloomsburg's 297 scholar-athletes were the fifth-highest number of honorees from all institutions and the second-highest total among the state system schools, trailing only West Chester, which had 314 student-athletes honorees.

JAMES HONORED AT MANSFIELD

Kiara James from Bethlehem was one of 70 Mansfield University student-athletes to earn Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) Scholar-Athlete recognition for the recently completed 2021-22 season.

James is a member of the women's soccer team for the Mounties.

In order to be eligible, the 2021-22 student-athletes must maintain a cumulative GPA of at least 3.25 upon completion of the academic year.

With 4,144 student-athletes eligible, it marked 53% of the PSAC student-athlete population. The PSAC has now registered at least a 30% rate for 14 consecutive years.

LEBANON VALLEY STUDENT-ATHLETES HONORED

out, and we were the team that we are capable of being and that we've shown at other times throughout the last couple of years," said Northwest third base coach Bryan Wald. "This was a leave-everything-you-have-on-the-field game. JJ took the ball and said I'm gonna pitch us to a victory tonight, and he commanded that. We're a very streak-offensive team, and when we start hitting like that, we can put up big numbers in a hurry. Really, what I was most proud of was our defense. The defensive alignment was outstanding."

Northwest's 2-1 loss to Chestnut Hill started out as promising for the Cyclones.

Piripavel delivered three strikeouts in the first inning, and Cruz led off with a hard-hit single over the short-stop.

"It was an exciting game, first game of States, obviously, so I wanted to get the tempo right with our whole team," said Cruz. "We didn't get the job done, but after that first inning, I was feeling good about our chances."

Center fielder Dylan Pyle hit a line drive to right field on the first pitch and then completed a double steal with Cruz.

"I always try to get in a rhythm on deck, and I was seeing the pitcher's release points, and he was right over the plate to JJ, so I went up there, looking first pitch and it was there, and I just let it rip," Pyle said.

"JJ and I have the green light, so if we have good jumps, we're off to the races. It's all about the jumps and the reactions, and timing of the pitcher, and you're 90 feet closer to scoring, so it helps out the team."

Mariano drove in Cruz, and the Cyclones led 1-0.

"I knew Mikey was gonna come in clutch and get that hit for us, and it felt great being the teammate getting that run for us on the board," Cruz said.

Piripavel continued pounding the zone, striking out nine in total.

"I was trying to get the best pitches for the team," he said. "My fastball was really effective. I was hitting the corners and people were swinging through, which really helped. I mixed in the curveball and that worked too."

Chestnut Hill scored its first run on a two-out grounder and its second on a wild pitch by Frey, who relieved Piripavel in the fifth inning.

Then, with Northwest's bases loaded on a single by Frey, a double by Justin Goire, and an intentional walk to Kole Zellner, Chestnut Hill pitcher Edan Crosby struck out the Cyclones' next three batters.

"You're not gonna win ballgames scoring one run, especially when you score it in the first inning and you don't score another the entire game," said Pyle. "You just can't do that. You get three strikes, and we didn't take advantage of it."

Northwest first base coach Dave Pyle acknowledged the Cyclones' missed opportunities.

"Last inning almost embodied the entire game where we had situations earlier in the game to make hits, and we did not. All we need is one run to tie, a fly ball to the outfield, a bat on a ball," Coach Pyle said. "We lost because we didn't execute hitting the ball when we needed to. It's on us. You have to live pitch-by-pitch, win or lose that pitch, learn from it, and move forward, and sometimes we didn't do that."

Northwest was ultimately eliminated from the tournament by Nazareth, losing 9-3, on July 26.

Pyle's leadoff double in the fourth inning was the Cyclones' first ray of comeback hope, but just one run scored. Then, Frey drove in two runs in the sixth inning after Pyle's bunt and a double by Erfle.

DAY

Those Short Rides: The Eagles' days at Lehigh from 1995-2012 certainly was an upgrade. Fans often would shake hands with players as they left the field, and had a fairly close view of the action.

It was estimated that 10,000 to 12,000 fans attended the daily workouts, and each of them easily could be heard due to the proximity to the players.

Then newly-minted owner Jeffrey Lurie wanted to put his stamp on the team, and Lehigh presented a livelier, new-tech option at the time.

Marian High School fans may recall Sean Love, the Penn State guard from Maryland who was drafted by Dallas in the 10th round of the 1991 draft. Love ended his NFL career with the Eagles in 1998 when he was released in camp. He played in one game during the 1997 season. Love (-) who made his mark in the league as a special teamer and spot starter with Carolina and Tampa (-) ended his football career with the Orlando Rage of the XFL in 2001.

One of the most prominent stories to come from the Lehigh camp was when former head coach Andy Reid's son, Garrett, died from a drug overdose in a dorm room in early August of 2012.

Sadly, for Lehigh Valley fans, that was the last year of camp at Lehigh. After Reid was fired in December 2012, new head coach Chip Kelly — ring a bell? — decided to move camp back to Philadelphia at the NovaCare center.

Go West Young Man: July 26 marked a significant date on the calendar for Phillies fans.

In 2000, the Phillies traded Curt Schilling to the Arizona Diamondbacks for Omar Daal, Vicente Padilla, Travis Lee, and Nelson Figueroa. Padilla was probably the most productive from the four, as it wasn't a major trade in the Phillies' favor.

Schilling finally got his World Series ring when he coupled with Randy Johnson to lead the D-Backs to the title in 2001.

Remember Scott Rolen? The all-star third baseman and apparent Mike Schmidt heir was traded to the Cardinals on July 30, 2002 after he demanded a trade. The Phillies received Placido Polanco, who was a steady contributor over the next three seasons.

Speaking of Schmidt, he and Richie Ashburn were inducted into the Hall of Fame on July 30, 1995. Schmidt received 96.5% of the vote, while Ashburn was elected by the Veterans Committee.

How About That Punch?: "How about a nice Hawaiian Punch? Sure." If you grew up in the late 1960s and 70s, it was an iconic TV ad of two cartoon characters, and we all indulged our share of it.

It always seemed like it was part of summer.

Always Wanted to Buy Those Records: In our youth, we all spent numerous hours in front of the TV set, whether it was early morning or late afternoon depending on the time we would go outside to play with our friends or take those bike rides.

Between the sitcoms, we were usually bombarded by the "K-Tel" record album ads. It was something unique, and something one felt they needed to have.

K-Tel began their TV-based albums in 1972 and carried through until 1979. They covered every music genre during the time from truck driver songs, disco songs, soul hits, star hits, and even had an album titled "Dumb Ditties," that contained songs like "My Ding-A-Ling" and "Monster Mash."

