

Worth Jr., Wallace C.

LOCAL MAN PROMOTED—Word has been received by his family here of the promotion of Pfc. Wallace C. Worth, Jr., of Bethlehem, to sergeant technician. Sgt. Worth is a member of Battery C, 213th Coast Artillery (A. A.) and is one of the original Battery C men who reenlisted when the National Guard was called into federal service. While at the School of Instruction at Fort Totton, N. Y., where he received instruction on the radar detector beam, Sgt. Worth finished third highest in his class and was high man of his regiment in the course. He has been awarded two artillery bars and one rifle bar since being in the service. Sergeant Worth is the son of Alderman and Mrs. Wallace C. Worth, who reside at 621 Ninth Avenue, this city.
