Meet Nalya; safe so far Bethlehem couple fear for safety of young woman they befriended years ago

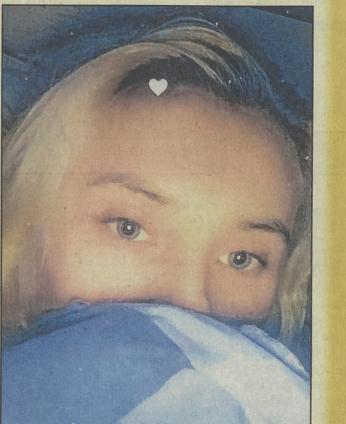

BY JENN RAGO

Special to the Bethlehem Press ethlehem residents Phil and Eileen Gentile have a special interest in the events unfolding in Ukraine. The ties they have to the battle ravaged country date back to 2011 when they first met Nalya.

Nalya is a young lady in her early 20s living in Kyiv. She did not want to disclose her last name or current address but did agree to share her experiences through Google translate and her close friends, the Gentiles. She speaks little to no English and presents that fierce Ukrainian spirit and determination that almost borders on stubbornness. The Gentiles became acquainted with Nelya as part of a summer hosting program called New Horizons for Children. An acquaintance of theirs was hosting Nelya and during the course of that five weeks they got to know her very well and got very close to her. After she left the U.S and returned to the orphanage in Ukraine, Phil says, "we did our best to keep in touch with her, and in fact as part of our wedding we asked our guests to donate socks in lieu of gifts. We collected 1,200 pairs of socks and then shipped them to her orphanage in the Lugansk region of eastern Ukraine".

As Nalya grew up and out of the orphanage, she and her brother, Vadim, gradually made their way to live with distant relatives in Kyiv. Concerns for her safety increased when the Russian troops first invaded in 2014 and took over Crimea and supported the separatists in the eastern region of Ukraine. This was made worse in 2021 when Russia began to amass troops along the borders of Ukraine. Eileen states

"We were very much concerned about the situation especially since she lived in the capital," Eileen says. "Despite our questioning she continued to maintain the position that the Ukrainians have been through this before and Russia will not invade.'

Nalya expressed concern for her brother who now lives in the Eastern region of the Ukraine because of the current Russian invasion.

The Gentiles have given her repeated advice that she should get out of Ukraine if not move to the western part of the country and specifically to the city of Lviv. Phil reports, "She has resisted these attempts (to get out) despite other people that we know offering to arrange pickup and potential transport to the Polish border," Phil says. The Gentiles report that communication has been through social media and it's been fairly reliable up to this point. Their concern has been that if the Russians knock out the Internet and or the power, it will be next to impossible for them to reach her.

HITTING CLOSE TO HOME

Ukrainian Homestead member speaks about family, friends

BY JAMES LOGUE JR. Tneditor@tnonline.com

"Ukraine you are my prayer,

"You are my age-old despair. "A fierce battle is raging over the world, "For your life, your rights. Those words, by Ukrainian poet, journalist and activist of the dissident movement Vasyl Andriyovych Symonenko, were penned back in the 1960s. Yet they are just as relevant today.

Ulana Prociuk from the Ukrainian Homestead in Lehighton, shared some of her thoughts on what is happening in Ukraine.

We do have family there, and we do have friends there, and they are mostly in the west," Prociuk said. "They are OK. The arsenal that was hit in the west, in Kornychi, in the Ivano-Frankivsk region, my family lives about 26 kilometers from there. They said they heard everything and it was like six bombs going off."

ANOTHER VIEW From the essay, "For whom does the bell toll?"

Meditation 17 of John Donne's "Devotions upon Emergent Occasions (1624)

No man is an island. Entire of itself. Each is a piece of the continent, A part of the main. If a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less. As well as if a promontory were. As well as if a manor of thine own Or of thine friend's were. Each man's death diminishes me, For I am involved in mankind. Therefore, send not to know For whom the bell tolls, It tolls for thee.

They will fight for their country, they will fight for their homeland, for their villages; that is their home; they are free, with democracy. For this to happen in this day and age, it is hard to believe."