The albums or cassette tapes usually ranged from $3.99 to $7.99, and could be found at the place the albums were bought. This was before Walmart, and they could be found at drugstores, Woolworths, and even Two Guys — which is truly a blast from the past.

This also was before one could order online.

Keep Redialing: This time of the year is usually a peak concert time, and it's much easier to get tickets today than it was back in the 70s and 80s.

Springsteen was one of the hottest tickets back then, and you had to dial the 1-800 Ticketron numbers to have a hope of seeing him in Philadelphia or New Jersey.

A time was announced that tickets would be on sale, and one had to frantically keep dialing and praying they got through. Those busy signals were frustrating.

Do You Remember?

Every week, I'll mention a possible forgotten player or manager from yesterday. Do you remember Phillie Terry Mulholland? The lefty pitcher from Uniontown had a six-year stint with the Phils from 1989-93, and won 12 regular-season games during the 1993 World Series run. He pitched the first Veterans Stadium no-hitter on Aug. 15, 1990 against San Francisco. Mulholland pitched for various clubs over 20 seasons and had a career 124-142 mark.

Three new district hires introduced

BY CHRIS HARING
Special to the Bethlehem press

Despite the school board's summer calendar mandating only one July meeting, its members - sans Vice President Susan Baxter and board member Edward Andres - met July 12 to approve several new hires.

The meeting - which followed on the heels of June 28's annual budget confirmation - lasted a brisk eight-and-a-half minutes, with President Dr. Shamim Pakzad breezing through the otherwise limited agenda.

Notably, the board approved three full-time specialized teachers and one dedicated substitute for employment. The first three, Megan Bath, Devin Kelly and Beverly Sparling, were appointed to their new positions as a package.

In a self-submitted biography in the district's email newsletter, Bath said she taught at Colonial Intermediate Unit 20's Colonial Academy in the Partial Hospitalization Program for the past eight years. She will work in the high school helping students needing emotional support.

middle school. She said she's no stranger to the district, having spent several years with Colonial IU 20 on campus at the elementary school in an instructional assistant role.

Sparling has a Master's Degree in education from Temple University and spent eight years as a student, teacher and missionary in Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic. She will join the elementary school's Spanish Immersion program.

Additionally, the board approved Caitlin Pages, a Maryland native with seven years of experience as a language arts teacher, as a long-term substitute teacher dedicated to special education.

In other news, Pakzad somewhat surprisingly informed attendees of the board's recent receipt of Andres' formal letter of resignation. District Solicitor Mark Fitzgerald said that upon its approval - which will likely be determined at the July 26 meeting - the next steps in naming his replacement will be further discussed.

Book sale nets $9K

Bethlehem Area Public Library book sale coordinator Laurel Stone reports that the recently completed July book sale netted "about $9,000." Stone says the turnout was great and patrons very "enthusiastic about the sale." The next sale is scheduled for Sept. 14 and 17 and information about book sales is available at bapl.org. Above: Lugging a bag of books she purchased on July 16 at the most recent BAPL book sale, Bethlehem resident Maggie Baran says, "look at all the books I got for $19.08." Baran said she attends "absolutely everyone of them" and that she searches for anything she's reading currently.

Clams and Shellfish

Mammoth Mollusk

The giant clam can weigh 440 pounds (200kg) or more! When healthy, they can live up to 100 years.

Long ago, people thought giant clams could eat people. The truth is that a clam moves its shell way too slowly to trap a person inside. Circle every other letter to see what giant clams eat.

A P D D R A K N W K B T J O Y N P L

Seashells you find on the beach were once homes to small, soft-bodied creatures called mollusks. Hard shells protect the soft bodies inside. When the mollusk dies, its shell washes up on shore.

Mollusks and Their Shells

Do the math to label each of these shells.

Mollusks with shells keep them their whole lives. But not all mollusks have shells. Unscramble the letters to discover a familiar mollusk that doesn't have a shell.

U S T O P C O

How to Build a Shell

A few days after baby mollusks hatch from tiny eggs, they start building their shells, layer after layer.

They mix salt and minerals from the sea with other ingredients from their own bodies to build their shells.

When a mollusk grows, it needs a bigger shell. That's no problem! A mollusk adds to its shell every day.

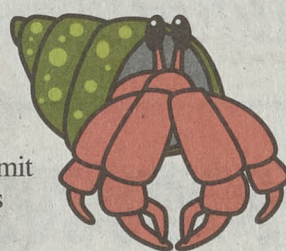

Scientists can tell the age of a mollusk by counting a shell's rings!

Standards Link: Reading Comprehension: Follow written directions.

Finders Keepers

When a mollusk dies, its soft body disappears but its shell remains. Sometimes other animals, like hermit crabs, move in. Other empty shells wash up on the beach.

Pretty Irritating

When a bit of sand gets inside an oyster shell, it scratches and bothers the oyster. To protect itself, the oyster covers the sand with the minerals it uses to make its shell. Over time, it forms something that humans use for jewelry. Unscramble the letters to find out what it is.

MAMA'S MUSINGS

Good people

My son James and I took my mom-who-raised me to lunch. We do this about once a month. She is in a very nice assisted living complex. She is there all the time, except when we come and take her to lunch.

She made me smile on the way back, because she said, "You don't have to take me out every time you visit." I reminded her how much she seems to enjoy getting out of the place for a bit, and she agreed.

We brought her back to her place, stayed a little while, then left. I wanted to put on shorts before we went to the barn. James was having a riding lesson, and I was doing barn work. He fussed leaving my mom's, and again leaving for the barn. He dislikes transitions.

On the way home, we stopped for McDonald's drive through. I had to get my phone away from James to open my McDonald's app. The app gave us a free Happy Meal. We ordered, and I moved up to the cashier window. That is when I discovered I had left my purse at home. Okay, no problem, I have a card saved on the app. Oops. The app updated. No card on file. I was about to tell the cashier I would go in the restaurant to settle the bill, when to my surprise, he pulled out his phone and paid for our order. I was shocked, and very grateful. From McDonald's, we rushed home, ate, James got bathed, I packed his overnight bag, and his dad picked him up. There is never enough time.

James dragged his feet getting in the bath, and was still dressing when his father arrived. Transitions suck.

After they left, I went to the McDonald's website to compliment them and thank the employee who paid for our dinner. I promised to pay for someone else's dinner the next time we go.

There are good people in the world. Sometimes they appear when you really need help. So thankful.

Know heat exhaustion, stroke signs

BY SUSAN BRYANT
Special to the Bethlehem Press

Extreme heat has been affecting people across the globe, and the Lehigh Valley is no exception.

