

Fresh Voices from Touchstone in early June

The Bethlehem Gadfly Arts, the, Touchstone Theater May 19, 2020

 Latest in a series of posts on the Arts in Bethlehem

It would be a very dead place if the arts community wasn't here.
Pamela Wallace of Crowded Kitchen Players

Followers know that Gadfly has been making a concerted effort to support the residential arts community — home-grown talent!

He's hoping that local artists in various genres will see Gadfly as a place to publish their work and to discuss their work. Pass the word to others!

And he will call attention to local events and productions that showcase local artistic skills. Pass him the word!

Recently he called attention to Touchstone Theatre's Young Playwrights' Festival. 10 or so original works by our elementary school students. It was amazing — even more so because of the agility of the braintrust at Touchstone headquarters in moving this in-person experience online because of the coronavirus beast. It was — drum roll again — amazing. There were some 1200 online views of the Festival, and nearly $10,000 was raised. A special thanks to sponsor Peron Development too!

Mark your calendars for the first and second week of June for the next Touchstone presentations.

FRESH VOICES 2020

Always fresh, sometimes provocative, never ordinary — Touchstone's apprentice showcase returns for 2020! In light of recent events concerning public health and safety, these performances have been developed to take place remotely, and will feature both downloadable and streaming content from Touchstone Theatre apprentices Sean Patrick Cassidy and Adam Ercolani.

June 5 @ 7pm, streaming on YouTube Live
POTHOLE

Let's go for a drive. The best conversations happen in your car. The best concerts do, too.

DR. SOGOL'S MAGNIFICENT, MALFUNCTIONING, INTERGALACTIC, COSMIC CAR WASH AND STAMPS

A Quality Wash. Everytime. A completely customized and curated, compacted dose of "live" theatre.

June 2, 5, 9, 12, released at www.isonationpresents.com

ISO/NATION PRESENTS

A modern radio play for deep listeners of the Lehigh Valley and Beyond.

Fresh Voices 2020

Viewing/listening is FREE, and donations are gratefully accepted at bit.ly/FreshVoices2020

TOUCHSTONE THEATRE

Theatre that Transforms

321 E. 4th St.