Prociuk said the scene the country is seeing now is similar to stories her parents told her of 1939, when tanks and airplanes were an all too common sight.

"Now we are seeing and witnessing these horrific atrocities that are happening to a country that is totally free; they didn't do anything to anybody," she said. "The only reason Putin is saying that Ukraine is a threat to them is because of the freedom and the democracy. He's challenging the West; he's challenging the democracy because he does not want that in Russia.'

Prociuk agreed that this war is not what the people of Russia want any more than those in Ukraine; this is what Putin and his government leaders want.

"I think it's a travesty. I hope the international the Ukrainian people. community, NATO and the U.S. continue pressuring Russia with sanctions, and humanitarian and military aid and arms. It's horrendous. Putin needs to be charged with war crimes." Melissa Garner Bethlehem

My heart goes out to the people who have nothing to do with this, the children and families and especially the animals. I am big on peace, there shouldn't be fighting, I just want all people to get along." Kaitlyn Smith Northampton ours and other people we know in Latvia so that perhaps they can stay in touch directly by phone and text message," Phil says. "We honestly don't know how long we're going to be able to maintain connection with her because if the Russians overrun the capital, she will be behind enemy lines and it'll be nearly impossible to get her out or to even communicate with her.

"We pray every day that she and her family will remain safe," Phil continues. "We pray that the situation ends soon without much more damage but are very concerned that because Putin feels disgraced he will level the country."

New Horizons for children, the organization through which the Gentiles first met Nelya, has boots on the ground at the Polish border waiting to assist children at the border. Currently Nalva needs food, she needs money and she needs safety.

Asked how they feel about Russia, the Gentiles are very clear.

"I think it's clear that we have little regard for Putin," Elieen says. "He is a monster and evil to the core and has no compunction about sending people to their death or destroying entire cultures simply to appease his ego, including the Russian people. With regard to the Russian people themselves we have very high regard for their sense of right and wrong in their culture we see this specific situation clearly as ego driven for Putin's own personal gain; he is nothing more than a bully.'

evacuate the area, Prociuk's friends and family remain scared, but Ukranians, she added, are resilient and will continue to fight for their freedom.

"I know people who have family and friends in the capital city of Kyiv, and they are staying there to fight," Prociuk said. "That is the spirit of the Ukrainian people.

"Some of us were talking about what happens if the Russian people start to demonstrate, and they have," she said. "They started to; but, unfortunately, they are being imprisoned. But, they're uprising, and they're seeing you can live in a free world." Regarding Vladimir

Wild, Toomey and Casey on the invasion

Representative Susan Wild (D): "Striking population centers across the country, Putin sent an unmistakable message: his goal is to engage in an illegal, full-fledged attack on the innocent men, women, and children of Ukraine and to destroy their democracy. This barbaric war of choice is designed to appeal to Putin's domestic political base, but its costs will be immense and irreversible-for Ukrainians, as well as for the everyday Russians forced to risk their lives in a war that should have never been waged.

"As the representative from Pennsylvania's 7th Congressional District, my district includes one of the largest and most vibrant Ukrainian American communities in the United States. In these constituents, I have seen firsthand the extraordinary resilience of the Ukrainian people-who, in the 20th century, experienced the crimes of Stalinism, Nazi occupation, and the subsequent totalitarianism of the Soviet Union, and somehow rose above this legacy of tragedy to form a proud, independent nation. Time and again, Ukrainians have had to defend their freedom. For my Ukrainian American constituents, and for me, this latest threat to them is

It didn't stop the two-day sale held Feb. 7 and 9 from being a great success as residents and area fans of the library came to purchase used materials such as books, CD's, DVDs and records. The event brought the city's library $9,383. Above: David Constantine, who moved to the city about 17 years ago, peruses a book on the Battle of Pearl Harbor. Although Bangor didn't score until well into the third quarter, the Slaters fired things up when Kaylee Holland scored off her own rebound, Julia Pinter added two more points, and McCormick Karner converted two free throws.

Nate Desmond and Kollin Rath might both be freshmen, but the two Bethlehem Catholic wrestlers don't act like it on the mats.