Over the last week, temperatures in the Lehigh Valley have been in the high 90s.

The heat has already claimed the life of one man.

Lehigh County Coroner Daniel Buglio reported last Friday, a 73-year-old Allentown man died from excessive heat exposure complicated by underlying medical conditions.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention website, "Extreme heat is defined as summertime temperatures that are much hotter and/or humid than average. Heat-related illnesses, like heat exhaustion or heat stroke, happen when the body is not able to properly cool itself.

"While the body normally cools itself by sweating, during extreme heat, this might not be enough.

"In these cases, a person's body temperature rises faster than it can cool itself down. This can cause damage to the brain and other vital organs."

The CDC further states, "Heat-related deaths and illnesses are preventable. Despite this, around 618 people in the United States are killed by extreme heat every year."

It is important to learn the difference between heat exhaustion and heat stroke and be able to recognize the signs.

In last week's edition of the Lehigh Valley Health Network Better Days Ahead newsletter, a discussion on heat exhaustion and heat stroke risk, as well as health prevention tips to staying cool, was offered.

"Heat-related illnesses like heat stroke and heat exhaustion are serious medical conditions that can be prevented by simply following some simple rules when spending time outdoors," says Lehigh Valley Hospital Hecktown Oaks emergency medicine physician John Wheary, D.O., in the newsletter.

According to Wheary, the signs of heat exhaustion can be dizziness, headache, weakness and clammy skin.

He advised moving to a cool place and resting if experiencing these symptoms.

ArtsQuest's proposal to demolish this entire complex of Banana Factory buildings at W. Third and Northampton streets failed to score a COA.

Board denies ArtsQuest proposal to raze existing Banana Factory

BY ED COURRIER

Special to the Bethlehem Press

In a 3-2 vote July 18, the Bethlehem Historic Conservation Commission denied a certificate of appropriateness to ArtsQuest's proposal to demolish the entire complex of Banana Factory buildings on the Southside. Voting against were Chairman Gary Lader, Vice Chairman Craig Evans, and Ken Loush. Voting in favor of the proposal were Mike Simonson and Roger Hudak.

Desiree Strasser attempted to attend virtually but was unable to log in.

Representing the Banana Factory Arts Center at 25 W. Third St. was ArtsQuest CEO Kassie Hilgert and architect Todd Chambers from MKSD.

In a December 2018 meeting, the commissioners had reluctantly supported the demolition of three of the older structures and contemporary infill in the former industrial and retail group of buildings that is home to artists' studios, classrooms and art galleries. Two of the buildings, considered historically contributing were to be incorporated into the new construction of the expanded arts center. Although tabled, the HCC agreed the $16-18 million project was heading in the right direction.

Citing delays brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic and soaring costs, Hilgert and Chambers presented a revised proposal to raze the entire complex owned by ArtsQuest and build a new five-story Southside cultural center on the site.

"This is an issue of equity. All of our programs at the Banana Factory can be accessed by anyone of any background and financial need," said Hilgert.

Hilgert said, "Keeping the two contributory structures of the six buildings that make up the Banana Factory inflates the cost of the project to the point that it cannot sustain itself. In other words; undue economic hardship."

They argued that with inflation, retaining the terra cotta D. Theodoredis Wholesale Banana Co. warehouse and the circa 1925 one-story former auto parts store that currently houses the Crayola Gallery, as approved in 2018, would now cost an estimated $29.3.

Razing all the buildings and replacing them with new construction would run $22,126,375. The nonprofit would save $7,237,241.

Already approved for demolition are a heav-

BETHLEHEM HCC

An architectural rendering of what a new ArtsQuest Southside Cultural Arts Center at 25 W. Third St. would look like was presented by architect Todd Chambers from MKSD at the HCC July 18 meeting.

ArtsQuest CEO Kassie Hilgert and architect Todd Chambers from MKSD cite "undue economic hardship" as the reason they propose to raze all existing buildings at 25 W. Third St. instead of incorporating two of them into new construction.

Left: Architect Christine Ussler refers to a sketch of a historic view of 125 E. Third St. It was home to the Isidor Reiner Company which sold fine jewelry circa 1915. Right: "Your mission must evolve with the times," says ArtsQuest Board of Trustees Vice Chair Orville Trout while encouraging the commissioners to approve the revised Banana Factory proposal during public comment.

Lehigh University Community School Coordinator Rosa Carides-Hof explains how a new ArtsQuest building would help better serve the students from Donegan E.

ily-altered 1885 residence that once housed a brothel, the 1953 addition to the warehouse, a circa 1960 garage, and infill built in 2000. These were considered "non-contributing."

During public comment, the majority of the dozen speakers supported ArtQuest's request. Among them were Bill Woodruff, Lee Riley, Gregg Feinberg, Vicki Doule, Mario Galante, Lou Fromm, Orville Trout, all affiliated with the organization, and resident Kevin Janus.

Feinberg related Stanley Theodoredis, grandson of the Wholesale Banana Co. owner, said to him, "There is no historic value to those buildings. Those buildings are just old."

Pushing back were residents Stephen Antalics and Bill Scheirer. While expressing great appreciation for ArtQuest's mission, they balked at the proposed demolition.

Antalics described how he had "developed double vision" after leaving Bethlehem 70 years ago and returning 20 years ago. "One eye sees Bethlehem 70 years ago. The other eye sees Bethlehem today," he said. Antalics said the Northside looks much the same thanks to timely preservation efforts. He lamented only a "remnant" of historic buildings remain south of the Lehigh due to a much later preservation effort.

There to represent other projects, architect Christine Ussler, a former HCC historic officer, acknowledged that both sides had valid points during public comment.

"I feel there are other opportunities that haven't been explored," said Lader while casting his vote. He also expressed concern on possibly setting a precedent.

Ussler from Artefact scored unanimous COAs for the two projects she represented.

Entry level storefront renovations for 125 E. Third St. that complement previously approved window replacement on the upper facade were OK'd. The storefront framing materials are to be dark bronze anodized aluminum. Treatment below the storefront windows will depend on the successful removal of incompatible brick. They would be covered with tile referenced in a free-hand sketch.

It was stipulated that further details be provided as original architectural elements are revealed when plywood panels and other contemporary infill are pealed away. The installation of a 42-inch steel railing on the second floor open area at the side and rear of the back addition was approved.

Detailed drawings of the proposed final configuration will be submitted at a later date.

The three-story building was built circa 1910 is owned by Southside 125 LLC.

Ussler's proposal to renovate the existing two-story front facade and a portion of the side wall of 210 E. Third St. was approved.

