

Klotz, William M.

MOSQUITO BATTLER

As much a front line soldier as the man who packs a tommy-gun and shots it out with Heine or Guiseppe or Tojo is Pvt. William M. Klotz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Klotz, 608 Ontario st., for Pvt. Klotz is a member of the corps of sanitary technicians now in training at Camp Pickett, Va. 3 1943

Already, according to an official release from the camp, thousands of medical soldiers trained at Pickett are serving in a hundred different places, from the sands of North Africa to the malaria-ridden swamps of New Guinea and the insect-plagued plateaus of the Solomons.

Pvt. Klotz is on the way to becoming what is known to "the trade" as a "ghost fighter," the ghosts being the grim spectres of plague and disease that haunt the places where headlines and history are being made by American troops.

April 3, 1943