Desmond and Rath claimed their second straight gold medals in as many weeks after capturing the Northeast Regional 3A titles at Liberty's Memorial Gymnasium over the weekend. Both freshmen now hope they can make it three in a row this week when they head to the Giant Center in Hershey for the PIAA tournament.

Three minutes earlier, McClary didn't like what he was seeing: a nine-point Warrior lead.

'Our coach called a timeout and said, 'You have no energy.' He called us flat out and that was true, and me and a couple other guys went out there and we're yelling, 'Let's pick our energy up.' And we did." said Becahi forward Steve Recchio. "We preaching that were in the locker room too, and without that, I don't think we win that game. That defensive energy was what we needed to be the spark and allow us to win that game."

A big part of the Hawks' game plan was to stop Wilson guards Na'shawn Jones and Shamel Gibson, who combined for 15 firsthalf points.

St. Anne's Students Stage presents 'The Lion King Jr.' Can you feel the love tonight?

BY DENNIS GLEW Special to the Bethlehem Press

The community center of St. Anne's Parish in Bethlehem became the Pride Lands of Africa, where lions rule over all the other animals. Thanks to the magic of theater, dozens of children from St. Anne's School were transformed into African animals. For 90 minutes, the lions' authority was challenged by a wicked villain supported by hyenas, but in the end the good guys won. Simba, a young lion who had passed through fierce trials, became king of the pride, bringing peace and justice to the land.

The Feb. 19 show was a "junior" version of the Broadway hit of the same name. The perfor-mance, which included sets, lights, costumes, music, singing and dancing, was staged by The Gilberts/Sing for America, a local theater company. Starting from scratch, the Gilberts prepared the cast in just a single week – five days with rehearsals from 2 till 8 p.m. The kids learned their lines and their blocking to the best of their ability, and played their parts with gusto. Family members and classmates were enthusiastic observers.

The Gilberts/Sing for America is led by siblings Taryn, Tasia, Teara, Jorne and Jewel Gilbert, who have been singing and performing together since 2003. They sing at their parish church, St. Thomas More, in Allentown, and have organized many fundraisers to support wounded veterans and their families. Musicals that they have staged include "Shrek the Mu-sical," "Babes in Toy-land," and "Hairspray,"

James Krupka, principal of St. Anne's School, says he and his faculty colleagues were pleased with the experience that over 50 St. Anne's students had in "The Lion King Junior." If possible, he would like to offer additional opportunities to perform at St. Anne's in the future. One possibility is to stage "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

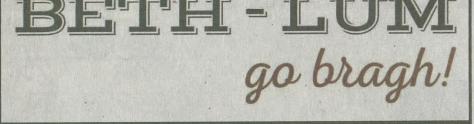

The Rev. Anthony Mongiello, pastor of St. Anne's Parish, welcome guests with probably the most famous song from "The Lion King," "Can You Feel the Love Tonight?"

A crowd of children sits at the front of the audience, cheering the performers throughout the show.

How to request a job reference

Dear Jacquelyn,

You can't stop it and should stay out of the way when your parents are arguing, said the Family Project panel.

"You can't intervene. What you and your sister need are coping skills. Put headphones on to tune it out or go into your room to get away," suggested panelist Joanne Raftas.

Is buman nature basically good or bad?

One day this week I took time to visit Ginni, 93-year-old-neighmy bor. I figured she would be lonely since she doesn't get out much.

Ha! Little did I know it would soon turn into a spontaneous neighborhood party.

When I got there Jeff, another neighbor, was there visiting. He said he visits every week to check up on Ginni.

Then Gayle dropped in to see if Ginni needed anything. Shortly after, Lois arrived to ask the same question.

We all had the idea to come early because we knew Chef Bob would come later with a dinner for Ginni. He's been do-ing that every Friday for the past year, ever since Ginni's husband died.

We are all neighbors. Every now and then we remark about the wonderful people who live on the block. Their kindness is extraordinary.

If there is a need they meet it without being asked.

As we sat chatting with Ginni I asked if thought they other neighborhoods were that caring.

