

Nordhouse, S. M.

Pre-Flight School
Cadets Inspected
By Commander 1944

Commander S. M. Nordhouse, in command of the New York regional office of the Naval Air Primary Training Command. Yesterday inspected the Muhlenberg - Moravian unit of the U. S. Naval Flight Preparatory School, and, according to report from the unit, found everything in satisfactory condition.

Yesterday, Philip Paravana, Naval aviation cadet, suffered back injuries when an iron railing at the Allentown-Bethlehem Airport collapsed while several cadets were sitting on it. He received first aid on the field was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Allentown. He was released from the hospital today.

March 30, 1944