Her plan for removing the 1960s-era cement-based Formstone applied over the original face of the structure and repointing the historic brick beneath was welcomed by the commissioners. Infill material below the first floor windows is to reveal the lower portion of the original frames. Exposing the original transom is another goal along with installing historically-appropriate windows flanking a new entrance door. An etched privacy film would be applied over the glass as the current tenant is a church congregation.

The applicant is to return with additional details for a sign band, replacing the vinyl siding along the eastern wall, a concrete code-compliant ADA ramp, and a brick screen and gate for along the side yard.

When Lader opened the floor for public comment, Scheirer responded with, "Anything Chris Ussler is associated with I generally support."

The heavily altered is owned by 210 E. Third St. LLC.

The Bethlehem HCC is charged with the task of determining if new signs or other alterations to a building's exterior would be an appropriate fit for the neighborhood in one of three designated historic districts.

Obtaining a certificate of appropriateness is only a first step for business owners and residents in a designated historic district who wish to make alterations to a building's exterior. The commission's recommendations are later reviewed, and then voted on by city council before any project is allowed to proceed.

SIGNS

Heat stroke is more severe and is considered a medical emergency, he said.

The signs of heat stroke include fever, fast/strong pulse, vomiting and confusion.

Wheary recommends anyone experiencing these symptoms move to a cool place and call 911.

Stay safe this summer by remaining indoors if you have air conditioning.

Wear loose-fitting, light-colored clothing.

Stay well hydrated by drinking plenty of fluids such as water or Gatorade.

Limit your time outdoors and avoid strenuous exercise or activities during the hottest part of the day, usually between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., and take frequent breaks if you must work outdoors. Never leave a child, elderly person or pet alone in a vehicle on a hot summer day.

Also, check on family, friends and neighbors, especially senior citizens, who may not have air conditioning in their homes and live alone.

Don't forget those furry friends; they, too, can be affected by extreme heat.

Keep pets safe by providing a cool, shaded place for them to rest, and be sure to provide them with plenty of cool water to drink.

Take your pet to a veterinarian if it shows signs of heat-related stress.

I encourage all Lehigh Valley residents to educate themselves on the dangers of extreme heat and the signs and symptoms of heat exhaustion and heat stroke. It could save a life.

Musikfest 2022

The platz thickens; party like it's 2019

BY PAUL WILLISTEIN
 pwillistein@nnonline.com

To paraphrase the lyric from Prince's song, "1999," you can party like it's 2019 at Musikfest 2022.

Musikfest is back for full-fledged festing Aug. 5 - 14 on the north side and south side of the city of Bethlehem.

There are again more than 500 free concerts on 16 stages.

It's the 39th Musikfest, give or take Covid. Musikfest began in 1984.

Musikfest 2020 was mostly online. Musikfest 2021 was not quite back to full speed.

Musikfest 2022 promises to be the way the fest used to be in "The Before Times," i.e., before the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic shutdown.

Several featured performers were to perform at Musikfest 2020, but are now at Musikfest 2022, including Willie Nelson, Kelsea Ballerini and Poison.

Headlining Musikfest on the Wind Creek Steel Stage for ticketed concerts are: Disturbed, Ja Rule & Ashanti, Kip Moore, Ziggy Marley, Olga Tañón, Counting Crows, Willie Nelson, Kelsea Ballerini, Alabama and Poison.

Preview night Aug. 4 has Boyz II Men on the Wind Creek Stage.

Musikfest is held in the 18th Century Industrial Quarter and along Main Street on the north side and on the Wind Creek Stage, Levitt Pavilion and ArtsQuest Center at SteelStacks on the south side.

There's a new Platz in town. After more than a decade, an old favorite is back. At Payrow Plaza, Bethlehem City Hall and Bethlehem Public Library, is PNC Stadtplatz (City Place or Town Square). The site was formerly Americaplaz. Levitt Pavilion SteelStacks became the location of Americaplaz.

New this year are "backstage experiences" for fans at Wind Creek Stage and PNC Stadtplatz.

Boyz II Men

Boyz II Men, DJ Jamal Knight, Tshila, 7 p.m. Aug. 4, Wind Creek Steel Stage, PNC Plaza, SteelStacks. Gates open at 6 p.m. Boyz II Men (pronounced Boys to Men) is an American vocal harmony group from Philadelphia. The trio is baritone Nathan Morris and tenors Wanya Morris and Shawn Stockman. Bass Michael McCary left the group in 2003 because of back spasms diagnosed as multiple sclerosis. Boyz II Men had the Top 5 singles "Motownphilly" and "It's So Hard to Say Goodbye to Yesterday" in 1991, followed by the No. 1 single "End of the Road" in 1992, setting a new record for staying at No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100 for 13 weeks. Boyz II Men broke this record with the releases of "I'll Make Love to You" and "One Sweet Day" (with Mariah Carey), which, at 14 and 16 weeks, respectively, set new records. When "On Bended Knee" took the No. 1 spot from "I'll Make Love to You," Boyz II Men became only the third artist ever (after the Beatles and Elvis Presley) to replace themselves at the top of the Billboard Hot 100. Boyz II Men has received four Grammy Awards. The group's most recent studio album, "Under the Streetlight," was released in 2017. A section of Broad Street, near the Philadelphia High School for the Creative and Performing Arts, where the group's members attended, is named Boyz II Men Boulevard.

"Con Te Partirò," Quarantotto & Sartori; sung by Sheehan

Sheehan, born in Dublin, Ireland, grew up on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean, dividing his time between Dublin and New York.

After an introduction to The Irish Repertory Theatre in New York City, Sheehan met legendary Broadway director Harold Prince during The Rep's production of Prince's award-winning play "Grandchild of Kings."

Recognizing Sheehan's talent, Prince placed him on Broadway six months after meeting him. Sheehan made his Broadway debut in "Les Miserables" (Babet, Marius). Shortly thereafter, Prince cast Sheehan as Raoul in "The Phantom of the Opera."

After one year of playing Raoul on Broadway, Sheehan starred in the coveted role of The Phantom. Sheehan sang the role of the Phantom in more than 1,000 performances during the course of 2 1/2 years on Broadway and in Toronto.

Among Sheehan's most memorable engagements have been four sold-out performances at Carnegie Hall, performing the "National Anthem" at New York Governor George Pataki's inauguration, Giants Stadium (Giants), Continental Arena (Nets), and Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome (Twins), opening the dedication of the Irish Hunger Memorial in New York City, soloist at the internationally-televised memorial Mass for John and Carolyn Kennedy Jr., and soloist for President Joe Biden's son Beau Biden's funeral.

Sheehan is a member of the international tour, "The Four Phantoms In Concert."