Lois comes from a small town and said everyone there is friendly and caring, just like our neighborhood.

Jeff comes from a big city where people don't even get to meet their neighbors like they do on our street where homes are close together and interaction with others is easy.

layout of a small neighborhood is conducive to getting to know your neighbors.

On rare occasion think that physical closeness presents problems. When Jeff was barbecuing on his outside grill, a strange-looking shoeless guy with white came over and sat down. He announced he came as Thunder & Lightning, for a burger.

are some extraordinarily nice people in our neighborhood, I think our street is only a microcosm of society.

I have always believed people are basically good at heart. While we all have different personalities, most of us would help others if we can because human nature is basically good.

Not everyone agrees with that.

A long time ago a priest came to visit and said he thought people were basically self-centered and more inclined to hurt, not help.

I said I strongly disagreed with that. How can anyone believe we are made in the image of God and still not believe human nature is basically good, I asked him?

As one who greatly respects all clergy, I couldn't believe I was arguing the point with a learned priest. I felt sorry for him because his life's experience must not have been pleasant. But I could never agree with him that man is basically evil. Given a choice, most will opt for goodness.

This week Eddie Vedder has been in the news because of his new solo tour and "Earthling" album.

PUBLIC NOTICE BOROUGH OF CATASAUQUA 90 Bridge Street Catasauqua, PA 18032-2598

Public Notice: Industrial Pretreatment Program Requirements

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) requires the Borough of Catasauqua (Borough) to implement a federally approved Industrial Pretreatment Program (IPP) in its sewer service area. Pursuant to the IPP regulations found at 40 CFR, Part 403.8 (viii), the Borough is required to provide public notification of permitted Industrial Users (IUs) who were in Significant Non-compliance (SNC) with applicable IPP require ments at any time during twelve-month period ending December 31, 2021. SNC is defined in the IPP regulations found at 40 CFR 403.8 (viii) (Sections A through H).

The following IU was determined to be in significant non-compliance with applicable IPP requirements during twelve-month period ending December 31, 2021

> Fragrance Manufacturing, Inc. 100 Cascade Drive Allentown, PA 18109

Fragrance Manufacturing, Inc. (FMI) had five wastewater discharge limit exceedances for the parameter Biochemical Oxygen Demand (BOD5) and three wastewater discharge limit exceedances for the parameter Chemical Oxygen Demand (COD) during 2021. This IU was in SNC during the three of the four 2021 SNC evaluation periods. FMI reviewed their process and pretreatment measures to identify the cause of the wastewater discharge limit exceedances, completed non-compliance reports, developed a corrective action plan and is currently implementing the corrective action plan to achieve compliance with the facility's wastewater discharge limits for BOD5 and COD. Since these exceedances did not negatively impact the Borough's sewage facilities, no enforcement actions were taken against this IU.

HOW TO MAINTAIN AN OLDER VEHICLE

New cars have been costly for quite some time, but those costs have spiked considerably since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. That unprecedented rise has led many motorists to wonder how they can get more mileage out of their existing vehicles.

Drivers who can't afford to keep up with the rising cost of new vehicles can take these steps to keep their existing cars running smoothly for years to come.

. Take care of the timing belt. Engines may get all the glory, but they cannot run smoothly without a fully functional timing belt. Engines need various components to do their job, and those components must do so at the right time for the engine to run smoothly. Fully functional timing belts help to synchronize movements, but belts must be replaced every so often. Owner's manuals may note when to replace the timing belt, but they generally must be replaced every 60,000 to 105,000 miles. That's infrequent, but drivers can ask their mechanics to keep an eye on their timing belts. One issue many drivers encountered in the early months of the pandemic when people were driving less frequently was timing belts that were failing long before they reached the projected mile markers. That's because infrequent driving can hasten the demise of the timing belt. This is something for aging drivers who no longer drive a lot to keep in mind.

· Take care of the brakes and associated components. The experts at Popular Mechanics urge drivers of older vehicles to replace their brake fluid every two years. Popular Mechanics also advises drivers whose cars are more than seven years old to replace the rubber brake lines when major brake work is required.

