It was planned that there would be two ways to attend the Public Safety Committee meeting last night, via YouTube or webinar.

But right around the beginning of Capt Kott's part of the presentation YouTube went to hell. And the webinar then became the only way to attend.

So there are two videos of the meeting now up at this location:

Watch the regular YouTube first, then switch to the webinar.

Gadfly will continue to break the event into pieces for better focus, but you can now play or re-play the entire night's events for yourself.