It's all Greek for Shakespeare in outdoor Theater at Crest

By Kathy Lauer-Williams

Reclaimed Performing Arts Company presents Shakespeare's romantic comedy "Twelfth Night, or What You Will," Aug. 5 - 7 in the outdoor Greek Theater, Cedar Crest College, Allentown.

Director Carter Reichard says that, while the company formerly known as Actors Anonymous Theatre Company has been around since 2016, it was "rebranded with a new name" in 2020.

"Twelfth Night" is the second in-person project since then. The first was "Shakespeare's Crowded Cafe," a series of three short plays written and performed in April.

"We initially formed without a real purpose, to be completely honest, but when we re-branded we came back with a mission to cast without type," says Reichard.

"Overall, we believe that skill and passion should speak for itself when someone plays a role, not how they look, or what their physical type of role is that they typically play," Reichard says.

The Greek Theater is in the vicinity of Tompkins College Center. It's recommended that audience members bring chairs or blankets. In the event of rain, the performance will be held in Alumnae Hall Auditorium.

Reichard says the group plans to present Shakespeare productions during the next few summers.

Carter Reichard Director

"We also work with Cedar Crest's Sister Stage company and will be working in partnership on two full productions and four cabarets over the next year," Reichard says

"Twelfth Night" follows Viola, a young woman who is shipwrecked and separated from her brother, whom she fears has drowned. She disguises herself as a man under the name Cesario and enters the service of Duke Orsino.

Duke Orsino is in love with Olivia, and asks Cesario to go to Olivia and profess the Duke's love for her.

However, Olivia falls in love with the disguised Viola, thinking she is a man. Viola finds herself in love with Duke Orsino, creating a love triangle.

The cast features

Raven Wesley (Viola), Jordan Frantz (Olivia), Leah Trunsky (Duke Orsino), Zee Marrero (Sir Toby Belch), Salem Perez Torres (Sir Andrew Agavecheek), Colleen Popper (Malvolio), Olivia Theisen (Maria), Phi Johnson-Grimes (Fabian) and Michael Russo (Feste).

Also: Clare Foster, Samantha Philipps, Chelsi Fread, Kyleigh Vicoso, Aaron Castro, Mer Raffensberger, Rae Hirst and Nadia Joanne.

Performances are 6:30 p.m. Aug. 5-7. Tickets are pay-what-you-will.

"Curtain Rises" is a column about the theater, stage shows, the actors in them and the directors and artists who make them happen. To request coverage, email: Paul Willistein, Focus editor, pwillistein@ttonline.com.

Yes, you can wear white after Labor Day

Dear Jacquelyn,
Is it still considered a fashion faux pas to wear white after Labor Day?

Dear Reader,
One of the most well-known fashion "rules" is that you can't wear white after Labor Day.

It turns out that rule is outdated. White can be worn 365 days a year. Common sense is key. Wearing white after Labor Day depends on the clothing items making sense, rather than what color the item is.

If it is the dead of winter be careful about what sort of white clothing you choose. If it's slushy out, white shoes probably don't make sense.

It's more about the

RESPECTFULLY YOURS

By Jacquelyn Youst

specific outfit and the specific occasion than it is about the rule.

Nobody knows for sure where this piece of fashion wisdom comes from.

However, there are some common theories. One states that this rule was created by the wives of the wealthy elites during the late 1800s.

The story goes that the women who considered themselves to be "Old Money" created this rule among themselves so they would know who was in that upper crust inner circle and who was not.

Another theory is based on practicality. Back in the day, people didn't have air conditioning or central heat so instead relied on shades of clothing to adapt to the changing temperatures.

A final theory blends both classism and practicality to suggest another reason for the rule.

In time, not wearing white after Labor Day became a bit of a fashion rule. Following it showed that you were wealthy or at least that you knew how to act like you were.

While there are still those who consider post-Labor Day white clothing a no-no, the most important thing to remember is not to take fashion rules so seriously, because fashion is really supposed to be fun.

Long story short, it's perfectly fine to wear white after Labor Day.

Respectfully Yours,
Jacquelyn

The most cherished 'activity'

When we arrived in Maine for our long awaited vacation, my daughter Andrea had a question for her sister.

"What activity are you most looking forward to doing?" she asked.

"Talking," replied Maria.

What?
Andrea tried to ask the question in a different way.

"I'm trying to plan our week so I would like to know what you most want to do," she said.

Maria gave the same answer. "I'm most looking forward to talking with my family," she said.

"Of course we'll talk," Andrea said. "What else do you want to do?"

"I just want to talk with my family," Maria repeated.

Andrea gave up getting any kind of helpful information from her sister so she went out to the lake dock to find me.

"Hey Mom, what do you most want to do here in Maine?"

My highly organized daughter wanted to make sure she scheduled sufficient time for how we most wanted to spend our Maine visit.

"I just want the joy of talking to my family," I answered truthfully. I didn't know how Maria had answered the question but we both gave the same answer.

Andrea was frustrated. "We talk almost every day," she said.

Yes, but there's a difference between touching base with each other as we go about our day and the kind of meaningful conversation Maria and I meant.

Usually, when I talk to my daughters, telephone conversation is often short and hurried. Andrea is often rushing to appointments with her interior design clients. Maria works from home but still has work deadlines to meet along with frequent zoom conferences. When I call them I first ask if it's convenient to talk.

They never short-change me. If I want to talk about something, they always make time. But as someone familiar with the pressures of the work-a-day world, I recognize the difference between working mode and leisure time to share.

While they often phone, calls are often more along the lines of "checking in" with each other. Important, yes, but not soul satisfying.

My daughters and I are close and people often comment we share so much with each other.

We do.
But sharing is different when we are together for long, leisurely conversation.

Maybe it's different when you live near family and see them often. When we just have a precious week or two with each other we deeply value our conversations.

When Maria and I were relaxing on the dock at one point our conversation floated back to years ago. I was happy she wanted to explore our feelings — feelings we didn't talk about in earlier years. We both were gratified for the insight we gained from our conversation.

WARMEST REGARDS

By Pattie Mihalik

newsgirl@comcast.net

I don't believe that would have been possible in telephone conversations, regardless of how long we talked.

One thing I learned over the years is that even if you are often together with family members you don't get those important in-depth conversations if you are always busy with group activities.

It takes one-on-one conversation to really know each other.

My grandsons and I try to arrange one-on-one time. They tell me what's going on in their life and I tell them stories about my past. I am all too aware some day I will be gone and they will never again get to learn anything about me.

They always make me laugh and they enliven every family get-together. Grandson Grayson, one of those people that make it a party just by being there, took time off work so we could spend time together.