· Pay attention to oil levels. The older engines get, the more oil they're going to burn. So drivers of older vehicles should check their oil levels more often than they would if their vehicles were brand new. This also is a great way to discover leaks before they lead to potentially significant issues.

· Don't skip maintenance appointments. Even if you're still driving less due to the pandemic, it's best not to skip recommended maintenance intervals. That's true for drivers of all cars, but especially those whose vehicles are aging. Routine tune-ups and oil changes, which may need to become more frequent the older the vehicle gets, can keep cars running smoothly and protect the engine over the long haul.

Did You Know?

St. Luke's University Health Network's commitment to education is at the heart of its mission. Each year, more than 1,000 nurses, doctors, advanced practitioners and allied health professionals learn and train at St. Luke's.

You Can Become a Doctor at St. Luke's

Through its partnership with the Lewis Katz School of Medicine at Temple University, St. Luke's educates and trains more than 140 medical school students annually at its regional campus, Temple/St. Luke's School of Medicine. Students spend all four years at St. Luke's University Hospital and learn from more than 250 local faculty members in a variety of primary and specialty care fields.

Students who are interested in a primary care career and who choose to stay with St. Luke's after graduation are eligible to receive a tuition reimbursement of up to $175,000 – essentially covering their medical school tuition!

St. Luke's School of Nursing is the Oldest in the Country: You can Become a Nurse at St. Luke's

True story. In fact, it was a question (or rather, an answer) on Jeopardy not too long ago. Founded in 1884, St. Luke's School of Nursing is the oldest, continuously operated school of nursing in America. Since its founding more than 135 years ago, the diploma-based program has graduated nearly 5,000 nurses, many of whom go on to practice throughout St. Luke's Network.

The traditional 20-month accelerated program is complemented by a night/weekend option for learners who require more flexibility. Financial aid is available for those that qualify.

St. Luke's Sponsors 40 Accredited Residencies and Fellowships, Most in the Area

More than any other institution in our region, St. Luke's offers the largest number of post-graduate residency and fellowship programs. From General Surgery and Orthopedics to Family Medicine and Oncology, St. Luke's educates tomorrow's physicians in a variety of clinical fields. The investment in these programs is a win-win-win for residents, attending physicians and the community.

Simulators, Standardized Patients and 3D Digital Dissection

All of St. Luke's learners - both new and experienced - benefit from the hospital's state-of-the-art Simulation Centers. Like its name implies, St. Luke's Simulation Centers allow for simulated learning in a safe, controlled environment. Everything from a code (cardiopulmonary arrest) to inserting an IV can be honed, practiced and studied during realistic simulation sessions. The centers' technology includes several high-fidelity simulators (think human-like manikin that can breathe, sweat and has a pulse), an Anatomage™ 3D digital dissection table and so much more. But nothing can replace the authenticity of true human interaction, which is where standardized patients, or trained actors, come in. SPs as they are called help recreate various medical scenarios or situations, during which the learner must make real-time critical decisions.

MMI Prep gives students a rigorous education steeped in STEM and tradition

FREELAND, Pa. — Parents and their children choose MMI Preparatory School for many reasons.

They value the hands-on learning experience, the dedication to a safe environment and small class sizes. MMI doesn't just offer a rigorous education for students entering sixth grade through 11th grade, it's a vibrant community.

MMI defends these values fervently and strategically, and its commitment has helped to weather many storms over the last 143 years, including most recently the pandemic.

Because of its dedication to small class sizes, MMI students attended in-person classes virtually uninterrupted for the past two school years. Students, faculty and staff did it effectively while practicing safety protocols by the CDC, Pennsylvania Department of Health and the state Department of Education.

From the start, MMI incorporated social distance measures, required face coverings and enhanced sanitization procedures, including frequent deep cleaning and improved air filtration.

MMI's pandemic response plan offers flexibility in the delivery of instruction, which includes live streaming as well as class recordings.

Ready for collegiate study

MMI prepares middle school and high school students for college by providing them with a solid liberal arts foundation that enables students to gain mastery of 21st century skills. This well-rounded approach to education has proven to be successful for our students when they build careers and families of their own.

MMI offers students a well-rounded experience that includes an eight-to-one student-to-faculty ratio providing personal attention, excellent instruction, high academic standards and inclusivity. Students come from throughout Northeast Pennsylvania, including Lehighton and Jim Thorpe, and communities throughout Carbon, Luzerne, Schuylkill and Columbia counties, as well as the Poconos.

MMI students develop critical thinking skills. Their teachers and peers consistently challenge them to reach their full potential. Perhaps more importantly, MMI emphasizes how to learn, teaching students methods other than simple memorization to retain information. Our college preparatory curriculum offers a mix of traditional education with advanced instruction and electives preparing students for college and leadership in their communities.

The value of an MMI education may be measured in many ways. For example, nearly 100% of MMI graduates attain college acceptance. The class of 2021 earned $8.1 million in scholarships and other money to continue their education in college.

How to help students improve their focus on their studies

Teachers strive to create supportive and challenging classroom environments for their students. Such settings can bring out the best in students and help them overcome obstacles, including an inability to focus.

A 2020 survey of more than 400 college students found that 64 percent were concerned about their ability to maintain their focus and discipline in remote instructional environments. Recommended tech for students

Shopping for school supplies once entailed stocking up on pens, pads and notebooks. Students today still buy many of the same items, though they also now stock up on electronics.

Technology and education now go hand-inhand. For students to find success both in and out of the classroom, the right tech can make all the difference.

· High-speed internet: Connectivity is key in a digitally driven world. Students need access to the internet for homework, lectures, email, entertainment, and much more. The faster your internet speed the better. According to the resource HighSpeedInstreaming ternet.com, videos on a single device or web browsing requires between five and 40 Mbps. Downloading large files or using multiple devices simultaneously requires high speeds. When accessing the internet via smartphones, make sure your plan has unlimited data or provides enough data to ensure interruptions do not occur.

· Laptop or notebook computer: Laptops and notebook devices are similar in that both offer many types of software preloaded that a student will need. The devices seem interchangeable. but there are some differences. Laptops are generally larger than sleek, light notebooks. Notebooks are sized to fit easily into backpacks. Notebooks tend to have minimal features, including less RAM capacity and slower speeds, helping to keep their costs down. Some notebooks may have very small amounts of hard drive storage space, requiring users to purchase external storage devices.

· Headphones: Most schools now require students to have their own dedicated pair of earbuds or over-the-ear headphones so that work conducted on a computer does not disturb others also working on their own devices. Headphones also can make it easier to hear and comprehend videos and other digital lessons while doing homework.

Chargers/battery

Devices packs: must maintain power to help kids learn. Students can benefit from having a backup charger or battery pack to maintain functionality on their devices.

· Learn the ways modern teachers teach math. It may not take long before parents recognize that math is now taught differently than it likely was when they were still students. Beginning in 2010, the Common Core State Standards Initiative attempted to teach math in a new way. Parents of students who are struggling with math can contact their children's teachers to learn the methods they're using in the classroom. Ask for pointers on presenting the material at home and do your best to grasp the new approach.

 Utilize kids' interests to relay mathematical concepts. Kids may find material more relatable and easier to understand parents incorporate cepts more fully.

Many parents recall their interests into lesinforce concepts kids are being taught in the classroom. If a child's favorite football team is winning by 21 points, parents can ask children to determine how many touchdowns to score to tie the game. Young readers can be given books that help children build fundamental math skills like counting, addition and subtraction. Incorporating kids' hobbies into home math lessons is a great way to build their enthusiasm > · Speak with teachers. Ask teachers for their advice on relating concepts at home. Teachers may be limited in regard to how they can teach math in the classroom, but they might be able to offer some tips to make materials more relatable at home.

· Work with a tutor. Parents who are struggling to grasp the new ways math is taught can easily become frustrated. and that frustration could rub off on kids. Before things reach that point, parents can reach out to tutors. Some schools provide tutoring programs, while others may recommend local tutors. Fellow parents also can be great resources and may be able to recommend tutors who have produced successful results for their children in the past.