I get to hear what's going on in his life from his mother but nothing beats hearing him tell his stories. I often joke that when Andrea was born she must have arrived equipped with a built-in, high performance engine with the throttle stuck on full speed ahead.

Always on the go, she thrives on activity. She equates activity with fun and it's her pre-planning that sets our days of fun for her entire family.

To give us a meaningful Maine vacation, she put a lot of thought into taking us to quaint little towns and lobster shacks with the best lobster rolls.

She didn't have to go far to take me to the Maine place I love best. It's right in her backyard. Lake Damariscotta with its spectacular scenery, cozy coves and tall trees that seem to reach up to the sky is a nature lover's delight, especially when viewed from a kayak.

Paddling slowly enough to watch the eagles in the trees and admire the waterlilies in the cove filled me with pleasure.

At the end of each day Andrea produces incredible healthy meals, with the best part coming as we linger at the table.

In our family the evening meal is much more than just eating. It's a time for family bonding, a time for laughs, for discussion and for and story telling.

My son-in-law Greg is one of the most interesting conversationalists I've ever heard. It's such a treat to spend time hearing him tell "the story behind the story" in his documentaries.

It's no wonder Maria and I both answered "talking" as the activity we most wanted.

When you don't often get enough time to spend with your family, long talks with those you most love is incomparable.

Make sure to wash your hands around animals

The coronavirus that started in China may have come from animals.

Many coronaviruses are zoonoses, which means they spread from animals to people.

Two coronaviruses in the recent past probably passed to humans from bats. These are severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS) in 2003, and Middle East respiratory syndrome (MERS) in 2012.

You can get a zoonose from a household pet.

Psittacosis is a common bird disease known as "parrot fever." It occurs frequently in birds such as parakeets and cockatiels. Bacteria in bird droppings and nasal discharges can be inhaled. Psittacosis can develop into pneumonia and other health problems.

To help prevent transmission of psittacosis, don't let birds fly around the house. Wash your hands after contact with birds. Wear a dust mask and gloves when cleaning a bird cage. Antibacterial drugs are used to treat the disease in birds and people.

Cats can carry a parasite that causes the disease toxoplasmosis. You can get it from cat feces. Wearing gloves while gardening or changing a cat's litter box is important. Washing your hands afterward is advised.

HEALTHY GEEZER

By Fred Cicetti

fred@healthygeezer.com

Few people who carry the toxoplasma parasite become ill. Those who get sick may suffer from swollen glands and muscle aches. Antimicrobial drugs are available to treat infected people.

Worms can infect dogs, cats and humans. Worms live in the intestines of animals and are expelled in the stool. Yards and homes can become contaminated from worm eggs that are passed in animal feces and hatch in the soil.

Just one roundworm larva has been known to damage the retina of the eye and cause blindness. Hookworm larvae can cause painful inflammation where they crawl just below the skin's surface. Drugs are available to destroy worms that infect dogs, cats and people.

People usually get salmonellosis by eating contaminated food. But it can also be transmitted to people through pets, particularly reptiles, baby chicks and ducklings, which commonly pass the Salmonella bacterium in their feces.

People have to be especially careful around reptiles. You should not let them roam freely through the house. Always wash your hands with hot, soapy water after handling reptiles or anything they contact.

Most persons infected with Salmonella develop diarrhea, fever and abdominal cramps. Most victims recover without treatment. The elderly are more likely to have more severe symptoms.

Ringworm, a skin and scalp disease, is caused by fungi. People get it by touching an infected animal. Ringworm can infect cats, dogs, horses and other animals. In humans, ringworm may produce ring-shaped, reddish, itchy rash. Topical and oral medications may be used to treat ringworm.

Cat-Scratch Disease (CSD) may cause fever, fatigue, headache and swollen lymph glands. Most people get better on their own in about three weeks. Most cat scratches don't develop into CSD. If you are bitten or scratched, wash the area immediately with soap and water.

Rabies, a deadly viral disease, is transmitted through the saliva of a rabid animal, usually by a bite. Domestic animals account for less than 10 percent of the reported animal rabies cases. If you are bitten, immediately wash the wound with soap and water, let the wound bleed, and get medical help at once.

Mycobacterium is one of the main infectious germ families associated with fish and aquarium water. A common route of this infection in humans is through cuts or scrapes on hands or feet. People should wear rubber gloves when cleaning the fish tank and wash their hands well afterwards.

If I haven't mentioned this before, wash your hands often when you are around animals.

MUSIKFEST

After debuting its first Inclusion Zone for Musikfest 2021, ArtsQuest, in partnership with Accessible Festivals, has added a second Inclusion Zone for 2022.

Musikfest Inclusion Zones are sensory-supportive areas that provide services, tools and amenities for persons of all ages and abilities with sensory-processing difficulties. There will be ASL interpreters for Inclusion Day at Musikfest, Aug. 7.

Sponsored by Good Shepherd Rehabilitation Network, the Inclusion Zones are on the north and south sides. The first Inclusion Zone was at Musikfest 2021.

Here are highlights of free concerts at Musikfest.

Concerts at Air Products Americaplatz at Levitt Pavilion SteelStacks include KC Makes Music, Aug. 5; JJ Grey & Mofro, Aug. 9; We Banjo 3, Aug. 10, and Shovels & Rope, Aug. 11.

Also on the South Side, in ArtsQuest Center is Frank Banko Alehouse Cinema, with Lutron Jazz Cabaret and Martin Guitar Lyr-ikplatz, and concerts in Musikfest Café presented by Yuengling.

On the North Side, concerts at T-Mobile Plaza Tropical stage include Shamarr Allen, Aug. 5, and Screaming Females, Aug. 7.

Wells Fargo Festplatz includes Garden State Radio, Aug. 5; The Aardvarks, Aug. 6, and Sofa Kings, Aug. 7.

On Provident Bank Main Street concerts include Swamp Guard, Aug. 5, and Mosey Beat, Aug. 11.

IBEW Local 375 Lie-derplatz concerts include The Youngers, Aug. 5; BC Blue, Aug. 12, and the Dina Hall Band, Aug. 13.

Among those performing at Guardian Life Insurance Company of America Zinzenplatz is Marielle Kraft, Aug. 5.

Concerts at PNC Stadtplatz, Payrow Plaza, include Igor and the Red Elvises, Aug. 5; Kat Wright, Aug. 7, and Boat House Row, Aug. 10.

Musikfest CashCards, introduced in 2021, are back for Musikfest 2022. Re-loadable CashCards are available at cash conversion booths. The goal is to keep food and beverage lines moving.

Credit-debit cards and digital payment methods are accepted on the North Side. Cash will be accepted on the South Side.

More than 30 food vendors are expected at Musikfest.

A free Musikfest app has information about concerts, artisans, vendors and family activities.

In Carbon County, the median sales price increased to $250,000 in June.

June analysis

"With monthly mortgage payments up more than 50 percent compared to this time last year, the rising costs of homeownership have sidelined many prospective buyers," said GLVR CEO Justin Poremba.

"That said, while some buyers are walking away due to higher interest rates or simply not being able to find a home that fits their needs and/or budget, the Lehigh Valley is a hot commodity, so for every buyer that steps away, another is waiting in the wings," Poremba said.

"The Lehigh Valley housing market is not cooling down quite as much as other parts of the nation," said Poremba.

"As existing home sales continue to soften, housing supply is slowly improving, with inventory trending, no matter how slightly, in a positive direction," said GLVR President Howard Schaeffer.

"In time, price growth is expected to moderate as supply grows. For now, however, inventory remains low, and buyers are feeling the squeeze of higher prices all around," Schaeffer said.

"I continue to recommend consumers have a Realtor by their side to help them close on the home of their dreams at the price and terms they want and need," said Schaeffer.

National indicators

Rising inflation, soaring home prices, and increased mortgage interest rates have combined to cause a slowdown in the United States housing market.

To help quell inflation, which reached 8.6 percent in May, the Federal Reserve raised interest rates by three quarters of a percentage point in June, the largest interest rate hike since 1994.

Higher prices, coupled with 30-year fixed mortgage rates approaching 6 percent, have exacerbated affordability challenges and rapidly cooled demand, with home sales and mortgage applications falling sharply from a year ago.

With monthly mortgage payments up more than 50 percent compared to this time last year, the rising costs of homeownership have sidelined many prospective buyers.

Nationally, the Median Sales Price of existing homes recently exceeded $400,000 for the first time ever, a 15 percent increase from the same period a year ago, according to the National Association of Realtors.

Lehigh Valley Hospital No.1 in U.S. News & World Report

Lehigh Valley Hospital (LVH) has been recognized as the No. 1 hospital in the Lehigh Valley and among the Top 10 hospitals in Pennsylvania for 2022-23 by U.S. News & World Report.

It's the ninth straight year LVH has been ranked No. 1 by the magazine, which also has recognized the hospital nationally among America's Best Hospitals in various medical specialties 23 times since 1996.

In 2022-23, LVH earned a high-performing rating in six adult specialties including:

- Gastroenterology and GI Surgery
- Geriatrics
- Neurology and Neurosurgery
- Orthopedics
- Pulmonology and Lung Surgery
- Urology

LVH also is listed as high performing in 13 Common Adult Procedures and Conditions tracked by U.S. News including:

- Aortic valve surgery
- Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD)

- Colon cancer surgery

- Diabetes
- Heart attack
- Heart bypass surgery

- Heart failure
- Hip replacement
- Kidney failure
- Knee replacement
- Pneumonia
- Stroke

- Transcatheter aortic valve replacement (TAVR)

The annual Best Hospitals rankings and ratings are designed to assist patients and their doctors in making informed decisions about where to receive care for challenging health conditions or for common elective procedures.

For the 2022-23 rankings and ratings, U.S. News evaluated more than 4,500 hospitals nationwide in 15 specialties and 20 procedures and conditions.

In the 15 specialty areas, 164 hospitals were ranked in at least one specialty.

In rankings by state and metro area, U.S. News recognized hospitals as high performing across multiple areas of care. The hospitals named to the U.S. News Honor Roll excel across numerous specialties and service lines," said Ben Harder, managing editor and chief of health analysis at U.S. News.

"When patients and their medical professionals are considering their options for care, the rankings are designed to help them identify hospitals that are superior in the kind of care they may need," Harder said.

The U.S. News Best Hospitals methodologies in most areas of care are based largely on objective measures such as risk-adjusted survival and discharge-to-home rates, volume and quality of nursing, among other care-related indicators.

The Best Hospitals methodology factors in data from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, American Hospital Association, professional organizations and medical specialists.

LCCC receives PPL grant for Design Den learning

The Lehigh Carbon Community College (LCCC) Design Den creative makerspace has received a $1,000 grant from the PPL Foundation.

Funds will support the facility, which will provide hands-on learning opportunities to LCCC students in the Teacher Education degree programs and professional development opportunities to classroom K-12 teachers in science, technology, engineering, art and mathematics (STEAM).

The Design Den on the LCCC main campus in Schnecksville, follows the model created by the college's SHINE (Schools and Homes in Education) after-school program that includes project-based learning involving collaboration, creativity and technology.

Beginning this fall, the space will teach students in Teacher Education classes how to integrate STEAM principles into lesson plans and curricula and will promote professional development for LCCC Education faculty.

The Makerspace will be a resource for school districts, area schools, colleges and universities and other community partners. It will also serve as a hub for STEAM-related summer camps, after-school programs, Saturday programs and field trips for area school children.

The PPL Foundation awards grants through an annual competitive application and review process.

Just say 'Nope'

AT THE MOVIES
By Paul Willstein
pwillstein@online.com

"I've looked at clouds from both sides now From up and down and still somehow It's cloud illusions I recall I really don't know clouds at all"

- Joni Mitchell
"Both Sides Now"
Summer is a great time for looking at clouds. You lay back, perhaps on a blanket in the grass, and watch shape-shifters in the sky.

In "Nope," Otis Jr. "OJ" Haywood (Daniel Kaluuya) gazes at clouds at his father's Haywood's Hollywood Horses Ranch in the Santa Clarita Valley, in southern California.

One sunny day, his father Otis (Keith David) falls off the white stallion he is riding, struck dead by debris falling from the clouds. An airplane is blamed.

To that theory, Otis junior says, "Nope."

After Otis junior and his sister, Emerald Haywood (Keke Palmer), and the horse they brought to a movie studio for a TV commercial are fired, they look for a way to make money to keep the ranch going.

Otis is increasingly suspicious of strange goings-on at the ranch. Lights flicker. The electricity goes off and on. The horses are skittish. Otis junior says he's sighted a UFO up in the clouds.

Otis and Emerald devise a scheme to strike it rich, inspired by Ricky "Jube" Park (Steven Yuen), a former child actor who runs Jupiter's Claim, a nearby Wild West theme park.

In a subplot, shown in flashbacks, Ricky was traumatized as a child actor when he witnessed a trained chimpanzee going berserk and killing actors on the set of the TV show he's on.

Otis and Emerald decide to go "Oprah." They want to get the "money shot" of the UFO and sell the images to a TV show.

They purchase surveillance cameras at a local electronics store. The tech salesman Angel Torres (Brandon Perea) installs the equipment at the ranch and becomes their ally.

They set up an elaborate if silly ruse that involves the inflatable colorful tube men you see at a car dealers' lots. The hope is to lure the UFO.

They convince a cinematographer, Anglers Holst (Michael Wincott), to be at the ranch to film the UFO, and they hope, the aliens inside.

To say any more would spoil the movie for you. Nope, I won't do it.

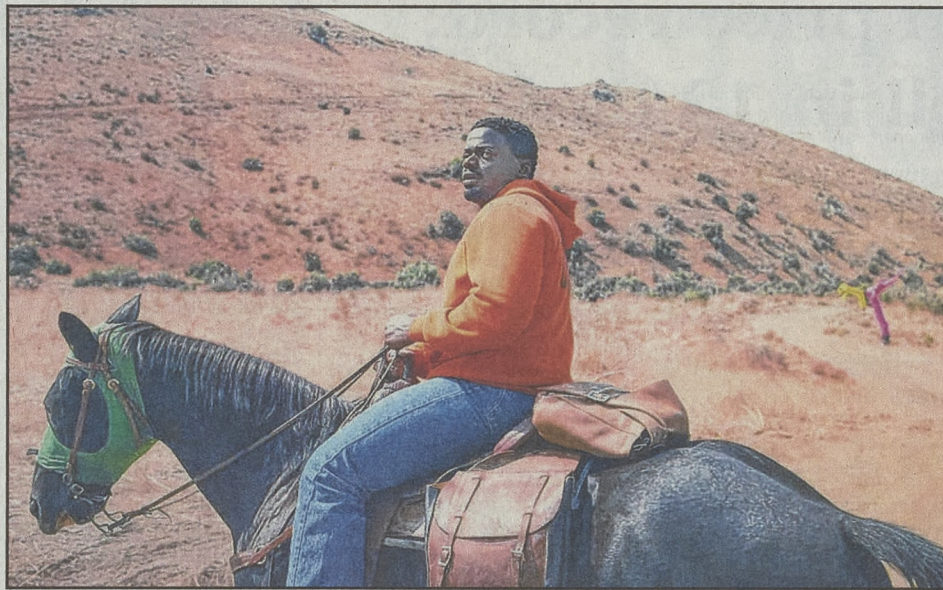

"Nope" is exemplary for clearly-defined characters, terse dialogue (except for motormouth Emerald), concise close-ups of lead characters and expansive vistas (think "The Power of the Dog," 2021).

Writer-director Jordan Peele (Oscar recipient, original screenplay, "Get Out," 2017, which he also directed; writer-director "Us," 2019) creates believable characters, scenes and action in "Nope," one of the best movies of 2022.

Jordan Peele wrote the screenplay for the "Candyman" (2021) remake. Tony Todd, who portrays Candyman, stars in August Wilson's "Fences" at the Pennsylvania Shakespeare Festival, DeSales University, through Aug. 7.

Look for multiple Oscar nominations, including for Jordan Peele, Daniel Kaluuya and Keke Palmer.

Daniel Kaluuya (Oscar recipient, supporting actor, "Judas and the Black Messiah," 2021; "Get Out"; "Black Panther," 2018) projects an iconoclast accustomed to hoping for the best, but planning for the worst. His screen presence is riveting.

Keke Palmer (Emmy recipient, actress, "Turnt Up with the Taylors," 2020; "Hustlers," 2019; "Akeelah and the Bee," 2006; "Tyler Perry's Madea's Family Reunion," 2006) is amazing as a person with differences, whose frequent vaping doesn't seem to calm her.

Steven Yeun (Oscar actor nominee, "Minari," 2020) is sympathetic as a person scarred by childhood trauma.

Brandon Perea is crazy good as the store clerk who wants to help, whether they want it or not.

In a cameo, Donna Mills plays Bonnie Clayton in a TV commercial.

The cinematography by Director of Photography Hoyte Van Hoytema ("Tenet," 2020; "Interstellar," 2019; "Ad Astra," 2019; Oscar nominee, cinematography, "Dunkirk," 2017) is extraordinary.

The Production Design by Ruth De Jong extends to the hilarious and creepy Jupiter's Claim amusement park.

Editor Nicholas Monsour ("Us," Emmy nominee, "Key and Peele," 2012) provides excellent transitions.

Michael Abels (Composer, "Us," "Get Out"; Emmy nominee, theme, composition, "Allen v Farrow," 2021) uses strings thrillingly to heighten the film's tension.

"Nope" is one of the most invigorating summer movie releases of 2022 or any summer. It has the charm of "Goonies" (1985) the unexpected thrills of "The Blair Witch Project" (1999) and the movie insider sense of "Once Upon a Time in ... Hollywood" (2019).

"Nope," though billed as a horror film (It has a few jump cuts.) is more of a science-fiction film, mystery and character study. Whatever it is, it's great film-making.

Just say, "Yup" to "Nope." Don't miss it.

"Nope," MPAA rated R (Restricted. Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.) for language throughout and some violence, bloody images; Genre: Science Fiction, Mystery, Horror; Run time: 2 hours, 10 minutes. Distributed by Universal Pictures.

Credit Readers Anonymous: The film opens with the Biblical quote, "Nahum 3:6: I will cast abominable filth upon you, make you vile, and make you a spectacle." The numbers 613 are referenced. I will let interpretations up to Jewish scholars. A mitzvah for anyone who knows.

Stay to the very end of "Nope" to see a title card advertisement for Jupiter's Claim, that states: "Come ride through Jupiter's Claim at Universal Studio as seen in Nope." The Jupiter's Claim set was added to Universal Studios Hollywood Studio Tour. It's the first time a Studio Tour attraction opened on the day of a movie release, according to a Universal Studios press release. It's on the back lot with other movie sets, including Steven Spielberg's "War of the Worlds," Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho" house and Robert Zemeckis' "Back to the Future" Courthouse Square.

"Nope" locations included Firestone Ranch, Santa Clarita, Calif., Fry's Electronics, Burbank, Calif., the latter closed in 2021.

The chimpanzee character, Gordy, is Computer Generated Imagery, based on motion-capture actor Terry Notary.

The characters in "Nope" are written as the descendants of the Black jockey in Eadward Muybridge's "The Horse in Motion," said to be the first moving picture.

At The Movies: "Nope" was seen in the IMAX at AMC. The movie was filmed with IMAX 65 mm cameras. The film could be seen in the Dolby at AMC or the standard format.

Theatrical Domestic Movie Box Office, July 29 - 31: "DC League of Super-Pets," the animated feature film featur-
